

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE.

THIS edition of Book VII. of Thucydides is based on Classen's second edition, Berlin, 1881.

The few variations from Classen's text — which, with two or three exceptions, are restorations of the Ms. reading — are fully explained in the notes.

Classen's exegetical notes have generally been closely followed; but much material has been taken from other commentaries, especially from the excellent edition of Stahl. Krüger's and Arnold's editions have also been of great service.

Most of Classen's critical notes are given in full, and considerable additions have been made. The careful discussion of difficult passages, in elucidating so profound an author as Thucydides, is indispensable.

The editor gratefully acknowledges his indebtedness to Professor White, whose kind assistance and invaluable suggestions have extended far beyond what was required by his position as one of the editors-in-chief of the Series of which this book is a part. Professor Goodwin has had the great kindness to examine all the notes, and his candid criticism and wise suggestions have proved of the utmost value. Nearly all of the first proof has come also under the practised eye of Professor Humphreys.

1. After refitting his four ships, Gylippus leaves Tarentum, and, receiving at the Epizephyrian Locri more favourable news of the situation at Syracuse, proceeds undisturbed by Attic ships through the strait to Himera. From this point he enters into communication with Selinus and Gela and various Sicel localities, and with seven hundred men of his own troops, and over two thousand who joined him from Himera and the allied places, begins his march through the interior towards Syracuse.

1. ἐπεὶ ἐπεσκεύασαν: the completion of the ἐπεσκεύαζεν of vi. 104. 20.—3. πυνθανόμενοι σαφέστερον: opp. to vi. 104. 3, ὡς αὐτοῖς αἱ ἀγγελίαι ἐφόρων . . . ἐψευσμένοι. The pres. partic. here implies repeated inquiry, corresponding to ὡς ἐφόρων in the passage quoted.—5. κατὰ τὰς Ἐπιπολὰς: the high triangle-shaped plateau northwest of the city. See on vi. 96. 3.—6. λαβόντες: either λαβών or ἐχων is usual with the verb in this connexion, when the destination is remote. See on vi. 62. 7. The partic. is to be supplied also in 7 with ἐν ἀριστερᾷ.—7. διακινδυνεύσωσιν, ἔλθωσι: deliberative subjvs., which are often retained even after an historical tense (cf. i. 107. 25; ii. 4. 28; iii. 112. 22), but sometimes change to the opt. (cf. i. 25. 4; 63. 3; iv. 19. 6). G. 244; H. 932, 2; Kr. Spr. 54, 7, 1.—ἐσπλεύσαι: into the great harbour, from which point they would perhaps have been able, united with the Syracusans, to force their way into the gap in the Athenian line of circumvallation (cf. c. 2. 17 ff.). Gylippus preferred, however, the way by land because he wanted first to get allies.—8. αὐτοὺς τε ἐκείνους: Schol. τοὺς Ἱμεραίους δηλονότι. Kr. Spr. 58, 4, 1.—9. στρατιάν, οὓς: rel. in pl. referring to a collective noun. G. 151, x. 2; H. 629. Cf. iii. 67. 11, ἡλικίαν, ὧν.

12. πυνθανόμενος αὐτοὺς ὁμως ἐν Λοκροῖς εἶναι: the reading of the Vat. Ms., instead of the vulgate ὁμως πυνθανόμενος κτέ. Nicias had paid little attention to the first report of the approach of Gylippus, καὶ ληστικώτερον ἔδοξε παρεσκευασμένους πλεῖν (vi. 104. 22). He recognized, however, that Gylippus was in earnest on learning that the ships had, after all (contrary to his expectation), got so far on their voyage to Sicily (ὁμως ἐν Λοκροῖς εἶναι), and that, therefore, help for Syracuse was really intended. He had immediately, thereupon, sent out the four Attic ships (ἀπέστειλε, aor. in dependent clause); but these came too late to prevent the Peloponnesian ships from passing through the strait. — 14. σχόντες Ῥηγίῳ: touching at; dat. after σχεῖν, as in iii. 29. 5; 33. 5, instead of the more usual ἐς with the acc. (c. 26. 7; ii. 25. 15; 33. 10; iii. 34. 1; iv. 3. 4; 25. 40; v. 2. 5; vi. 52. 5; 62. 8). κατὰ with acc. in same const. occurs in i. 110. 11; iv. 129. 12; vi. 97. 3. Kr. Spr. 48, 1, 2; Kühn. 423, 5.

16. τοὺς τε Ἰμεραίους: Vat. omits τε, but it is better to follow the rest of the Mss., τοὺς τε Ἰμεραίους, explaining, as St. does: "To these words correspond καὶ τοὺς Σελινουντίους ἐκέλευον in 19, and the correlatives τε καὶ show that ἐκεῖ ὄντες belongs to both clauses." See App. — 17. ὅσοι . . . ὄπλα: see App.

20. τινα οὐ πολλήν: cf. ii. 79. 16. —

23. τοῦ Ἀρχωνίδου: this Archonidas is doubtless the prince of Herbita, whom Diod. (xii. 8) mentions as ally of the powerful Sicel leader Ducetius. After the latter's death (439 B.C.), his political course toward Syracuse and Agrigentum was doubtless continued by Archonidas, who died at an advanced age, 415 B.C. See Holm, Geschichte Siciliens, I. p. 260; II. p. 39. — 26. δοκοῦντος προθύμως ἤκειν: (so Vat. instead of προθύμως δοκοῦντος ἤκειν) referring to πολὸν προθυμότερον ἐτοίμοι ἦσαν in 22. The bold example of Gylippus, report of which spread far and wide (δοκοῦντος), had inspired the Sicels with courage.

καὶ ὁ μὲν Γύλιππος . . . πάντας: sums up in ἀναλαβὼν the result of the efforts detailed in 15 ff. — 27. σφετέρων: refers to Gylippus and Pythen. Kr. Spr. 58, 4, 3. Cf. c. 4. 10; 8. 3. — τοὺς ὥπλισμένους: those who had been armed by the help of the Himeraeans (17, 18). Diod. (xiii. 7) gives the force of Gylippus as τοὺς ἅπαντας τρισχιλίους μὲν πεζοὺς, διακοσίους δ' ἱππεῖς. — 31. τοὺς πάντας: in all, added perhaps because the Sicels were of various tribes. Kr. Spr. 50, 11, 13. Cf. viii. 21. 4. — ἐχώρει: commenced his march towards Syracuse (impf.), the further course of which is related c. 2. 11.

2. In the meantime the Corinthian Gongylus, sailing from Leucas with one ship, arrives at Syracuse, where he revives the sinking courage of the inhabitants by the news of the approach of Gylippus. The latter reaches Epipolae without opposition, ascends it on the side of Euryelus, and then immediately advances, in union with the Syracusans, against the wall of the Athenians, which had been almost completed on the side toward the great harbour.

1. οἱ ἐκ Λευκάδος Κορίνθιοι: cf. vi. 104. § 1. — 2. ὡς εἶχον τάχους: part. gen. depending on adv. of condition. G. 168, n. 3; H. 757 a; Kr. Spr. 47, 10, 5. Cf. c. 57. 5; i. 22. 14. — καὶ Γόγγυλος: as if αἱ ἄλλαι τῶν Κορινθίων νῆες had gone before. Acc. to Plut. Nic. 19, this Gongylus fell in the first conflict with the Athenians. On the accent, Γόγγυλος, see App. — 3. μιᾷ . . . Γυλίσπου: he had let the remaining ships (which, acc. to vi. 104. § 1, were to follow Gylippus) set out before himself; but he arrived at Syracuse first of all — probably because he touched at no point on the voyage — and even a little before Gylippus.

5. αὐτοὺς: sc. τοὺς Συρακοσίους. —

- λαγῆς τοῦ πολέμου μέλλοντας ἐκκλησιάσειν διεκώλυσέ τε καὶ παρεθάρσυνε, λέγων ὅτι νῆές τε ἄλλαι ἔτι προσπλέουσι καὶ Γύλιππος ὁ Κλεανδρίδου Λακεδαιμονίων ἀποστειλάντων ἄρχων. καὶ οἱ μὲν Συρακόσιοι ἐπερρώσθη- 3 ἀπαλλαγῆς: the subst. from ἀπαλλάττεσθαι (not from the act.), as in iv. 61. 24. — 7. νῆες ἄλλαι: which had started before him. See on 3, above. — 9. ἄρχων: not as commander of the ships merely, but also of the Syracusans (τοῖς Συρακοσίοις, vi. 93. 9).

10. ἀπαντησόμενοι: the mid. form only in the fut. So also c. 80. 23. — 11. ἤσθάνοντο: cf. Plut. Nic. 19, ἦκεν ἄγγελος παρὰ τοῦ Γυλίππου κελεύοντος ἀπαντᾶν. — 12. Ἰετὰς: see App. — τότε τι: (the reading of Vat.) τότε is to be taken with ἐν τῇ παρόδῳ ἐλὼν, and refers to the decision of Gylippus κατὰ γῆν εἰλεῖν, c. 1. 9. — τῶν Σικελῶν: belongs to τεῖχος. As to these Sicels, cf. c. 32. § 1; vi. 88. § 4. — 13. ἐλὼν καὶ ξυνταξάμενος: both participles. represent actions which follow one after the other but precede ἀφικνεῖται πρὸς τὰς Ἐπιπολάς, and therefore can prop. be connected by καί. v. H. and St. reject καί. See App.

14. κατὰ τὸν Εὐρύηλον ἥπερ καὶ οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι: cf. vi. 97. 11. — 15. μετὰ τῶν Συρακοσίων: who had gone out to meet him, and, since the largest part of the Athenian army was occupied in building the double wall (vi. 103. § 1), had been able to pass through the incomplete fortifications of the Athenians to the western part of Epipolae. That the advance of Gylippus and his union with the Syracusans was effected without hindrance, shows how much the energy and watchfulness of Nicias had already abated since the death of Lamachus. See Grote, Hist. of Greece, VII. c. 59, p. 106 f. — 16. τὸ τείχισμα: the διπλοῦν τεῖχος of vi. 103. 7, the condition of which at this time is immediately explained. — ἔτυχε ἐλθὼν: see App. — κατὰ τοῦτο τοῦ καιροῦ: part. gen. depending on κατὰ τοῦτο, as in c. 69. 16, ἐν τῷ τοιοῦτῳ τοῦ καιροῦ. G. 168; Kr. Spr. 47, 10, 3. — 17. ἑπτὰ μὲν ἢ ὀκτὼ σταδίων: gen. of measure with τεῖχος. G. 167, 5; H. 729 d. The correlative of μὲν is δὲ ἐν τῷ δὲ ἄλλῳ in 20. Since the shortest distance from the cliff (of Epipolae) to the recess of the great harbour adjacent to the Agrigentine gate was not less than eight stadia, it seems clear that in ἦδη ἀπετετέλειστο τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις ἐς τὸν μέγαν λιμένα διπλοῦν τεῖχος πλὴν παρὰ βραχύ τι τὸ πρὸς τὴν θάλασσαν· τοῦτο δ' ἔτι ᾠκοδόμουν. τῷ δὲ ἄλλῳ [τοῦ κύκλου πρὸς τὸν Τρώγλειον] ἐπὶ τὴν ἑτέραν θάλασσαν λίθοι τε παραβεβλημένοι τῷ πλέονι ἦδη ἦσαν, καὶ ἔστιν ἂ καὶ ἡμίεργα, τὰ δὲ καὶ ἐξειργασμένα κατελείπετο. παρὰ τοσοῦτον μὲν Συράκοῦσαι ἦλθον κινδύνου.

3 Οἱ δὲ Ἀθηναῖοι αἰφνιδίως τοῦ τε Γυλίσπου καὶ τῶν 1 Συρακοσίων σφίσιν ἐπιόντων ἐθορυβήθησαν μὲν τὸ πρῶ-this measure was included only that part of the wall of circumvallation of the Athenians which was in the low ground by the sea. Leake (in Bloomf. p. 680). Cl. brackets the words without sufficient reasons. See App. — 18. ἀπετετέλειστο: on the form see App. — 19. παρὰ βραχύ τι: so with Vat., instead of κατὰ βραχύ τι, because it indicates more sharply the small remnant that was still unfinished: "the wall was finished except a small portion next to the sea." παρὰ as in 23, παρὰ τοσοῦτον, by so much. But St., who reads κατὰ, objects that the addition of πλὴν is opp. to taking παρὰ βραχύ τι with the force of παρὰ τοσοῦτον. — τὸ πρὸς τὴν θάλασσαν: adv., not in appos. with διπλοῦν τεῖχος. — 20. τοῦτο δέ: refers to βραχύ τι. — [τοῦ κύκλου πρὸς τὸν Τρώγλειον]: St. and Cl. consider these words a gloss, added through recollection of vi. 99. 2; though there, as in vi. 98. 9; 101. 1; 102. 5, κύκλος means the ring-shaped fort (see on vi. 98. 9), nowhere the wall of circumvallation, as must be understood here acc. to the common reading. See App. — 21. λίθοι τε . . . τῷ πλέονι ἦδη ἦσαν: τῷ πλέονι is in part. appos. to τῷ ἄλλῳ, along the greater part of the remainder. G. 137, n. 2; H. 624 d. So far the preparations for building mentioned in vi. 99. 2 (λίθους . . . παρέβαλλον) had been completed. Some parts of the wall were already quite finished or only half finished, and when Gylippus arrived were left in this condition. Hence the impf. κατελείπετο, which Herbst (Gegen Cobet, p. 40) rightly defends against Cobet's conjecture κατελέλειπτο. — 23. παρὰ τοσοῦτον κτέ.: such a narrow escape had Syracuse from danger (destruction). This const., which occurs also in iii. 49. 18, is to be explained acc. to the analogy of παρὰ τοσοῦτον ἐγένετο or ἦλθε with the inf. (iv. 106. 18; viii. 33. 12; 76. 15) "by so much (by so slight a deficiency) it happened, it came to —" (it came so near to). Just so ὅσον οὐ 'by how much not,' i.e. by how little not, means 'almost.' That to which "it had almost come" stands, when expressed by a clause, in the inf.; when by a subst., in the gen., which is to be construed just as the gen. with ἐγγός, πλησίον, etc. G. 182, 2; H. 757.

3. The hostile armies are arrayed against one another, but do not come to an engagement. On the next day, however, Gylippus with a small detachment surprises Labdalum, the fort on the northernmost height of Epipolae, and puts the Athenian garrison to the sword.

3. παρετάξαντο δέ: Thuc. says nothing about the place where the Athenians took their position. But since the larger part of the army, acc.
 to vi. 103. 6, was engaged in building the double wall next to the great harbour, it must be supposed that the two armies confronted each other in the low ground between the abrupt declivity of Epipolae and the Anapus, near the Athenian fortifications.— θέμενος τὰ ὄπλα ἐγγύς: halting under arms near by. Cf. ii. 2. 22; iv. 44. 5; 68. 10; 90. 20; viii. 25. 22; 93. 6.—
κήρυκα προσπέμπει λέγοντα: so Vat.
 (for προπέμπει of most of the Mss.),
 acc. to the usage of Thuc., iii. 52. 10;
 iv. 114. 5. λέγοντα is pres. part. of purpose. See on c. 25. 40. In force and const. the phrase is equiv. to the simple λέγει; hence the following nom. ἐτοίμος with εἶναι. See App. on

iii. 52. 11.—5. πέντε ἡμερῶν: within five days. Gen. of time with ἐξιέναι, as in c. 28. 19; v. 14. 13. G. 179, 1; H.
 759; Kr. Spr. 47, 2, 3.

6. ἐν ὀλιγορίᾳ ἐποιοῦντο: without expressed obj., as in iv. 5. 2.—7. οὐδὲν ἀποκρινάμενοι: Plut. Nic. 19 adds: τῶν δὲ στρατιωτῶν τινες καταγελῶντες ἡρώτων εἰ διὰ παρουσίαν ἐνδὸς τρι-βωνος καὶ βακτηρίας Λακωνικῆς οὕτως ἰσχυρὰ τὰ Συρακοσίων ἐξαίφνης γέγονεν ὡς Ἀθηναίων καταφρονεῖν.

9. ταρασσομένους: in confusion, since they had not expected a battle so soon.—10. ἐς τὴν εὐρυχωρίαν: i.e. toward the east into the low ground next to the coast. From there the ascent to the ἄκρα Τεμενίτις, when not opposed by hostile troops, was short and easy.—12. τῷ ἑαυτῶν τείχει:
 the almost completed διπλοῦν τείχος of c. 2. 19.—13. ἀπήγαγε: off to the side (northward).—14. τὴν ἄκραν τὴν Τεμενίτιν: the temple of Apollo Temenites and the suburb around it, the later Neapolis. Cf. vi. 75. 2.

15. ἄγων: contrasted with πέμψας

τῆς στρατιᾶς παρέταξε πρὸς τὰ τεῖχη τῶν Ἀθηναίων, ὅπως μὴ ἐπιβοηθοῖεν ἄλλοσε, μέρος δέ τι πέμψας πρὸς τὸ φρούριον τὸ Λάβδαλον αἰρεῖ, καὶ ὅσους ἔλαβεν ἐν αὐτῷ πάντα ἀπέκτεινεν· ἦν δὲ οὐκ ἐπιφανὲς τοῖς Ἀθη-μαχοι διὰ τῶν Ἐπιπολῶν ἀπὸ τῆς πόλεως ἀρξάμενοι ἄνω πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον τεῖχος ἀπλοῦν, ὅπως οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι, in 17; here he commanded in person. — τὴν πλείστην τῆς στρατιᾶς: assimilation of the articular adj. to the gender of the part. gen. G. 168, n. 1; H. 730 e; Kr. Spr. 47, 28, 9; Kühn. 405, 5 c. Cf. i. 2. 13; 5. 8; 30. 10; vi. 7. 5; 105. 3; viii. 3. 5. — 17. μὴ . . . ἄλλοσε: esp. not to the defence of Labdalum. — 19. οὐκ ἐπιφανὲς τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις: since the Athenians were now on the southern declivity of Epipolae, and the fort lay on the extreme northern edge of the plateau (ἐπ' ἄκροισι τοῖς κρημοῖς; see on vi. 97. 24), the place could be surprised without their knowing it. The loss was the more serious because Labdalum was, acc. to vi. 97. 27, τοῖς τε σκεύεσι καὶ τοῖς χρήμασιν ἀποθήκη.

21. ἐφορμοῦσα τῷ μεγάλῳ λιμένι: (μεγάλῳ from Vat. only) the Att. fleet, which had sailed down into the great harbour (vi. 102. 17), lay in its southernmost recess near the shore (ἐν μυχῷ τοῦ λιμένος, c. 4. 21). Guardships were sent out to the entrance of the harbour, which was a considerable distance off; and one of these fell into the hands of the Syracusans, who from their side could overlook every movement of the Athenians.

4. The Syracusans undertake to build a third counter-wall against the northern part of the Athenian wall of circumvallation, and make an unsuccessful attack on a weak point of the southern part of their wall. Nicias determines to fortify Plemmyrium at the entrance to the great harbour, and to unite there the fleet and the main body of the land army. But the removal of the army exposes the foragers to the Syracusan cavalry. Twenty triremes are sent to intercept the Corinthian ships which had sailed from Leucas after Gylippus.

2. διὰ τῶν Ἐπιπολῶν . . . τεῖχος ἀπλοῦν: the cross-wall described in vi. 99. § 3 had been taken and destroyed by the Athenians (vi. 100), and the second Syracusan counter-wall in the low ground (vi. 101. 6) had immediately thereafter (vi. 101. 16) fallen into their hands. The Syracusans now make the third attempt to hinder the Athenian circumvallation by means of a cross-wall, and as in vi. 99. 14, ἀπὸ τῆς (σφετέρως) πόλεως ἀρξάμενοι. It did not run, however, as there, κάτωθεν τοῦ κύκλου τῶν Ἀθηναίων, but ἄνω, i.e. along the northern height of Epipolae (τὸ πρὸς βορρᾶν τοῦ κύκλου, vi. 99. 1), where the Athenians λίθους καὶ χίσαι· ἔστι δὲ ἄκρα ἀντιπέρας τῆς πόλεως, ἥπερ πρού-

ξύλα ξυμφοροῦντες παρέβαλον. In vi. 99. 16, moreover, the direction of the wall to be built was indicated by the adj. ἐγκάρσιον; here it is expressed adv., πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον, cross-wise, the wall itself being defined as τείχος ἀπλοῦν, as also in the letter of Nicias, c. 11. 14. The wall here begun is continued, c. 5. 1, διὰ τῶν Ἐπιπολῶν, and finished in c. 7. 4, ξυντείχισαν τὸ λοιπὸν τοῦ ἐγκαρσίου τείχους. See on c. 7. 4. — 4. ἀποτείχισαι: to complete the circumvallation (aor.).

5. οἱ τε Ἀθηναῖοι . . . ἐπήει: vivid effect of the paratactic structure: "scarcely had the Athenians, after finishing the lower part of the wall of circumvallation, again occupied their former position on Epipolae, when Gylippus advanced against a weak point of the wall." Notice also the parallelism of the members in this and the next sent.: the parenthetical insertion of both causal clauses with γάρ, and the corresponding form of the main clauses, ἐπεί, ἀντεπήεσαν.

— 7. τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις: intentionally added to avoid a misunderstanding; therefore wrongly suspected by v. H.

9. ἔτυχον . . . αὐλιζόμενοι: they happened to be in bivouac (of the walls). — 10. τοὺς σφετέρους: see on c. 1. 27. — 11. ἐποικοδομήσαντες αὐτό: sc. τὸ ἀσθενές τοῦ τείχους, they made the wall higher at this weak point. The pred. adj. ὑψηλότερον indicates the effect. G. 166, n. 3; Kr. Spr. 57, 4, 2. Cf. i. 37. 21; 71. 27; 90. 21; ii. 75. 22; vi. 92. 23. — αὐτοὶ μὲν: the Athenian main body, since experience had shown that here the danger of a breach was greatest. — 12. τοὺς δὲ ἄλλους ξυμμάχους: the rest (viz.) allies, not opp. to any preceding ξύμμαχοι. G. 142, 2, n. 3; H. 705; Kr. Spr. 50, 4, 11. Cf. i. 2. 12; 128. 21; ii. 14. 3; 77. 12; iii. 19. 8; iv. 100. 12. — 13. τὸ ἄλλο τείχισμα: the wall running across Epipolae, on both sides of the κύκλος.

15. τὸ Πλημμύριον: this place, the

χουσα τοῦ μεγάλου λιμένος τὸ στόμα στενὸν ποιεῖ, καὶ εἰ τειχισθείη, ῥᾶον αὐτῷ ἐφαίνετο ἢ ἐσκομιδῇ τῶν ἐπιτηδείων ἔσσεσθαι· δι' ἐλάσσονος γὰρ πρὸς τῷ λιμένι τῷ 20 τῶν Συρακοσίων ἐφορμήσειν σφᾶς, καὶ οὐχ ὥσπερ νῦν ἐκ μυχοῦ τοῦ λιμένος τὰς ἐπαναγωγὰς ποιήσεσθαι, ἣν τι ναυτικῷ κινῶνται. προσείχε τε ἤδη μᾶλλον τῷ κατὰ θάλασσαν πολέμῳ, ὁρῶν τὰ ἐκ τῆς γῆς σφίσιν ἐπειδὴ Γύλιππος ἦκεν ἀνελπιστότερα ὄντα. διακομίσας οὖν στραsituation of which Thuc. describes so exactly, becomes henceforth the critical point in the siege of Syracuse. "The loss of Plemmyrium had for the Athenians the same consequences as that of Fort L'Eguillette for the English, when General Dugommier (with Bonaparte's assistance) drove them from the heights (Siege of Toulon, 1793)." Niebuhr, Ancient History, II. p. 155. — 17. τὸ στόμα στενὸν ποιεῖ: cf. c. 59. 6, τὸ στόμα ὀκτὼ σταδίων μάλιστα. — καὶ εἰ τειχισθείη: acc. to Greek usage the influence of the rel. pron. (ἥπερ) is more strongly felt in the second clause than in English. We should begin an independent sent. with these words. — 18. ῥᾶον . . . ἔσσεσθαι: the unusual adv. for the adj. is in accordance with the usage of Thuc. Cf. c. 28. 3, θάσσον ὁδοι; iv. 10. 13, μὴ ῥαδίως αὐτῷ πάλιν οὐσης τῆς ἀναχωρήσεως. The adv. is to be const. as if we had ῥᾶον αὐτῷ ἐφαίνετο τὰ ἐπιτήδεια ἐσκομισθήσεσθαι. Kr. Spr. 62, 2, 3. — 19. δι' ἐλάσσονος γὰρ πρὸς τῷ λιμένι τῷ τῶν Συρακοσίων ἐφορμήσειν σφᾶς: sc. τοὺς Ἀθηναίους, they themselves would keep watch upon the harbour of the Syracusans at a less distance (i.e. from the Syracusan ships) than before. δι' ἐλάσσονος also in vi. 75. 3. πρὸς τῷ λιμένι τῷ τῶν Συρακοσίων refers to the part of the great harbour near the city where the Syracusan fleet lay. Kr. and St. strike out τῷ τῶν Συρακοσίων. Cl. wrongly takes ἐφορμήσειν to mean "lie on watch" (of ships esp. detailed for this purpose), as in c. 3. 21. The main point here is the blockade which the whole Athenian fleet would be able to make from this nearer point, not being obliged, as heretofore, to put out from the further corner of the great harbour, whenever the enemy moved. The Schol. apparently understands it thus: τειχισθέντος δὲ τοῦ Πλημμυρίου τὴν ἐφορμήσιν αὐτόθεν δι' ὀλίγου χωρίου ἔσσεσθαι. — 21. ἐπαναγωγὰς ποιήσεσθαι: (with Vat., as in c. 34. 26, instead of ἐπαγωγὰς) = ἐπανδρῆσεσθαι (viii. 42. 8), put to sea against an advancing squadron of hostile ships. — ἣν τι ναυτικῷ κινῶνται: sc. οἱ Συρακόσιοι, if they should bestir themselves with the fleet. On this medio-pass. use, see Kr. Spr. 52, 6, 1. Cf. c. 50. 33. — 22. προσείχε τε ἤδη . . . πολέμῳ: and in general, from now on, he devoted himself more to naval warfare. προσείχειν in same sense in c. 75. 44. τε gives the effect of a natural result, as in i. 67. 2; 76. 16, etc. — 24. ἀνελπιστότερα: cf. c. 47. 9; v. 102. 3.

fortifications on Epipolae and in the low ground near the great harbour. The main camp of the Athenians continued to be along their walls. — 25. ἐξετείχισε: the aor. to express speedy completion; cf. c. 26. 17; iv. 4. 4. — τρία φρούρια: these forts were to supply the place of the arsenal on Labdalum, which had been captured (c. 3. § 4), and under their protection lay most of the fleet.

27. τῶν πληρωμάτων κάκωσις ἐγένετο: = τὰ πληρώματα ἐκακώθη (cf. the use of κακοῦν in c. 24. 12; iii. 87. 6; vi. 18. 25). πληρώματα signifies here the whole ship's crew, ναῦται as well as ἐπιβάται. Cf. c. 12. 10; 13. 6. — 29. τῷ τε . . . οἱ ναῦται: the causal partic. (χρώμενοι) and the temporal clause (ὁπότε ἐξέλθοιεν), forming together the prot., are co-ordinated by τε καὶ. Kr. Spr. 59, 2, 3. With the principal verb διεφθείροντο, in the impf., they portray the gradual increase of the trouble. — κρατούντων τῆς γῆς: since they were masters of the (adjacent) country. Cf. i. 111. 5; vi. 23. 7. — 32. τοῖς Συρακοσίοις: the so-called dat. of the agent with the pass., really implying interest, as in v. 29. 3. — 34. ἐπὶ τῇ . . . πολίχῃ: at the fort built at the Olympieum, as mentioned vi. 75. 5. — ἐτετάχατο: such Ion. forms of the pf. and plpf., otherwise unusual in Att., occur also in iii. 13. 16, 18; iv. 31. 7; v. 6. 23. Kr. Spr. 30, 2, 7.

35. τὰς λοιπὰς: cf. c. 2. § 1. — 36. ἐς φυλακὴν αὐτῶν: i.e. in order to watch for them. — 37. τὴν προσβολὴν τῆς Σικελίας: the approach to Sicily. Cf. iv. 1. 5; vi. 48. 8. — 38. ναυλοχεῖν αὐτάς: this unusual word is explained by Photius, ναυλοχεῖν· ναὺς λοχᾶν καὶ ἐνεδρεύειν. Θουκυδίδης ἐβδόμῳ. αὐτὰς is obj. of ναυλοχεῖν. Cf. Appian, Bell. Civ. iv. 82, Μούρκος ἐν Πελοποννήσῳ ναυλοχῶν ἐκλεσπάτρην.

5. Gylippus carries forward the counter-wall, and ventures to attack the Athenians between the two walls, but, not being able to use his cavalry in the confined space, is repulsed. By taking the blame of the failure on himself, however, he keeps the confidence of the Syracusans in future success unimpaired.

1. τὸ διὰ τῶν Ἐπιπολῶν τείχος: see on c. 4. 2. — ἅμα μὲν ἐτείχιζε . . . ἅμα δὲ παρέτασεν: significant expression for the restless activity of Gylippus in training his men for battle, and at the same time keeping the enemy occupied. — 2. οὓς οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι προπαρέβαλλοντο σφίσιν: cf. c. 2. 21; vi. 99. 2. σφίσιν is added to the mid. not without irony; they had dragged up the stones for their own wall, and saw them now used by their enemies. For σφίσι referring to the nearest subj., see Kühn. 455, note 9. — 3. τοῦ τειχίσματος: the sing. refers to the cross-wall (more exactly ἡ ἐκείνων τεύχισις in c. 6. 5), which was still in process of erection, and before which Gylip-pus drew up his troops. τῶν τειχισμάτων in 7 and τῶν τειχῶν in 14 refer to the unfinished wall of circumvallation of the Athenians and the cross-wall of the Syracusans that was advancing against it.

7. ἢ: more comprehensive than οὐ, "in a place where." — 8. οὐδεμία χρήσις ἦν: pregnant use of εἶναι = ὑπάρχειν. Cf. c. 36. 28; 70. 25; i. 2. 5; 49. 11; 52. 10; ii. 89. 35; viii. 96. 6. — 9. νεκροὺς: among these was the Corinthian Gongylus, mentioned in c. 2. 2. Cf. Plut. Nic. 19. — ὑποσπόνδους ἀνελομένων: an acknowledgment of defeat, since they were obliged to beg for the σπονδαί. But in ii. 22. 15, the words ἀνείλοντο τοὺς νεκροὺς ἀσπόνδους show that the defeat was not decisive. See on i. 63. 17. — 11. ὁ μὲν Γύλιππος: μὲν from Vat. referring to δ δὲ Νικίας in c. 6. 1. — 13. τῇ τάξει: by his line of battle; instrumental dat. explained by the clause ἐντὸς . . . ποιήσας, "since he had placed it too far in between the walls." With ἐντὸς . . . ποιήσας cf. i. 62. 13; 109. 16; v. 2. 13. See App.

14. νῦν . . . ἐπάξειν: νῦν is not temporal, but, as in νῦν δέ, refers to the present case, the experience gained, and is to be closely connected with αὐθις, "he would after this experience again lead them out." ἐπάγειν here and in 20 not "lead to battle," but = ἐξάγοντα παρατάσσειν (3), "draw up in battle array." — 15. καὶ διανοεῖσθαι οὕτως ἐκέλευεν: and he urged them to have this conviction. — 16. ὥς . . . ἔξοντας: supplementary partic. with ὥς. GMT. 113, n. 10 c. — τῇ μὲν παρασκευῇ: in point of preparation; τῇ δὲ γνώμῃ, as regarded their determination; the former he himself would attend to, the latter he expected from them. — 17. οὐκ ἀνεκτὸν ἐσόμενον: acc. abs. with ὥς, just as above the regular acc. οὐκ ἔλασσον ἔξοντας. GMT. 113, n. 10 b, c; Kr. Spr. 56, 9, 7, and 14, 2. — μὴ ἀξιώσουσι . . . ἐξελάσασθαι: "if they should not make it a point of honour to drive them out." ἐξελάσασθαι also in iv. 35. 14. Vat. has ἐξελάσασθαι, but there is no example of the fut. inf. after ἀξιούν. For the aor. inf., cf. also c. 63. 20; i. 74. 14; 132. 11; iii. 39. 20; 40. 24. —

Πελοποννήσιοι . . . νησιωτῶν: chiasmic arrangement, since Πελοποννήσιοι has almost the force of ἡπειρώται. Cf. vi. 77. 11, where Δωριῆς ἐλεύθεροι ἀπ' αὐτονόμου τῆς Πελοποννήσου τὴν Σικελίαν οἰκοῦντες are disdainfully contrasted with Ἴωνες καὶ Ἑλλησπόντιοι καὶ νησιῶται. Here ξυγκλύδων is added as more contemptuous than the usual συμμίκτων (iv. 106. 4; 109. 10; vi. 4. 36; 17. 8). — 20. ἐπειδὴ καιρὸς ἦν: the very next day as is proved by τῇ ὀσπεραῖα (μάχη), c. 11. 8. — αὐθις ἐπήγεον αὐτούς: he led them out again, to show that he was ready for battle, but did not make an attack (hence the impf.). He accepted battle immediately, however, when it was offered by the Athenians.

6. In the next conflict Gylippus succeeds, by a better arrangement of his troops, in driving the Athenians back behind their fortifications, and immediately thereupon pushes the cross-wall past the wall of the Athenians, so that from this time on the investment of the city is impossible.

1. καὶ εἰ . . . μὴ ἐθέλουν: "even if they should not have the courage." — 2. μάχης ἄρχειν: as in c. 5. 6, ἄρχειν τῆς ἐφόδου. — 3. περιορᾶν παροικοδορᾶν* indicates continued action, as in i.

 24. 17; 25. 10; 86. 8; the aor. partic.
 a completed fact. GMT. 112, 1. See on ii. 18. 21.—τὸ τείχος: = πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον τείχος ἀπλοῦν of c. 4. 3.— 4. τὴν . . . τελευτήν: the unfinished northern part of the wall of circumvallation, begun in the direction of Trogilus (vi. 99. 1), but stopped (vi.
 101. 1) in order first to complete the other side toward the great harbour.
Cf. c. 2. 17 ff.—5. εἰ παρέλθοι: so Cl.
 and St. instead of the vulgate προἔλθοι, as it was not the advance of the cross-wall, but its passing the Athenian wall, that was to be feared.
 But the change seems to be hardly necessary, for as the cross-wall had already all but passed the Athenian wall (ἦδη . . . ὅσον οὐ παρεληλύθει), if it moved forward at all, it would pass, and hence it is quite the same whether we have προέλθοι or παρέλθοι. For the mood, see GMT. 77, 1 c.—ταῦτόν ἦδη ἐποίει . . . μηδὲ μάχεσθαι: “in that case (ἦδη) it amounted to the same whether they conquered in every battle or did not fight at all”; for only the completion of the wall of circumvallation could bring about the fall of the city. ποιεῖν = valere, effect, amount to, as in ii. 89.

 9, and like δύνασθαι in i. 141. 6. The impf. expresses the enduring result of the cond. εἰ παρέλθοι.—6. διὰ παντός:
continually, always of time in Thuc.
 See on i. 38. 2.—7. μάχεσθαι: Vat.
 has ἀμύνεσθαι with μάχεσθαι as marginal reading; but, as St. says, the repetition of μάχεσθαι adds force.
 —οὖν: after a long parenthesis, as in vi. 64. 13. See also on iii.
 95. 9.

8. τῶν τειχῶν: = τῶν τειχισμάτων
 (c. 5. 7).—ἢ πρότερον: than in the former battle (c. 5. 7).—9. ξυνέμισγεν: prepared for the conflict, impf., as i. 62. 21.—10. ἐκ πλαγίου: so that they might at the favourable moment fall upon the flank of the Athenians.
 —11. ἣ . . . ἔληγον: Cl. thinks the εὐρυχωρία means the space between the τελευταίαι of the advancing walls.
 St. adopts Arn.'s view: “The Syracusans front toward the west; their cavalry therefore, being on the right, was on the north of their line.
 And it was the northern side of Epi-polae which presented the greatest extent of clear ground, the finished part of the Athenian line being the southern side towards the cliffs looking to the south.”

13. κατ' αὐτοὺς: opposite them; cf. i. 62. 24; v. 71. 22. — 15. κατηράχθη: (Vat.; most of the Mss. κατεπράχθη) was driven back, from καταρᾶσσειν and corresponding to ἀπαράχθε, c. 63. 4.

καὶ . . . ἔφθασαν: immediate result of the victory, "and the very next night the Syracusans accomplished what the Athenians had so much feared" (cf. 5). The important result is stated with esp. emphasis. Cl. does not agree with St. and Bk. in objecting to the more exact explanation of παροικοδομήσαντες by καὶ παρελθόντες τὴν τῶν Ἀθηναίων οἰκοδομίαν, esp. since παρελθεῖν was emphasized above (4, 5). — 17. μήτε αὐτοὶ κωλύεσθαι . . . ἀποτειχίσαι: their intercourse with the interior could no longer be hindered, and they had deprived the Athenians of all possibility of investing the city. μὴ after ἀπεστερηκέναι, as i. 10. 3; ii. 101. 3; iv. 40. 5 after ἀπιστεῖν; v. 25. 11 after ἀπέχεσθαι; iii. 32. 14 after ἐλπῖδα οὐκ ἔχειν. See Rehdantz on

Xen. Anab. iii. 5. 11. GMT. 95, 2; H. 1029; Kr. Spr. 67, 12, 3; Kühn. 516, 3 a. For ἂν, see GMT. 41, 4, n. 4.

7. Immediately thereafter the expected Corinthian, Ambraciot, and Leucadian ships reach the great harbour of Syracuse, unobserved by the Athenians, and the cross-wall is finished. Gylippus displays the greatest activity in getting reinforcements from all quarters, and the Syracusans are zealously occupied in fitting out their fleet.

1. αἱ τε τῶν Κορινθίων νῆες κτέ.: cf. c. 4. 35, where also ἡ τῶν Ἀθηναίων φυλακή is mentioned. τῶν expressed but once as in i. 7. 7, etc. The two circumstances so important for the Syracusans, the arrival of the long-expected ships and the activity of Gylippus, are connected by τε καί. — 4. ξυντείχισαν: the men from these ships, who now helped to finish the rest of the cross-wall, which had just been carried past the Athenian wall. This sense, which is required by the whole context, is best gained by following Holm's clear explanation (Sic. II. 392–395) and striking out μέχρι, which may have sprung from a misunderstanding of πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον τείχος ἀπλοῦν (c. 4. 3). τὸ λοιπὸν is to be connected with τοῦ ἐγκαρσίου τείχους, just as in c. 71. 34, τὸ λοιπὸν τοῦ τείχους; iv. 116. 13, τὸ λοιπὸν τοῦ χειμῶνος. The first Syracusan cross-wall was also called ἐγκάρσιον τείχος (vi. 99. 16). St., with the approval of Philippi, strikes out μέχρι τοῦ ἐγκαρσίου τείχους in order to get the same sense. See App.

6. ἐπὶ στρατιάν: concise expression of purpose (cf. c. 12. 1), which is more definitely explained by καὶ ναυτικὴν . . . ξυλλέξων. — τε: refers to καὶ τῶν πόλεων below, and should not be struck out, as v. H. thinks. — ὥχετο: as often, to indicate departure without delay. Cf. i. 90. 26; 116. 15. — 7. πεζικὴν: retained with most of the Mss., instead of πεζήν. See on vi. 33. 9. — τῶν πόλεων: part. gen. depending on εἴ τις. Kr. Spr. 60, 10, 1. — 8. προσαξόμενος: to bring over, used in same sense in i. 99. 8; ii. 30. 7; iii. 91. 7; iv. 86. 3. — 9. ἀφεστήκει: had stood aloof, as in vi. 88. 22.

ἄλλοι: opp. to Gylippus (6); has no reference to the former ambassadors mentioned vi. 75. § 3. — 10. Κορινθίων: i.e. from the lately arrived ships, who could work the more effectively in their native city. — 11. τρόπῳ ᾧ ἂν . . . προχωρῇ: in whatever way might be available, in merchant ships, or small craft, or in any other way that might be convenient. ἐν ὁλκάσις . . . ὅπως ἂν is to be taken as explanatory of τρόπῳ ᾧ ἂν προχωρῇ, and προχωρῇ is understood with ὅπως ἂν. See App. — 13. ὥς . . . ἐπιμεταπεμπομένων: since also the Athenians were sending for fresh troops. The direct statement of this is not made till the following chap., but it is here taken for granted as already known.

14. ἐπλήρουν καὶ ἀνεπειρώντο: same phrase in c. 51. 9, and ἀναπειρώσθαι, practise manœuvring, again, c. 12. 16. — 15. ἐπέρρωντο: were encouraged; also c. 17. 10. Cf. c. 2. 9, ἐπερώσθησαν, plucked up courage.

8. Nicias, fully aware of his difficult position, turns with urgent appeals for help to Athens, and in order to leave no ground for a misunderstanding, sets forth his views in detail in a letter.

3. σφετέραν: see on c. i. 27. — 4. καὶ αὐτός: as the Syracusans had sent to Lacedaemon, which might have happened as well after as before. — ἔπεμπε . . . τότε: Cl. takes πολλάκις μὲν καὶ ἄλλοτε with ἀγγέλλων only, μάλιστα δὲ καὶ τότε with ἀγγέλλων ἔπεμπε; but St.'s view is better: "ἔπεμπε, imperfectum quod ad πολλάκις μὲν καὶ ἄλλοτε relatum notionem rei repetitae habet, apud μάλιστα δὲ καὶ τότε sonat mittere parabat." — 5. καθ' ἕκαστα: singula quaeque, taken together, obj. of ἀγγέλλων. Cf. i. 3. 6, κατὰ ἔθνη, singulas gentes; i. 3. 9, καθ' ἑκάστους, singulos quosque; also iv. 47. 10. — 6. εἰ μὴ . . . μεταπέμψουσιν: Vat. has μεταπέμψωσιν, and since Thuc. has one sure example of εἰ with the subj. without ἂν in a case of great uncertainty of the supposition (vi. 21. 5, possibly i. 72. 14), perhaps it should not here be unconditionally rejected. See on vi. 21. 5. Cl. says ἀποστελοῦσιν would then indicate that which was more to be desired; but cf. Dem. xviii. 176. — 8. οὐδεμίαν εἶναι σωτηρίαν: the fut. indic. in the prot. and the simple inf.

pres. in the apod. correspond to the firm conviction and categorical expression of Nicias. In dir. disc. it would be, εἰ μὴ ἀποστελεῖτε, οὐδεμίαν εἶσσι σωτηρία. v. H.'s conjecture, οὐδεμίαν ἂν εἶναι σωτηρίαν, would weaken the force. Cf. vi. 6. 19; 91. 13.

9. κατὰ τὴν τοῦ λέγειν ἀδυνασίαν: so Vat.; the other Mss. omit τὴν; but even if the art. of the governing subst. is often omitted when a gen. goes before (see on vi. 88. 23), still the omission here would be so strange as to cause obscurity. The unusual form ἀδυνασία for ἀδυναμία occurs also viii. 8. 19. — 10. μνήμης ἑλλιπεῖς γιγνόμενοι: so Vat. for γνώμης of all the rest of the Mss.: "from defect of memory." This might very naturally have happened if they had had to retain everything in memory; for in addition to the letter he told them certain things to be delivered by word of mouth, ὅσα εἰδει αὐτοὺς εἰπεῖν, 16, and ὅσα τε ἀπὸ γλώσσης εἴρητο αὐτοῖς, c. 10. 2. — 12. οὕτως ἂν μάλιστα: Cl. says οὕτως is explained by τὴν . . . μαθόντας, ἂν μάλιστα belonging to βουλευσασθαι; better οὕτως ἂν μάλιστα μαθόντας βουλευσασθαι. — 13. ἐν τῷ ἀγγέλω:

belongs with ἀφανισθεῖσαν; his view might be obscured "in the messenger" (by his inaccurate comprehension or delivery). Cf. ii. 35. 7, ἐν ἐνὶ ἀνδρὶ πολλῶν ἀρετὰς κινδυνεύεσθαι. On this use of ἐν with persons, see Kühn. 431, 1, 3) a.

15. οὓς ἀπέστειλε: inserted epexegetically. See App.—16. ὁ δὲ τὰ κατὰ τὸ στρατόπεδον . . . ἐπεμέλετο: "keeping his army from now on rather on the defensive than on the offensive, he attended to his duties." τὰ κατὰ τὸ στρατόπεδον is obj. of ἔχων, which must be taken by zeugma also with δι' ἐκουσίων κινδύνων. ἐπεμέλετο (not ἐπεμελεῖτο; see on vi. 54. 26) is used abs. The const. is similar to ἡγοῦντο with limiting partic. in i. 19. 2. τὸ στρατόπεδον refers no doubt to the army, not to the camp esp., and so would include the troops in the fortifications on Plemmyrium, as well as those in the main camp. See App.

9. Attempt of the Athenians to win back Amphipolis.

1. τελευτῶντι: when it was near the end, pred. Cf. i. 30. 13.—Εὐετίῳ: not elsewhere mentioned.—2. μετὰ Περδίκκου: as the help of Thracian Chalcidians held out to him by the Lacedaemonians had not come, Perdiccas had no doubt, though no mention is made of it, made peace and alliance with the Athenians, in order that his country might no longer be exposed to hostilities from them (cf. vi. 7. § 3, 4). See Weissenborn, Hellen. Beitr. p. 173, and Introd. to Book V. p. 19 ff.—3. Θραξὶ πολλοῖς: without doubt mercenaries from the surrounding regions. Cf. c. 27. § 1; v. 6. § 2.—4. περικομίσας: doubtless out of the port Eion. Cf. iv. 106. 17; v. 6. 2; 10. 16.—ἐκ τοῦ ποταμοῦ: belongs to ἐπολιόρκει.—5. Ἱμεραίου: not otherwise known. Weissenborn says, "Probably on the right bank of the river above the bridge."

10. The letter of Nicias reaches Athens and is read in the Popular Assembly.

2. ἀπὸ γλώσσης: orally; just so Hdt. i. 123. 20.—3. εἴ τίς τι ἐπηρώτα:

Poll. viii. 98, ὁ ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου αἰρεθεὶς γραμματεὺς ἀναγινώσκει τῷ δήμῳ καὶ τῇ βουλῇ. v. H. and St. omit ὁ τῆς πόλεως.—5. δηλοῦσαν: of the contents of a letter. Cf. c. 16. 1; i. 129. 1; 137. 22.

LETTER OF NICIAS TO THE DEMOS AT ATHENS.

11. Although we were very successful at first, a change has taken place since the arrival of Gylippus. Having lost the last battle we have had to withdraw behind our fortifications, and are now rather in the condition of besieged than of besiegers.

1. ἐν ἄλλαις πολλαῖς ἐπιστολαῖς ἴστε: ἐν, where we expect ἐκ, is due possibly to the original pf. meaning of εἶδεναι: "you have seen (read) in many letters." Kühn. 431, 1, 3) a. Kr. compares Dem. XLIV. 60, μεμαθήκατε ἐν τοῖς ἐν ἀρχῇ εἰρημέοις. Cf. Cic. de Nat. D. i. 26. 72, ut videmus in scriptis. Compare also the use of ἐν in expressions of decisive authority, as iii. 53. 3. πολλαῖς (which Vat. omits no doubt only in consequence of the similar endings) helps to give point to the following οὐχ ἦσσαν = μάλιστα: "you have frequently had information; now, however, it is more important than ever that you learn the truth and determine accordingly." Cf. c. 8. 4.—3. ἐν ᾧ ἔσμεν: in what condition we are. Cf. c. 14. 12; vi. 6. 30. For neut. of pron. to indicate condition, measure, degree, etc., see Kr. Spr. 43, 4, 4 and 22.

4. μάχαις ταῖς πλείοσι: order as in 8, μάχῃ τῇ πρώτῃ, i. 1. 6, παρασκευῇ τῇ πύρρῃ, and i. 11. 13, μέρει τῷ αἰὲ παρόντι.—Συρακοσίου: Thuc. construes κρατεῖν, when connected with μάχῃ (i. 108. 18; vi. 2. 26) or μαχόμενον (ii. 39. 14; iv. 67. 29), with the acc.; so also sometimes when μάχῃ is not expressed, but the whole context points to it (as ii. 39. 18; iii. 99. 3); otherwise always with the gen.—5. τὰ τεῖχη: taken strictly in point of time (οἰκοδομησαμένων . . . ἦλθε Γύλιππος), it would refer only to the wall of circumvallation, so far as it was finished, and to the round fort on Epipolae; but ἐν οἷσπερ νῦν ἔσμεν and the following ἀνεχωρήσαμεν ἐς τὰ τεῖχη show that also the three forts built on Plemmyrium after the arrival of Gylippus are included.—7. ἔστιν ὦν: some. G. 152, n. 2;

11. τὸ πλῆθος: “the superior number,” as in iv. 10. 16. This superiority is explained by οὐδὲ γὰρ . . . τοῦ ὀπλιτικοῦ, since always a part of the foot-force was occupied in guarding the walls (here esp. the wall of circumvallation). — 14. παρῳκοδομήκασιν: cf. c. 6. 16. — 15. μὴ εἶναι: = μὴ παρεῖναι (or as Vat. reads, μὴ δυνατόν εἶναι). Cf. ii. 97. 23; v. 40. 10. εἶναι in this sense always with the neg. — ἣν μὴ τις: only here in Thuc. — τὸ παρατειχισμα: here, and in c. 43. 7, 35, the Syracusan cross-wall (τὸ ἐγκόρσιον τείχος, c. 7. 5) since now it had passed the Athenian περιτειχισμα (vi. 101. 5).

17. ἄλλους: obj. of πολιορκεῖν, ἡμᾶς αὐτοὺς subj. of πάσχειν. Compare similar order in c. 75. 40. — 18. ὅσα γε: restrictive, as in iv. 48. 24; viii. 70. 5. Kr. Spr. 62, 1, 4. — τῆς χώρας: part. gen. depending on ἐπὶ πολὺ. G. 168; H. 730 e. Cf. c. 38. 1; 39. 4; 40. 18; 65. 7; i. 50. 6; iv. 3. 11. — 19. ἐπὶ πολὺ: in local sense, over a great extent. Kr. Spr. 43, 4, 3.

12. The Syracusans are doing everything to reinforce their land troops and to practise their fleet for an attack, while our fleet, continually on duty and constantly expecting an attack, never has time for rest and repairs.

1. πεπόμφασι . . . οἴχεται: cf. c. 7. § 2, 3. — ἐπ’ ἄλλην στρατιάν: cf. c. 7. 6. — 3. καί: more closely connected with ξυμπολεμεῖν. — 4. ἀπὸ δὲ τῶν: position as in iii. 61. 6; vi. 45. 5; 66. 6. Kr. Spr. 50, 1, 13. — ἔτι καὶ στρατιάν: still more troops. Cf. c. 2. 7; 34.

6. ὡς . . . πυνθάνομαι: the pres., as in 9 and vi. 17. 18, of information repeatedly received. — 7. πειρᾶν: with the gen., as in i. 61. 13. In the second clause πειρᾶν is used abs., being only locally defined by κατὰ θάλασσαν, which is opp. to τῶν τειχῶν.

δεινόν: incredible; cf. iii. 57. 8. —

8. ὅτι καὶ κατὰ θάλασσαν: sc. πειρᾶν διανοοῦνται. An attack in the open sea, not on Plemmyrium, is meant. 9. ἥπερ: hardly necessary, with Cl., to supply γενέσθαι. ἥπερ refers to the change that had taken place, and points therefore esp. to the second clause, νῦν δὲ . . . ἐφθαρται. — 10. τῇ ξηρότητι: opp. to διάβροχοι (in 11), the good condition of ships, when the wood is not thoroughly soaked from lying too long in the water. The means to preserve this condition is ἀνελκύσαντας διαψύξαι (13), or ἀποξηρᾶναι (17), which had not been possible for more than a year now (from July, 415 — vi. 30 — to September, 414 B.C.). Cf.

Poll. i. 121, καὶ αἱ μὲν ἀθαλάσσευτο καὶ ἀκραιφνεῖς καὶ ξηραὶ διεψυγμέναι, αἱ δὲ ἐν τεθαλαττενκίαι, δινυροί, ἀραιαί, διάβροχοι. — τῶν πληρωμάτων τῇ σωτηρίᾳ: in the unimpaired condition of the crews. Cf. c. 4. § 6. — 11. αἱ τε νῆες . . . ἐφθαρται: αἱ τε νῆες . . . θαλασσεύουσαι is explained from 13 to c. 13. 5, καὶ τὰ πληρώματα ἐφθαρται from c. 13. 5 to the end of the chap. We see thereby how inaptly the connexion is broken by the division of the chaps. — διάβροχοι: not leaky, but water-logged. Dukas explains well, διὰ πολλοὺ θαλασσεύουσαι ἐπὶ πολλὴν διυγρᾶνθησαν κἀντεῦθεν βαρεῖαι γενόμεναι δυσκίνητοι ἦσαν. See on 10.

13. διαψύξαι: accent acc. to Herodian. Cf. ξυμψύξαι, ii. 84. 34, and προσψύξαι, iii. 31. 13. See App. on ii. 84. 34. — 14. καὶ ἔτι πλείους: the correct reading, from Vat. only, instead of καὶ ὅτι πλείους, adds force to ἀντιπάλους τῷ πλήθει . . . οὔσας, since they are equal in number and even superior.

16. ἀναπειρώμεναι: (Vat., all the rest ἀποπειρώμεναι) see on c. 7. 14. —

6. ὡς . . . πυνθάνομαι: the pres., as in 9 and vi. 17. 18, of information repeatedly received. — 7. πειρᾶν: with the gen., as in i. 61. 13. In the second clause πειρᾶν is used abs., being only locally defined by κατὰ θάλασσαν, which is opp. to τῶν τειχῶν.

δεινόν: incredible; cf. iii. 57. 8. — 8. ὅτι καὶ κατὰ θάλασσαν: sc. πειρᾶν διανοοῦνται. An attack in the open sea, not on Plemmyrium, is meant.

9. ᾧ περ: hardly necessary, with Cl., to supply γενέσθαι. ᾧ περ refers to the change that had taken place, and points therefore esp. to the second clause, νῦν δὲ . . . ἐφθαρται. — 10. τῇ ξηρότητι: opp. to διάβροχοι (in 11), the good condition of ships, when the wood is not thoroughly soaked from lying too long in the water. The means to preserve this condition is ἀνεγκύσαν-τας διαψύξαι (13), or ἀποξηρᾶναι (17), which had not been possible for more than a year now (from July, 415 — vi. 30 — to September, 414 B.C.). Cf.

Poll. i. 121, καὶ αἱ μὲν ἀβαλάσσεντο καὶ ἀκραίφνεις καὶ ἡσπὰ διεψυγμέναι, αἱ δὲ ἐντεθαλαττεσκυῖαι, δίγυροι, ἀραιαί, διάβρο-χοι. — τῶν πληρωμάτων τῇ σωτηρίᾳ: in the unimpaired condition of the crews. Cf. c. 4. § 6. — 11. αἱ τε νῆες . . . ἐφθαρται: αἱ τε νῆες . . . θαλασσεύουσai is explained from 13 to c. 13. 5, καὶ τὰ πληρώματα ἐφθαρται from c. 13. 5 to the end of the chap. We see thereby how inaptly the connexion is broken by the division of the chaps. — διάβροχοι: not leaky, but water-logged. Dukas explains well, διὰ πολλοῦ θαλασσεύουσai ἐπὶ πολὺ δυγράνθησαν κἀντεῦθεν βαρεῖαι γενόμεναι δυσκίνητοι ἦσαν. See on 10.

13. διαψύξαι: accent acc. to Herodian. Cf. ξυμμίξαι, ii. 84. 34, and προσμίξαι, iii. 31. 13. See App. on ii. 84. 34. — 14. καὶ ἔτι πλείους: the correct reading, from Vat. only, instead of καὶ ὅτι πλείους, adds force to ἀντιπάλους τῷ πλήθει . . . οὔσας, since they are equal in number and even superior.

16. ἀναπειρώμεναι: (Vat., all the rest ἀποπειρώμεναι) see on c. 7. 14. —

ἐπ' ἐκείνοις: in their power. Kr. Spr. 68, 41, 9. See on vi. 22. 13. St. (who, following Codex M. in the Brit. Mus., omits ἐξουσία in 14) is wrong in extending the force of ἐπ' ἐκείνοις to ἀποξηρᾶναι. μᾶλλον requires a more definite expression than ἐπ' ἐκείνοις, they have, more than we, opportunity for drying their ships. — 18. οὐ γὰρ ἐφορμοῦσιν ἄλλοις: sc. ὥσπερ αἱ ἡμέτεραι, they are not obliged (as are our ships) to watch others.

13. But we dare not relax our watchfulness, on account of the difficulty of getting supplies. The army suffers loss, moreover, partly from sudden attacks of the enemy's cavalry, partly from the desertion of those who came with us either through compulsion or in hope of gain.

ἐσκομιζόμενοι. — πάσαις: with all (the ships), the military dat., as in i. 49. 18, and often. — ἀφαιρήσομέν τι καὶ βραχὺ: leave off even a little. — 4. παρὰ τὴν ἐκείνων πόλιν: i.e. along by Syracuse, in sailing into the great harbour. — 5. ἐσκομιζόμενοι: sc. τὰ ἐπιτήδεια. Cf. vi. 22. 6.

τὰ δὲ πληρώματα: see on c. 4. 27. — 6. διὰ τόδε: set forth in the following up to the end of the chap., first in gen. abs. (τῶν μὲν . . . ἀπολλυμένων), then in dir. disc. (οἱ δὲ θεράποντες . . . αὐτομολοῦσι κτέ.). For similar cases of anacoluthon, see c. 15. § 2; 47. § 2. — ἐφθάρη, φθείρεται: the former referring to the cases that had already occurred (cf. c. 4. § 6), the latter to the continuance of the bad state of affairs. — 7. τῶν ναυτῶν: the part. gen. placed first, including all the following parts, τῶν μὲν, οἱ δὲ θεράποντες, and οἱ ξένοι. This last is subdivided into οἱ μὲν (10), οἱ δὲ (11), and οἱ δὲ is further divided into οἱ μὲν (15), οἱ δὲ (15) and εἰς δ' οἱ (16). The ναῦται include ἐπιβάται as well as ἐρέται. The most of the latter consist of θεράποντες and ξένοι. Cf. i. 143. 3, τοὺς ξένους τῶν ναυτῶν, and vi. 31. 23, τοῖς θρανίταις τῶν ναυτῶν. Acc. to this view, τῶν before μὲν in 7 is not to be omitted. — 8. μακράν: adv. with ἀπολλυμένων ("at a distance from their camp"), and rightly placed in Vat. after ὑδρεῖαν, not after ἀρπαγὴν. It would seem, however, to have esp. reference to ὑδρεῖαν if we compare c. 4. 29, ὅδατι σπανίφ χρώμενοι καὶ οὐκ ἐγγύθεν. The Schol. explains, ἀρπαγὴν μακράν: διὰ τὸ ἐπὶ πόλλου διαστήματος ἐφ' ἀρπαγὴν ἐξίέναι; but no doubt wrongly. — 9. οἱ θεράποντες: this term, which is used elsewhere (iv. 16. 9) only of the attendants of the Spartan hoplites, seems to refer here to the θῆτες, who were pressed for rowing, and bondmen, who performed various services in the fleet. See Boeckh, Public Economy of the Athenians, p. 360 ff. — 9. ἐπειδὴ ἐς ἀντίπαλα καθεστήκαμεν: since we are reduced to an equality (with the Syracusans), i.e. since the prospect of a speedy victory has been lost. The same idea is expressed in other words in 13, ἐπειδὴ παρὰ γνώμην . . . ἀνθεστῶτα ὀρώσιν. — 10. ἀναγκαστοί: pred. with ἐσβάντες, as in c. 58. 17 with στρατεύοντες. G. 138, κ. 7; H. 619. — 12. οἰόμενοι χρηματιεῖσθαι: cf. vi. 31. 42. — 14. ἀπὸ τῶν πολεμίων: on the part of the enemy. — 15. ἐπ' αὐτομολίας προφάσει: on any occasion for deserting (to the enemy), i.e. whenever the deserters thought themselves unobserved by the Athenians, or found themselves unexpectedly in the neighbourhood of the Syracusan troops. πρόφασις, not of the pretended, but of the real occasion, as in i. 23. 23; 118. 3, and freq. See App. — 16. ὡς ἕκαστοι δύνανται: i.e. as any opportunity offered of fleeing, without exactly going over to the enemy. — πολλή δ' ἡ Σικελία: epexegetical, just as v. 110. 1. πολλή is here used as in Plat. Phaed. 78 a, πολλή ἡ Ἑλλάς; Theocr. 22. 156, πολλὰ τοι Σπάρτα, πολλὰ δ' . . . Ἄλις. — 17. αὐτοὶ ἐμπορευόμενοι: (so Vat., the remaining Mss. αὐτοῦ) while they devote themselves to merchandising, which, acc. to vi. 31. 42, many had made their object in the expedition. καὶ belongs to the whole clause ἀνδράποδα . . . ἀφῆρηνται. Kr. Spr. 69, 32, 15. — ἀνδράποδα Ἵκκαρικά: inhabitants of the little town Hyccara, whom Nicias had sold as slaves (vi. 62. § 3). Of the crews, some that had gone out with money for the purpose of trading utilized the opportunity to buy men of Hyccara; and, with the consent of the trierarchs, put them in the naval service in their own places. These occurrences happened, doubtless, in the autumn of 415 B.C., and the mention of them implies a complaint on the part of Nicias against the negligence of some of the trierarchs. — 18. τὴν ἀκρίβειαν τοῦ ναυτικοῦ: the strict discipline of the naval service, which was disturbed by the mixing in of strange elements. ἀκρίβεια corresponds to ἀκριβές of vi. 55. 16. Cf. Arr. Anab. ii. 21. 9, ἀκριβεστάτοις τοῖς πληρώμασι.

14. The number of troops that can be depended on is small. I myself am not able to prevent the evils, and repair our losses. In Sicily we have only weak allies, and our supplies are threatened. However gloomy all this is, it is my duty to tell you the truth.

1. ἐπισταμένοις: the partic. is the important word, "you yourselves know best what I write to you." Cf. iii. 53. 14. — 2. βραχεῖα ἀκμή: understood by the Schol. of the short duration of the good condition of a crew; but this hardly agrees with what immediately follows (καὶ ὀλίγοι . . . τὴν εἰρεσίαν). The sense is: "the really efficient part of a ship's crew is always small." — 3. οἱ ἐξορμῶντες . . . τὴν εἰρεσίαν: the two expressions (co-ord. by τε καὶ) bring together the two most important qualifications of an oarsman, which are in a certain degree

opp. to each other: not only to start a ship (properly) (ἐξορμᾶν), but to keep the rowing in order (ξυνέχειν). Cf. Poll. i. 123, τὰ δὲ ἔργα ἀνάγεσθαι, προσαναπειρᾶσθαι, ἐξορμᾶν τὴν ναῦν. St., however, understands the sense to be: who so impel a boat with oars as to keep time in rowing.

4. τούτων δὲ πάντων: sc. ἀπὸ τῶν ὄντων, covering all back to c. 12. § 3, and repeated in the following ταῦτα. — 5. ἐμοί: on the dat. after οἶόν τε εἶναι instead of the subj. acc. with the inf., see Kühn. 585, note 2. — χαλεπαὶ ἄρξαι: inf. act. where we use pass. G. 261, 2, Rem.; H. 952 a; Kr. Spr. 55, 3, 7. See on vi. 42. 8, ῥάους ἄρχειν. — αἱ ὑμέτεραι φύσεις: ingenia vestra. Cf. Ar. Paz, 807, τὰς φύσεις ὑμῶν . . . καὶ τὸν αὐτοδὲς τρόπον. — 6. ἐπιπληρωσώμεθα: fill up; ἐπι- as in ἐπισκοπεῖν, c. 1. 2; vi. 104. 20; ἐπιπέμπειν, vi. 73. 10; ἐπιμανθάνειν, i. 138. 12. Cl. writes ἐπιπληρωσώμεθα (deliberative subj.), for ἐπιπληρωσόμεθα, acc. to analogy of ii. 52. 11; iv. 28. 16; v. 65. 21. But while Thuc. might of course have written the subjv. it is not abs. necessary. Besides, the Schol. explains, τὰ πληρώματα ἀναπληρῶσομεν. See on i. 91. 4. For the deliberative subjv., see Kr. Spr. 54, 7, 2; Kühn. 394, note 3. For fut., see

Kr. Spr. 53, 7, 8. — 8. ἀφ' ὧν . . . γίνεσθαι: the sense is, “as we must supply the losses from the troops brought with us, so must what remains suffice for the service without compensation for the losses.” The reference is only to the crews τὰ πληρώματα (not to war supplies). The art. not repeated with ἀπαναλισκόμενα, as in c. 7. 1; i. 7. 7; iv. 25. 8.

11. ἐν ἔτι: only one thing more, explained in the following ὥστε . . . χωρῆσαι. The aor. inf. makes vivid the threatening danger. — 12. καὶ ὑμῶν μὴ ἐπιβοηθούντων: although in the gen. abs., to be taken with ὁρῶντα, as τε καὶ shows: “when they see in what condition we are and (that this is so) while you do not come to our aid.” Kr. Spr. 56, 14, 2. — 13. πρὸς ἐκείνους χωρῆσαι: go over to them, as in i. 18. 28; v. 22. 11; 43. 6. — διαπεπολήσεται αὐτοῖς: the fut. pf. of Vat., stronger than διαπολεμήσεται of the other Mss., “they will have ended the war.” Kr. Spr. 53, 9, 3. Acc. to the like expression in c. 25. 46, ὁ πόλεμος could be spared here, and Kr. and St. omit it. But it is the reading of all the Mss., and as opp. to ἀμαχεὶ is not without force: “an end would, without a battle, be put to the whole war.” See App. — 14. ἐκπολιορκηθέντων: cf. c. 11. § 4.

17. τὰ ἐνθάδε: corresponding to ἐν ᾧ ἑσμεν in c. 11. 3. — 20. ἀπ' αὐτῶν: sc. τῶν ἡδιστῶν, ἃ ἀκούειν βούλεσθε, with which ὁμοῖον has the meaning correspondingly. Cf. ii. 54. 16. — 21. ἡγησάμην: aor., anticipating the time of reading. GMT. 17, 2, x. 5; H. 838; Kr. Spr. 53, 10, 1.

15. Therefore you must not reproach us, but either recall the army, or send out a new one, equally strong and supplied with all that is necessary. And send me a successor, since I am enfeebled by sickness. Whatever you determine to do,

- στρατιωτῶν καὶ τῶν ἡγεμόνων ὑμῖν μὴ μεμπτῶν γεγενημένων οὕτω τὴν γνώμην ἔχετε· ἐπειδὴ δὲ Σικελία τε ἅπασα ξυνίσταται καὶ ἐκ Πελοποννήσου ἄλλη στρατιὰ however, must be carried out as speedily as possible; for in delay is the greatest danger.

1. ὡς . . . γεγενημένων: be of this opinion, that with regard to the object of our expedition neither the soldiers nor the generals ought to be blamed by you. For gen. abs. with verb of knowing, see GMT. 113, n. 10 b, c; Kühn. 488, 1 b β. The neg. is μὴ because the leading verb is inv. Kühn. 515, 3. ἐφ' ἃ ἤλθομεν τὸ πρῶτον, i.e. to war with Syracuse alone.—3. οὕτω: emphasizing the idea of the partic. clause. Kühn. 486, note 5. Cf. i. 22. 8; 37. 4; vi. 24. 3.—Σικελία ἅπασα ξυνίσταται: as was predicted vi. 37. 16, ξυστήσεται γάρ.—5. προσδόκιμος, αὐτοὶ βουλευσασθε . . . ἀνταρκούντων: this reading of Vat. is to be preferred to προσδόκιμος αὐτοῖς, βουλευέσθε of the rest of the Mss. The main stress of the sent. is on αὐτοὶ βουλευέσασθε, and indeed only the aor. inv. is compatible with ἤδη: "do you yourselves make up your minds at once, understanding that the troops which we have here certainly are not a match for even our present enemies."—τῶν ἐνθάδε, τοῖς παροῦσιν: are both neut., referring to the still remaining force of the Athenians and the already strongly developed power of the Syracusans.—6. ἀνταρκούντων: Schol. ἀντέχειν δυναμένων.—μεταπέμπειν: recall, as in c. 8. 7.—7. ἐπιπέμπειν: as in vi. 73. 10. See on c. 14. 6. The alliteration in μεταπέμπειν and ἐπιπέμπειν was observed by the old rhetoricians.—8. ἐμοί τε: with Vat., instead of ἐμοὶ δέ, acc. to the usage of Thuc., since it is after στρατιά and χρήματα, the third demand. Cf. i. 33. 6; 67. 6; 69. 3; 76. 12.—9. διάδοχόν τινα: not any successor, but some one (another) as successor.—διὰ νόσον νεφρίτιν: also mentioned by Plut. Nic. 17.

10. ὑμῶν: dependent on ξυγγνώμης, but, as its position shows, not confined to the force of the possessive: "I expect to receive from you an indulgent judgment."—11. εὖ ἐποίησα: of political services, corresponding to ἐνεργέτης in i. 136. 2; ii. 27. 9.—12. μέλλετε: sc. πράσσειν.—μὴ ἐς ἀναβολὰς: = μὴδὲν ἀναβαλλόμενοι, without delay. Cf. c. 70. 49, μὴ δέ βολὰς ἐποιοῦντο τὴν ἀναχώρησιν. For other similar consts., see on v. 8. 12.

—13. ὡς . . . φθήσονται: Cl. explains:
ὡς as causal conj. introduces the rest of the sent.; the partic. clauses end with ὅμως δέ (sc. ποριουμένων with ὅμως δέ as well as with τὰ δ' ἐκ Πελοποννή-σου) and the main sent. is ἣν μὴ . . .
φθήσονται. But more probably ὡς belongs to the gen. abs. G. 277, n.
2 a; H. 978. With τὰ δ' ἐκ Πελοποννή-σου σχολαίτερον μὲν sc. ποριουμένων, but after ὅμως δέ there is a change of const. to finite verb, as in c. 13. 9. With λήσουσιν . . . φθήσονται we must supply πορισάμενοι. Kr. Spr. 56, 16 A.
—16. ὥσπερ καὶ πρότερον: contains a reproach against the Athenians for not hindering the Peloponnesians from sending ships before (vi. 93.
§ 2, 3).

16. In consequence of this letter, the Athenians appoint from those in the army two men to share the command temporarily with Nicias, and determine to send him strong reinforcements of ships and troops, as well as of money. Demosthenes and Eurymedon are chosen generals, and the latter sets sail for Sicily in the beginning of the winter.

2. οὐ παρέλυσαν τῆς ἀρχῆς: did not release from his office. The verb occurs also in viii. 54. 9. —4. αὐτοῦ ἐκεῖ: emphatic designation of place, on the very spot. Observe the use of the corresponding prons. αὐτὸς ἐκεῖνος in c. 1. 8. Cf. Soph. O. C. 78, τῶν ἐνθάδ' αὐτοῦ; Hdt. i. 189. 20, αὐτοῦ ταύτη; v. 19.
7, αὐτοῦ τῆδε. The Schol. is therefore wrong in explaining, τῶν στρατιωτῶν αὐτοῦ, ἡγουν τοῦ Νικίου. τῶν αὐτοῦ ἐκεῖ means out of the number of men of prominence present with the army before Syracuse. Of the two, only Euthydemus has been mentioned before (v. 19. 9; 24. 6). —5. ὅπως . . .
ταλαιπωροίῃ: that he might not have to bear the burden alone in his sickness, the νόσος νεφρίτις of c. 15. 9. —6. ἐπειψηφίσαντο: Vat., instead of ἐψηφίσαντο.
ἐπ- has the same force as in ἐπιπλη-ροσώμεθα, c. 14. 6. The compound is found certainly in Aeschin. ii. 68; elsewhere the Mss. are uncertain (e.g.
Xen. Anab. vii. 6. 14). —7. ἐκ καταλόγου: i.e. from the military list of the three highest classes of citizens.

See on vi. 43. 9.—8. Δημοσθένην: last in active service, iv. 66–69.—Εὐρυμέδοντα: after the unsuccessful expedition in Sicily in the year 424 B.C., he had been punished with a fine (iv. 65. 12).

10. τὰς χειμερινὰς: Diod. (xiii. 8) wrongly says τὰς θερινὰς τροπὰς. Cf. Plut. Nic. 20, διὰ χειμῶνος.—12. εἴκοσι τάλαντα: that this sum did not in the remotest degree suffice for the necessities of Nicias is clear; for 20 talents were only a month's pay for 20 ships. Valla gives centum viginti; Diod. xiii. 8, ἐκατὸν τεσσαράκοντα. Hence Boeckh (P. E. p. 395) conjectures that Eurymedon first carried over 20 talents, Demosthenes later (c. 20. § 2) 120 talents. This view might seem to be favoured by the promise ὅτι . . . ἐπιμέλεια αὐτῶν ἔσται. But it is hardly possible that Thuc. should have mentioned the smaller sum and said nothing of the larger. The best solution of the difficulty seems to be, with Kr. and St., to follow Valla and one Ms. (h; Cl. says no Ms. has ἐκατόν) and read εἴκοσι καὶ ἐκατόν.

17. During the winter the Athenians

on the one side and the Peloponnesians on the other carry on with equal zeal their preparations for the Sicilian War.

1. ὑπομένων: remaining behind. Cf. iii. 35. 7; iv. 90. 20; v. 14. 18; vi. 98. 15.—παρεσκευάζετο: takes a combination of two common consts., the simple noun-obj. (τὸν ἔκπλουν, as in ii. 56. 3; v. 10. 1) and the fut. partic. with ὥς (c. 41. 15; ii. 7. 2; iv. 8. 16). τὸν ἔκπλουν is to be supplied with ποιησόμενος.—2. ἐπαγγέλλων: impetrans, as in iii. 16. 16; viii. 108. 21. Cf. c. 18. 27, σίδηρον περιήγγελλον κατὰ τοὺς ξυμμάχους; also ii. 85. 11. ἐπαγγέλλων includes the force also of πέμψας, exactly opp. to ἀπαγγέλλων.—3. αὐτόθεν: sc. ἐξ Ἀθηνῶν. The Schol. wrongly explains, ἀπὸ τῶν ξυμμάχων.

4. πέμπουσιν περὶ τὴν Πελοπόννησον: having learned a lesson from their former negligence (see on c. 15. 16), they send these ships on the usual περίπλους (cf. i. 107. 13; ii. 23. 5; 69. 2).—5. φυλάσσοιεν μηδένα . . . περαισιῶσθαι: cf. ii. 69. 3, φυλακὴν εἶχε μήτ' ἔκπλειν. The const. of μή with inf. is the same as with καλύειν. See on c. 6. 19.

 κωλύοιεν ἀπαίρειν, πρὸς τὴν σφετέραν ἀντίταξιν τῶν τριήρων τὴν φυλακὴν ποιούμενοι.

7. αὐτοῖς οἱ πρέσβεις ἤκον: ἤκον with the dat. as ἦλθον in c. 75. 6. See on i. 13. 12. On the reading, see App. — 8. βελτίῳ: sc. εἶναι. Cf. Eur. Hec. 423, ἡγγελλε πασῶν ἀθλιωτάτην ἐμέ. — 9. οὐκ ἄκαιρον . . . ποιήσασθαι: = οὐκ ἀκαίρως πρότερον τὰς ναῦς πέμψαι. The const. of νομίσαντες . . . ποιήσασθαι is the same as that of ἡγησάμενοι ἱερῶσθαι in v. i. 3. πέμψις is unusual; found in Thuc. only here, in Hdt. viii. 54. 3. The reference is to the sending out of Gylippus, vi. 93. 8. — 10. ἐν ὁλκάσι . . . πέμψοντες: the use of common merchant vessels for the transport of troops is marked as unusual by the position of the word. ὀλκάσι coming first, the contrasted ναῦς (i.e. τριῆρις, in 13) has the same position. The use of the same method of transportation by the Lacedaemonians (τῷ αὐτῷ τρόπῳ) is also emphasized, and certainly more effectually by the new pat-
 tic. πέμψοντες (after ἀποστελοῦντες), to which v. H. objects without sufficient grounds. ὀπλίτας is obj. of both partics.

14. ὅπως . . . ἀποπειράσωσι . . . καὶ

κωλύοιεν: the same change of mood as in iii. 22. 39; vi. 96. 18, 19. GMT. 44, 2, n. 1; Kühn. 553, 6. The first verb (aor.) refers to the act contemplated, the second (pres.) to its enduring result. — 15. πρὸς τὴν ἐν τῇ Ναυπάκτῳ φυλακὴν: against the Athenian squadron, generally 20 triremes, stationed on guard here during the whole war. Cf. ii. 69. 1; 80. 21. — 16. τὰς ὀλκάδας αὐτῶν: the merchant vessels which were to transport their troops. αὐτῶν instead of σφῶν, although σφετέραν follows. Cf. i. 95. 8. — 17. πρὸς τὴν σφετέραν ἀντίταξιν τῶν τριήρων: ἀντίταξιν is used in a proleptic sense, i.e. against their triremes whenever they (the Corinthians) should have arrayed themselves with these against them. The connexion is made clearer by the fact that the possessive pron. (σφετέραν, referring to the Corinthians) is placed with the verbal noun and not with τριήρων, to which it really belongs. Kr. Spr. 51, 4, 7. — 18. ποιούμενοι: modifies Ἀθηναῖοι.

18. The Lacedaemonians make preparations to invade Attica the next spring, and, on the advice of Alcibiades, to establish themselves in Decelea. And they enter upon this undertaking with so much the greater confidence because they consider that the Athenians had broken the treaty of peace by the inroad on the coast of Laconia the year before (vi. 105).

1. παρεσκευάζοντο: continues per epanaphoram the account of c. 17. 11.—2. ὥσπερ προεδέδοκτο . . . ἐναγόντων: cf. vi. 93. § 1, 2. αὐτοῖς, as opp. to Συρακοσίων καὶ Κορινθίων, = ipsis. The two clauses also are placed in opposition by τε καὶ. We should expect καὶ ἐνῆγον instead of the gen. abs. For change of const., see Kr. Spr. 59, 2, 4.—3. ἐπειδὴ ἐπυνθάνοντο: closely connected with ἐναγόντων: “as soon as they (the Corinthians and Syracusans) received information of the new preparations of the Athenians to send aid into Sicily.”—4. τὴν ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀθηναίων βοήθειαν: as in c. 42. 2; ii. 92. 21. Cf. also ii. 86. 22, πρὶν τι ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀθηναίων ἐπι- βοηθῆσαι. Bk. wishes in all these places Ἀθηνῶν, but ἀπό seems more appropriate with the name of the people.—5. δι: in explanatory subord. clause, as in i. 24. 5; iv. 23. 6; vi. 92. 19.—διακωλυθῇ: the subj. is ἡ βοήθεια.—6. προσκείμενος: instans. Cf. viii. 52. 15.—ἐδίδασκε: const. like κελεύειν, as also in i. 136. 9; iv. 46. 18; 83. 11.—7. μὴ ἀνεῖναι: the aor. (Vat.) makes the admonition just at this moment more urgent than the vulgate μὴ ἀνίεναι.

8. τις ῥώμη: a sort of self-confidence. Cf. c. 42. 14. Neither the noun nor the corresponding verb ever signifies, Cl. holds, material strength alone; they always refer esp. to the disposition of the mind. See App. on vi. 31. 3.—10. εὐκαθαιρετωτέρους: found only here in Thuc.; from καθαίρειν (pull down, iii. 13. 32; v. 14. 14; vi. 83. 6) and corresponding to the verbal adj. καθαίρετά (i. 118. 16).—13. ὅτι τε: occurs also in vi. 83. 1. τε (only in Vat.) and καὶ emphasize prop. the two different charges (cf. ii. 2 ff.), the wrongful entry of the Thebans into Plataea, and the refusal of an adjustment by law on the part of the Lacedaemonians. — 14. εἰρημένον: acc. abs., as in c. 77. 32; i. 140. 13; v. 30. 9; 39. 12. GMT. 110, 2; H. 973; Kr. Spr. 56, 9, 5. — ἐν ταῖς πρότερον ξυνθήκαις: referring to the τριακοντούταις σπονδαῖς of i. 115. 2. The adv. πρότερον merely indicates the time of the ξυνθήκαι; the adj. would contrast these ξυνθήκαι with others. Kr. Spr. 50, 8, 6. Cf. i. 23. 1; ii. 87. 32. — 15. αὐτοὶ: sc. of Λακεδαιμόνιοι. — 16. ἐς δίκας . . . τῶν Ἀθηναίων: cf. i. 78. § 4; 145. — 17. εἰκότως: deservedly. — ἐνεθυμοῦντο: here and in v. 32. 5 = ἐνθύμιον ἐποιοῦντο (c. 50. 29), "they considered the misfortune as a result of their guilt." — 18. εἴ τις . . . γένοιτο: of the freq. misfortunes, "any other that had happened to them." General cond. GMT. 51; H. 894, 2. St.'s reading ἐγένετο (with one Ms.) is simpler.

19. ταῖς τριάκοντα ναυσὶν: the expedition of Pythodorus and others (vi. 105), concerning which Thuc. observed (l.c.), τὰς σπονδὰς φανερότατα . . . ἔλυσαν. — ἐξ Ἀργους: added only in Vat., but indispensable with ὀρμώμενοι. In vi. 105. 13, although it is not expressly stated, it is clearly implied in the context. — 21. ἐλήστευον: so Vat., for the mid. ἐληστέοντο of the rest of the Mss., which Thuc. never uses. — 22. κατὰ τὰς σπονδὰς: in the treaty of peace of B.C. 424. Cf. v. 18 ff. — 24. ἐπιτρέπew: to submit to arbitration. Cf. i. 28. 9; iv. 83. 10; v. 31. 14. — 25. ἡμάρτητο: pass., as in ii. 65. 45. — 26. τὸ αὐτό: Cl. takes it as pred., and refers to c. 21. 17; ii. 40. 12; iii. 21. 10; but none of these is exactly parallel. It seems rather to be an emphatic repetition of τὸ παρανόμημα. Kr. Spr. 51, 5, 1. — περιεστάναι: change round, shift. Generally it means to pass over into another form and manner, as in i. 32. 15; 120. 27; vi. 24. 6, πολὺ δὲ μᾶλλον ὄρητο καὶ τοῦναντίον περιέστη αὐτῷ.

27. σίδηρον: as in iv. 69. 6; vi. 88. 38, iron tools, such as were necessary in wall-building and in sieges. The term is σίδηρια in iv. 4. 5.—28. περιήγγελλον: here and ii. 85. 11 with the acc., as ἐπαγγέλλειν in c. 17. 2; elsewhere with the inf. (i. 116. 5; ii. 10. 2; 80. 13; iv. 8. 5; v. 54. 8; vi. 88. 35).—31. ἐπόριζον: they were procuring, sc. τὴν ἐπικουρίαν, which is also to be supplied with ἀποπέμψοντες.—προσσηνάγκαζον: sc. πορίζειν, the same brachylogy as with ὀρᾶν, i. 78. 10; ii. 86. 14. προσ- has the same strengthening force as in iii. 61. 14; iv. 87. 8; v. 42. 19; viii. 76. 32. See on προσβιασθέν, i. 106. 2.

19. At the beginning of spring, Attica is invaded and Decelea occupied and fortified. At the same time, the Lacedaemonians, Boeotians, Corinthians, and Sicyonians send fresh troops to the Syracusans. The transports which convey these depart unmolested on their voyage, being protected by the 25 triremes of the Corinthians, which hold in check the Attic ships at Naupactus.

1. τοῦ ἐπιγιγνομένου ἦρος εὐθὺς ἀρχομένου πρῶτατα: see App.—2. ἐς τὴν Ἀττικὴν ἐσέβαλον: on the significance of this invasion in determining the periods of the Peloponnesian War, see App. to v. 25. 10.—4. τὰ περὶ τὸ πεδίον: περὶ of a geographical designation without defined limits. See on i. 5. 17. The level country is meant which stretches from the western border of Attica up toward the Parnes mountain range, called also πεδιάς and μεσόγαια. See Bursian, Geogr. von Griechenland, I. p. 263. Where the road to Boeotia cuts through the eastern Parnes, almost due north from Athens, at the highest point of the pass (now called Κληθί) on the site of the present village of Τατόι, lies Decelea, where the Lacedaemonians built the Epiteichismos. See Bursian, I. p. 335.—5. κατὰ πόλεις διελόμενοι τὸ ἔργον: as in ii. 78. 4, μάλιστα τῆς τῶν Ἀθηναίων πόλεως εἴκοσι καὶ ἑκατόν, παραπλήσιον δὲ καὶ οὐ πολλῷ πλέον καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς Βοιωτίας. ἐπὶ δὲ τῷ πεδίῳ καὶ τῆς χώρας τοῖς κρατίστοις 10 ἐς τὸ κακουργεῖν ὥκοδομεῖτο τὸ τεῖχος, ἐπιφανὲς μέχρι τῆς τῶν Ἀθηναίων πόλεως. καὶ οἱ μὲν ἐν τῇ Ἀττικῇ 3 Πελοποννήσιοι καὶ οἱ ξύμμαχοι ἐτείχιζον, οἱ δ' ἐν τῇ Πελοποννήσῳ ἀπέστελλον περὶ τὸν αὐτὸν χρόνον ταῖς ὁλκάσι τοὺς ὀπλίτας ἐς τὴν Σικελίαν, Λακεδαιμόνιοι μὲν 15 τῶν τε Εἰλώτων ἐπιλεξάμενοι τοὺς βελτίστους καὶ τῶν νεοδαμῶδων, ξυναμφοτέρων ἐς ἑξακοσίους ὀπλίτας καὶ Ἐκκριτον Σπαρτιάτην ἄρχοντα, Βοιωτοὶ δὲ τριακοσίους ὀπλίτας, ὧν ἦρχον Ξένων τε καὶ Νίκων Θηβαῖοι καὶ Ἡγήσανδρος Θεσπιεύς. οὗτοι μὲν οὖν ἐν τοῖς πρώτοι ὁρμή- 4 διελόμενοι κατὰ πόλεις τὸ χωρίον. Cf. ii. 75. 11; iv. 69. 10; v. 75. 22; 114. 3.

8. παραπλήσιον: often joined with more or less similar expressions, as ὁμοία καὶ παραπλήσια, i. 140. 5; ἴσον καὶ παραπλήσιον, c. 42. 10; τοιαῦτα καὶ παραπλήσια, c. 78. 4; i. 22. 18; παραπλήσια καὶ ἔτι πλείους, iii. 17. 3. Hence the addition καὶ οὐ πολλῷ πλέον is not objectionable here. The geographical designation, however, causes some difficulty, for the nearest border of Boeotia is by no means 120 stadia distant. The measurement was prob. taken on the road most used by the Athenians, that to Oropus, which was then in their possession. — 9. ἐπὶ τῷ πεδίῳ . . . ὥκοδομεῖτο τὸ τεῖχος: ἐπὶ with the dat. in the hostile sense of ἐπιτείχιζεν, c. 47. 15, and ἐπιτειχισμός, c. 18. 29; 28. 13, and of τῇ χώρᾳ ἐπικεῖτο, c. 27. 11. ἐς τὸ κακουργεῖν is added to explain the object still more clearly. Cf. vi. 12. 11, ἐς τὸ ἄρχειν. St. and Kr. strike out ἐς τὸ κακουργεῖν. — τῆς χώρας τοῖς κρατίστοις: the most fruitful parts of the Mesogaia, between Thria, Acharnae, Cephissia, and Oenoë, which on this very account were liable ἐς τὸ κακουργεῖν. — 10. ἐπιφανές: visible. See on vi. 96. 10. Cf. Xen. Hell. i. 1. 35, Ἄγεις δὲ ἐκ τῆς Δεκελείας ἰδὼν πλοῖα πολλὰ σίτου εἰς Πειραιᾶ καταθέοντα.

13. ἀπέστελλον: were dispatching. Cf. c. 20. 7; ii. 85. 10. — ταῖς ὁλκάσι: without the ἐν of c. 7. 12; 17. 10; 18. 30; 50. 6. The dat. indicates here, as in 29 below, the unusual means of transportation. — 14. τοὺς ὀπλίτας: those mentioned in c. 17. 4. — 15. τῶν Εἰλώτων . . . τοὺς βελτίστους: this use of Helots for foreign wars seems to have become customary after it had been introduced by Brasidas (iv. 80. § 2). — 16. νεοδαμῶδων: the class of new citizens formed of Helots emancipated for service in war. Cf. c. 58. 12; viii. 5. 7. They are first mentioned in v. 34. 6. See Schoemann, Griech. Alterthümer, I. p. 205 ff. The accent is acc. to Herod. I. 428, 13.

later edit., against the Mss., following the constant usage of Thuc. The phrase means inter primos, and occurs nine times in Thuc. H. 652 a; Kühn. 349^b, 7. See on i. 6. 6. Acc. to c. 17. 13, 25, ships had already been dispatched, though not to Sicily. See below, 26. — ὀρμήσαντες: = ὀρμηθέντες, though less freq. Cf. iii. 24. 1; iv. 36. 6; 90. 15. — 21. ἀφῆκαν: sc. τὰς ναῦς; in Thuc. only here, and likewise once in Hdt. (vii. 193. 13). ἀφιέναι seems to have been used on account of the bolder voyage through the open sea (ἐς τὸ πέλαγος) without touching at Corcyra and the Italian coast, as ships coming out of the Corinthian Gulf usually did. Further particulars about these vessels are given in c. 50. On the form of the aor., see App. — 23. ἄρχοντα . . . προστάξαντες: the expression occurs in four other places in Thuc., viz.: iii. 26. 3; vi. 93. 8; viii. 23. 21; 39. 13. See App. on iii. 26. 3. — 25. Σικυνῶ- νιοι: but ἀναγκαστοὶ στρατεύοντες (c. 58. 17), since the Lacedaemonians had forced an oligarchical constitution on them (v. 81. § 2).

26. αἱ δὲ . . . ἀνθώρμουν: cf. c. 17. § 4; 31. § 4. — 28. ταῖς εἴκοσιν Ἀττικάις: the squadron regularly stationed at Naupactus, not the 20 triremes (c. 17. § 2) which were to watch the whole coast of the Peloponnese. — 29. αὐτοῖς: dat. of interest in loose relation, as in i. 6. 8; 48. 9; iii. 98. 9. G. 184, 3, n. 4; H. 771. — 30. καὶ τὸ πρῶτον: from the very beginning they had been intended for this duty. — 31. ὅπως μὴ . . . τὸν νοῦν ἔχωσι: the same const. also in viii. 8. 16. Cf. iii. 22. 29.

20. About the same time the Athenians send out a second fleet of 30 ships under Charicles to the coast of the Peloponnese; and Demosthenes with 65 triremes, 1200 hoplites, some islanders, and military stores, to Sicily.

 περιέμενε καὶ τὸν Χαρικλέα τοὺς Ἀργεῖους παραλαβεῖν.

is found only in Vat., is necessary in opp. to καὶ τὸν Δημοσθένην in 6. On the contrary, the isolated τε in 5, after Ἀργείων, is inadmissible.—3. Χαρικλέα: later, one of the Thirty, acc. to Xen. Hell. ii. 3. 2.—ἔστειλαν: they dispatched (aor.). He set out immediately, but was detained in Argos attending to the duty assigned him.—5. παρακαλεῖν: usual term for a summons for military aid. Cf. ii. 96. 8; v. 6. 18.

7. ἀπέστελλον: they were preparing to send; impf., as from the extent of the preparations delay was to be expected, and, indeed, is mentioned in 14 and c. 26. 1 ff.—8. ἐκ καταλόγου: to be connected with ὀπλίταις. See on c. 16. 7.—9. ὅσοις . . . χρήσασθαι: "as many as they could possibly get into their service." χρήσασθαι (aor.) = convertere in usum. GMT. 19, n. 1; H. 841. Cf. i. 6. 14.—11. τῶν ὑπηκόων: i.e. those who furnished neither troops, nor ships in natura. Cf. c. 57. 13; i. 19. 6; 99. 11.—12. ξυμπορίσαντες: as the simple πορίζειν (c. 18. 31) = conquerere; elsewhere in the mid. (viii. 1. 24: 4. 3).—εἶρητο δ' αὐτῷ . . . περιπλέοντα ξυστρατεύεσθαι: this clause after the one above (4), ᾧ εἶρητο ἀφικόμενῳ παρακαλεῖν, shows quite strikingly the freedom of const. The partic. usually takes the form of the acc. with inf. when placed at any distance from a dat. belonging to leading verb. G. 138, n. 8; Kr. Spr. 55, 2, 7.

15. ὑπελείπετο: St. writes ὑπελείπειτο acc. to c. 33. 27, εἴ τις ὑπελείπειτο ἐξετάσαι. But in c. 33. 27 examination is to be made whether any one had purposely remained behind; here Demosthenes proposes if any person or thing had not been ready, was still behind, to wait for it. With the impf. here in the sense of continued waiting, cf. i. 11. 9, τοῖς ἀεὶ ὑπολειπομένοις, the pres. partic. of continued occurrence.—16. τὸν Χαρικλέα . . .

παλαβεῖν: Schol. ἀπὸ κοινού τὸ περι-ἔμενε. The same const. occurs after ἐπιμένειν in iii. 2. 7.

21. In Syracuse Gylippus and Her-mocrates vie with one another in the effort to put all their forces into the best condition, and especially to incite the Syracusans to naval warfare.

1. ὑπὸ τοὺς αὐτοὺς χρόνους τούτου τοῦ ἥρος: cf. iv. 2. 1.—2. ὁ Γύλιππος ἦκεν: i.e. from the interior of Sicily. Cf. c. 7. § 2.

6. ἀπόπειραν: the noun found only here in Att.; the verb ἀποπειρᾶν also in c. 17. 15; 36. 2, and in mid. iv. 24.
 7. ἀπόπειραν λαμβάνειν = ἀπόπειραν ποιῆσθαι, to make trial of a sea-fight, as in Hdt. viii. 9. 7. Cf. iii. 20. 20, τὴν ξυμμέτρησιν τῶν κλιμάκων ἔλαβον; Plat. Prot. 348 a, πείραν ἀλλήλων λαμβάνοντες.—ἀπ' αὐτοῦ: Schol., τοῦ ναυμαχεῖν.—7. κατεργάσασθαι: Cl.
 thinks the aor. inf. as appropriate after ἐλπίζειν (cf. iv. 13. 4; 24. 10; 80. 3) as after ἐλπίς (ii. 80. 10; iii.
 32. 13; v. 9. 27). St. (Qu. Gr. p. 7) has adopted here and everywhere after ἐλπίζειν either the fut. inf. or the
 aor. inf. with ἄν. Cl. thinks the aor. inf.

corresponds to the success confidently expected from the means specifically referred to (ἀπ' αὐτοῦ).

8. ξυνανέπειθε οὐχ ἥκιστα τοῦ ταῖς ναυσὶ μὴ ἀθυμεῖν [ἐπιχειρήσειν] πρὸς τοὺς Ἀθηναίους: ξυνανέπειθε occurs also in vi. 88. 48. St. is doubtless right in thinking ἐπιχειρήσειν a gloss (Qu. Gr. p. 8 and Symb. Philol. Bonn.
 p. 388); for the fut. inf. is inappropriate and the connexion with πρὸς without parallel. On the other hand, τοῦ . . . ἀθυμεῖν (for which St. writes αὐτοὺς μὴ . . . ἀθυμεῖν) is not to be given up. It expresses the object of the persuasion: and Hermocrates es- pecially joined in persuading them, to prevent them from being without confidence against the Athenians on sea.
 GMT. 95. 1; H. 990. See on i. 4. 6.
 For Cl.'s explanation, see App.— 9. ἀθυμεῖν πρὸς τοὺς Ἀθηναίους: cf.
 ii. 88. 11.—11. αἰδίων: usually understood of the past, but rather to be referred to the fut. in contrast with πάτριον, even their maritime skill was not hereditary, nor would it last forever.
 So Dem. uses ἀθάνατον (iv. 8), μὴ ὡς ναι ἄδαντα. — ἔχεν, ἡγερώτας: on the omission of ἀλλ', see App. — 13. οἷους καὶ Ἀθηναίους: for the attraction of case as well as the proleptic use of καὶ in a rel. clause, cf. vi. 68. 9. G. 153, n. 5; H. 1002; Kr. Spr. 62, 4, 3; Kühn. 555, 3. — 14. καὶ αὐτούς: this reading has been adopted by Cl., instead of the vulgate ἂν αὐτοῖς (of which ἂν is wanting in many Mss., while αὐτούς is read in some). The sense is, "in combat against bold men, such as the Athenians are, those who with boldness go against them appear also themselves the most formidable (enemies)." καὶ αὐτοὺς as in i. 50. 18, and often. χαλεπωτάτους καὶ αὐτοὺς φαίνεσθαι is explained in the following sent. and finally repeated in other words: καὶ σφᾶς ἂν τὸ αὐτὸ (sc. τὸ φοβεῖν αὐτούς) τοῖς ἐναντίοις ὑποσχεῖν. St. omits both ἂν and αὐτοῖς. Kr. and Bm. take πρὸς τοὺς ἄνδρας with τοὺς ἀντιτολμῶντας (cf. 19) and refer αὐτοῖς to ἄνδρας, which seems quite reasonable.

— 15. ᾧ γὰρ ἐκεῖνοι . . . ὑποσχεῖν: Schol., ᾧ γὰρ ἐκεῖνοι, φησί, φοβοῦσι τοὺς πέλας, τούτῳ διὰ θράους καὶ οὐχὶ διὰ δυνάμεως ὑπεροχὴν, τούτῳ ἂν καὶ ὑπὸ Συρακοσίων ἐκφοβήσεσθαι τοὺς Ἀθηναίους. With the const., ᾧ, τὸ αὐτὸ, cf. iii. 12. 4. The acc. σφᾶς, instead of σφεῖς, though referring to the subj. of the leading verb, as in iii. 111. 13; vi. 49. 9; 96. 5; viii. 32. 15. ὑποσχεῖν in the sense of ἐμβαλεῖν is very unusual and without parallel in Thuc. St. compares Pind. Ol. 2. 54, πλοῦτος βαθεῖαν ὑπέχων μέριμναν.

19. ἀπροσδοκῆτως: the adv. only here and iv. 29. 17; elsewhere the adj. — 20. πλέον τι: so Vat., instead of πλέον, as in ii. 11. 32; v. 109. 4. — περιγενησομένους: reading of Vat. for περιεσομένους. This and βλάψοντας are supplementary partic. in ind. disc. with εὖ εἰδέναι. GMT. 113; H. 982.

24. Ἑρμοκράτους καὶ εἰ τοῦ ἄλλου: unusual assimilation of the pron. Pp. compares Soph. Aj. 487, ἐξέφυν πατὴρς εἴπερ τινὲς σθένοντος. Kr. Spr.

60, 10, 2. — 25. ὥρμητό τε ἐς κτέ.: cf. ii. 65. 5; viii. 40. 19; 47. 17.

22. Thereupon Gylippus attacks Plennyrium from the land side, while simultaneously 80 triremes sail out of the two harbours against the fleet of the Athenians. The latter, with 60 ships, stubbornly resist.

1. παρεσκευάσατο: St. has adopted from two Mss. παρεσκεύαστο, on the ground that Gylippus did not himself prepare the fleet. But it is sufficient that he had general direction in the matter. — 2. ἀγαγὼν στρατιάν: very generally used of setting out with an army. Cf. c. 84. 2; iv. 93. 3. He set out under cover of night (ὑπὸ νύκτα) and waited until the expected sea-fight should offer the favourable moment for attack. Cf. c. 23. § 1. — αὐτὸς μὲν . . . ἐμελλε . . . αἱ δὲ τριήρεις . . . ἐπέπλεον . . . περιέπλεον: paratactic const., "while he held himself ready for an attack by land, the two divisions of ships made a simultaneous onset." — 4. αἱ δὲ τριήρεις τῶν Συρακοσίων: the whole 80, after which follow the parts in the same case. See on ii. 95. 5; iii. 13. 17. — ἅμα καὶ ἀπὸ ξυνθήματος: at the same time and on a preconcerted signal. Cf. iv. 67. 20; vi. 61. 10. — 6. αἱ δὲ πέντε: Cl. explains the art. as signifying the fleet that is ready and stationed in definite number in the smaller harbour, while the 35 triremes from the greater harbour do not comprise all the ships that are getting ready there. But better St. the remainder, the art., which has the same force as in τὰ δὲ δύο, c. 24. 4, and in αἱ δὲ ἑνδεκα, c. 25. 6, implying that the whole number was 80. Kr. Spr. 50, 2, 8. — 7. τὸ νεώριον: the harbour of the war-ships with the necessary appurtenances of wharves and docks. See Holm, II. p. 382. — περιέπλεον: i.e. around the old city (the Nasos). On the omission of καὶ before περιέπλεον, see App. — 8. πρὸς τὰς ἐντὸς προσμῖξαι: Schol., ταῖς ἰδίαις ταῖς ἐντὸς τοῦ μεγάλου λιμένος συμμῖξαι. — 9. ἀμφοτέρωθεν: i.e. both by land and sea. We find it with θορυβεῖσθαι also in iii. 26. 5; v. 10. 33.

10. ἀντιπληρώσαντες: having manned

11. ταῖς μὲν, ταῖς δ' ἐπιλοίποις: the art. with numbers used as parts of a whole. See on 6 above. Cf. i. 116.

 who uses elsewhere ὑπόλοιπος.—16.
 οἱ μὲν: sc. οἱ Συρακοσίοι.

23. Gylippus by a sudden onset gets possession of the three forts on Plemmyrium; but the Syracusan fleet is beaten by the Athenian, and suffers considerable loss.

1. ἐν τούτῳ: the battle at sea began before daylight, for when at daybreak (ἔμα τῇ ἔφ, 4) Gylippus advanced to the attack, the Athenians had already been for some time looking on the sea-fight.—2. ἐπικατα-βάντων: going down to the very edge (of the water), as in c. 35. 9; 84. 19;
 iv. 11. 2.—3. φθάνει προσπεσών: i.e.
 before the Athenians could arm themselves to resist.—5. ἔπειτα δὲ καὶ τὰ ἐλάσσω δύο: the decisive success is briefly announced first; the details and results are described afterwards in 7 with καὶ μὲν and in 11 with ἐπειδὴ δέ.—6. τῶν φυλάκων: the garrison stationed there. Cf. c. 43. 22.

7. ἐκ τοῦ πρώτου ἀλόντος: from that which was first taken. For the pred.
 adj. between the art. and its partic., see Kr. Spr. 50, 12, 1. Cl. writes (against the Mss.) πρῶτον, taking it
 adv. both here and in 5. But even if it be not an adj. in 5, as St. claims (cf. vi. 66. 13), that would not be proof that it is not one here.—8. ἐς τὰ πλοῖα: which acc. to c. 4. 26 lay there at anchor under the protection of the fortifications of Plemmyrium.—ἐς τὸ στρατόπεδον: i.e. into the chief camp of the Athenian army near the double wall and close to the great harbour.
 See on c. 4. 24 and Holm, II. p. 395.

ναυμαχίᾳ: as the Syracusans still had the advantage against the Att. ships, they could spare one trireme for the pursuit of the fleeing garrison of the larger fort. — 11. ἐπειδὴ . . . ἡλίσκετο: exact statement of the simultaneous (impf.) occurrences at two different points: "at the time when the two smaller forts fell into the hands of the Syracusan land troops, the Syracusan fleet was already losing the day, so that the Athenian garrisons from the smaller forts, who were fleeing along the coast in boats, could no longer be pursued by the Syracusans." How this change in the sea-fight had come about is then described from 14 (αἱ γὰρ τῶν Συρακοσίων κτί.) to the end of the chap.

14. αἱ πρὸ τοῦ στόματος νῆες ναυμαχοῦσαι: i.e. αἱ ἐκ τοῦ νεωρίου περιπλέουσαι. Cf. c. 22. 13. Thuc. is fond of placing the attrib. partic. after the noun, when other words are added. Kr. Spr. 50, 10, 3. See on i. 11. 19. — 16.

οὐδεὶν κόσμῳ: cf. c. 40. 10; 84. 9; iii. 108. 16; also πολλῷ κόσμῳ in viii. 99. 13. — ταραχθεῖσαι περὶ ἀλλήλας: = ἐν ἀλλήλαις (ii. 65. 50), or ἐν σφίσιν αὐταῖς (c. 67. 14; 84. 18), or προσπίπτουσαι ἀλλήλας (c. 36. 33). — 17. παρέδοσαν τὴν νίκην: gave away the victory, as in viii. 71. 3, τὴν παλαιὰν ἐλευθερίαν παραδῶσειν. — ταύτας τε . . . ἐνικῶντο: "for they routed not only these (who had fallen into disorder), but also those by whom they were at first worsted inside the harbour." On this co-ordination of the rel. clause with the dem., see Kr. Spr. 51, 13, 5. — 18. ἐν τῷ λιμένι: i.e. ἐν τῷ μεγάλῳ λιμένι (10).

20. πλὴν ὅσον: limiting in adv. sense the preceding, except, with which we must supply τοὺς ἀνθρώπους, to which οὓς refers. In c. 62. 18 (πλὴν ὅσον ἂν ὁ περὶ ἡμῶν ἐπέχρ) the grammatical connexion is closer. — 23. ἐν τῷ νησιδίῳ: it cannot be certainly determined whether this is Issola del

24. The loss of Plemmyrium is the more grievous to the Athenians, since large quantities of naval stores and ship material, as well as three triremes which had been drawn up on land, fall into the hands of the enemy.

1. οὕτως ἐπεπράγεσαν: had fared thus, used esp., as here, of unfavourable events, if the contrary is not expressed. Cf. ii. 4. 33. — 3. τροπαία ἔστησαν αὐτῶν: sc. τῶν ἀλλότων τειχῶν. Cf. c. 41. 12; 54. 1; ii. 82. 8; iv. 12. 8; vi. 98. 20. Kr. c. 25. 7, military stores. For the facts, cf. Diod. xiii. 9, Plut. Nic. 20. — τὰ ξύμπαντα: all together. Kr. Spr. 50, 11, 13. Cf. c. 1. 31. — ὥσπερ: Cl. and St., for ὥστε of the Mss., which is nowhere used comparatively in Att. prose. ἔτε, which Bk. and Kr. write, would be admissible acc. to v. 72. 1; but ὥσπερ is more like the vulgate, and is supported also by the imitation of the passage in Jos. Antiquities, xviii. 9, ἐχρῶντο ὥσπερ ταμειῶ ταῖςδε ταῖς πόλεσιν. — ταμειῶ χρωμένων: in the same sense as vi. 97. 27, τοῖς τε σκεύεσι καὶ τοῖς χρήμασιν ἀποθήκη. For the facts, cf. c. 4. 25. — 9. τῶν τριηράρχων: the art., added from Vat., because the trierarchs are a class belonging together, as opp. to ἔμποροι, who came together by chance. — 11. ἐγκατελήφθη: sc. ἐν τοῖς τείχεσι. Cf. c. 30. 13; iv. 116. 4.

μέγιστον ὀφελῆσειν; Xen. An. iii. 1. 38, μέγα ὀνήσαι. — τε: Vat., for δέ, not correlative to καί, but resumptive, as in i. 4. 5; 67. 3. — ἐν τοῖς πρώτοις: see on c. 19. 19. — 13. οὐδ' ἔσπλοι: with Vat. for οὐδ' οἱ ἔσπλοι, because the statement is general; but in 16 αἱ ἐσκομιδαί, because the context renders it definite. — 14. τῆς ἐπαγωγῆς τῶν ἐπιτηδείων: abstract for the concrete = τῶν ἐπαγομένων ἐπιτηδείων. Cf. v. 82. 24. — 16. διὰ μάχης: only by fighting. — ἐς τὰλλα: favourite expression of Thuc. Cf. c. 7. 15; 77. 8; i. 1. 14; 6. 15; 36. 13. — 17. παρέσχε: the subj. is ἡ τοῦ Πλημμυρίου λῆψις.

25. The Syracusans dispatch ships and intercept some supplies sent out to the Athenians, and by the announcement of their success arouse their Peloponnesian allies to lend further assistance. Before Syracuse both sides seek by all manner of attacks to do each other as much harm as possible, and especially violent is the contest about the palisade built by the Syracusans for the protection of their ships. The Syracusans send ambassadors to the Sicel cities to try to arouse them to take a more active part in the war.

3. ὥχeto: here, as always (c. 7. 6; 12. 3; 46. 6), expressive of haste. This one ship had separated immediately from the rest, and set off with all haste on its voyage to the Peloponnese. — 4. ὅπως . . . γίνεσθαι: ὅπως from Vat., instead of ὥστε, has been adopted by the later edit. The rel. pron. with the subjv. of purpose cannot be established in Att. τε, likewise from Vat., is indispensable, as τὰ σφέτερα is contrasted with ἐκεῖ πόλεμον. ἐν ἐλπίσι as below in 43; c. 46. 6; i. 74. 22, iv. 70. 20. Cf. ἐς ἐλπίδα ἐλθεῖν, ii. 56. 12. — 6. αἱ ἔνδεκα: see on c. 22. 6. — τὴν Ἰταλίαν: in Thuc. used only of the peninsula south of the river Laus and Metapontum. See on vi. 2. 19; i. 12. 14. — 7. χρημάτων γέμοντα: the order of Vat. more forcible than the Vulgate γέμοντα χρημάτων. For χρήματα, see on c. 24. 7.

8. τῶν πλοίων: the gen. with ἐπιδιέφθειραν καὶ ξύλα ναυπηγήσιμα ἐν τῇ Καυλωνιάτιδι 10 κατέκασαν, ἃ τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις ἐτόιμα ἦν. ἔς τε Λοτυχάνειν unusual. Cf. iii. 3. 23; Xen. Oec. 2. 3; 12. 20; Plat. Phil. 61 d; Ar. Plut. 245. — 9. Καυλωνιάτιδι: the district of Caulonia north of Locri Epizephyrii, on the edge of the Sila forest, which produced much building timber and pitch. Cf. Strabo, vi. 1. 9.

12. μία τῶν ὀλκάδων . . . ὀπλίτας: prob. one of the fleet which sailed from Taenarum (c. 19. § 3, 4), among the commanders of which was also a Thespian named Hegesander. This ship perhaps lost its course on the voyage διὰ πελάγους, and thus was detained longer than the others. The Thespians are reckoned with the Boeotians in c. 19. § 3.

14. φυλάξαντες δ' αὐτοὺς: Schol. τηρήσαντες καιρὸν ἐς τὸ ἐπιθέσθαι αὐτοῖς. Cf. c. 4. 36, πέμπει ἐς φυλακὴν αὐτῶν. — 15. πρὸς τοῖς Μεγάροις: the Hyblæan Megara. See on vi. 4. 8. — 16. αὐτοῖς ἀνδράσι: dat. of accompaniment. G. 188, 5 n.; H. 774 a. Cf. ii. 90. 26; iv. 14. 6; viii. 102. 15. — 17. οὐκ ἡδυνήθησαν: sc. λαμβάνειν. — ἄλλ' ἀποφεύγουσιν: for change of subj., see on i. 26. 17.

20. πρὸ τῶν παλαιῶν νεωσοίκων: the regular dockyard (νεώριον) of the Syracusans was, acc. to c. 22. § 1, in the smaller harbour. But for the protection of the ships temporarily lying in port there were ship-houses also on the shore of the great harbour, under which every ship found shelter. In time of peace they needed no further protection; but now the Syracusans had built a palisade to defend them from the attacks of the Athenians. — 21. ἐντὸς ὀρμοῖεν: i.e. behind the protecting palisade. ἐντὸς is similarly used in c. 5. 14; ii. 83. 26; vi. 67. 9; 75. 2.

23. προσαγαγόντες γὰρ κτέ.: in explanation of περὶ τῶν σταυρῶν ἀκροβολισμός in 19. — μυριοφόρον: since τοῖς οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι, πύργους τε ξυλίνους ἔχουσαν καὶ πα-25 ραφράγματα, ἔκ τε τῶν ἀκάτων ὤνευον ἀναδούμενοι τοὺς

the reading seems to be established (occurring also in Poll. ii. 82 and Strab. xvii. i. 26), we must take a talent as unit of measure, and interpret, "a ship of 10,000 talents burden." Cf. iv. 118. 28, πλοῖον ἐς πεντακόσια τάλαντα ἄγοντι μέτρα; also Hdt. i. 194. 17; ii. 96. 16. Lobeck's conjecture μυριαμόρον (Ad Phryn. p. 663) is therefore to be rejected. — αὐτοῖς: sc. τοῖς σταυροῖς (Schol. τοῖς σταυρώμασι δηλονότι). — 24. πύργους τε . . . καὶ παραφράγματα: this vessel of about 258 tons (if the talents were Att., or 357, if Aeginetan), with its wooden towers and bulwarks (παραφράγματα, also iv. 115. 7), served as a floating fortress for the troops. From its deck they repelled the attacks of the enemy and protected the operations of their own men (οἱ δ' ἐκ τῆς ὀλκάδος ἀντέβαλλον in 27). These operations consisted in the attempt, made from the smaller boats, partly to fasten cords to the stakes and then to pull them out with windlasses, partly to dive under the water and saw them off. See App.

29. τῆς σταυρώσεως ἡ κρύφιος: the hidden part of the palisade, after the analogy of ἡ πλεῖστος τῆς στρατιάς, c. 3. 15. — 31. ὑπερέχοντας: as in iii. 23. 26. — 32. μὴ οὐ προῖδὼν τις . . . περιβάλλῃ τὴν ναῦν: dependent on δεινὸν ἦν and explanatory of προσπλεῦσαι. οὐ belongs only to προῖδων. ἔρμα is a rock. Cf. Hdt. vii. 183. 6, where ἐπελαύνειν is used, as here περιβάλλειν. — 34. μισθοῦ: for pay. Cf. iv. 124. 22; v. 6. 7. The word indicates that the κολυμβηταί (also iv. 26. 28) were esp. trained for their business.

35. οἷον εἰκὸς: elliptical, as οἷα εἰκὸς in ii. 54. 3; vi. 69. 15. — 37. πείραις: stratagems, found in pl. only here, though the sense is the same as in iii. 20. 8.

38. ἐς τὰς πόλεις: sc. τῶν Συκελιω-

- οιοι Κορινθίων καὶ Ἀμπρακιωτῶν καὶ Λακεδαιμονίων, 40 ἀγγέλλοντας τήν τε τοῦ Πλημμυρίου λήψιν καὶ τῆς ναυ-μαχίας περὶ ὡς οὐ τῇ τῶν πολεμίων ἰσχύϊ μᾶλλον ἢ τῇ σφετέρᾳ ταραχῇ ἡσσηθεῖεν, τά τε ἄλλα δηλώσοντας ὅτι ἐν ἐλπίσιν εἰσὶ καὶ ἀξιώσοντας ξυμβοθεῖν ἐπ' αὐτοὺς καὶ ναυσὶ καὶ πεζῷ, ὡς καὶ τῶν Ἀθηναίων προσδοκί-45 μων ὄντων ἄλλη στρατιᾷ, καὶ ἣν φθάσωσιν αὐτοὶ πρότερον διαφθείραντες τὸ παρὸν στράτευμα αὐτῶν, διαπεπολεμησόμενον. καὶ οἱ μὲν ἐν τῇ Σικελίᾳ ταῦτα ἔπρασσον.
- 26 Ὁ δὲ Δημοσθένης, ἐπεὶ ξυνέλεγε αὐτῷ τὸ στρα- 1
 τευμα ὃ ἔδει ἔχοντα ἐς τὴν Σικελίαν βοθηεῖν, ἄρας ἐκ

τῶν. They hoped to make most impression on these through ambassadors from the Dorian cities of Hellas. The result of the mission is stated in c. 32. — 40. ἀγγέλλοντας: the rather unusual pres. partic. of purpose (as in c. 3. 4; iii. 52. 11; vi. 88. 62), with which are connected δηλώσοντας and ἀξιώσοντας (42, 43), forming subord. explanatory clauses. — 41. οὐ . . . μᾶλλον ἢ: not . . . so much, as, the first member being completely subordinated, as in i. 73. 17. — 42. τά τε ἄλλα δηλώσοντας . . . καὶ ἀξιώσοντας: the ultimate main object is brought out more forcibly by the position of τά τε ἄλλα. The connexion would be disturbed by αὐτῶν, which is inserted before δηλώσοντας in all the Mss. except Vat. It was perhaps a marginal note of some reader, referring to 4 above. — 43. ἐπ' αὐτούς: sc. τοὺς Ἀθηναίους. — 44. ὡς . . . προσδοκίμων ὄντων: the expectation of this danger, which could be averted only by timely help, was to be the excuse for the demand (ὡς). — 45. ἄλλη στρατιᾷ: cf. c. 16. 6. — αὐτοί:

Cl. explains in his last edit., "they alone, the Syracusans, without the help of the others." But this does not agree with the request just referred to. The contrast is between the Athenians on the one side (αὐτῶν), and the Syracusans and their allies on the other (αὐτοί). — 46. διαπεπολεμησόμενον: so Vat. (which is more forcible than διαπολεμησόμενον of the vulgate), there would be an end of the war. Cf. c. 14. 18, and Liv. xxiii. 13, debellatum mox fore, si adniti paulum voluissent, rebantur. The impers. partic. in acc. abs. with ὡς is co-ord. with the gen. abs., as in c. 15. 7.

26. Demosthenes joins Charicles on the coast of Argolis. The two ravage some places in Laconia, and fortify a point on the coast opposite Cythera, in order to furnish an asylum for fugitive Helots and a starting-point for predatory excursions. Thereupon Demosthenes continues his journey to Sicily. Charicles, however, after further strengthening the fort, turns back to Athens.

1. ἐπεὶ ξυνέλεγε αὐτῷ: cf. c. 17.

§ 1; 20. § 3. αὐτῷ is not for ὑπ' αὐτοῦ, but dat. of advantage, corresponding to the idea of περιέμενε in c. 20. 16. — 3. πρὸς τὴν Πελοπόννησον: indefinite, to the coast in general, not to any special point; in 6, εἰς τὴν Λακωνικὴν, definite, with the intention of engaging in some enterprise there. — τῷ Χαρικλεῖ: who in the meanwhile had performed his task (παρακαλεῖν Ἀργείων ὀπλίτας, c. 20. 5). The παραλαβεῖν (c. 20. 16) is now carried out by Demosthenes and Charicles together.

7. Ἐπιδαύρου τι τῆς Λιμηρᾶς: Epidaurus Limera was situated on a well-protected bay among the spurs of the Zarax mountains. Cf. iv. 56. 10. See Curtius, Pelop. II. p. 292. — 8. τὰ καταντικρὺ Κυθήρων τῆς Λακωνικῆς: the part of Laconia opposite Cythera. — τὸ ἱερὸν τοῦ Ἀπόλλωνος:

the site is not certainly known. See Curtius, Pelop. II. p. 330, Rem. 75. —

10. ἰσθμῶδες τι χωρίον: prob. the Ὀνογνάθος (Paus. iii. 23. 1), now Elaphonisi. See Curtius, ibid., and Bursian, II. p. 140. — 12. ὥσπερ ἐκ τῆς Πύλου: cf. iv. 41. § 2; v. 14. § 3.

13. ξυγκατέλαβε: i.e. with Charicles, whose operations on the coast of the Peloponnese he was to support (εἰρητοῦ δ' αὐτῷ . . . ἐυστρατεύεσθαι, c. 20. 12). — 14. παρέπλει: sailed along the coast. This is the usual word, though most of the Mss. read ἐπέπλει; Vat. ἐπιπαρέπλει, which is evidently only a slip of the pen. — τῶν ἐκείθεν ξυμμάχων: the part. gen. as in iv. 80. 7. G. 170, 1; H. 736. — 16. ἕως . . . ἐξετείχισε: until he had completed the fortification of the place. Schol. εἰς τέλος ἤγαγεν. Cf. c. 4. 25; iv. 4. 4; 45. 11. — 18. καὶ αὐτός: i.e. as Demosthenes before. It refers only to ἀπεκομίζετο (iii. 81. 4; iv. 96. 35).

27. A corps of 1300 Thracian mercenaries arriving after Demosthenes's departure is sent back. Description of the evils that Athens suffered from the occupation of Decelea.

1. Θρακῶν τῶν μαχαιροφόρων τοῦ Διακοῦ γένους: in μαχαιροφόρων we have the characteristic mark of the Thracians. Cf. ii. 96. 10; Xen. Cyrop. vi. 2. 10; Aesch. Pers. 56 (τὸ μαχαιροφόρον ἔθνος ἐκ πάσης Ἀσίας ἔπεται). Tac. Ann. iii. 38 mentions the Dii along with the Odrusae. — 2. τοῦ αὐτοῦ θέρους τούτου: so Vat. for the vulgate, ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ θέρει τούτῳ, the gen. indicating the time within which anything takes place, without definitely fixing the date, during this same summer. See on vi. 97. 1. — 3. ἔδει: as often, of an arrangement previously made. Cf. ii. 5. 1; 92. 24; iii. 95. 18; iv. 76. 17; v. 42. 4.

5. ὕστερον: too late. Cf. c. 29. 1; ii. 80. 35. — 6. ἀποπέμπειν: send back. ἀπο- as in ἀποδιδόναι. — ἔχειν: with pregnant force, retain. — πρὸς τὸν ἐκ τῆς Δεκελείας πόλεμον: i.e. against the incursions made from Decelea, not referring to ὁ Δεκελεῖκος πόλεμος proper. — 7. δραχμὴν: the usual pay of hoplites amounted to four obols. See Boeckh, P. E. p. 373. — 8. ἐλάμβανον: Vat. for ἐλάμβανεν. The subj. is οἱ Θράκες, and ἕκαστος is in pred. appos. to the pl. subj., as in ii. 87. 31; iii. 38. 24; iv. 80. 15; vi. 69. 19.

ἐπειδὴ . . . ἐπφκείτο: Cl. explains that the occupation (ἐπφκείτο) consisted of two parts: the first, the fortification of the place, expressed by means of the partic. clause (ὑπὸ . . . τειχισθεῖσα); the second, the military operations, expressed by the dat., φρουραῖς ἀπὸ τῶν πόλεων (sc. τῶν ξυμμάχων) κατὰ διαδοχὴν χρόνου ἐπιούσαις: "by means of garrisons which came in from the allied cities in fixed succession." But St. explains perhaps more clearly, that the first clause is really subord. to the second, though the two are co-ord. by μέν, δέ, and he cites in support iii. 82. § 1; vi. 69. § 1. Arn. understands, by Zeugma, from τειχισθεῖσα, κατεχομένη in the second clause. See App. Cl. connects τῇ χώρᾳ with ἐπιούσαις; but it seems better, with Arn. and St., to take it with ἐπφκείτο. Cf. vi. 86. 13, ἐποκοῦντες ἑμῖν; v. 51. 4, οὐ γὰρ ἐπ' ἄλλη

 26. 5, ἀξιόμαχον πόλιν ἐποικίσαι Λακεδαιμονίους. See on c. 19. 9.—12. ἔβλαπτε, ἐκάκωσε: the subj. is to be inferred from the foregoing clause, viz. τοῦτο, τὸ τὴν Δεκέλειαν ἐποικεῖσθαι.
 πολλὰ is cognate acc. See on c. 24.
 12.—ἐν τοῖς πρώτον: correctly restored by Bk. instead of πρώτοις. See on c. 19. 19.—13. ὀλέθρῳ: Kr. objects to this word with χρημάτων; but αἱ πρόσδοι ἀπώλλυντο in c. 28. 32 supports the present reading.

14. βραχεῖαι γιγνόμεναι αἱ ἐσβολαί:
 the five incursions of the first period of the war, of which the second (430 B.C.) was the longest, lasting 40 days (ii. 57. § 2), the fifth (425 B.C.) the shortest, lasting only 15 days (iv. 6.
 § 2).—16. ἐπικαθημένων: sc. τῶν ἐσβαλόντων.—ὅτε μὲν, ὅτε δέ = ποτὲ μὲν, ποτὲ δέ. This usage does not occur again till Arist. and the later writers.
 But cf. Plat. Phaed. 59 a, ὅτε μὲν, ἐνίοτε δέ; Theaet. 207 d, ὅτε μὲν, ποτὲ δέ; Xen.
Cyneg. 5. 8, ὅτε δέ. Kr. Spr. 25, 10, 12.
 —17. τῆς ἴσης φρουρᾶς: Cl. understands this, as opp. to καὶ πλεόνων ἐπιόντων, to mean the regular garrison furnished successively by the different cities (cf. 10, ἀπὸ τῶν πόλεων κατὰ διαδοχὴν χρόνον ἐπιούσαις). Schol., τῆς ἴσης φρουρᾶς, τῆς τεταγμένης δηλονότι.

 These had to provide for their own support and therefore κατέθεε τὴν χώ-ραν ἐξ ἀνάγκης, i.e. whenever there was need. St. explains cum modo eti-am plures invaderent, modo ex necessitate aequalis (i.e. quanta necessitate postulabatur) manus excursionem faceret. See App.—18. βασιλέως τε παρόντος:
 the third factor in the Decelean War.
 —20. ἐκ παρέργου: also i. 142. 25.
 Cf. ἐν παρέργῳ, vi. 69. 27; Soph. Phil.
 473.

21. τῆς χώρας: Schol., τῆς καρπίμου.—22. πλεόν ἢ δύο μυριάδες: Boeckh, P. E. p. 55, reckons the number of slaves in Athens in the most flourishing period at 365,000, so that the number here given does not seem incredible.—23. πολὺ μέρος:
 Vat. has τὸ πολὺ, but most of these slaves could hardly have been handi-craftsmen; for very many slaves would be required for household service. — χειροτέχναι: artisans of every kind.

 See App. to vi. 72. 10. — ἀπολάλει πάντα: so Vat., which is more expressive than πάντα ἀπολάλει of the rest of the Mss. — 24. ζεύγη: from Vat. instead of ὑποζύγια, since it would be natural acc. to Att. usage to choose for beasts of burden that term from which the citizens of the third class received their name, ζευγίται. — ὅσημέραι: adv. Kr. Spr. 51, 13, 15. — 27. ἐν γῇ . . . τάλαιπωροῦ-ντες: the two causes of lameness expressed in unlike manner; first by means of the prep. and its case, then with the partic. ξυνεχῶς τάλαιπωροῦντες, i.e. from the continual exertion. For same change of const., cf. iv. 26. 13.
 Kr. connects ἐν γῇ ἀποκρότῳ and ξυνεχῶς with τάλαιπωροῦντες. Either explanation might be correct.

28. Even the importation of provisions is made difficult for the Athenians; and they are oppressed by all the inconveniences of a siege at home, while they themselves continue to besiege Syracuse.
 In the extreme financial straits into which they have come, they seek relief by a tax of five per cent. on all wares imported and exported by sea.

1. ἣ τε τῶν ἐπιτηδείων παρακομιδὴ κτέ.: this is the last of the bad results (μεγὰλα ἐβλάπτοντο) of the occupation of Decelea that are recounted from c. 27. 21 on. τῶν πάντων ὁμοίως ἐπακτῶν ἐδεῖτο in 4 does not belong in the same rank with the preceding; it contains rather the ground of the last statement, and must therefore be introduced, not by τε, but by the exegetical δέ, as in i.

 26. 23; 55. 3; v. 10. 21. But St. claims that even with Cl.'s interpretation τε is more appropriate. The transportation of provisions from Euboea was more difficult and expensive, because they had to be brought around Sunium; nevertheless everything had to be imported, because the whole country was in the hands of the enemy, and out of it neither corn nor cattle could be got; and so (καὶ) Athens resembled in fact rather a fortress than an open city. — 2. κατὰ γῆν: all the Mss. have κατὰ γῆς, but κατὰ θάλασσαν shows that the acc. is required. — 3. θάσσον οὔσα: corresponds to ῥᾶον αὐτῇ ἐφαίνετο ἡ ἐκο-μιδὴ τῶν ἐπιτηδείων ἔσεσθαι in c. 4. 18.
 The Mss., even Vat., give θάσσω, but the adv. is the preferable expression.
 — 4. τῶν δὲ . . . ἐδεῖτο: = πάντα ὧν ἐδεῖτο ἐπακτὰ ἦν. The Schol. explains

- φρούριον κατέστη. πρὸς γὰρ τῇ ἐπάλξει τὴν μὲν ἡμέ-2 ραν κατὰ διαδοχὴν οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι φυλάσσοντες, τὴν δὲ

 τόν, οἱ δὲ δύο, οἱ δὲ τριῶν γε ἐτῶν, οὐδεὶς πλείω χρόνον ἐπακτῶν by εἰσαγωγίμων ἐξ ἀλλοδαπῆς. See on vi. 20. 20. It is pred. Kr. Spr. 57, 3, 3. — 6. φρούριον κατέστη: became a fortress, the verb used in the same sense as in i. 118. 3; ii. 65. 30; 89. 37.

πρὸς γὰρ τῇ ἐπάλξει: = παρ' ἐπαλξιν (ii. 13. 42). — 8. ἐφ' ὅπλους ποῦ: so Vat. correctly, instead of the meaningless ποιούμενοι, which perhaps crept into this place from the partic. in c. 27. 18, 26. δπλα means the camping places, watch-posts, which were in different parts of the city; hence the indef. ποῦ, "here and there." Cf. i. 111. 6; iii. 1. 7; vi. 64. 20.

12. τὸ γὰρ αὐτοὺς πολιορκουμένους κτλ.: the three infs. introduced by τό, ἀποστήναι in 14, ἀντιπολιορκεῖν in 15, and ποιῆσαι in 17 (the aors. of the simple occurrence, the pres. of continued activity) form the subj. of an incomplete period, the intention of which is already fulfilled in the inserted δσον clause. On this anacoluthon and the different attempts to remove it, see App. — 15. τῷ αὐτῷ τρόπῳ: sc. ἐπιτειχισμῶ, for as such, i.e. as the building a fort on an enemy's frontier, was also the attack of the Athenians on Syracuse to be regarded. — 17. παράλογον: miscalculation. Thuc. uses this form eight times, παρὰ λόγον five times, and there are four places where it is doubtful which form should be preferred. See on i. 65. 3. — 18. δσον: Cl. explains it as giving the measure after τοσοῦτον (here with finite verbs following; in iii. 49. § 4 with inf. as well as finite verb), and since the measure is to be deduced from the difference between the expectation (ἐνόμζον) and the present result (ἔτει ἑπτακαίδεκάτῳ ἐς Σικελίαν ἦλθον) he claims that δστε cannot be correct, and conjectures δμως δέ. But it is better, with Kr., Arn., and St., to take both δσον and δστε as giving the measure after τοσοῦτον, and interpret δσον, quatenus, in so far as. See App. — 19. οἱ ζων ὁ πόλεμος ἦν, αἱ δὲ πρόσοδοι ἀπώλλυντο.

δὲ τριῶν γε ἐτῶν, οὐδεὶς πλείῳ χρόνον: the two parts of the phrase are to be closely connected in reading, so that the gen. τριῶν ἐτῶν will be seen to depend on χρόνον. Possibly οὐδεὶς δέ would make the connexion clearer, unless Kr. and St. are right in removing the comma after ἐτῶν, thus making οὐδεὶς part. appos. to οἱ δέ ("no one of the rest").—20. περιοίσειν: hold out, a use of the word, which does not occur again till the later writers. It combines the force of περιέσεσθαι and ἀνθέξειν (Suid.).—21. ἑπτακαιδεκάτῳ: the same form in iv. 101. 1.—τὴν πρώτην ἐσβολήν: cf. ii. 19.—23. τετρυχωμένοι: found in Thuc. only in the pres. and pf. pass. partic. Cf. iv. 60. 13. See on i. 126. 24.—προσανείλοντο: προσ- with adv. force, insuper.

24. δι' ἃ: for all these reasons, to which καὶ τότε . . . προσπιπτόντων adds still a further cause. The ἄλλα ἀναλώματα were recounted from c. 27. § 4 to c. 28. § 1.—25. ὑπὸ τῆς Δεκελείας πολλὰ βλαπτούσης: the partic. with the force of the verbal subst., as in c. 42. 10; iii. 20. 3; 29. 9; iv. 29. 9.—26. ἀδύνατοι τοῖς χρήμασι: Schol., ἡγουν ἐνδεεῖς χρημάτων ἐγένοντο. The const. is not elsewhere found, but is warranted by kindred expressions, as χρήμασι δυνατοὶ in i. 13. 19; δυνάμενος τοῖς χρήμασι, Lys. vi. 48.—27. τὴν εἰκοστήν: with regard to this impost on exports and imports, see Boeckh, P. E. p. 434. It continued perhaps till the end of the Peloponnesian War. See Boeckh, l. c.—κατὰ: Cl. reads κατὰ from Vat. alone, but the Schol. reads ὑπὸ κατὰ, and explains it by κατὰ (ὑπὸ κατὰ).—28. ἀντὶ τοῦ φόρου: cf. i. 96. 7; ii. 13. 23; v. 18. 22.—29. ἐποίησαν: of the introduction of a tax is not found elsewhere. St. writes, on Badham's conjecture, ἐπέθεσαν; Cl. prefers ἐπέταξαν, comparing i. 139. 2; 140. 18; ii. 7. 10.—31. καὶ πρὶν: as in vi. 11. 5.—καθέστασαν: see on 6.—32. αἱ δὲ πρόσοδοι ἀπώλλυντο: dependent on ὅσῳ and closely connected with μείζων ὁ πόλεμος ἦν, and the revenues kept failing.

29. The Thracian mercenaries who are sent back, betake themselves, on the way home, to robberies and cruelties on the Boeotian coast, especially in Mycalessus.

1. τῷ Δημοσθένει: dat. of advantage (cf. c. 26. 1), since they were intended as reinforcements for him. Cf. c. 27. § 1. — 3. δαπανᾶν: i.e. to be at great expense on account of them. Cf. c. 27. § 2. — ἀπέπεμπον: for the use of the impf., see on c. 20. 7. Kühn. 383, 3, takes it as equiv. to the aor. That they returned by ship is shown by what follows, and is implied in κομίσαι. — 4. Διυτρέφει: prob. the grandson of the Diitrephes mentioned in iii. 75. 2; iv. 53. 5; 119. 10. It is he, doubtless, who is mentioned again in viii. 64. 7. See App. to c. 30. 15. St. writes, following inscriptions, Διευτρέφης in all the places just cited. — εἰπόντες: in sense of κελεύειν, as in iii. 3. 16; iv. 2. 8, and freq. Kühn. 473, 2. — 5. ἣν τι δύνηται: so Vat. correctly, instead of ἣν τι δύναται, since the sing. is required in connexion with ἀπ' αὐτῶν βλάψαι, the subj. of which is Diitrephes. — 6. ἀπ' αὐτῶν βλάψαι: Schol. ἀντὶ τοῦ δι' αὐτῶν, to do injury by means of them. "ἀπό expresses the instrument, that from which the hurt proceeded." Arn. Cf. βλάπτεσθαι ἀφ' ὧν (of things) in c. 67. 19. Its use with persons in this sense is unusual.

Ταναγραίαν: for Τάναγραν of the Mss. The reference here can be only to the land extending down to the coast (cf. iv. 76. 17), not to the city, which was situated on a height at some distance from the sea. See Bursian, I. p. 122. After a short stay (διὰ τάχους) they embarked again (though Thuc. does not mention this), and sailed over to Chalcis; then, recrossing the Euripus, they surprised Mycalessus. The two plundering incursions are connected by τε (in 6) and καὶ before ἐκ Χαλκίδος. — 8. ἀφ' ἑσπέρας: directly after nightfall, as in iii. 112. 8; viii. 27. 27 = ὑπὸ νύκτα in i. 115. 19; vi. 64. 3. — 10. Μυκαλησσόν: see Bursian, I. p. 217.

11. ἠῤῥίσατο: pitched his camp.

— 13. οὐ μεγάλη: οὐ added from Vat. Strab., ix. 2. 11, calls it κώμη τῆς Ταναγρακῆς, and this agrees with ὡς ἐπὶ μεγέθει in c. 30. 20. — 14. ἀπροσδοκῆτοις: in the act. sense (see on vi. 69. 2) it takes, in consequence of the implied negation (= οὐ προσδοκῶσι), also the dependent inf. with neg. μὴ after it. See on c. 6. 19; iii. 32. 14. — 15. τοσοῦτον: about 30 stadia, and not so far as the city Tanagra is distant from the coast. — 16. πεπτωκός: fallen down. Cf. i. 89. 19; iv. 112. 6.
 — 17. βραχέος ὤκοδομημένου: the
 adj. is pred. as in c. 4. 11, ἐποικοδομή-σαντες . . . ὑψηλότερον. This part of the wall had not been built high in the beginning.

19. τοὺς ἀνθρώπους . . . ἡλικίας: Paus., i. 23. 3, says of the same occurrence, Μυκαλησίων οὐ μόνον τὸ μάχιμον οἱ Θρᾶκες, ἀλλὰ καὶ γυναῖκας ἐφόνευσαν καὶ παῖδας. — 21. ὅτῳ ἐντύχοιεν: prot. of general cond. For ὅτῳ in collective sense referring to pl. antec., see Kühn. 359, 3 c β. — 23. ὅσα ἄλλα ἔμψυχα: in the strong expression may be perceived the aversion with which the historian tells the story. — 24. ὁμοία τοῖς μάλιστα: sc. φονικοῖς. ὁμοία is adv., as in i. 25. 18; Hdt. iii. 8. 2; 57. 8; vii. 118. 8; 141. 4. On the phrase (= ut qui maxime), see Kühn. 349^b, note 5. — ἐν ᾧ ἂν θαρσῆσῃ: wherever they have courage, i.e. have nothing to fear. The aor. occurs also in ii. 79. 19.

25. καὶ τότε . . . παίδων: and on this occasion not only did no slight tumult and every kind of destruction ensue, but also falling upon a boys' school, etc. καὶ τότε introduces an example under a general remark. Kr. Spr. 69, 32, 8. Cf. c. 71. 41. To ἄλλη τε corresponds καὶ before ἐπιπεσόντες. πᾶσα ἰδέα as in ii. 19. 1; 77. 7; iii. 81. 22; 83. 1; 98. 15; 112. 23. — 27. ὅπερ μέγιστον ἦν . . . καὶ ἀπὸ ἔτυχον οἱ παῖδες ἐσεληλυθότες: without repetition of the rel. pron. (ἐς δ) in the second clause (cf. vi. 64. 18), and even without αὐτό, which is expressed in the similar passage ii. 4.

 25. G. 156; H. 1005; Kr. Spr. 60, 6, 2.—29. καὶ ξυμφορὰ τῇ πόλει . . .
 καὶ δεινῇ: Thuc. sums up the horror of the whole affair in the most impressive manner, the subst. placed first, followed by the phrases οὐδεμιᾶς ἦσσαν and μᾶλλον ἐτέρας, which have the force of sups., and the dem. pron.
 The position of the subst. gives it a character of generality with nearly the effect of the part. gen. See on i.
 i. 8. This passage differs, however, from those cited at i. i. 8 in this respect, that here two qualities in their highest expression unite in a single case, viz. the extent of the destruction (οὐδεμιᾶς ἦσσαν) and the complete unexpectedness of it (μᾶλλον ἐτέρας ἀδόκητος). "And so this blow, than which no greater ever affected a whole city, was in the highest degree both unexpected and terrible." μᾶλλον . . . ἀδόκητος and δεινῇ stand in pred. relation to ἐπέπεσεν. See App.

30. Before they can embark, they are attacked by the Thebans, who had rushed to the rescue, and a large number is killed.

1. αἰσθόμενοι: without obj. expressed, referring to what precedes.
 See on i. 95. 21.—καταλαβόντες προκευρηκότας: finding that they had gone forward, i.e. on the retreat toward the coast. καταλαμβάνειν in the sense find, discover (deprehendo), takes regularly the partic. pres.
 or pf., never aor., since only existing states can be in question. G. 279, 2; H. 982. See on i. 59. 3.—3. αὐτοὺς φοβήσαντες: putting them to flight.
 Cf. c. 79. 23; iv. 56. 6.—5. ἂ ἤγα-γεν: ἄγειν of ships, as in c. 25. 4; iii.
 70. 8; iv. 27. 10.

6. τοὺς πλείστους: closely connected with ἐν τῇ ἐσβάσει. The sense is, most of those who were killed fell at the time of the embarkation. τοὺς πλείστους cannot refer here to the majority of the whole number, as is proved by ξυμπαντες . . . ἀπέθανον in 14. For πλείστοι in this sense, cf. iv.
 44. 7 and Hdt. viii. 89. 9.—οὔτε ἐπισταμένους . . . τῶν τε . . . ὀρμισάντων:
 on the connexion of particles, in different cases by copulative particles, see Kr. Spr. 56, 14, 2.—7. ἕξω τοξεύμαing, although the Mss. have mostly ἐξω ζεύματος. See App.—8. ἐπεὶ κτ.: gives the cause of the above ἀποκτείνουσιν αὐτῶν ἐν τῇ ἐσβάσει τοὺς πλείστους: "for elsewhere (ἐν τῇ ἄλλῃ ἀναχωρήσει) on the retreat they lost not so many men, since they knew how to defend themselves not unskillfully."—9. οὐκ ἀτόπως: Schol., οὐκ ἀκόσμως. It belongs with the following description of the fighting.—11. ἐν ἐπιχωρίῳ τάξει: after the manner of fighting of their country (προεκθεῖν and ξυστρέφεσθαι), which they used οὐκ ἀτόπως. Cf. Hdt. ix. 62. 14, προεξατσσοντες κατ' ἑνα καὶ δέκα, καὶ πλευνές τε καὶ ἐλάσσονες συστρεφόμενοι, ἐσέπιπτον ἐς τοὺς Σπαρτίτας.—12. ἐν τούτῳ: i.e. ἐν τῷ προεκθέοντα καὶ ξυστρεφόμενους τὴν φυλακὴν ποιεῖσθαι.—13. ἐγκαταληφθέν: i.e. since in their greed for plunder they had allowed themselves to be surprised. Cf. iv. 8. 43; 35. 6; v. 3. 6.—οἱ ξύμπαντες: all together. See on c. i. 31. Was Diitrephes among the slain? See App.

16. ἐς εἴκοσι μάλιστα: about twenty.

See Kühn. 432, 1, 1 b; Kr. Spr. 60, 8, 1.—17. τῶν βοιωταρχῶν: the whole number of Boeotarchs was eleven, of whom two were from Thebes, the rest (in unknown proportion) from the remaining cities. Cf. iv. 91. 4. See Boeckh, ad Corp. Inscr. I. 729, and Hermann, Griech. Staats-Alterthümer, § 179, note 10.

18. τῶν Μυκαλησσιῶν: i.e. of the armed citizens who had joined in the pursuit with the Thebans.—μέρος τι: a considerable part. Cf. i. 23. 16; ii. 64. 7; iv. 30. 2.—19. τὰ κατὰ τὴν Μυκαλησσιῶν . . . τοιαῦτα ξυνέβη: cf. similar concluding sent. in iii. 50. 13, τὰ κατὰ Λέσβον οὕτως ἐγένετο; iii. 68. 30, τὰ κατὰ Πλάταιαν . . . οὕτως ἐτελεύτησεν. Cf. also iv. 48. § 5. Cl. thinks, with St., that Reiske's emendation, χρησαμένην ἢν for χρησαμένην, is necessary, esp. on account of the following ὥς ἐπὶ μεγέθει. This is doubtless better, though the Schol. has χρησαμένων· τῶν Μυκαλησσιῶν δηλονότι.—20. ὥς ἐπὶ μεγέθει: sc. τῆς πόλεως, in

31. Demosthenes takes measures, during the further course of his voyage to Sicily, for the reinforcement of his fleet and for the security of Naupactus and the adjacent regions. He unites forces with his colleague Eurymedon, whom he meets returning from Sicily.

1. τότε ἀποπλέων: cf. c. 26. 14, where the word παραπλεῖν is used of the actual course of the voyage at that moment. — 2. ἐκ τῆς Λακωνικῆς: with unusual after-effect of ἀποπλέων = ἀποπλέων ἐκ τῆς Λακωνικῆς μετὰ τὴν ἐν αὐτῇ γενομένην τείχισιν. — 3. ἐν Φειᾷ: the port of Olympia. See Curtius, Pelop. II. p. 45. Cf. ii. 25. 16. — εὐρών: the reading of Vat., adopted also by St., instead of the vulgate, λαβών, which is incompatible with διαφθείρει. For similar use of εὐρίσκειν, cf. ii. 6. 14; v. 42. 7. See on καταλαβόντες, c. 30. 1. — οἱ Κορίνθιοι ὀπλῖται: cf. c. 17. § 3; 19. § 4. This one ship had got separated from the squadron of Alexarchus, as in the similar case mentioned in c. 25. 11.

8. τῶν Μεσσηνίων: sc. ὀπλίτας. — 9. τῆς Ἀκαρνανίας: this coast Demosthenes had become well acquainted with during his campaigns in the summer and autumn of 426 B.C. (iii. 94 ff.). — 10. Ἀλύζειαν: cf. Strab. x. 2. 21, ἡ Ἀλύχεια πεντεκαίδεκα ἀπὸ θαλάττης διέχει σταδίων. On the form, see App. — αὐτοί: sc. οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι, who occupied it in the autumn of 425 B.C. (iv. 49) and had not given it up again. Cf. v. 30. 15.

11. περὶ ταῦτα: Schol. ἤγουν περὶ τὸ συλλέγειν δύνανται. On this use of περὶ, see Kr. Spr. 68, 33, 2. — Εὐρυμέδων: having accomplished the voyage to Syracuse on which he had been sent (c. 16. 10), he was now on his way back to Athens, but meeting with Demosthenes entered immediately on his duties as joint commander, to which position he had been elected, c. 16. 8. — 12. τότε τοῦ χεიმῶνος: cf. c. 16. 10, περὶ ἡλίου τροπᾶς τὰς χειμερινάς. τότε used often of a time taken for granted as well known. See on i. 101. 9. — τὰ χρήματα ἄγων: cf.

c. 16. 12.—14. κατὰ πλοῦν: as in iii. 32. 2. Cf. καθ' ὁδόν, v. 3. 14; 37. 6.—τὸ Πλημμύριον . . . ἐαλωκός: cf. c. 23. § 1.

15. Κόνων: without doubt the same who was prominent toward the end of the Peloponnesian War and later. He seems at this time to have had command both of the town and of the fleet stationed there. Diphilus no doubt came a little later, with reinforcements, to supersede Conon. Cf. c. 34. 13.—16. αἱ πέντε καὶ εἴκοσι . . . ἀνθορμούσαι: cf. c. 17. § 4; 19. § 5. σφίσιν, sc. τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις, is spoken from Conon's standpoint. For pl., see on c. 1. 27.—17. οὔτε καταλύουσι τὸν πόλεμον: Thuc. seems to have chosen the unusual expression, καταλύειν τὸν πόλεμον, "leave off military operations," on account of the extraordinary circumstances. War had not yet been declared between Athens and the Peloponnesian alliance; and though arms had been gradually taken up everywhere, it was still possible to return to peaceful relations. The 25 Corinthian ships had been sent out with the special object of protecting the vessels intended for Sicily (c. 17. § 4; 19. § 5), and since these had now gone safely past Naupactus, there was no further cause for hostilities, and it might have been expected that they would abandon their hostile attitude (καταλύσειν αὐτοὺς τὸν πόλεμον). But this was not the case; on the contrary, they showed an inclination to risk a sea-fight with the Athenians. This contrast is appropriately expressed by the co-ord. const. οὔτε καταλύουσι τὸν πόλεμον ναυμαχεῖν τε μέλλουσι. See App.—19. ὡς: with acc. abs., as in i. 134. 21; vi. 24. 10; viii. 66. 20. GMT. 110, 2, n. 1; H. 974; Kr. Spr. 56, 9, 4.—20. δυοῖν δεούσας εἴκοσι: pred. to τὰς ἑαυτῶν. How the fleet of 20 triremes of c. 19. 28 had been reduced to 18 is not stated.

23. ξυμπέμπουσι: send along with. Cf. ii. 12. 11; iv. 80. 21.—24. περὶ τῆς στρατιᾶς τὸν ξύλλογον: for order, see on c. 24. 5. ξύλλογος in the sense of bringing together troops from all quarters only here, but corresponding to the freq. use of ξυλλέγειν. Cf. c. 7. 7, etc. — 27. ξυνῆρχε: see on 11. — 28. ἀποτραπόμενος: i.e. giving up the voyage home (ἀποπλέων in 1) and turning back toward Sicily. Cf. iii. 89. 5. — ἡρέθη: see on 11.

32. In Sicily, meanwhile, the Sicel allies of the Athenians, at the request of Nicias, attack the reinforcements sent by the Siceliote cities to Syracuse and destroy about 800. The rest escape to Syracuse.

1. οἱ δ' ἐκ . . . πρέσβεις: the subj. of the ἐπειδὴ clause placed first for emphasis. Kühn. 606, 7. — τότε μετὰ τὴν τοῦ Πλημυρίου ἄλωσιν: refers to c. 25. § 9. As to τότε, see on c. 31. 12. — 2. οἰχόμενοι ἐς τὰς πόλεις: the partic. is attrib. Thuc. is fond of placing the attrib. partic. after the noun whenever other modifiers are added. See on i. 11. 19. The cities esp. meant are Selinus and Himera, for Camarina and Gela are referred to separately in c. 33. 2, 4. Cf. c. 25.

38. — 4. προπυθόμενος: Vat. has only πυθόμενος, but προπυθόμενος is quite appropriate, and occurs besides in similar connexion in iv. 42. 14. — 5. τοὺς τὴν δίοδον ἔχοντας: i.e. those who dwell on the road leading from the northern part of the island to Syracuse. With this agrees the situation of Κεντόριπα, Centuripa of the Romans, now Centorbi (Holm, I. p. 68), about 25 miles west of Aetna. A town Alicyae in this region is unknown. A place of the name situated in the north-western part of the island between Segesta and Entella can hardly be the one referred to. Cf. vi. 88. § 4; 94. § 3. — σφίσι: from Vat. only, but indispensable with ξυμμάχους. For pl., see on c. 1. 27. — 6. διαφρήσουσι: Dobree's conjecture for the vulgate διαφρήσουσι, adopted by Bk., Bm., and St. A comparison with Ar. Av. 193, τῶν μηρίων τὴν κνίσαν οὐ διαφρήσετε, leaves scarcely a doubt as to its correctness. Cf. Etymol. Magnum, p. 246, 43, διαφρῶ σημαίνει τὸ διακομίζω καὶ εἰσιέναι καὶ ἀφιέναι ποιῶ.

— 8. Ἄλλη: by another way, i.e. than the main road. Cf. c. 70. 27. — Ἀκραγαντῶνι οὐκ ἐδίδοσαν ὁδόν: on account of their neutrality. Cf. c. 33. 7.

11. [τινὰ τριχῇ]: Cl. brackets both words as inappropriate to the context; the rest of the edit. only τριχῇ. τινὰ is wanting in Vat., τριχῇ in most of the Mss. — ἀφυλάκτους τε καὶ ἐξαίφνης: the adv. modifiers in different forms, as in c. 13. 1, 2; 40. 10. Kr. Spr. 69, 2, 3. — 13. τοῦ Κορινθίου: cf. c. 25. 39. — 15. ἐκόμισεν: as in c. 29. 3, implying the idea of bringing through safely.

33. But gradually nearly all the Greek cities in Sicily declare for Syracuse, except Agrigentum, which remains neutral. Demosthenes and Eurymedon continue their voyage toward Sicily, and stop some time at Thurii.

2. οἱ Καμαρινᾶοι: they had decided in the negotiations of the preceding year, ἐν τῇ παρόντι μηδετέροις ἀμύνειν, vi. 88. 14. — 4. οἱ Γελῶι: as to their zeal for Syracuse before this time, cf. c. 1. 21; vi. 67. 13. — 5. ἐς πέντε ναῦς: appos. to ναυτικόν.

6. σχεδὸν τι ἅπασα: almost all.

Naxos and Catana were still wanting. ἅπασα is adopted from Vat. as stronger than the vulgate πᾶσα. Cf. c. 15. 4. σχεδὸν τι, as in iii. 68. 27; v. 66. 16.

— 7. οὐδὲ μεθ' ἐτέρων: neutral, as in ii. 67. 34; 72. 11; vi. 44. 20. — οἱ δ' ἄλλοι: resumes ἅπασα ἡ Σικελία after οὗτοι δ' . . . ἦσαν, which on account of its influence on the const. of the remainder of the sent. is not to be put in parenthesis. — 8. οἱ πρότερον περιορώμενοι: supplementary attrib. explanation referring to the Camarinæans. περιορώμενοι, expectantes eventum, as in iv. 73. 5; vi. 93. 3; 103. 10.

11. ἐπέσχον τὸ ἐπιχειρεῖν: cf. ii. 81. 19; Soph. Phil. 881, μηδ' ἐπίσχωμεν τὸ πλεῖν; Dem. xxi. 12, τὸ λαμβάνειν δίκην ἐπέσχετε. See on ii. 76. 4. ἐπέσχειν is not used in the mid. in Thuc., and in the sense "refrain from"
 perhaps only in aor.—13. ἔκ τε τῆς Κερκύρας καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς ἡπείρου: cf. c.
 31. § 5.—14. τὸν Ἰόνιον: without κόλπον, as in vi. 30. 6; 34. 24; 104. 10.
 See on iii. 107. 4.—15. ἄκραν Ἰαπυγίαν: the promontory on the northern side of the bay of Tarentum. Cf. vi.
 30. 5; 34. 22; 44. 9.

16. Χοιράδας: in the inner recess of the Tarentine bay before the harbour of Tarentum, inhabited by Iapygians (νήσους Ἰαπυγίας), to which people the tribe of the Messapians belonged. See Niebuhr, Rom. Hist.
 I. p. 148.—17. τινας: about, belonging to πεντήκοντα καὶ ἑκατόν. Kr. Spr.
 51, 16, 4. Cf. c. 34. 19; 87. 15; iii.
 68. 16; 111. 17; viii. 21. 4.—19. Ἄρτῃ:

a prince of the Messapians, who was hostile to the Tarentines. See Niebuhr, ibid. p. 150. He is mentioned in Athenaeus, iii. p. 108 f.
 (who cites this passage) as Μεσσαπίων βασιλεὺς τῶν ἐν Ἰαπυγίᾳ.—δυνάστης:
 used in Thuc. only here of a bar-barbarian prince.—20. τινα: it is implied perhaps that Thuc. did not know the particulars.—21. τῆς Ἰταλίας:
 added because at this point the boundary of ancient Italy begins. See on
 c. 25. 6.

22. κατὰ τὸ ξυμμαχικόν: the treaty has not been mentioned before.—23.
 ἀναλαβόντες: taking with them, as in
 c. 86. 3; v. 64. 20. ταῦτα refers to ἀκοντιστὰς and τριῆρεις together. Vat. reads αὐτάς, which is perhaps preferable, since the 300 javelin-men were no doubt on the triremes.—24. ἐς Θουρίαν: the city, not the country, must be meant here, as in vi. 61. 36; 104.
 13, for the country is called ἡ Θου-πᾶς in c. 35. 6. Steph. Byz. says that the name was written Θουρία and Θούριον, as well as Θούριοι, and Eckhel describes a coin with the inscription ΘΟΥΡΙΑ. (Arn.) Thuc. uses Θούριοι only of the inhabitants (below, 27; 35. 2; 57. 68; vi. 104. 22; viii. 84. 3). — καταλαμβάνουσι . . . ἐκπεπτωκότας: see on c. 30. 1.

26. εἰ τις ὑπελέλειπτο: to be connected, Cl. thinks, with ἐξετάσαι. A final muster is meant, such as was called ἐπεξετάσις in vi. 42. 2. They wished, after bringing together all the gradually enlisted military forces, once more to examine closely whether all were present, no one left behind. St., claiming that with Cl.'s view the pf. is necessary, connects it with ἀθροίσαντες, which seems preferable, though the plpf. in indir. disc. might be admissible. — 28. ἐν τούτῳ τύχης: i.e. freed from the anti-Attic party. For const. see on c. 2. 16. — 30. ἔπρασσον ταῦτα: i.e. they were occupied with negotiations concerning a full alliance.

34. About this time the fleets of the Athenians and the Peloponnesians, which had been lying opposite one another in the Corinthian gulf, fight a battle near Erineus on the coast of Achaia. Each claims the victory, but neither gains a decided advantage.

2. οἱ ἐν ταῖς πέντε καὶ εἴκοσι ναυσίν: cf. c. 17. § 4; 19. § 5; 31. § 4. —

3. ἕνεκα: placed, as in i. 57. 10 (τῆς Ποτειδαίας ἕνεκα ἀποστάσεως), between the objective and the governing gen., for τῶν ὀλκάδων depends upon τῆς . . . κομιδῆς. — 4. ὡς ἐπὶ ναυμαχίᾳ: with the intention of fighting, as in iii. 4. 6; vi. 34. 33. Cf. ὡς ἐπὶ ναυμαχίᾳ in same sense in i. 48. 2; ii. 83. 10; 85. 12; 86. 3; iv. 13. 13. — 5. προσπληρώσαντες ἔτι ναῦς: Schol. προσέτι ἄλλας πληρώσαντες. The arrival of fresh ships is implied. Cf. vi. 104. 12. — 6. Ἐρινεόν: a small place on a bay of the gulf of Corinth east of Rhium, the harbour of the town Rhypes or Rhypae. See Curtius. Pelop. I. p. 458; Bursian, II. pp. 313, 330.

7. αὐτοῖς: the dat. placed thus early in the sent. has a general relation to the whole, and is only loosely connected with παρετέτακτο. Cf. i. 6. 8; 48. 9, etc. — τοῦ χωρίου μηνοειδοῦς ὄντος: the bay itself in which the ships had taken their station, so that the land troops could be drawn up on the promontories on either side, ταῖς προανεχούσαις (Vat., vulgate ἀνεχούσαις) ἄκραις. — 9. τῶν αὐτόθεν ξυμμάχων: sc. Ἀχαιῶν, who were already at that time all on the Lacedaemonian side. Cf. ii. 9. § 2. τῶν αὐτόθεν as in vi. 25. 13 and freq. — 11. ἐμφράξασαι: i.e. by their position barring the entrance to the bay. Cf. iv. 8. 22.

13. τριάκοντα ναυσὶ καὶ τρισί: in addition to the 18 triremes that Conon had, and the 10 given him by Demosthenes and Eurymedon (c. 31. § 4, 5), still others had prob. been brought by Diphilus. See on c. 31. 15.

15. ἀρθέντος αὐτοῖς τοῦ σημείου: the raising of a flag or some such signal is implied. The opposite is τὰ σημεία κατεσπάρσθη (i. 63. 14). Cf. i. 49. 1; 63. 11; iv. 42. 20.

19. ἀπλῶς: outright. Cf. Plat. Phaed. 100 d; Phaedr. 257 b. Not found elsewhere in this sense except in late writers. — ἐπτὰ τινες: see on c. 33. 17. — 20. ἄπλοι: Schol. ἀχρεῖοι πρὸς πλεῖσιν. The word applies primarily to water hard to sail through, but is transferred by Thuc. here, as also in 33 and c. 60. 12, to unseaworthy ships. — ἐμβαλλόμεναι: Schol. ὑπὸ τῶν πολεμίων νεῶν τυττόμεναι. It is pass. of ἐμβάλλειν τινί (i. 49. 28; iv. 14. 7). In c. 70. 33, 34 the act. and pass. occur together. The pres. partic. indicates repetition, the aor. (ἀναρραγεῖσαι) the immediate result. — 21. τὰς παρεξαιρεσίας: for the acc. with the pass., see G. 197, n. 2; H. 724 a. The front part of the ship is meant. Schol. παρεξαιρεσία ἐστὶ τὸ κατὰ τὴν πῶραν πρὸ τῶν κωπῶν, ὡς ἂν εἴποι τις τὸ παρὲς τῆς εἰρεσίας. Cf. c. 40. 18; iv. 12. 5. It was bored through or ripped up by the violent blows of the epwtides. ἀναρρηγνύναι in this sense also in c. 36. 19; 40. 17. — ἐπ' αὐτῷ τούτῳ: Cl. adopts the dat. (of purpose) from Vat., as in i. 74. 19, ἐπὶ τῷ . . . νέμεσθαι; ii. 29. 17, ἐπ' ὥφελός; vi. 31. 14, ἐπὶ βραχεῖ πλῶ. But there seems to be no certain example in Thuc. of ἐπὶ τούτῳ expressing purpose, whereas ἐπὶ τοῦτο occurs in c. 36. 3; iv. 3. 9; v. 87. 4. — 22. τὰς ἐπωτίδας: a sort of cat-heads. Schol. τὰ ἑκατέρωθεν πῶρας ἐξέχοντα ξύλα. These beams projected like ears on both sides of the prow, and served to strengthen it.

23. ἀντίπαλα: acc. neut. pl. of inner obj. approximating to an adv., as ἀγχώματα c. 71. 21; ἐναντία, iii. 55. 9. See on i. 3. 18; 38. 6. — ὡς . . . ἀξιοῦν νικᾶν: ὡς = ὥστε. GMT. 98, 2, n. 1. αὐτοὺς ἑκατέρους (with order as in i. 105. 23; v. 41. 16), though referring to the subj. in ναυμαχῆσαντες, is in the acc., since the particularizing of the subj. in ἑκατέρους requires an independent const. For the inf. clause expressing a qualification of the action, see Kr. Spr. 55, 3, 3. — 25. τὴν τοῦ ἀνέμου ἄπωσιν αὐτῶν: subjective and objective gen. respectively depending on ἄπωσιν. Kr. Spr. 47, 9, 7. — ἐς τὸ πέλαγος: i.e. towards the Athenians, who attacked from without. — 26. διὰ τὴν οὐκέτι ἐπαναγωγὴν: Schol. διὰ τὸ μὴ ἐπαναγεσθαι αὐτοῖς τοὺς Κορινθίους, i.e. abandoned the damaged ships. οὐκέτι in attrib. position modifying the verbal noun as in c. 44. 42. Kühn. 461, 6. See on i. 137. 26. — διακρίθησαν ἀπ' ἀλλήλων: as in i. 105. 22. The verb διακρίνεσθαι, meaning to desist from combat, occurs also in c. 38. 5; iv. 14. 22.

29. ῥαδίως διεσφύζοντο: (ῥαδίως from Vat., for which most of the rest of the Mss. have καὶ) escaped from pursuit easily, i.e. swam to the land when they were obliged to leave the sinking ships. — 30. κατέδυν: to be taken as plpf., as is shown by a comparison with 19. No ship of theirs had been completely destroyed, and hence there had been no opportunity to capture the crew τῶν ἐναντίων ναῦς ἁπλους ἐποίησαν, καὶ νομίσαντες αὐτοὶ οὐχ ἡσσᾶσθαι δι' ὅπερ οὐδ' οἱ ἕτεροι νικᾶν· οἱ τε

 5 τὸν πεζὸν πάντα ἐξετάσαντες πρῶτον ἐπὶ τῷ Συβάρει

33. καὶ νομίσαντες αὐτοὶ . . . νικᾶν : αὐτοὶ adopted, with St., instead of δι' αὐτό (Vat. αὐτό), since δι' αὐτό (for διὰ ταῦτό, or διὰ τοῦτο) δι' ὅπερ is impossible. Render: and because they themselves considered that they were not defeated (for the very reason) on account of which the others did not claim to be victorious. Cl. explains δι' ὅπερ . . . νικᾶν, "because the others did not claim to be victorious." — 34. οὐδ' οἱ ἕτεροι νικᾶν : sc. ἐνόμιζον. On the one side, οὐχ ἡσσᾶσθαι = νικᾶν or κρατεῖν; on the other, οὐ νικᾶν = ἡσσᾶσθαι. On this equivalence rests the following explanation, οἱ τε γὰρ Κορίνθιοι . . . ὅτι οὐ πολὺ ἐνίκων. — 35. καὶ πολὺ : giving strong emphasis, as in c. 41. 14. Kr. Spr. 69, 32, 18. See on i. 74. 10.

37. ἀποπλευσάντων δὲ τῶν Πελοποννησίων : emphatically contrasted with ἀποπλευσάντων δὲ τῶν Ἀθηναίων in 30. The sailing away of the Peloponnesians signified that they gave up the idea of coping with the Athenians, and the latter therefore now definitely claimed the victory. — 39. ἐν τῇ Ἀχαΐᾳ : on the coast of Achaia, without exact statement of the place, which is indicated only by the distance of the trophy from Eri-neus.

35. Demosthenes and Eurymedon, abandoning their intention of marching their land forces through the territory of Croton, embark at the mouth of the river Hylas and come by sea to Petra, near Rhegium.

2. παρεσκευάσθησαν : had been induced; not equiv. to παρεσκευάσαντο, but pass. of παρασκευάζειν τινά, as used in iii. 36. 20; iv. 132. 11; viii. 52. 1. Kühn. 473, 2. It is the accomplishment of what was desired in c. 33. § 6, βουλόμενοι . . . καὶ τοὺς Θουρίους πείσαι σφίσι ξυστρατεύειν ὡς προθυμότατα. In viii. 52. 1, we have παρεσκεύαζε καὶ ἀνέπειθε united in the same sense. — 5. Συβάρι : the river near Thurii having the same name

- ποταμῷ ἦγον διὰ τῆς Θουριάδος γῆς. καὶ ὥς ἐγένοντο 2 ἐπὶ τῷ Ἑλλάδι ποταμῷ, καὶ αὐτοῖς οἱ Κροτωνιάται προσwith the destroyed city, on the site of which Thurii was built. Cf. Strab. vi. 1. 13 (where the gen. is Συβαρίας).

7. τῷ Ἑλλάδι: cannot be exactly identified. — προσπέμψαντες: as in i. 53. 2; iii. 52. 10. See on c. 3. 4. προπέμψαντες, which Portus proposes, is unnecessary. — 8. οὐκ ἂν σφίσι βουλομένοις εἶναι: on the periphrasis, see GMT. 112, 2, n. 2; Kr. Spr. 48, 6, 4. Cf. Sall. Jug. 84. 3, quia neque plebi militia volenti; 100. 4; Tac. Ann. i. 59; Hist. iii. 43; Agric. 18. Note the very rare inf. of indir. disc. after εἶπον. GMT. 15, 2, n. 3; 92, 2, n. 1. — 9. ἐπικαταβάντες: see on c. 23. 2. Cl. connects πρὸς τὴν θάλασσαν with the partic., as in c. 23. 2; but St. takes it with ἡύλίσαντο, citing Xen. Hell. ii. 2. 8, πρὸς τὴν πόλιν ἐστρατοπέδευσεν. Either view is admissible. — 11. ἀναβιβασάμενοι: cf. c. 33. 18. Here τὸν στρατὸν is to be supplied. — 12. πλὴν Λοκρῶν: which was hostile to the Athenians. Cf. vi. 44. 13. — 13. Πέτραν: usually called Λευκοπέτρα. Cf. Strab. vi. 1. 7.

36. The Syracusans, hearing of their approach, determine to risk a second sea-fight in the great harbour before they arrive, and strengthen the prows of their ships in order that they may have the advantage of the Athenians in a battle in the confined space.

2. αὐθις: after the first sea-fight (c. 22, 23). — ταῖς ναυσὶν ἀποπειράσαι: = ναυμαχίας ἀποπειράσαι, c. 17. 14. — 3. καὶ τῇ ἄλλῃ παρασκευῇ τοῦ πεζοῦ: Cl. explains, "and besides (cf. i. 2. 12; vi. 72. 17) by arming (and strengthening) the land army, as stated in c. 33. § 1, 2." But in this case we should have ὥνπερ, referring to πεζοῦ, rather than ἤνπερ. The sense is: to make trial with the ships and with the foot-force too (besides). Cf. c. 37. 3 ff. For this meaning of παρασκευή, cf. vi. 31. 6. It is dat. of manner, rather than means; πεζοῦ, gen. of description, not objective gen. On ἄλλῃ, see G. 142, 2, n. 3; H. 705. — ἤνπερ . . . ἐνέλεγον: the impf., since they were constantly expecting fresh troops from the allies. It corresponds to οἱ δ' ἄλλοι ἐβοήθουν, c. 33. 7. But St. and Kr. take this as equiv. in force to the plpf., which is perhaps better. See Kr. Spr. 53, 2, 8. — ἐπ' αὐτὸ τοῦτο: see on c. 34. 21. — 4. πρὶν ἔλθειν: on πρὶν with inf. depending on φθάσαι, see Kühn. 482, note 11.

παρεσκευάσαντο: this and the following aors. used for the more exact plpf. — 5. τό τε ἄλλο ναυτικόν: τὸ ἄλλο contrasted with καὶ τὰς πρῶρας, "in every other respect they had fitted out their fleet in such manner, as —."

— 6. ἐνεῖδον: Vat. has εἶδον, but ἐνορᾶν is a common expression with Thuc. for knowledge won by experience. Cf. c. 62. 1; i. 95. 24; iii. 30. 14. — πλεόν σχήσοντες: = πλεόν σχήσειν. Schol. τοῦτ' ἐστὶ πλεονεκτήσουτες. — 7. ξυντεμόντες ἐς ἔλασσον: shortening. See Graser, de veterum re navali, p. 28. Cf. viii. 86. 30, ἐς εὐτέλειαν τι ξυντέμνεται; Ar. Ran. 1262, εἰς ἐν ξυντεμῶ. — 8. τὰς ἐπωτίδας: see on c. 34. 22. — παχείας: pred.; they put on the prows cat-heads of great thickness or strength, i.e. made them stronger than they had been. — 9. ἀντηρίδας: supports, braces, extending from the under side of the beams through the sides of the ship a length of nine feet both within and without. See Graser, Athens Kriegshäfen, Philol. 1871, p. 35, note; and compare the cut in de vet. re nav. tab. 2, fig. 10. — ἀπ' αὐτῶν: sc. τῶν ἐπωτίδων; for the ἀντηρίδες served as supports for these. — 11. ἐπισκευασάμενοι: the Corinthians had in this manner refitted their ships. Cf. c. 34. 22. For ἐπι-, see on c. 14. 6. — 12. πρῶραθεν: Cl. explains, from the prow, i.e. attacking front to front with the prow (and the ἐμβολον), employing neither the περίπλους nor the διέκπλους, as before (cf. 22). But it is better to take πρῶραθεν with ἐπισκευασάμενοι, as St. and Kr., for the important point here is the strengthening of the prow, not fighting with the prow. This seems clear from τὰ πρῶραθεν ἐχούσας, below, which is contrasted with these words.

13. οὐχ ὁμοίως ἀντιναυπηγημένας: not built in like manner to match them. Cf. c. 62. 11. — 15. ἐκ περίπλου: by a circuit (around the hostile ship), i.e. from the side. — 16. οὐκ ἔλασσον τῷ μεγάλῳ λιμένι ναυμαχίαν, οὐκ ἐν πολλῷ πολλαῖς ναυσὶν οὔσαν, πρὸς ἑαυτῶν ἔσεσθαι· ἀντιπρώροις γὰρ ταῖς ἐμβολαῖς χρώμενοι ἀναρρήξαι τὰ πρῶραθεν αὐτοῖς, στε-σχήσειν: = πλέον σχήσειν. See on 6.

 — 17. οὐκ ἐν πολλῷ: as in ii. 102.
 22. = ἐν οὐ πολλῷ (ii. 49. 10), in a narrow space. Kr. Spr. 67, 10, 4.—
 18. πρὸς ἑαυτῶν: to their own advantage. Cf. ii. 86. 19.—ἀντιπρώροις γὰρ ταῖς ἐμβολαῖς: St. has without doubt correctly restored, acc. to Reiske's conjecture, ἀντιπρώροις for ἀντίπρωροι. Cf. 15; c. 40. 16.—19. ἀναρρήξαι: as in c. 34. 20.—20. πρὸς κοῖλα καὶ ἀσθενῇ: sc. τὰ ἐμβολα.—παίοντες: reading of Vat. only; all the rest, παρέχοντες.

21. οὐκ ἔσεσθαι: = ὑπάρξειν, in which sense εἶναι, esp. with neg., is often used. Cf. below, 28, 35; i. 2. 5; 49. 11.—σφῶν: objective gen. with περίπλουν and διέκπλουν.—22. ὥπερ τῆς τέχνης: const. similar to c. 33. 28, ἐν τούτῳ τύχης. See on c. 2. 16. ὥπερ refers to both the preceding nouns, just (περ) the part of their naval skill on which they depended most.—24. διεκπλεῖν: exegetical to τὸ μὲν.—25. ὥστε μὴ περιπλεῖν: exegetical to τὸ δέ. On ὥστε μὴ with inf., after κωλύσειν, see Kr. Spr. 67, 12, 4. See App.

25. τῇ πρότερον . . . δοκούσῃ εἶναι: the same form of expression as in i. 32. 15. For the position of the partic., see on c. 32. 2 and i. 11. 19.—26. τῷ ἀντίπρωρον ξυγκρούσαι: in explanatory appos. to the preceding clause. See App.—27. πλείστον . . . σχήσειν: Valla renders, se maxime superiores fore, which is doubtless his translation of πλείστον σχήσειν, as superiorem esse is of πλέον εἶχειν. But St. writes πλείστον περισχήσειν, since no parallel example of the sup. with εἶχειν can be found.—28. τὴν ἀνάκρουσιν: backing water, i.e. backing without turning the ship, called πρῶμαν κρούεσθαι in c. 40. 2; i. 50. 21, etc.—οὐκ ἔσεσθαι: see on 21.—29. ἐς τὴν γῆν: i.e. to the coast behind them. Of this only the part where they had their camp, between the mouth of the Anapaus and the swamp Lysimelea, was open to them.—ταύτην: St. (Pp.) and Goeller refer it to γῆν, and Arn. approves; but Bm. to ἀνάκρουσιν. ἐς ὀλίγον is better connected with the idea of motion, as Kr. says, who compares, below 35, οὐκ οὔσης . . . τῆς ἀνακρούσεως. We might add also ξυμφερομένους . . . αὐτό, 31. — δὲ ὀλίγον καὶ ἐς ὀλίγον: through a short distance (to the coast) and to a small part (of the coast). ἐς ὀλίγον is explained by κατ' αὐτὸ τὸ στρατόπεδον τὸ ἐαυτῶν.

31. ξυμφερομένους ἐς ὀλίγον: driven together into a small space. Cf. c. 81. 11, ξυνήγον ἐς ταῦτό; ii. 84. 3, ξυνήγον ἐς ὀλίγον. — 33. ταραξέσθαι: fut. mid. in pass. sense, as in c. 67. 15. — ὅπερ καὶ ἔβλαπτε . . . ναυμαχίαις: referring to the following events, "and it was just this which did the Athenians the greatest injury in all the following battles." — 35. ἐς πάντα τὸν λιμένα: contrasted with ἐς ὀλίγον in 30. — 37. ἐς τὴν εὐρυχωρίαν: = ἐς τὸ πέλαγος, outside of the great harbour. — σφῶν ἐχόντων τὴν ἐπίπλευσιν: "since they had the power of entry (into the great harbour) in their control"; i.e. not only could they themselves enter at any time, but they could even prevent the enemy, esp. the expected fleet of Demosthenes and Eurymedon, from entering. — 38. ἀνάκρουσιν: the art. not repeated, as in v. 5. 1, ἐν τῇ παρακομίδῃ τῇ ἐς τὴν Σικελίαν καὶ ἀναχωρήσει. Cf. c. 37. 1. The position of τε is explained by the close relation of the words in the phrase τὴν ἐπίπλευσιν ἀπὸ τοῦ πελάγους. In 39 also the particle is thrown out of place by the emphatic position of πολεμίου. On Cl.'s conjecture, ἀναχωρήσιν, see App.

37. Gylippus leads the land forces against the Athenian fortifications, and simultaneously 80 Syracusan ships sail out against their fleet in the great harbour. The Athenians make hasty preparations for defence by land and sea.

1. ταῦτα: from Vat., for τοιαῦτα, answering to the definiteness and accuracy with which the refitting of the Syracusan ships and its object are described in the preceding chap. — πρὸς: in proportion to. Cf. v. 9. 12. — ἐπιστήμην τε καὶ δύναμιν:

the former referring to the acknowledged want of skill of their pilots (c.
 36. 25), the latter perhaps to the shortness of the time, which did not admit of a greater improvement of the fleet. — 2. τεθαροσηκότες: the pf.
 partic. expresses the confidence which they had felt now for some time. —
 3. ἐπεχείρουν: were preparing to at- tack (impf.). Cf. c. 20. 7.

5. τὸν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως: supplementary explanation which points to the following καὶ οἱ ἀπὸ τοῦ Ὀλυμπιείου. —
 6. καθ' ὅσον . . . ἑώρα: = κατὰ τὸσοῦτο, ὅσον τοῦ τείχους πρὸς τὴν πόλιν ἑώρα, on that side of it which faced the city. αὐτοῦ depends on καθ' ὅσον. Cf. iii. 104. 4.
 On the const. of the prep. with the
 rel. clause, see Kr. Spr. 51, 13, 6. — οἱ ἀπὸ τοῦ Ὀλυμπιείου: cf. c. 4. 32 ff.
 — 8. ἡ γυμνητεία: found only here.
 The correct form from Vat. corresponding to the verb γυμνητεύειν; most of the Mss. have γυμνηρία. It stands for the concrete οἱ γυμνήτες (Schol. οἱ ψιλοί), just as levis armatura is used concretely in Lat. The reference is to the ἀκοντισταί of 16. — 9. ἐκ τοῦ ἐπὶ θάτερα: ab altera

parte, as in viii. 33. 7. Kr. Spr. 43, 4, 3. Cf. c. 84. 15; i. 87. 9. — προσ- ῆα: the agreement with the last noun (ἡ γυμνητεία), which is only in appos., is unusual. — 10. ἐπέξέπλεον:
 so Vat., for ἐξέπλεον, indicating the purpose to attack. ἐπεκπλεῖν is omitted from the lexicon, but warranted by the subst. ἐπέκπλους (viii. 20. 3).

11. καὶ οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι κτέ.: Plut.
(Nic. 20) states — whether on good grounds or not, cannot be determined — that Nicias was forced into fighting by the zeal of Menander and Eu-rymedon (c. 16. § 1). — 13. ἐπὶ τὰ τεῖχη: (mounting) upon the walls, against those advancing on the city side (cf. 5). It is opp. to ἀπὸ τῶν τειχῶν in c. 38. 5. — 16. ἱππέας τε

πολλοὺς καὶ ἀκοντιστάς: sc. ὄντας, the appos. phrase explaining κατὰ τάχος χαροῦντας. The ὁπλῖται were behind these. — 17. ἐπὶ τὸν αἰγιαλὸν παρεβोधθουν: i.e. to aid any ship of theirs that might be driven to shore. Cf. c. 34. 10; 53. 5. — 19. ναῦς: Dobree and Bk. propose νασί as in c. 52. 4; but cf. viii. 95. 12, ἀνῆγε τὰς ναῦς; Hdt. vii. 100. 11, etc. For a like variety in const. with αἶρειν, see on i. 52. 5. — 20. ὀγδοήκοντα: the same number with which they fought the first battle; the eleven then lost (c. 23. 19) had therefore been replaced.

38. But on this day they do not come to a general action, and on the following day Nicias seeks to strengthen the position of his fleet by transport ships anchored in front.

1. τῆς δὲ ἡμέρας ἐπὶ πολὺ: see on c. 11. 18. Cf. c. 39. 4. — 2. προσπλέοντες . . . πειράσαντες ἀλλήλων: Cl. and St. take προσπλέοντες καὶ ἀνακρουόμενοι as expressing the manner of the πειράσαντες, and hence omit καὶ before it: "after they had tried one another by advancing and retreating (backing) till late in the day." The change seems hardly necessary. — 3. οὐδέτεροι: part. appos. to subj. of leading verb. Kr. Spr. 56, 9, 1. — ἄξιόν τι λόγου παραλαβεῖν: to win any advantage of importance. Cf. Hdt. vii. 211. 17, οὐδὲν ἐδυνάετο παραλαβεῖν. — 4. εἰ μὴ . . . καταδύσαντες: except that the Syracusans sank a ship or two of the Athenians. Cl. explains that εἰ μὴ is used elliptically, without finite verb, and cites ἦν μὴ in v. 47. 31. St. and Kr. understand (ἄξιόν τι λόγου) παρέλαβον. Kühn. 577, 8. Certainly the verb is easily supplied both here and in v. 47. 31. — διεκρίθησαν: see on c. 34. 26.

8. ὁποῖόν τι τὸ μέλλον: ὁποῖόν τι as in iii. 28. 6. Cl. takes it as an obj. of the verb, and τὸ μέλλον as adv., next (cf. vi. 69. 20). This is satisfactory, though Kr.'s explanation, — ὁποῖόν τί ἐστι τὸ μέλλον 8, is admissible. Kr. Spr. 57, 3, 5. — 9. ἰδὼν ἀντίπαλα τὰ τῆς ναυμαχίας γεγόμενα: seeing that their naval strength had become equal (aor. partic.), i.e. since the last battle, which had finally resulted in favour of the Athenians (c. 23. § 3, 4). Or perhaps τὰ τῆς ναυμαχίας refers to the events of the previous day, which seems to be the view of Valla, pari eventu fuisse pugnatum. — Ἐλπίζων: expecting, as in iv. 71. 7. — 11. ἐπισκευάζειν: cf. c. 1. 2; 24. 5; vi. 104. 20. See on c. 14. 6. — ἐπεπονήκει: of ships also in vi. 104. 20. — 12. προώρμισε: not found elsewhere. The thing itself would not be likely to happen often. — πρὸ τοῦ σφετέρου σταυρώματος: which they had already built, vi. 66. 8, παρὰ τὰς ναῦς σταύρωμα ἔπηξαν. For σφετέρου, see on c. 1. 27. — 13. ἀντὶ λιμένος κληστοῦ: i.e. to supply the place of a harbour which could be closed with chains.

14. διαλειπούσας: the pres., instead of διαλειπούσας, which all the Mss. have, is necessary to express the idea of continuance required by the connexion. The Schol. has διαλειπούσας· ἡγουν δυσταμένας. The case is different from that in i. 112. 1; iii.

74. 1. — 15. βιάζοιτο: pass. as in i. 2. 4, and freq. — 16. κατάφευξις: also in c. 41. 3; not found elsewhere.

39. Stratagem of Aristo. The Syracusans prepare to take their midday meal on the beach, with a view to surprising the Athenians.

1. τῆς μὲν ὥρας πρῶτερον: earlier in the day (than before). Cf. iv. 93. 3, τῆς ἡμέρας ὀψέ. On adv. of time with the gen., see G. 182, 2; H. 757 a; Kr. Spr. 47, 10, 4. For the form πρῶτερον, see on c. 19. 1. — 2. τῇ ἐπιχειρήσει τῇ αὐτῇ: in the same manner of attack, as described in c. 37. § 3; 38. § 1.

4. αὖθις: referring to τῆς δὲ ἡμέρας . . . ἀλλήλων, c. 38. 1. — ἐπὶ πολὺ τῆς ἡμέρας: see on c. 11. 18. — 5. πειρώμενοι: the mid. used like the act. (cf. c. 38. 2), as also in ii. 81. 10; 85. 6; iv. 132. 13. — πρὶν δὴ: till at last; before critical events. Cf. c. 71. 26; iii. 29. 5. On the const. with indic., see GMT. 67, 1; H. 924; Kühn. 568,

1 a; Kr. Spr. 54, 17, 6.—'Ἀρίστων: mentioned with praise also by Plut. Nic. 20, and Polyænus, v. 13. Acc. to Plut. Nic. 25, he fell in the great sea-flight (c. 70).—6. τῶν μετὰ Συρακοσίων: i.e. of all on the side of the Syracusans, those from abroad included.—7. σφετέρους: bracketed by Cl., as having no prop. connexion; but St. explains, "σφετέρους, sc. τῶν μετὰ Συρακοσίων, ex quibus ipse Aristo erat." Cf. c. 4, 10, ἀπήγαγε τοὺς σφετέρους. See on c. i. 27.—8. τοὺς ἐπιμελομένους: sc. τῆς ἀγορᾶς = τοὺς ἀγορανόμους.—9. τὴν ἀγορὰν τῶν πωλουμένων: "the market of all wares brought for sale"; in the army, of course, = ὅσα τις ἔχει ἐδώδιμα. Cf. Polyænus, v. 13, τὴν ἀγορὰν τῶν τροφῶν μεταγαγεῖν ἐπὶ τὴν θάλασσαν. Kr. and St. bracket τῶν πωλουμένων as unnecessary and without parallel.—10. μεταναστήσαντας ἐπὶ τὴν θάλασσαν: so Vat., the rest of the Mss. παρὰ τὴν θάλασσαν μεταστήσαι κομίσαντας. But παρὰ is not used for ἐπὶ with inanimate objects in Att. prose. Kr. Spr. 68, 36, 1. Besides, ἐπὶ is confirmed by the passage cited above from Polyænus. μεταναστήσαντας indicates not only the change of place, but the removal with all the utensils necessary to the market business, i.e. the σκευὰ καὶ γέρα, of which Dem. (xviii. 169) speaks in a like case. μεταστήσαντας would be nearly equiv. to κομίσαντας; but μεταναστήσαντας signifies the activity that must precede the κομίσαι, and therefore takes more prop. than κομίσαι the form of the partic. But Kr. and St. write μεταστήσαντας, because μεταναστήσαι seems to be used nowhere of things in this sense, while μεταστήσαι is so used in Eur. Bacch. 49; Polyb. ii. 17. 11.—12. αὐτοῦ: Portus's conjecture for αὐτοῖς, on the spot, i.e. just on the shore, which seems to be confirmed by c. 40. 4. But αὐτοῖς might be ethical dat., as Arn. and Lamberton explain.—13. ἀριστοποιήσονται: in the mid., prop. of the leaders, but implying also the sailors. Cf. viii. 95. 11, ὁ γὰρ Ἀθησανδρίδας ἀριστοποιησάμενος ἀνῆγε τὰς ναῦς. For the fut. in final clause (though some Mss. have the aor.), see GMT. 44, 1, n. 1; H. 881 c.—δι' ὀλίγου: temporal as in c. 15. 13; ii. 85. 9.—14. ἐπιχειρῶσι: co-ord. with the fut. ἀριστοποιήσονται. The same change of mood occurs in reversed order in ii. 72. 20, 21.

40. The Athenians allow themselves to be deceived, and begin the battle without sufficient preparation. The Syracusans do them great damage with the strengthened prows, and with little boats which run up under the sides of the hostile ships.

1. καὶ οἱ μὲν κτέ.: the rapid succession of short sent. connected by καὶ expresses vividly the execution of the plan.—2. πρύμναν κρουσάμενοι: see on c. 36. 28.—3. πάλιν: back; αὐθις (9), again.

5. ὡς ἡσσημένους σφῶν: "in the conviction (ὡς) that they could not cope with them." σφῶν is pers. gen. with ἡσσημένους; elsewhere we find the gen. of impers. nouns, as τοῦ δεινοῦ, τοῦ βήματος, iv. 37. 6; v. 111. 15.—7. ὡς οἰόμενοι: in the belief. On ὡς with the partic., see Kühn. 488, 1 a, α. Cf. vi. 32. 21.

10. διὰ θορύβου, καὶ ἄσιτοι: see on c. 32. 11.—οὐδενὶ κόσμῳ: common expression in Thuc. (c. 23. 16; 84. 9;

ii. 52. 5; iii. 108. 16), here having its cause in διὰ θορύβου, as iii. 108. 16 in ἀτάκτως.—11. μόλις ποτέ: i.e. it was a long time before order was sufficiently restored to enable them to sail out for battle.

12. ἀπέσχοντο ἀλλήλων: "they held off from one another." Cf. σφῶν αὐτῶν ἀπέσχοντο, viii. 92. 52.—φυλασσόμενοι: i.e. guarding against unforeseen attack.—οὐκ ἐδόκει τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις . . . ἀλίσκεσθαι: "they did not think best to wear themselves out with delay," lit. to be overcome with weariness through themselves (i.e. through their own fault) by delaying. Lamb. compares Soph. Aj. 216, μανίῳ ἀλούς. On the change of case in διαμέλλοντας, see G. 138, n. 8; Kr. Spr. 55, 2, 7. St. adopts Madvig's conjecture ἀναλίσκεσθαι, which is used of animals in the sense overwhelmed, consumed (Plat. Prot. 321 b; Aesch. Ag. 553), and is no doubt admissible; but it does not seem to be necessary.

15. δεξάμενοι: sc. ἐπιφερομένοις αὐτοῖς. Cf. iv. 127. 7.—16. ὥσπερ διενεόθησαν: cf. c. 36. 18.—17. τῶν ἐμβόλων: necessary emendation of Abresch, for ἐμβολῶν; for here the beak of the ship is meant, in which sense ἐμβολή does not occur in Att. prose. Observe, however, its use for a battering ram in ii. 76. 28.—ἀνερρήγνυσαν: cf. c. 34. 20; 36. 19.—18. ἐπὶ πολὺ τῆς παρεξειρεσίας: "far into the front part of the ship." See on c. 34. 21. For ἐπὶ πολὺ with the gen., see on c. 11. 18.—19. αὐτοῖς: sc. τοῖς Συρακοσίοις. For the const. of the dat., see on c. 34. 7.—20. τοῖς λεπτοῖς πλοίοις: as in ii. 83. 26.—21. ἐς τοὺς тарσοὺς ὑποπίπτοντες: Schol. ὑποδύμενοι ὑπὸ τοὺς тарсоὺς, i.e. darting in among the banks of oars, thus interfering with the rowing, and injuring the oars. Cf. Dio C. l. 32. 8, ἐς τε τοὺς тарсоὺς τῶν νεῶν ὑποπίπτοντες καὶ τὰς κῶπας συναράσσοντες. Boeckh (Seewesen, 112) explains the тарсоί as the whole of the oarage.—

22. ἐς τὰ πλάγια παραπλέοντες: sailing against (not past) the sides (of the ships).—23. ἐξ αὐτῶν: sc. τῶν λεπτῶν πλοίων.—ἐς τοὺς ναύτας ἀκοντίζοντες: hurling at the sailors. The acc. is used without prep. when hitting or wounding is to be expressed. Kr. Spr. 47, 14, 1. The missiles were doubtless hurled, as Arn. explains, through the port-holes for the oars. As to the size of these port-holes, cf. Hdt. v. 33. 12.

41. At last the Athenian ships, after great loss, seek refuge behind the line of transport boats. Elation of the Syracusans.

1. κατὰ κράτος: with all their might, to be connected with ναυμαχοῦντες, not, as the Schol. says, with ἐνίκησαν. It is so used with πολιορκεῖν (i. 64. 14); πολεμεῖν (i. 118. 21; ii. 54. 14); προσβάλλειν (iv. 131. 4).—3. διὰ τῶν ὀλκῶδων: cf. c. 38. 11.—4. ὄρμον: the open place of anchorage of the Athenians (cf. vi. 44. 12), which they had tried to turn into a λιμὴν κληροστός (c. 38. 11 ff.).

5. αἱ κεραῖαι: similar contrivances to those that the Plataeans had erected to ward off the battering rams from their walls (ii. 76. § 4). As in the passage cited, beams (δοκοί) were attached to crane-shaped poles, to be let down, so here δελφῖνες (Schol., σιδηροῦν κατασκευάσμα ἢ μολιβδινον εἰς δελφίνα ἐσχηματισμένον), heavy weights of lead or iron in the form of dolphins, possibly with the tail sharpened for the purpose of piercing through the vessels, and thus sinking them. Cf. Liv. xxxviii. 5, tollenonibus libramenta plumbi incutiebant. Poll. i. 54 mentions this contrivance as one used even on triremes, ὅπερ τὸ ξμβολον δελφίς ἴσταται, ὅταν ἡ ναὺς δελφινόφορος ᾖ. But this seems to be the only notice of the kind.—6. ἡρμέναι: (pf.) always drawn up (not ἀρθεῖσαι, occasionally), they hung threateningly over the intervals between every two ships (c. 38. 14), ὑπὲρ τῶν ἔσπλων. As the interval was two plethra, the length of the κεραῖαι was extraordinary; but they are to be conceived as stretching out from both sides over the intervening space. On the position of the partic., see on c. 23. 14.

7. ἐπαιρόμεναι τῇ νίκῃ: flushed with victory.—8. προσέμιξαν αὐτῶν ἐγγὺς: as in iv. 93. 4, προσέμιξεν ἐγγὺς τοῦ στρατεύματος. Without ἐγγὺς the dat. would be necessary. αὐτῶν includes both ὀλκάδων and κεραῖαι.—9. ἡ ἑτέρα: the one (of these two ships), from which it follows that the crew of the other escaped.

10. κατατραυματίσαντες: of ships also in viii. 10. 20; 42. 11. Cf. iv. 14. 5, ἔτρωσαν μὲν πολλὰς; Liv. xxxvii. 24, multis ictibus vulnerata navis erat.—12. τροπαῖα τε ἀμφοτέρων τῶν ναυμαχιῶν ἔστησαν: see on c. 24. 3. The reference is to the undecided action two days before (c. 38. § 1), and the last far more important one.—14. ταῖς μὲν: so placed as if only τὸν δὲ πεζὸν χειρώσεσθαι were to follow.—καὶ πολὺ: see on c. 34. 35.—ἐδόκουν δέ: weaker than τὴν ἐλπίδα (opinionem) ᾗδ' ἐχυρὰν εἶχον with which it is connected, "and they even thought."—15. κατ' ἀμφοτέρα: sc. τῷ τε πεζῷ καὶ ταῖς ναυσὶ. ζοντο αὐτοῖς: refers to the preparations of the Syracusans before the last battle (c. 36; 37. § 1), and doubtless shows the zeal of Gylippus.

42. Just at this time Demosthenes and Eurymedon reach the harbour of Syracuse with a fleet of 73 triremes and a reinforcement of 5,000 hoplites and numerous light troops. Demosthenes, in view of the unfavourable results of the previous dilatory manner of carrying on the war, urges Nicias to a speedy attack, by way of Eurymedon, upon the Syracusan cross-wall.

1. ἐν τούτῳ: i.e. while the Syracusans were still making preparations (παρασκευάζοντο). The day cannot be definitely determined. Grote (VII. c. 60, p. 141) considers it the second day after the sea-fight. — 2. ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀθηναίων: as to Bk.'s conjecture, ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀθηναίων, see on c. 18. 4. — παραγίγνεται: refers to the entrance of the βοήθεια into the great harbour, and the union with the fleet of Nicias. It is strange that the Syracusans who controlled the mouth of the harbour (c. 36. § 6) made no attempt to prevent the entrance. Plut. Nic. 21 states that Demosthenes sailed in δπλων κόσμῳ καὶ παρασήμοις τριήρων καὶ πλῆθει κελυστῶν καὶ ἀσλητῶν θαυρατικῶς καὶ πρὸς ἐκπληξιν πολέμιον ἐξησκημένον;

but on what authority is not known.

— 3. τρεῖς καὶ ἑβδομήκοντα: this number consists of 65 (c. 20. 7), 15 (c. 31. 26), 2 (c. 33. 23), and Eurymedon's ship (c. 31. 11), minus the 10 given to Conon (c. 31. 21). Since the number is stated with such accuracy, μάλιστα after ἑβδομήκοντα is rightly omitted by Vat. Plut. Nic. 21 agrees with Thuc. — ξὺν ταῖς ξενικαῖς: including those of the allies, i.e. of the Chians (c. 20. 8), the Corcyraeans (c. 31. 26), and the Metapontians (c. 33. 23). — ὀπλίτας . . . πεντακισχιλίους: Plut. and Diod. agree with Thuc. — 5. βαρβάρους: the 150 ἀκοντιστὰς τοῦ Μεσσαπίου ἔθνους, c. 33. 17. — οὐκ ὀλίγους: Plut. Nic. 21 says ἀκοντιστὰς καὶ τοξότας καὶ σφενδονήτας τρισχιλίον οὐκ ἐλάττους.

8. εἰ πέρας . . . κινδύνου: if there shall not be to them a final escape from danger. For the prot. with εἰ after κατάπληξιν . . . ἐγένετο, see GMT. 77, 1 c. τοῦ ἀπαλλαγῆναι is not governed by, but is explanatory of πέρας, appos. gen. Kühn. 402 d. Cf. 25 μοσθένης καὶ γιγνώσκων ὅτι καὶ αὐτὸς ἐν τῷ παρόντι the acc.; iii. 36. 8, ἐπικαλοῦντες with αὐτοῖς. Kühn. 493, 1 a. — διὰ τὴν Δεκέλειαν τειχιζομένην: see on c. 28. 25. — 10. οὐδέν: merely repeats the neg. in οὔτε. The correlative of οὔτε is τε. — ἶσον καὶ παραπλήσιον: cf. τοιαῦτα καὶ παραπλήσια in i. 22. 18; ἴσος καὶ ὁμοῖος, i. 27. 4; v. 27. 12; 59. 24. — 12. πανταχόσε: in all directions, only here in Thuc., who uses elsewhere πανταχόθεν, though rather in the sense "for the most various reasons" (i. 124. 1; ii. 53. 11; 59. 8; vi. 61. 18, etc.). — 13. ὥς ἐκ κακῶν: ὥς restrictive, as in iii. 113. 25: "a feeling of confidence (ῥώμη, see on c. 18. 8 and App. to vi. 31. 3) was restored so far as it was possible after their misfortunes." Cf. Hdt. viii. 101. 1, ταῦτα ἀκούσας Ξέρξης ὥς ἐκ κακῶν ἐχάρη; Liv. x. 43. 15, agmine incolumi ut ex tanta trepidatione Bovianum preventum. On ὥς, see Kr. Spr. 69, 63, 4.

15. οὐχ οἶόν τε εἶναι: non licere. Cf. iv. 22. 10; viii. 92. 23. — οὐδὲ παθεῖν: sc. οἶόν τε εἶναι. Cf. vi. 92. 6, where ἀξίῳ is understood in like manner after οὐδέ. So St. explains. For Cl.'s view, see App. — 17. φοβερός: inspiring terror, act. in force as in ii. 98. 20; iv. 126. 21, and below (26) δεινότητος. — 18. ἐν Κατάνῃ διεχειμάζεν: cf. vi. 72 ff. — 21. αὐτοί: alone, without help from outside. Cf. ii. 15. 6; iv. 49. 5; v. 60. 4; vi. 84. 9. — 24. αὐτοὺς: sc. τοὺς Συρακοσίους, the obj., with which we must supply as subj. τὸ μεταπέμψαι. — οὖν: after a long parenthesis as in c. 6. 7; ii. 85. 10; iii. 95. 9; vi. 64. 13. — ἀνασκοπῶν: reflecting on, renewing the idea of ἰδὼν τῇ πρώτῃ ἡμέρᾳ μάλιστα δεινότατός ἐστι τοῖς ἐναντίοις, ἐβούλετο ὅ τι τάχος ἀποχρήσασθαι τῇ παρουσίᾳ τοῦ στρατεύματος ἐκπλήξει. καὶ ὁρῶν τὸ παρατείχισμα τῶν Συρακοσίων, ᾧ ἐκώλυσαν περιτειχίσαι σφᾶς τοὺς Ἀθηναίους, ἀπλοῦν δὲ καί, εἰ ἐπικρατήσεί τις τῶν τε Ἐπιπολῶν τῆς ἀναβάσεως καὶ αὐθις τοῦ ἐν αὐταῖς στρατοπέδου, ῥαδίως ἂν αὐτὸ ληφθῆν (οὐδὲ γὰρ ὑπομεῖναι ἂν σφᾶς οὐδένα), ἡπείγετο ἐπιθέσθαι τῇ πείρᾳ καὶ οἱ ξυνοματάτην ἡγείτο διαπολέμῃσιν· ἥ γὰρ κατορθώσας ἔξεν Συρακούσας ἡ ἀπάξεν τὴν στρατιὰν καὶ οὐ τρύψεσθαι ἄλλως Ἀθηναίους τε τοὺς ξυστρατευομένους καὶ τὴν ξύμπασαν πόλιν.

καὶ νομίσας above. Cf. i. 132. 8.—26. μάλιστα: to be closely connected with τῇ πρώτῃ ἡμέρᾳ, on the very first day, so that these words form a strengthening addition to the sup. δεινότατος ἐν τῷ παρόντι. On such intensive expressions with the sup., see Kühn. 349^b, 7 c.—27. ὅ τι τάχος: as quickly as possible, in Thuc. only here. Cf. Hdt. ix. 7. 29. Kühn. 349^b, 7 e.—ἀποχρήσασθαι: to get the full benefit. Cf. i. 68. 20; vi. 17. 5.—τῇ παρουσίᾳ τοῦ στρατεύματος ἐκπλήξει: i.e. the consternation caused by his army. The gen. is objective. Kr. Spr. 47, 7, 5.

28. τὸ παρατείχισμα: cf. c. 4. § 1; 7. § 1.—30. ἀπλοῦν δὲ: cf. c. 4. 3.—ἐπικρατήσεί: from Vat., more expressive than κρατήσεί, which the rest of the Mss. have. Cf. i. 2. 10, τῆς τροφῆς ἐπικρατεῖν; of persons, iii. 93. 16; viii. 48. 9. ἐπικρατήσας = get the mastery of; ἐπικρατεῖν (c. 43. 3) = be master of.—τῶν τε Ἐπιπολῶν τῆς ἀναβάσεως: the objective gen. placed first, as often. See on i. 32. 8. The place of ascent was κατὰ τὸν Εὐρύηλον

(c. 43. 21; vi. 97. 11).—31. καὶ αὐθις: and furthermore, i.e. in consequence thereof. Cf. i. 70. 9; v. 43. 16.—τοῦ ἐν αὐταῖς στρατοπέδου: the hostile camp situated there, which is more definitely described, in its three divisions, in c. 43. § 4. Didot and Grote (VII. c. 60, p. 145) refer it to the camp of the Athenians made there after the storming of Euryelus (vi. 97. 24). They understand αὐθις = for the second time, but certainly incorrectly.—32. σφᾶς: see on c. 1. 27.—33. ἐπιθέσθαι: = ἐπιχειρήσας, with the idea of haste.—καὶ οἱ ξυνοματάτην ἡγείτο διαπολέμῃσιν: “and considered it his shortest way of ending the war.” διαπολέμῃσιν is pred.; the subj. is to be supplied from ἐπιθέσθαι τῇ πείρᾳ. See App.

35. τρίψεσθαι: wear out, as in vi. 18. 37. The fut. (Vat.) is necessary with ἀπάξεν.—ἄλλως: Schol. ἀπράκτως. Cf. c. 47. 17; ii. 18. 8; iv. 36. 2.—36. Ἀθηναίους τε τοὺς ξυστρατευομένους: = τοὺς τε ξυστρατευομένους Ἀθηναίους, i.e. not only the Athenians in the field, but the whole of the citizens at home.

 κοσίων ἔτεμον οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι περὶ τὸν Ἀναπον καὶ τῷ

43. After fruitless attacks on the cross-wall from the southern side, Demosthenes undertakes with the whole of the army, provided with all that was necessary, an attack from the north on Epipolae and the fortifications of the Syracusans situated there. They ascend the heights, and take the first fortifications. Even after Gylippus takes upon himself the defence, the Athenians continue to drive back the Syracusans before their impetuous assault, until they are checked by the stubborn resistance of the Boeotians, fall into confusion, and finally are forced to give way.

1. πρῶτον μὲν οὖν . . . Ὀλυμπιείου: with this sent., which is usually included in the preceding chap., c. 43 begins more appropriately. — ἐξελθόντες: sc. ἐκ τοῦ στρατοπέδου. — 3. ἐπεκράτουν: sc. τῆς γῆς. See on c. 42. 30. — ὥσπερ τὸ πρῶτον: i.e. after the fleet had united with the land army in the great harbour, vi. 103. § 1, 2. Later, it is true, Nicias declared in his letter to Athens (c. 11. 18), οὐδὲ τῆς χώρας ἐπὶ πολὺ διὰ τοὺς ἱππείας ἐξερχόμεθα. — 4. οὐδὲ καθ' ἑτε-ρα: i.e. neither by land nor sea =

κατ' οὐδέτερα. Cf. ii. 67. 34, μηδὲ μεθ' ἑτέρων. See on c. 41. 15.—5. ὅτι μὴ: nisi, as in iv. 26. 5; 94. 9. Kr. Spr. 65, 5, 11.—7. τοῦ παρατειχίσματος: the cross-wall (τὸ ἐγκύρσιον τείχος) begun by Gylippus c. 4. § 1, carried on c. 5, § 1, and finished c. 7. § 1, by which the completion of the Athenian wall of circumvallation was rendered impossible. Nicias calls it in his letter likewise παρατειχισμα (c. 11. 15), and points already at that time to the present undertaking of Demosthenes, μὴ εἶναι περιτειχίσαι αὐτούς, ἢν μὴ τις τὸ παρατειχισμα πολλῇ στρατιᾷ ἐπελθὼν ἔλῃ. See map of the siege.—8. προσαγαγόντι: the first fruitless attempt must have been directed from the south against the more eastern part of the παρατειχισμα. The Athenians found here a strong and watchful garrison. See App.—10. πολλαχῇ: at different points of the Syracusan cross-wall.—11. πείσας τὸν Νικίαν: acc. to Plut. Nic. 21, Nicias long opposed the plan.—τοὺς ἄλλους: Eurymedon, Menander, and Euthydemus (c. 16. 5, 9).—12. ὡς ἐπενόει:

only Vat. has ὥς, the rest καὶ after ἐπενδεί, which was prob. added after ὥς dropped out.

13. ἀδύνατα: the neut. pl. accords with the usage of Thuc. Cf. i. 1. 11; 125. 5; iv. 1. 13. See on i. 7. 2. All the Mss. except Vat. have ἀδύνατον. — 14. πένθ' ἡμερῶν σιτία: gen. of measure. See on c. 2. 17. — 15. λιθολόγους καὶ τέκτονας: as in vi. 44. 4. Cf. τέκτονες καὶ λιθουργοί in v. 82. 27. — 16. ἄλλην: besides. See on c. 4. 12. — παρασκευὴν τοξευμάτων: hardly appropriate between carpenters and what was necessary for wall-building. Madvig (Advn. I. p. 330) proposed μοχλευμάτων, Meineke λαξευμάτων (= λαξευτηρίων, implements for hewing stones); but neither is prob. The correct reading is still to be found. σιδήρια λιθουργά (iv. 4. 5) would suit the sense. — 17. ἀπὸ πρῶτου ὕπνου: = περὶ πρῶτον ὕπνον (ii. 2. 10. Cf. ἀφ' ἐσπέρας εὐθύς in iii. 112. 8; viii. 27. 27.

— 18. ἀναλαβὼν . . . ἐχώρει: unusual sing. after several preceding nouns, agreeing with the main subj. Cf. iv. 112. 9. The sing. at the beginning before several subjs. is common. Cf. i. 29. 6; iii. 70. 7; 72. 4. Kr. Spr. 63, 4. — τὴν πᾶσαν στρατιάν: Diod. says, "10,000 hoplites and as many light troops"; Plut. "the foot force." — 19. Νικίας δὲ . . . ὑπελείπετο: with Euthydemus, as it seems. The impf. ὑπελείπετο refers to his task of guarding the camp.

21. ἥπερ . . . ἀνέβη: cf. vi. 97. 11. — 24. ἄνδρας τῶν φυλάκων: τινας, which Vat. inserts after ἄνδρας, is not in accord with the usage of Thuc. Cf. ii. 33. 13; iv. 132. 16; v. 115. 11; viii. 71. 18. ἄνδρας has itself in these passages almost the force of τινας.

26. ἐν προτειχίσμασιν: rightly added from Vat., referring to the defensive outworks out of which Gylippus sallies (39). They were situated at some distance from one another, and abutted on the northern side of the παράτειχισμα. See the map. — 28. τῶν ζυμμάχων: i.e. those from Greece proper. — 29. τοῖς ἑξακοσίοις: this corps of the λογάδες τῶν ὁπλιτῶν (vi. 96. 16) which had suffered great loss (vi. 97. 20), had been restored prob. to its former strength, and stood here too, again, at the most dangerous post. — 30. ἔφραζον: informed them more clearly (impf.).

31. οἱ δ' ἐβοήθουν τε . . . καὶ αὐτοῖς ὁ Δημοσθένης κτέ.: paratactic const. for more vivid representation: "as they hastened to lend aid, the Athenians met them and put them to flight." See on c. 4. 5. — 34. τοῦ περαίνεσθαι: pass., not mid. as most editt. take it; for of the mid. of the simple verb there seems to be no example, though Plat. has διαπεραίνεσθαι (Phaedr. 263 e; Prot. 314 c; Legg. 673 c, etc.). It can therefore be taken only with βραδεῖς γένωνται (not with ὁρμῇ), which the Schol. correctly explains, τὸ μὴ βραδεῖς γένωνται ἀντὶ τοῦ μὴ ὑστερήσωσι κείται: "in order that they, in the impulse of the moment, might not be slow about the accomplishment of that for which they had come." G. 175, 2; H. 749. Quite different is the causal dat. βραδυντέροις τῷ ἀμύνεσθαι in iv. 34. 4, to which Kr. refers. — 35. ἄλλοι: as contrasted with αὐτοὶ (Demosthenes and the main body of the Athenians), Eurymedon and Menander with the rest of the Athenian forces. After the former had driven back the foremost Syracusans, the latter turned immediately to the attack on the cross-wall (παράτειχισμα). — ἀπὸ τῆς πρώτης τὸ παράτειχισμα: the Mss. read τὸ ἀπὸ τῆς πρώτης παράτειχισμα, which is impossible. Goeller transposed the art. as in our text. ἀπὸ τῆς πρώτης means at the very beginning. This formula, as well as ἀπὸ πρώτης (i. 77. 11), ἀπὸ τῆς πρώτης εὐθύς (Luc. de Conscrīb. Hist. i. 1), refers only to time. Matth. Gr. 282, 3. — 37. ἤρουν τε καὶ . . . ἀπέσυρον: inchoative impfs.

38. ὁ Γύλιππος καὶ οἱ μετ' αὐτοῦ: Cl., referring to 27, thinks that Gylippus perhaps had taken command esp. of the more independent Siceliotas, most of whom were in action now for the first time; Hermocrates of the main army of the Syracusans and the dependent allies. But Diod. XIII. 11 says that Hermocrates commanded the Six Hundred (29). It is more likely, perhaps, that οἱ μετὰ Γυλίσκου refers to τῶν συμμάχων in 28 (the allies from the rest of Greece), οἱ ἐσόμεχοι here to τῶν ἄλλων Σικελιωτῶν, in 27. — 41. ἐκπεπληγμένοι: i.e. from the very beginning, βιασθέντες (aor.) in the course of the battle. — ὑπ' αὐτῶν: sc. τῶν Ἀθηναίων.

43. ὡς κεκρατηκότων: the pf. partic. indicates the fatal illusion: "feeling that the victory had already been fully decided for them." — 44. διὰ παντὸς τοῦ μήπω μεμαχημένου: the common use of the neut. partic. in a collective sense, as in c. 85. 12, 14; iv. 96. 17; vi. 89. 16. Kr. Spr. 43, 4, 17. So it is used in an abstract sense in i. 36. 3; ii. 87. 9, 10. — 45. διελθεῖν: to get through with them, as in iii. 45. 9, διεξεληλύθασι διὰ πασῶν τῶν ζημιῶν οἱ ἑνθροποι. But St. understands διελθεῖν in lit. sense, pervadere per hostes eosque dissipare. So Valla. — τῆς ἐφόδου: with ἀνέντων, as in v. 32. 13, ἀνείσαν τῆς φιλονικίας. Kühn. 421, 3. — 46. οἱ Βοιωτοί: cf. c. 19. 17; 25. 13. The merit of the Boeotians is mentioned esp. by Plut. Nic. 21. — 47. ἐς φυγὴν κατέστησαν: cf. iii. 108. 5; iv. 14. 4, etc.

44. The difficulty of maintaining order in the darkness and uncertainty turns the retreat into a wild flight, in which many perish, part in the pursuit, still more in leaping down from the cliff. Vivid description of the different events.

1. ἐν . . . ἀπορίᾳ ἐγίνοντο: comprehensive expression for the fearful situation described in § 2 ff. Cf. iv. 26. 8. — 2. ἦν: placed first by prolepsis. Arn. explains that we should have expected ὅτῳ τρόπῳ ξυνηέχθη, sc. ἡ ταραχή, but that ἕκαστα having been inserted, the sent. is now ungrammatical. As it stands, ἕκαστα seems to bear a sort of partitive relation to the subj. implied in ἦν. — οὐδὲ . . . ῥάδιον ἦν: this expression undoubtedly refers to Thucydides' own experience. See Introd. to Book I. p. 15. — 3. οὐδ' ἀφ' ἐτέρων: i.e. neither from Athenians nor from Syracusans. Cf. v. 26. 26, where Thuc. speaks of his care in μένῃ παρ' ἀμφοτέροις τοῖς πράγμασι. For position of the prep., see on c. 43. 4.

 — 4. σαφέστερα μὲν: not to be const.
 with οἶδεν, but with something like τὰ γιγνόμενά ἐστι to be supplied from ξυνηνέχθη. — ὅμως . . . οἶδεν: “but still even of these things those who are engaged do not (know) everything, except (so far as) each knows with difficulty what happens just about himself.” πάντα follows οὐδὲ ταῦτα in explanatory appos. οἶδεν agrees with the nearer ἕκαστος. Kr. Spr. 63, 1, 3.
 Cf. c. 27. 8, where ἕκαστος takes a pl.
 verb. — 6. δῆ: belongs with μόνη as in ii. 77. 7 with πᾶσαν, i. 33. 13 with ὀλίγοις. — 7. ἐν γε τῷδε τῷ πολέμῳ:
 γε (from Vat.) as in iv. 48. 24, ὅσα γε κατὰ τὸν πόλεμον τόνδε. — ἂν τις . . .
 ᾔδει: the transition to the particular case was made at 7, hence only ᾔδει, not εἰδείη, which some Mss. give, is possible.

9. ὥς . . . εἰκός: sc. ὁρᾶν, to which the following infs. are added in explanation. — 10. τὴν δὲ γνῶσιν τοῦ οἰκείου ἀπιστεῖσθαι: “to distrust their recognition of persons.” τοῦ οἰκείου signifies what was especial or peculiar,
 in direct contrast to τοῦ σώματος.
 ἀπιστεῖσθαι as v. 68. 6, τὰ πλήθῃ ἠπιστεῖτο. — 11. ἀνεστρέφοντο: versa-bantur, as in iv. 35. 2; viii. 94. 9.

12. τῶν Ἀθηναίων: i.e. those who,
 acc. to c. 43. § 3, 4, had first ascended the heights and immediately pressed on (c. 43. § 5). With these is contrasted in 13 τὸ ἄλλο στράτευμα. — οἱ δὲ ἔτι . . . ἐχώρουν: i.e. were advancing unchecked with their first impulse.
 Cf. c. 43. 33. — 14. αὐτοῖς: see on
 c. 34. 7. — 15. πρὸς ὃ τι χρὴ χωρῆσαι:
 which way to turn. — 16. τὰ πρόσθεν:
 the troops that had first pressed forward. — 17. χαλεπὰ . . . διαγνῶναι:
 with τὰ πρόσθεν, as in i. i. 10, τὰ ἔτι παλαιότερα σαφῶς εὐρεῖν ἀδύνατα.

 30 πολεμίων, διέφευγον αὐτοὺς ἅτε ἐκείνων ἐπιστάμενοι τὸ

18. ὥς κρατοῦντες: in the feeling of victory. The ὥς of Vat. is preferable to the simple partic. — 19. κραυγῇ οὐκ ὀλίγη χρώμενοι: "with loud cries," to be taken with παρεκελεύοντο (sc. ἀλλήλους) and καὶ ἅμα τοὺς προσφερομένους (the Athenians coming up) ἐδέχοντο as shown by τε, καὶ ἅμα. — ἀδύνατον δὲ: for the acc. abs. of impers. phrase, see G. 278, 2; H. 973; Kühn. 487, 3. — 20. σημῆναι: common term in military language. Cf. c. 50. 26; v. 71. 17. — 21. οἱ τε Ἀθηναῖοι: i.e. οἱ νεωστὶ ἀνεβέβηκεσαν. τε is correlative to τε in 17. Observe the repeated correlation with τε, καὶ throughout the sent. — σφᾶς αὐτοὺς: = ἀλλήλους, as in viii. 92. 52. Kr. Spr. 51, 2, 16. The meaning is: those who were just coming up looked about for those who had gone before, but took all who came toward them, i.e. even their own people who were fleeing back, for enemies. — 22. τὸ ἐξ ἐναντίας: the correct reading from Vat. instead of the vulgate τὸ ἐναντίον. Cf. Schol. γράφεται καὶ πᾶν τὸ ἐξ ἐναντίας. For ἐξ ἐναντίας, from the opposite direction, cf. iv. 33. 5; 35. 11. For the neut. sing. in collective sense, see Kühn. 347, 3. — πάλιν: see on c. 40. 3. — 23. τοῦ ξυνθήματος: λόγος ἐν πολέμῳ τῶν οἰκείων διδόμενος, Etymol. Mag. Cf. 31 below. Cf. Tac. Hist. iii. 22, crebris interrogationibus notum pugnae signum. — 24. εἶναι: = παρῆναι. See on c. 11. 15. — γνωρίσαι: sc. ἀλλήλους. — 25. σφίσι τε αὐτοῖς . . . ἐρωτῶντες: i.e. they caused confusion among themselves, because all were asking at the same time, and therefore no one got an intelligible answer. — 26. σαφὲς αὐτὸ κατέστησαν: cf. i. 32. 6; 140. 30. αὐτὸ, sc. τὸ ζήτημα.

27. τὸ δ' ἐκείνων . . . ἠπίσταντο: but their (the Syracusans') watchword the Athenians did not know to the same extent (οὐχ ὁμοίως). — διὰ τὸ . . . ἦσσαν ἀγνοεῖσθαι: sc. ἐν ἀλλήλοις. The Syracusans had no need to ask for their own watchword, because they kept together (μὴ διεσπασμένους) and knew one another. — 29. ἐντύχοιεν ξύνθημα, εἰ δ' αὐτοὶ μὴ ὑποκρίνονται, διεφθείροντο.

 μέγιστον δὲ καὶ οὐχ ἥκιστα ἐβλαψεν καὶ ὁ παιανισμός· ὁ τισι: sc. οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι. τισι governs τῶν πολεμίων.—31. αὐτοί: the Athenians again, who throughout the whole description are those first in mind.—ὑποκρίνονται: = ἀποκρίνονται. Cf. Hdt. i. 78. 14; 91. 29; 164. 8. Understand here something like ἐντυχόντες κρείσσοσι τῶν πολεμίων.

32. μέγιστον καὶ οὐχ ἥκιστα: see on c. 24. 12.—καὶ ὁ παιανισμός: cf. Schol. on i. 50. 20, δύο παιᾶνας ἦδον οἱ Ἕλληνες, πρὸ μὲν τοῦ πολέμου τῷ Ἀρεῖ, μετὰ δὲ τὸν πόλεμον τῷ Ἀπόλλωνι. Cl. and St. adopt everywhere, though against most of the Mss., παιανισμός, παιανίζειν for the forms with ω (παιων-). See on i. 50. 20; vi. 32. 10. Herodian recognizes only παιαν.—35. φόβον παρείχε: sc. τὸ παιανίσαι. The Athenians thought the paean of their Dorian allies was hostile, just as that of the enemy themselves.—36. οἱ τε πολέμιοι ὁμοίως: sc. ὁπότε παιανίσκειαν.

39. καθίστασαν: understand αὐτοὺς or ἀλλήλους. Cf. ἐς φόβον καταστήναι, ii. 81. 27; iv. 96. 23. See on c. 43. 47. On the impf. for the aor., see App.—40. μόλις ἀπελύοντο: were separated with difficulty, of bitter contest, as in c. 63. 3; i. 49. 7.

41. πολλοί: so all the later edit. for οἱ πολλοί of the Mss., because acc. to the whole account, and esp. c. 45. § 2, the majority did not perish in this way. Besides, Plut. and Valla seem not to have read the art.—ῥιπτοῦντες: on the form, see App.—ἑαυτούς: for σφᾶς αὐτούς. Cf. ii. 4. 18; 49. 22.—42. πάλιν: with καταβάσεως as in c. 38. 16 with ἐκπλους, c. 62. 13 with ἀνδροουσίς. Cf. iv. 10. 14; v. 5. 1. Kr. Spr. 50, 8, 4.—43. ἐπειδὴ . . . καταβαῖεν: opt. with reference to the different divisions.—44. τῶν προτέρων στρατιωτῶν: i.e. τῆς προτέρας στρατιᾶς (c. 43. 21), who, as they had ascended Epipolae in the summer of 414 B.C.,

were better acquainted with the country. — 45. διεφύγγανον: for this fuller form, cf. φυγγάνω, Aesch. Prom. 513; Soph. El. 132; ἀποφυγγάνω, Dem. xxiii. 74; διαφυγγάνω, Aeschin. iii. 10; Arr. An. iv. 4. 6; ἐκφυγγάνω, Aesch. Prom. 525; καταφυγγάνω, Aeschin. iii. 208; Hdt. vi. 16. 4. — 46. εἰσὶν οἱ: part. appos. to οἱ δέ, as i. 119. 4, οἱ ἄλλοι, οἱ πλείους. Cf. iv. 52. 4; vi. 88. 21. — διαμαρτόντες τῶν ὁδῶν: also in i. 106. 3. — 47. ἐπλανήθησαν, διέφθειραν: the fate of individuals (εἰσὶν οἱ) stated in the aor.

45. The Syracusans erect two trophies. Losses of the Athenians.

2. ἢ ἡ πρόσβασις: sc. ἐγένετο = ἢ οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι προσέβησαν, corresponding to ἢ οἱ Βοιωτοὶ ἀντέστησαν. πρόσβασις is used not in a local sense, the way up, but with verbal force, the ascending (of the heights by way of Eurycles, c. 43. 21). — 3. ἢ οἱ Βοιωτοὶ ἀντέστησαν: on the reading, see App. — 4. ὑποσπόνδους ἐκομίσαντο: see on c. 5. 9.

οὐκ ὅλῳι: acc. to Diod. xiii. 11, 2500; Plut. Nic. 21, 2000. — 5. ὅπλα: esp. shields. — 6. πλείω ἢ κατὰ τοὺς νεκρούς: cf. c. 75. 22; i. 76. 17; ii. 50. 2; v. 102. 2; vi. 15. 10. Kr. Spr. 49, 4. — 7. ψιλοὶ [ἄνευ τῶν ἀσπίδων]: ψιλοὶ is pred. The bracketed words Pluygers, Cl., and St. consider an interpolation. See App. Cobet propbed ἀπώλοντο, but the impf. is prop. used of those who, scattered over the country (ἐπλανήθησαν, c. 44. 47), met their death, one after another, at the hands of the cavalry. ἐσώθησαν indicates only the final result. — 8. οἱ μὲν . . . οἱ δέ: part. appos. to οἱ γὰρ . . . βιασθέντες ἄλλεσθαι.

2. εὐπραγία: Thuc. uses equally the forms εὐπραγία and εὐπραξία. Cf. iii. 39. 23, ἀπροσδόκητος εὐπραξία. — πάλιν αὖ: as in c. 64. 1, not pleonastic; πάλιν, back, i.e. into the former mood, αὖ, again, this change having taken place once already. πάλιν αὖ and ὥσπερ καὶ πρότερον both belong to ἀναρρωσθέντες, and refer to c. 41. § 4, when a feeling of confidence had been conceived, and to c. 42. § 2, when this had again been lost.—3. ἐς Ἀκράγαντα: Schol. τὸν Ἀκράγαντα ἄρσενικῶς. Cf. c. 50. 2. It is named from the river near by. See Schubring, Akragas, p. 5. The city had declared itself neutral, c. 33. 7; but now in consequence of internal disturbances (στασιάζοντα) the prospects were more favourable for Syracuse. Therefore 15 triremes had been sent to the support of the Syracusan party in the city.—4. Σικανόν: one of the generals chosen with Hermocrates, vi. 73. 3.—ἐπαγάγοιτο: must be preferred here, as in iii. 63. 5 (cf. v. 45. 4), to the vulgate ὑπαγάγοιτο, as Pluygers (Mnem. 11, 96) rightly observes; for the object was to bring over the city to the Syracusan side, not to subdue it. Cf. c. 50. § 1.—5. ἄλλην: rightly added by Vat., as Sicily is opp. to Agrigentum. Cf. c. 7. 6, δ Γύλιππος ἐς τὴν ἑλλὴν Σικελίαν ἐπὶ στρατιάν τε ὥχετο, to which αὖθις in 6 refers.—6. ἐν ἐλπίδι ὦν: see on c. 25. 4.

47. The attack on Eripolae having failed, and the Athenian army suffering severely from sickness, Demosthenes proposes as hasty a departure as possible, in order that they may at least bring help to the hard-pressed mother-city.

2. πρὸς τὴν . . . ξυμφορὰν: in view of the misfortune that had befallen them. See on ii. 22. 1.—3. ἄρρωστίαν: as in iii. 15. 11, despondency. Cf. viii. 83. 7, ἄρρωστότερον.—5. ἀχθομένους τῇ μοιῇ: cf. v. 7. 3, ἀχθομένων τῇ ἔδρῳ.

νόσῳ τε γὰρ ἐπιέζοντο . . . ἐφαίνετο: this sent. contains the reasons why the troops were displeased at remaining longer (ἤχθοντο τῇ μοιῇ), of which there are two: the prevailing sickness and the utter hopelessness of success. The first reason, which is introduced by γάρ, rests in turn on two grounds, of which the first is expressed in gen. abs., the second (τὸ χωρὶον . . . ἦν) in independent const. (cf. c. 13. 7 ff.). The second main cause, however (τὰ ἄλλα ἀνέλπιστα ἐφαίνετο), is connected by ὅτι directly with ἀχθομένους τῇ μονῇ, on account of the interposition of the irregular τὸ χωρίον ἦν. The two reasons, the material one (sickness) and the moral one (hopelessness), are co-ord. by τε, τε as equally influential. In accordance with this view, Cl. puts a colon after μονῇ and a comma after ἦν. So Arn. explains, but without altering the punctuation. Kr., St., and Bm. follow Reiske in omitting δι. — 6. κατ' ἀμφοτέρα: for two reasons, as in viii. 65. 8. — τῆς ὥρας τοῦ ἐνιαυτοῦ: cf. Plut. Nic. 22, μετοπάρου γὰρ ἦν ἡ ἀρχή. Thuc. says in c. 79. 10, only a few weeks later, τοῦ ἔτους πρὸς μετόπωρον ἤδη ὄντος. Cf. c. 50. § 4. — 7. ἄνθρωποι: on the omission of the art., see Kr. Spr. 50, 3, 6. — 8. χαλεπὸν: hard to bear, i.e. unhealthy.

10. ἅπερ καὶ διανοηθεὶς . . . διεκινδύνευσεν: so with Vat., for as the remark belongs to Thuc., not to Demosthenes, διακινδυνεύσαι (sc. ἔφη, referring to Demosthenes) is impossible. Thuc. recalls the views which Demosthenes had held from the beginning.

Cf. c. 42. § 5. — 11. ἐς τὰς Ἐπιπολὰς διεκινδύνευσεν: risked (the attack) on Epipolae. Cf. iii. 36. 11, ἐς Ἴωνίαν . . . παρακινδυνεύσαι. Kr. Spr. 68, 21, 4. — 12. ἐψηφίζετο: i.e. in this council of the commanders only; ψηφισομένους μετὰ πολλῶν in c. 48. 5 refers to a general council to be held later. — τὸ πέλαγος οἶόν τε περαιούσθαι: i.e. before Nov. — 13. τοῦ στρατεύματος . . . κρατεῖν: the part. gen. depending on ταῖς . . . ναυσὶ, κρατεῖν on οἶόν τε, "while it was possible, at least with the newly arrived ships of the armament (even if little dependence was to be placed on the remainder) to prevail at sea." The Schol. wrongly explains, τοῦ πολεμίου στρατεύματος.

16. ἢ Συρακοσίους: i.e. ἢ πρὸς τοὺς Συρακοσίους. On the omission of the prep., see Kr. Spr. 68, 9. Cf. i. 6. 21; 21. 5; vi. 78. 4; viii. 96. 10. In iii. 44. 3, the prep. is repeated. — οὓς . . . εἶναι: inf. by assimilation. G. 260, 2, n. 2; H. 947. — 17. οὐδ' αὖ: neque vero, as in i. 10. 31; iv. 87. 19, and freq. The thought of c. 42. § 5 is repeated in this passage with more emphasis. — 18. προσκαθῆσθαι: of persistent siege, as in c. 48. 10; 49. 7; iv. 130. 9; vi. 89. 30.

48. Nicias, on the contrary, although secretly recognizing the gravity of the situation, still considers that of the Syracusans not more favourable, because they lack money and are not equal to the Athenians at sea. Besides, the secret information which he receives from the pro-Athenian party in Syracuse, leads him to hope for a revolution. But especially does he fear that their withdrawal without having accomplished anything will bring upon them the bitterest accusations at Athens, and even lead to their destruction. And since the Syracusans cannot possibly long keep up their great exertions, he insists on waiting for the probable ruin of their power.

3. πόνηρα: Schol. ἀσθενῆ, ἐπι-σφαλῆ, ἐπικίνδυνα. For the accent in this sense, see App. — τῷ δὲ λόγῳ: in open speech, i.e. in the council of war. — 6. καταγγέλτους γίνεσθαι: Schol. θῆλους διὰ μηνύματος; "he did not wish that it should be revealed to the enemy if they (Nicias and the other leaders) in a full council (μετὰ πολλῶν) openly voted for the retreat." With this personal const. of the verbal adj. with γίνεσθαι cf. viii. 14. 2, ἐξάγγελτοι γενέσθαι; Hdt. ii. 119. 10, ἐπῳστός ἐγένετο. See on iii. 30. 3. — λαθεῖν γὰρ ἄν κτέ.: sc. εἰ κατάγγελτοι γίνοντο κτέ., i.e. they could not so easily retreat unobserved, whenever they might wish to do so, if, etc. — 7. ποιοῦντες: nom. referring to ἐφ to be supplied from ἐβούλετο (4), and pl. since Nicias represents the Athenians. Kühn. 476, note 1, explains that it is attracted into the case of the subj. of the subord. clause ὅποτε βούλονται.

τὸ δέ τι καί: accedit quod, as in i. 107. 19; 118. 12. — 8. ἀφ' ὧν . . . αὐτῶν: "according to what he more than the rest knew of them." Cf. vi. 17. 23; 20. 4. αὐτῶν depends on ἐ contained in ἀφ' ὧν, and refers to τὰ τῶν πολεμίων. Kr. Spr. 47, 10, 2. Cf. v. 26. 25, ἐνέβη μοι . . . καθ' ἡσυχίαν τι αὐτῶν μάλλον ἀσθεσθαι. — 9. ἐλπίδος τι: also in ii. 51. 29. Cf. c. 69. 11, λαμπρότης τι; iii. 44. 6, τι ξυγγνώμης. — 10. χρημάτων . . . ἐκτρυχεῖν: for they will wear them out by want of supplies. αὐτοῖς refers to the ἤδη ταῖς ὑπαρχούσαις ναυσὶ θαλασσοκρατούντων. καὶ (ἦν

Syracusans; the subj. of ἐκτρυχώσειν is the Athenians. The remainder of the sent., ἄλλως τε καὶ . . . θαλασσοκρατούντων, seems to indicate that χρήματα here means supplies, not money.

—12. θαλασσοκρατούντων: sc. σφῶν, the gen. abs., although the subj. implied in ἐκτρυχώσειν is nom. Cf. iii. 13. 30, βοηθησάντων δὲ ὑμῶν προθύμως, πόλιν τε προσλήψεθε κτέ., where the subj. of the gen. abs. is the same as that of the leading verb. Kr. Spr. 47, 4, 2. Cf. ii. 83. 15, 16; v. 31. 7. — καὶ (ἦν γὰρ . . . ἐνδοῦναι) ἐπεκηρυκεύετο: the causal sent. in parataxis before the main one, not uncommon in Thuc. See on i. 31. 7. The subj. of ἐπεκηρυκεύετο is to be supplied from the parenthesis τὸ ἐν ταῖς Συρακούσαις βουλόμενον κτέ. The word is used here and in c. 49. 4 of secret messages, the bearers of which are called διάγγελοι in c. 73. 27. — 15. οὐκ εἶα: advised against. Cf. vi. 72. 7; viii. 46. 31.

16. ἐπ' ἀμφοτέρα ἔχων: an unusual expression, inclining to both sides, wavering between two decisions, explained by διασκοπῶν (c. 71. 36; i. 52. 11). — ἀνείχε: kept holding back (with his decision). Schol. οὐδεμιᾷ προσετίθετο γνώμη. Cf. Dio C. Iviii. 12, ἔτι διασκοπῶν δ τι πρόξῃ ἀνείχε. It is intr. Kr. Spr. 52, 2, 3. Cf. ii. 18. 22; viii. 94. 11. — τῷ δ' ἐμφανεῖ τότε λόγῳ: in open speech at that time (as he was obliged to express his opinion in the council of war); opp. to τῷ μὲν ἔργῳ. — 18. οὐκ ἀποδέξονται: as in iii. 57. 5, will not approve = μέμφομαι, and so, like it, const. with acc. of thing and gen. of person. Cf. i. 84. 1, δ μέμφομαι μάλιστα ἡμῶν; i. 138. 1, ἐθαύμασεν αὐτοῦ τὴν δίδνοιναν. St. and Bm. make σφῶν depend on ταῦτα. — 19. ὥστε . . . ἀπελθεῖν: explanatory of ταῦτα namely, that they should withdraw without their order. ὥστε as in c. 14. 11; 49. 5; vi. 88. 47. GMT. 98, 2, n. 2. — οὐ τοὺς αὐτοὺς ψηφιεῖσθαι τε περὶ σφῶν αὐτῶν καὶ τὰ πράγματα . . . γνώσεσθαι: the paratactic const., though logically the second clause is subord., “not the same persons would pass judgment on them and form their opinions,” etc., i.e. a class of persons would pass judgment on them very different from those who would form their opinions from seeing the state of affairs, as they do themselves, rather than from hearsay on the fault-finding of others. Bk. was right in striking out αὐτῶν after σφῶν, since σφῶν refers not to τοὺς αὐτοὺς but to the speaker (Nicias) and his comrades. — 21. ὥσπερ καὶ αὐτοί: the nom. as in i. 32. 3; v. 29. 9; 44. 9. — ἄλλων ἐπιτιμήσει ἀκούοντας: so with Vat. rather than the vulgate ἀκούσαντας, since it is co-ord. with ὀρώντας. — 22. ἐξ ὧν ἂν τις . . . διαβάλλοι: ἂν belongs to the opt. and not to the rel. "by slanders such as any one might bring forward (διαβάλλοι ἂν) in fine speeches, they would allow themselves to be persuaded." Cf. c. 50. 33; viii. 54. 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100. — 23. ἐκ τούτων: epanalepsis, as in iii. 64. 5. G. 152, n. 3; H. 996 b. — αὐτοὺς: sc. τοὺς Ἀθηναίους.

24. καὶ τοὺς πλείους: and even most. Cf. c. 68. 7; 80. 18. — 25. βῶσιν: cry out, esp. of indignant complaints. Cf. vi. 28. 9; viii. 86. 8. — 26. ὑπὸ χρημάτων καταπροδόντες: becoming traitors for money. Cf. Lys. VII. 21, ὑπὸ τῆς ἐμῆς δυνάμεως καὶ τῶν ἐμῶν χρημάτων οὐδεὶς θέλει σοι μαρτυρεῖν. καταπροδόντες is used intr. Kr. Spr. 52, 1, 2. — 27. ἐπιστάμενος τὰς Ἀθηναίων φύσεις: cf. c. 14, § 2, 4. — 28. ἐπ' αἰσχυρᾷ αἰτίᾳ: on a disgraceful charge. Cf. i. 102. 16, ἐπὶ τῷ βελτίονι λόγῳ; i. 141. 3, ἐπὶ μεγάλῃ καὶ ἐπὶ βραχείᾳ ὁμοίως προφάσει. — 30. μᾶλλον ἢ . . . ἰδίᾳ: rather than incurring danger of his own accord to suffer this, if need be, at the hands of the enemy. κινδυνεύσας has the principal emphasis. This idea is emphasized still further by the significant position of ἰδίᾳ. For other advs. thus emphatically placed last, cf. i. 28. 12; 77. 19; iii. 55. 13. — ἰδίᾳ: on his own responsibility, as opp. to ἐπ' αἰσχυρᾷ αἰτίᾳ; Arn. and St., for his part, i.e. he would rather lose his individual life, etc.

31. ὅμως: i.e. however bad their own condition might be, still. Cf. v. 61. 3. — 32. ἐν περιπολίοις: Schol. ἐν τοῖς περὶ τὴν πόλιν τειχίσμασι καὶ οἰκοδομαῖς. Cf. vi. 45. 6, ἐς τὰ περιόλια τὰ ἐν τῇ χώρᾳ φρουρὰς ἐσεκόμειον. — ἀναλίσκοντας: sc. χρήματα. — 33. καὶ

... ἔτι: et praeterea. Cf. vi. 31. 13, καὶ ξύμμαχοι ἔτι. — βόσκοντας: maintaining, as in Hdt. vi. 39. 14, πεντακοσίους βόσκων ἐπικούρους. It is not elsewhere used of men in Att. prose, but often in a contemptuous sense in the poets. — 34. τὰ μὲν, τὰ δέ: the first is explained by δισχίλια γὰρ... προσοφείλιν; the second by ἦν τε... πράγματα. — ἔτι: Cl. and Kr. render hereafter (cf. vi. 86. 24, ἔτι βουλήσεσθε): Arn. translates the passage: "Were in some respects ill provided, and in others, moreover, they would be utterly at a loss how to proceed." — 35. ἀνηλωκέναι: on the aug., see App. — προσοφείλιν: they owe besides, i.e. are in arrears with many payments. — 36. ἦν τε καὶ ὅτιοῦν ἐκλίπωσι τῆς νῦν παρασκευῆς: cf. c. 13. 3, εἰ ἀφαιρησομέν τι καὶ βραχὺ τῆς τηρήσεως. — 37. τροφήν: pecuniam alimentariam, the common meaning in military usage. Cf. vi. 93. 20. In Dem. iv. 28, σιτηρέσιον (= τροφή). — φθερεῖσθαι: fut. mid. used pass. Kühn. 376, note 1; Kr. Spr. 40 s.v. — ἐπικουρικὰ μᾶλλον ἢ δι' ἀνάγκης: Schol. μισθοφόρον τοῖς Συρακοίοις ὄντων, καὶ οὐχὶ δι' ἀνάγκην στρατευομένων πολιτῶν, ὥσπερ Ἀθηναίων.

39. καὶ μὴ χρήμασιν: it seems better not to bracket χρήμασι as Cl. does. The concluding argument of Demosthenes in c. 47. 17 was, "nor again was it proper to continue the siege, expending much money to no purpose," i.e. the money consideration was his final objection to staying longer. Nicias's final argument was an answer to this, "they ought to continue the siege (τρίβειν προσκαθημένους) and not to go away conquered by money (by the money consideration), as they were much superior (in this respect)." With this comparison the sent. becomes clear. If any change in the text is to be made, the emendation of Korais, οἷς for ὧς, most commends itself. See App.

49. Demosthenes is decidedly against the continuation of the siege, and insists, if they may not leave Sicily without orders from Athens, that they go back to Thapsus or Catana, whence they could ravage the enemy's territory with their land-force, and where they would have the advantage of the open sea for the movement of their fleet. On account of this difference of opinion much precious time is lost.

1. λέγων ἰσχυρίζετο: as in 23, insisted emphatically. The idea is, asserted confidently, rather than asserted persistently. Cf. iii. 44. 9; iv. 23. 6.—3. πολὺ τὸ βουλόμενον: the correction πολὺ, for the unintelligible που of the Mss., is due to Linwood (Jahrb. 1862, p. 202), who refers to the imitation of the passage in Dio C. xlv. 8, πλείστον γὰρ ἔστι τὸ βουλόμενον πάντας . . . ἀλλήλοις διαφέρεισθαι. Cf. Plut. Nic. 21, ἦσαν ἄνδρες οὐκ ὀλίγοι διαλεγόμενοι τῷ Νικίᾳ κρύφα ὥστε μὴ ἀπανίστασθαι. The art. is prop. with βουλόμενον, since reference is had to c. 48. 13.—τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις γίγνεσθαι: Cl. is doubtless right in explaining τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις as dat. of possession with γίγνεσθαι, though in the examples he cites (iii. 23. 26; v. 55. 14; viii. 57. 8) γίγνεσθαι seems rather = contingere, evenire. St. adds ὑποχείρια before γίγνεσθαι, citing iii. 86. 18.—5. ὥστε: see on c. 48. 19.—ταῖς γούν ναυσίν, ἥ πρότερον, ἐθάρσυνε κρατηθεῖς: this is St.'s reading for ἥ πρότερον θαρσύνει (Vat. ἐθάρσυνε) of the Mss.: "and at the same time though beaten, he placed confidence in the ships at least, as before." See

App. For ἥ πρότερον, cf. c. 4. 22 ff. The connexion of the finite verb ἐθάρσυνε with the partic. αἰσθόμενος raises no difficulty. The anacoluthon is essentially the same as in c. 47. § 2. Cf. i. 57. § 4.

7. περὶ . . . τοῦ προσκαθῆσθαι: as to the question of continuing the siege. See on c. 47. 18.—οὐδ' ὅπως οὖν: cf. c. 60. 20; i. 77. 9; viii. 90. 16; 91. 21.—8. ἐνεδέχετο: here, as in v. 15. 9, without def. obj., which is easily supplied from the context.—9. αὐτοῦ: there, i.e. in Sicily. Kr.'s emendation, adopted by Cl. and St., for αὐτοῦς, which as the subj. of τρίβειν is without force and unnecessary, even if admissible.—10. Θάψον: where the fleet on the voyage out had lain for some time. Cf. vi. 97. 9.—Κατάνην: here too the fleet had made a long stay, vi. 50. 10 to vi. 97. 3.—11. ἐπὶ πολλὰ τῆς χώρας: see on c. 11. 18.—θρέψονται: = τὸ στρατεύμα θρέψουσι, the fut. in rel. clause of purpose, as in vi. 21. 7.—14. πρὸς τῶν πολεμίων: in the enemy's favour. See on c. 36. 18. For the facts, cf. c. 36. § 3, 4.—15.

22. ἐγένετο: so Vat., confirmed by the imitation of Jos. A. I. Prooem. 2, other Mss. have ἐνεγένετο, which Thuc. uses with the dat. Cf. c. 80.

50. The Syracusans in the meantime get fresh reinforcements; in the army of the Athenians the sickness keeps spreading, and Nicias becomes more inclined to depart. The decision is now made, and everything is ready for the departure, when an eclipse of the moon occurs.
 The superstitious Nicias thereupon refuses to stir until thrice nine days have passed, as the soothsayers direct.

ture for ἐς φίλια, ἐς φίλιαν, ἐς φίλια (Vat.) of the Mss. See App. τοῖς Συρακοσίοις belongs to φιλία, and the attrib. adj. is placed after its noun as in iii. 56. 5, κατὰ τὸν πᾶσι νόμον καθεστῶτα; iv. 122. 19, τῇ κατὰ γῆν Λακεδαιμονίων ἰσχύϊ ἀνωφελεῖ. Cf. 7 below and c. 23. 15. — 4. ἄλλην τε στρατιάν: cf. c. 21. § 1. Acc. to Diod. xii. 12, this army was collected from Selinus, Gela, Himera, and Camerina. — 5. τοὺς ἐκ τῆς Πελοποννήσου . . . ἀποσταλέντας: cf. c. 19. § 3.

Niebuhr's view of an intentional voyage in that direction (Lectures on Anc. Hist. II. p. 160) is therefore wrong. — 10. Εὐεσπερίταις: Steph. Byz. Εὐεσπερίδες πόλις Λιβύης.

τὸ ἐθνικὸν Εὐεσπερίτης. It is the later Berenice, west from Barca, near the great Syrtis. — 12. Νέαν πόλιν: cf. Strab. xvii. 3. 16; not to be confounded with the Neapolis which is also called Leptis, Strab. xvii. 3. 18. See Kiepert, Alte Geogr. p. 193, 197. — ὅθεν περ Σικελία ἐλάχιστον δύο ἡμερῶν καὶ νυκτὸς πλοῦν ἀπέχει: correctly emended by Bm. for ὅθεν πρὸς Σικελίαν . . . πλοῦς (Vat. πλοῦν) ἀπέχει. Cf. vi. 2. 38, ἐντεῦθεν ἐλάχιστον πλοῦν Καρχηδὼν Σικελίας ἀπέχει. For πλοῦς as a measure of distance, see on iv. 104. 17. ὅθεν περ as in iv. 73. 27. — 14. ἐς Σελινόυντα: they went thither next because it was in alliance with Syracuse, vi. 48. The orders were given to the trierarchs (πᾶσι) secretly, lest the soldiers might find out the plan and by some imprudence disclose it to the enemy. Cf. c. 48. 5. Abresch's emendation παρεσκευάσθαι (for παρασκευάσθαι) is necessary, since it is clear that the orders must be to be ready (to sail out) when the signal shall be given, not then first to get ready (παρασκευάσθαι). Cf. Plut. Nic. 22, παρήγγειλε τοῖς στρατιώταις εὐτρεπεῖς εἶναι πρὸς ἀπὸ πλουν. For Cl.'s view, who reads καὶ παρασκευάσασθαι, see App.

51. So much the more are the Syracusans filled with hope of victory, and spend several days manœvering preparatory to a sea-fight. But they first make a preliminary attack on the Athenian fortifications from the land side, and drive back a small party of the Athenians who come out against them.

1. τοῦτο: i.e. both the intention to depart and the abandonment of it.—2. ἐπηρμένοι: Vat. for the vulgate ἐπηρεμένοι, which is unusual in this sense in prose writers. ἐπηρμένοι signifies the confidence of victory (cf. c. 41. 7) with the added idea of lively excitement which urged them to vigorous action (cf. ii. 11. 9; viii. 2. 3), the enhancement of the idea of ἀναρρυσθέντες of c. 46. 2: "they were full of confident resolution."—μὴ ἀνιέναι: as in c. 18. 7; vi. 18. 16, not to be slack about.—3. ὥς . . . πεζῷ: since even they themselves evidently had already come to the conclusion that they were no longer superior to them either by sea or land. κατεγνώκωτων of unfavourable judgment, as in iii. 45. 4. αὐτῶν = τῶν Ἀθηναίων; σφῶν = τῶν Συρακοσίων. The latter is governed by κρεισσόνων.—4. οὐ γὰρ ἂν . . . ἐπιβουλεύσαι: for otherwise they would not have projected the departure. Cf. i. 11. 5; 68. 18; iii. 84. 13. For the inf. in indir. disc., see Kr. Spr. 65, 11, 7.—5. καὶ ἅμα οὐ βουλόμενοι: co-ord. with the gen. abs. clause as second reason for ἐπηρμένοι ἦσαν. Kr. Spr. 56, 14, 2.—6. ἄλλοσέ ποι . . . προσπολεμεῖν: not wishing that they should establish themselves anywhere else in Sicily and be harder to contend with. For τῆς Σικελίας as part. gen. depending on adv. of place, see G. 168; H. 757. On the matter, cf. c. 49. § 2. For const. of χαλεπωτέρους προσπολεμεῖν, see on c. 14. 5.

8. τὰς ναὺς ἐπλήρουν καὶ ἀνεπειρῶντο: exactly as in c. 7. 14. ἀνεπαύ-οντο, the reading of most of the Mss., including Vat., does not agree with the context. — 10. τῇ μὲν προτέρᾳ:
on the first (of the two days that come under consideration), opp. to τῇ δ' ὑστεραίᾳ, c. 52. 3. Herbst (Geg.
Cobet, p. 36) has shown that ἡ προτέρα (not προτεραία, which Vat. has here) is used only where reference is made from the earlier to the later day; where it is made from the later to the earlier (as in i. 54. 16), ἡ προτεραία is used. — 11. προσέβαλλον: inchoative impf. — 13. ἀπολαμβάνουσι: cut off. Cf. v. 8. 16. — 14. τρεψάμενοι καταδιώκουσιν: referring to the whole force, not the ὀπλιτῶν τινὰς, as shown by what follows. — 15. τῆς ἐσόδου:
the entrance (to the fortifications of the Athenians). — ἵππους: understood by some (Heilmann, and Holm, II. p.
56) of horsemen; but the repetition τοὺς ἵππους in c. 54. 3 makes it prob.

that the reference is only to horses.
In the jam at the gates the horsemen prob. abandoned their horses and escaped. — 16. ἀπολλύνουσι: as in iv.
25. 19; in viii. 10. 16 ἀπολλύασι. Both forms seem to have been used by the older Att. writers.

52. On the following day the two fleets come to an engagement. The Syracusans conquer at first in the centre, then defeat the right wing, slaying Eurymedon, and at last drive the whole fleet ashore.

3. ἑξ καὶ ἐβδομήκοντα: 76 Syracusan and 86 Athenian ships against 80 and 75 respectively in the previous sea-fight, c. 37. 19, 20. No reason is given for the variation in the numbers; the Athenians prob. did not fit out a larger number now, after the arrival of the 73 fresh ships (c. 42. 3), on account of the narrow space. — 4.
ἀντανήγον ναυσὶν: see on c. 37. 19.
— 5. ἐνανμάχουν: began the battle (impf.).

8. ἐπεξάγοντα: so Cl. and St., following Vat.; other edit. since Bk. ἐπεξαγαγόντα (with a few Mss., most having ἐξάγοντα). The pres. expresses vividly the moment when Eurymedon, extending his line, or perhaps drawing off (cf. Diod. xiii. 13, ὡς ἀπεσπάρθη τῆς τάξεως), to the right, in order to turn the left wing of the enemy, approaches too near the land, and is cut off. Cf. v. 71. 14, δέσας δὲ Ἄγρις μὴ σφῶν κυκλωθῇ τὸ εὐώνυμον, καὶ νομίσας ἄγαν περιέχειν τοὺς Μαντινέας, τοῖς μὲν Σικιρίταις καὶ Βρασιδεῖσι ἐσθίμηνεν ἐπεξαγαγόντας ἀπὸ σφῶν ἐξισῶσαι τοῖς Μαντινεῦσιν. In this passage the aor. is necessary before ἐξισῶσαι. — 10. κακείνον: referring to Εὐρυμέδοντα mentioned above and emphatically repeating it after νικήσαντες τὸ μέσον πρῶτον. — ἐν τῷ κοίλῳ καὶ μυχῷ τοῦ λιμένος: in a recess of the inner bay of the harbour. Diod., who in the account of the battle (xiii. 13) follows in many particulars good authority, prob. Philistus, says: ἀπελήφθη πρὸς τὸν κόππον τὸν Δάσκωνα μὲν καλούμενον. κατακλεισθὲς δ' εἰς στενὸν τόπον καὶ βιασθὲς εἰς τὴν γῆν ἐκπσεῖν, αὐτὸς μὲν ὑπὸ τινος τρωθείς καιρῶι πλήγῃ τὸν βίον μετέλλαξεν· ἐπτα δὲ ναῦς ἐν τούτῳ τῷ τόπῳ διεφθάρσαν. The στενὸς τόπος is named by Thuc. κοῖλον, a recess of some depth at the foot of the hill of the same name, Dascon (vi. 66. 9), in addition to the more general designation of μυχὸς τοῦ λιμένος of c. 4. 21. Therefore κοίλῳ καὶ is not to be bracketed as v. H. (Stud. p. 100) proposes. With much probability, however, v. H. conjectures from the above passage of Diod. that ἐπτα has dropped out after ἐπισπομένας. — 11. μετ' αὐτοῦ ἐπισπομένας: as in c. 57. 47, μετὰ Ἀθηναίων ἠκολούθουν. As to the position of the partic., see on c. 23. 14. — 12. τὰς πάσας ἤδη ναῦς: so Vat.; vulgate ναῦς ἤδη. Cf. viii. 26. 1, περὶ δέλην ἤδη ὕψαν; viii. 56. 19, ἐν τῇ τρίτῃ ἤδη ξυνόδῳ.

53. In the attempt to secure the Attic ships on the shore, the Syracusans are driven back with great loss; but they take 18 ships and kill the crews. An attempt to set the remaining ships on fire is baffled by the Athenians.

2. ἔξω τῶν σταυρωμάτων: cf. c. 38. § 2; vi. 66. § 2. — καὶ τοῦ ἐαυτῶν στρατοπέδου: see on c. 23. 8. — 3. καταφερομένας: driven to shore, as in

c. 71. 31.—4. ἀφέλκειν: cf. c. 74. 12 ff.; ii. 93. 25. Cl. is clearly wrong in writing ἀνέλκειν for ἀφέλκειν, and Grote's view is right: "Gylippus marched down his land force to the water's edge, in order to prevent the retreat of the crews, as well as to assist the Syracusan seamen in hauling off the ships as prizes." So also Thirlwall understands it. The ταύτῃ of 7 shows that that part of the shore was rather in the possession of the Athenians, and τῆς γῆς φιλίας οὔσης (St. si ab amicis teneretur) means that Gylippus expected to make that part of the shore friendly by the aid he brought, not that it was then so. Besides, the issue, as related in § 3, shows how dangerous it would have been for the Syracusans to draw the ships up on shore at that point. After the great sea-fight, they did without opposition what they now wished to do, namely, took the ships in tow, and brought them to the city (c. 74. fin.). —5. ἐπὶ τὴν χηλὴν: to the causeway. This was a quay which ran along by the swamp Lysimelea toward the Athenian camp. See the map.

6. οἱ Τυρσηνοί: an Etruscan auxiliary corps which acc. to promise (vi. 88. 34) had joined the Athenians, with three fifty-oared boats (vi. 103. 10).—7. οὗτοι γὰρ ἐφύλασσον τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις ταύτῃ: for these had been stationed by the Athenians on guard in that quarter, i.e. on the northern side of the camp.—8. προσφερομένους: sc. τοὺς Συρακοσίους.—ἐπεκβοηθήσαντες: cf. viii. 55. 18.—10. τὴν Λυσιμέλειαν καλουμένην: cf. c. 80. 20. The place is called τὸ ἔλος in vi. 101. 2. See Holm, I. p. 12.

11. παρόντος: partic. from παρῆν in sense of the aor. Cf. c. 50. 1; i. 47. 5.—12. ἐπιβοηθήσαντες καὶ δείσαντες περὶ ταῖς ναυσὶν: the effect and the cause (δείσαντες) placed co-ord., as in i. 1. 3, ἀρξάμενος . . . καὶ ἐλπίσας.—13. ἐς μάχην κατέστησαν: = καταστάντες ἐμάχοντο (i. 49. 10), i.e. it came to a regular battle.—16. ξυνήγαγον κατὰ τὸ στρατόπεδον: i.e. they brought them again into safety behind the σταυρώματα (2) in front of the camp. — δυοῖν δὲ δεοῦσαις εἰκοσιν . . . ἔλαβον αὐτῶν: Grote thinks that these 18 ships had belonged to the division, which was out of reach of all help, in the bay of Dascon. But Cl. is doubtless right in considering this loss of 18 captured ships to be different from that of the (seven) ships of Eurymedon that were destroyed (διαφθεῖρουσι). as stated in c. 52. 11. The μυχὸς τοῦ λιμένος at the foot of Dascon was on the opposite side of the Lysimelea from the Athenian camp.

19. δαδός: collective sing., as κέραμος in ii. 4. 7; ἀμπελον, iv. 90. 9. Kühn. 347, 1. Cf. Diod. xiii. 13, κληματίδων καὶ δαδῶν, ἐπὶ δὲ πύργῳ πληρώσας. — 20. ἦν ἐπὶ τοὺς Ἀθηναίους ὁ ἄνεμος οὖριος: = ἄνεμος (πνεῦμα) ἐπίφορος with dat., as in ii. 77. 20; iii. 74. 11. — 21. [τὴν ναῦν]: Cl. follows Badham (Mnem. 1876) in considering these words as a gloss after ὀλκάδα παλαιάν. There seems to be no reason, however, why Thuc. should not have repeated the obj. after the parenthesis. — 23. σβεστήρια κωλύματα: the general term κωλύματα (i. 16. 1; v. 30. 11, 24) is restricted by σβεστήρια to the pres. case. Cf. Poll. i. 168, σβεστηρίοις κωλύμασιν ἐχρῶντο, which seems to be an imitation of this passage. The effect of σβεστήρια is expressed in παύσαντες τὴν φλόγα; of κωλύματα in (παύσαντες) τὸ μὴ προσελθεῖν (cf. iii. 1. 7) ἐγγὺς τὴν ὀλκάδα. The two effects are co-ord. by τε (after τὴν, Vat.), καί. The plan (ἀντεμνηχανήσαντό τε . . . κωλύματα) and its execution and result (καὶ παύσαντες . . . ἀπηλλάγησαν) are co-ord. in parataxis, and hence there is no need to omit τε after ἐμνηχανήσαντο, as St. does. On τὸ μὴ with inf. after παύσαντες, see GMT. 95, 3; H. 1029; Kühn. 516, note 91.

55. The superiority of the Syracusans at sea having been thus clearly demonstrated, the Athenians lose all hope of accomplishing in any way at all the object of the expedition.

1. λαμπρᾶς: pred., the victory of the Syracusans having been decisive. Cf. Luc. Ver. Hist. i. 17, τῆς δὲ τροπῆς λαμπρᾶς γεγεννημένης. Cl. proposes to write λαμπρῶς, rendering, "victory on the sea having also clearly decided for the Syracusans"; but there is no necessity for the change, since the pred. adj. has this force. See App. — 2. ἡδὴ καὶ τοῦ ναυτικοῦ: καὶ, even (also), which Vat. omits, is indispensable, since the reference is to the defeat of Demosthenes in the battle on Epipolæ, c. 43. — μέν: without a direct correlative, but answering irregularly to δέ above. — 3. ἐπελθούσας: for the position of the attrib. partic., see on c. 23. 14. G. 142, 2, n. 5. — 4. ἐν παντὶ ἀθυμίας: in the greatest despondency. For const., see on c. 2. 16; 33. 28. Cf. Plat. Rep. 579 b, ἐν παντὶ κακοῦ; Hdt. vii. 118. 3, ἐς πᾶν κακοῦ ἀπείκατο. — ὁ παράλογος: see on c. 28. 17. — 5. τῆς στρατείας ὁ μετὰμελος: regret over the expedition, objective gen. Kühn. 414, 4. ὁ μετὰμελος is not found elsewhere in Att., but occurs again in the later writers.

6. πόλεσι ταύταις κτέ.: the placing of the subst. first gives it a character of generality, with nearly the effect of the part. gen.: "of all the cities with which they had gone to war, these were the only ones at that time of kindred organization." The order is the common one in Thuc., in which a pron. subj. is placed after a pred. subst. and before a sup. adj. (here represented by μόναις) which belongs to the subst. See on c. 29. 29. — ἡδὴ: at that time, as in vi. 31. 46. — 8. μεγέθη: though the pl. does not occur elsewhere in Thuc., it is found in Ar. Ran. 1057; Xen. Cyneq. 4. 1; Plat. Prot. 356 c; Criti. 115 d; Legg. 860 b, 861 e. Kühn. 348, note 3. It refers to the size of the cities, as well as to their noteworthy buildings and improvements, esp. those for warlike purposes. — 9. ἐκ πολιτείας τι μεταβολῆς: "by a change of constitution in any respect." τι is adv. acc., a const. esp. common after negs., as in c. 57. 4, οὐ κατὰ δίκην τι μᾶλλον. — τὸ διάφορον: as in c. 75. 39, the change, the revolution. Kr. takes τι with τὸ διάφορον, and this in the sense of discord, explaining: τὸ διάφορον δ' αὐτοῖς ἐδύναντο ἐπενεγκεῖν οὐδὲν ἦν. Cf. i.

- 10 προσήγοντο ἄν, οὐτ' ἐκ παρασκευῆς πολλῶ κρείσσονος, σφαλλόμενοι δὲ τὰ πλείω, τά τε πρὸ αὐτῶν ἠπόρουσαν καὶ ἐπειδὴ γε καὶ ταῖς ναυσὶν ἐκρατήθησαν, ὁ οὐκ ἂν ᾤοντο, 56 πολλῶ δὴ μάλλον ἔτι. οἱ δὲ Συρακόσιοι τὸν τε λιμένα 1 εὐθύς παρέπλεον ἀδεῶς καὶ τὸ στόμα αὐτοῦ διανοοῦντο κλήσειν, ὅπως μηκέτι, μηδ' εἰ βούλουτο, λάθοιεν αὐτοὺς οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι ἐκπλεύσαντες. οὐ γὰρ περὶ τοῦ αὐτοῖ σω- 2 5 θῆναι μόνον ἔτι τὴν ἐπιμέλειαν ἐποιοῦντο, ἀλλὰ καὶ ὅπως ἐκείνους κωλύσωσι, νομίζοντες, ὅπερ ἦν, ἀπὸ τε τῶν

Cf. ii. 30. 7; vi. 94. 14. Kr. Spr. 54, 12, 9. — 10. οὐτ' ἐκ παρασκευῆς πολλῶ κρείσσονος: Cl., Kr., and St. write κρείσσονος instead of the vulgate κρείσσους. See App. The phrase is manifestly opp. to οὕτε ἐκ πολιτείας τι μεταβολῆς, and both are to be connected as means with οὐ δυνάμενοι ἐπενεγχεῖν. The sense of the sent. thus far is: "these were the only cities at that time similar in character to their own, against which they had gone to war; for they had a democratic constitution, as they themselves had, and possessed ships and cavalry, and were not inconsiderable in size; therefore they could neither by a change in their constitution in any respect, nor by very much superior military forces, bring about among them the change (either by inward factions, or by a defeat in open field) by which they might have hoped to bring them under their rule." The three partic. ἐπελθόντες (6), οὐ δυνάμενοι ἐπενεγχεῖν (8), and σφαλλόμενοι δὲ τὰ πλείω (11), of the results of the undertaking) contain the successive causes of the following ἠπόρουσαν κτέ. See App. — 11. τὰ πρὸ αὐτῶν: adv., before this, i.e. before the unsuccessful sea-fight. αὐτά of the matters under discussion, as in i. 1. 10, and often.

56. The confidence of the Syracusans, on the other hand, rises now to the point of hoping completely to destroy the Athenian army, and thus win great glory and a conspicuous position among the Greeks.

2. παρέπλεον: i.e. they sailed along the shore of the harbour, even past the Athenian ship-station, in a demonstrative and threatening manner. — διανοοῦντο: with fut. inf. as in iv. 115. 7; 121. 3.

4. αὐτοί: from Vat., for αὐτοῦ, alone admissible as opp. to ἐκείνους. — 6. κωλύσωσι: the reading of all the Mss. After verba curandi with ὅπως, Thuc.'s usage varies between the fut. indic. and aor. subjv. GMT. 45; H. 885 b. See on i. 19. 3 and St. Qu. Gr. p. 11. With κωλύσωσι understand μὴ σωθῆναι. Cf. vi. 88. 28; 102. 8. — ἀπὸ τῶν παρόντων: on account of (in consequence of) the present state of affairs, stronger than ἐκ τῶν παρόντων. Cf. ii. 77. 3. —

7. καθυπέρτερα: as in v. 14. 8.—9. ἐς τοὺς Ἕλληνας: the prep. ἐς with reference to the lit. meaning of φανεῖσθαι, as it were, shine into. Quite similar is δηλοῦν ἐς τοὺς Ἀθηναίους, i. 90. 10. Cf. i. 72. 13; vi. 31. 32.—καλόν: glorious, with ἀγώνισμα also in c. 59. 2.—11. τοὺς μὲν, τοὺς δέ: part. appos. to τοὺς . . . H., has inserted ἂν before ἐλευθεροῦσθαι, but unnecessarily; for whether Cl.'s idea that in the older Att. writers some presents of pure and contract verbs are used in the sense of the fut. (see on iii. 58. 29) be right or not, certainly the pres. with εὐθύς here expresses much more forcibly the instantaneous result. The Schol., as St. observes, seems to have read ἀπολύεσθαι, since he explains it by ῥύσσεσθαι.—14. καὶ αὐτοί: opp. to τοὺς τε ἄλλους Ἕλληνας in 10.—δόξαντες αἴτιοι αὐτῶν εἶναι: having the reputation of being the causes of these things. For αὐτῶν, see on c. 55. 11. The Schol. correctly explains, τῆς τε ἐλευθερίας τῶν Ἑλλήνων καὶ τοῦ ἀπαλλαγῆναι τοῦ φόβου.

16. καὶ ἦν δὲ . . . ἀγὼν: and the decisive combat was indeed an important one. καὶ is not copulative, and δέ is epexegetical. See on i. 132. 22.—17. ὅτι . . . περιεγίνοντο: the impf. of anticipation, because they were conquering.—μόνον, . . . μόνον: Cl. and St. write μόνων, μόνοι, the former explaining: "As μόνον in 18 is necessary as opp. to μετὰ τῶν ξυμβοηθησάντων, so in 17 also, for the sake of symmetry at least, μόνων is necessary. Besides, μόνων is, if not indispensable, at least much more expressive, and αὖ before μόνον refers to a preceding μόνων. Kr. unnecessarily objects to the words καὶ οὐδ' αὐτοὶ αὖ μόνον, because that would diminish the glory of the Syracusans. That the Syracusans in this struggle appeared as leaders, even by the side of Corinthians and Lacedaemonians, and that the contest took place in their territory, gave them great importance for all Hellas." But the change seems unnecessary: see App.—21. ἐμπαρασχόντες: cf. vi. 12. 13. ἐν- has adv. force, as if τῷ ἀγῶνι were expressed. Cf. ii. 20. 9, ὁ χώρος ἐπιτηδεῖος ἐφαίνετο ἐνστρατοπεδεῦσαι; ii. 44. 6, ἐνευδαιμονῆσαι ὁ βίος . . . ξυνε- μετρήθη. The sense of the passage is, "having put forward their own city in the contest to take the post of danger." — τε: as if καὶ προκοῖναι followed. There is a slight change of const., since προκόψαντες is conformed rather to ἐμπαρασχόντες. — 22. τοῦ ναυτικοῦ . . . προκόψαντες: having made great progress in naval affairs, lit. having opened the way for the navy in large measure. Cf. iv. 60. 12, καὶ τῆς ἀρχῆς ἡμα προκοπτόντων ἐκείνοις. Kühn. 416, note 2. Thuc. sometimes uses μέρος (adv. here) in other places also in an unusual way, e.g. in iii. 3. 6; v. 32. 9.

ἔθνη γὰρ πλείστα δὴ κτέ.: cf. i. 1. 8. γὰρ refers to τῶν ἄλλων πολλῶν ξυμμά- χων and μετὰ τῶν ξυμβοησάντων σφίσι above.—23. ἐπὶ μίαν πόλιν: not against but to the city, since not only the enemy but also the allies are meant. — τοῦ ξύμπαντος ὄχλου: the Mss. read λόγον, which the Schol. explains

by ἀριθμοῦ. Kr. proposed ὄχλου, which Cl. and St. adopt. It is supported by c. 75. 26, μυριάδες τοῦ ξύμπαντος ὄχλου οὐκ ἐλάσσους τεσσάρων ἡμα ἐπορεύοντο. Besides, only with the reading ὄχλου is it admissible with τοῦ . . . πρὸς τὴν Ἀθηναίων τε πόλιν καὶ Λακεδαιμονίων to supply ξυνελθόντος from ξυνῆλθε, and thereby to put the prep. πρὸς in a prop. light. Instead of this, St. would supply or insert ξυστάτος. Heilmann and Madvig propose ξυλλόγου for λόγου.

57. The allies of the Athenians.

1. ἐπὶ Σικελίαν τε καὶ περὶ Σικελίας: for ἐπὶ Σικελίαν with ἐπολέμησαν, see Kr. Spr. 48, 9, 3.—2. ἐλθόντες: belongs to both fut. partic. — 3. [ἐπὶ Συρακούσας] ἐπολέμησαν: the aor. means not they carried on the war, but they entered into the war (sooner or later), took part in it. ἐπὶ Συρακούσας, against Syracuse, Cl. considers a marginal explanation of ἐπὶ Σικελίαν (1) which has crept into the text. Kr. and St. adopt Bauer's emendation, ἐπὶ Συρακούσας ἐπολέμησαν = ἐς τὸν ἐπὶ Συρακούσας πόλεμον κατέστησαν. Arn. holds to ἐπὶ Συρακούσας ἐπολέμησαν and renders came to Syracuse to war, ἐπολέμησαν being synonymous with ἐς πόλεμον, or μετὰ πολέμου, ἦλθον. This would be preferable if πολεμεῖν ἐπὶ τινα in this sense could be established. — οὐ . . . τε: not at all. See on

Cf. c. 61. 12; i. 33. 22; iii. 39. 12. — 5. ὡς ἕκαστοι τῆς ξυντυχίας... ἔσχον: this is Heilmann's and Bm.'s conjecture, for ἐκάστοις... ἔσχεν. (Vat. has ἕκαστοι, prima manu.) ἔχειν is not used impers. in Thuc. The const. is the same as in i. 22. 14, ὡς ἑκατέρω τινε εὐνοίας ἢ μνήμης ἔχοι. See on c. 2. 2. ἔσχον (aor. as in v. 28. 12), inceptive: "according as the individual (states) whether for the sake of their own advantage or through compulsion came into a nearer relationship with (ξυντυχίας) the one side or the other."

6. Ἀθηναῖοι... Ἴωνες... Δωριέας Συρακοσίους: chiasmic order. — 7. ἐκόντες ἦλθον: the hostile relation of the chief contestants was founded also in race difference; here, therefore, there was no need of compulsion from without. — τῇ αὐτῇ: belongs in force also to νομίμοις and governs αὐτοῖς (7). — 8. Δήμνιοι κτέ.: the occupation of Lemnos by Att. cleruchs was effected by Miltiades, Hdt. vi. 140 ff.; that of Imbrus prob. about the same time; of Aegina, 431 B.C. (cf. ii. 27. § 1, to which τότε refers); of Hestiaeae, or Histiaeae, 446 B.C. (i. 114. 16). The city Hestiaeae was called after its occupation by the Athenians, in the dialect of the people, Oreus, from the place near by with which it was united; but in public documents and on coins it was called even later Hestiaeae. See Bursian, II. p. 407. — 10. οἱ ἐν Εὐβοίᾳ Ἑστιάειαν οἰκοῦντες: perhaps to distinguish it from the city of the same name in Acarnania, mentioned by Steph. Byz. s.v. — 11. ξυνεστράτευσαν: aor. set out with them. ἄποικοι ὄντες giving the reason. Cf. ξυνεστράτευνον (13), took part in the expedition with them.

12. ἀπὸ ξυμμαχίας αὐτόνομοι: ἀπὸ ξυμμαχίας gives the cause of their taking part in the expedition; αὐτόνομοι shows the relation they occupy in it. On ἀπὸ, according to, see Kühn. 430, 1 g. "Thuc. calls all those who have entered into a perpetual alliance with the Athenians to wage war on the barbarians, and who acknowledge their hegemony, ὑπήκοοι ξύμμαχοι, and distinguishes from them those who, like the Corcyraeans, made simply a temporary alliance. The latter are here termed ἀπὸ ξυμμαχίας αὐτόνομοι, elsewhere simply αὐτόνομοι (c. 57. 33; vi. 69. 23), or πάντῃ ἐλευθέρως ξυμμαχοῦντες (vi. 85. 9). Of the former he distinguished two classes, — the one who, enjoying their own laws and free from tribute, furnish ships of their own

And so besides the ἀπὸ ξυμμαχίας αὐτόνομοι there is another class of αὐτόνομοι, who, though really ὑπήκοοι, are considered αὐτόνομοι because they are under no constraint in point of laws and customs in the sphere of their separate governments. (Cf. iii. 10. § 6; 11. § 1; 39. § 2.)" St.

13. καὶ τῶν μὲν ὑπηκόων κτέ.: as the enumeration of subject and tributary allies follows geographical subdivisions, — i.e. the allies from Euboea, those from the Cyclades, and those from Ionia, — the Chians also are reckoned among the last, since here the geographical point of view is most important; but immediately afterwards, regard being paid to the condition of the ξυμμαχία, the correction is added: τούτων Χῖοι . . . ξυνέσποντο (we should have expected τούτων δὲ Χῖοι). See App. — 16. Τήνιοι: from one of the larger Cyclades; the reading of Vat. only, the others incorrectly Τήιοι. — 18. ξυνέσποντο: aor., as ξυνεστράτευσαν in 11. — τὸ πλείστον: adv., for the most part. — 19. οὗτοι πάντες sums up the ὑπήκοοι καὶ φόρου ὑποτελεῖς (13), including the Chians, who geographically are counted with these. Ἴωνες ὄντες emphasizes the point of race, which is still more closely defined by the addition καὶ ἀπ' Ἀθηναίων (sc. ἄποικοι; cf. vi. 76. 14, ἀπὸ σφῶν). — 20. Δρύοπες: mentioned among the oldest Hellenic inhabitants of Greece, dwelling near Mt. Oeta. Cf. Hdt. viii. 43. 9. See Hermann, Griech. St. Alt. § 16, note 6. — ὑπήκοοι ὄντες . . . Δωριέας: though their service was not voluntary, still (ὁμως) it was not unnatural, since they went as Ionians (emphasized by γε, of Vat.) against Dorians. In the cases that follow the race-connexion is sensibly violated.

21. πρὸς αὐτοῖς: i.e. besides the Ionian peoples. — 22. Μηθυμναῖοι: Methymna in Lesbos had been spared the harsh treatment of the remaining Lesbians, iii. 50. 7, and the inhabitants are named, vi. 85. 8, along with the Chians, as γεῶν παροκωχῇ αὐτόνομοι. The same relation is here expressed by ναυσὶ καὶ οὐ φόρῳ ὑπήκοοι, paying service with ships, not with tribute, ὑπήκοοι being used in an arbitrarily limited sense.—23. Αἰνιοί: from Αἶνος, an old Aeol. settlement on the Thracian coast. See Herm. St. Alt. § 76, note 17.—24. Βοιωτοῖς τοῖς μετὰ Συρακοσίων: the τοῖς which hitherto had rested only on Lindau's conjecture has been lately confirmed, by the Ms. in the Brit. Mus. (M. in Stahl). The general designation τοῖς κτίσασι Βοιωτοῖς, "the Boeotians who had colonized the above-named places" had necessarily to be restricted by τοῖς μετὰ Συρακοσίων, "who stood now on the Syracusan side." With regard to the subject, see Curtius, Gr. Hist. I. p. 127, "Boeotia was the starting-point for the emigration (of the Aeolian races), and was considered also in later times the mother-country of the Aeolian colonies."—κατ' ἀνάγκην: because they were ὑπήκοοι and ὑποτελεῖς. Here the breaking up of the natural relation of κατὰ τὸ συγγενές (c. 58. 15; i. 6. 12; iii. 82. 36) was brought about by outward compulsion.—25. Πλαταιῆς δὲ . . . ἔχθος: the Plataeans on the other hand were influenced in their choice of alliance by their well-grounded hate against the Thebans, therefore εἰκότως. Cl.'s rendering of καταντικρὺ, on the other hand, is at least doubtful, Bm. proposes καὶ ἀντικρὺς, indeed outright (cf. i. 122. 15; viii. 64. 23; 92. 65), which would give exactly the idea of Κερκυραῖοι δὲ . . . σαφῶς in 35 below. κατὰ τὸ ἔχθος, with Vat., referring to well-known occurrences, the other Mss. κατ' ἔχθος.—26. μόνοι: i.e. no other Boeotians had joined the Athenians. Moreover, the Plataeans here referred to are either such as had found refuge in Athens, e.g. those who succeeded in escaping when Plataea was besieged, iii. 24. § 3, or such as had settled in Scione, v. 32. § 1.

28. Κυθήριοι: repeated to avoid misunderstanding. Cf. c. 86. 10.—29. ἐπέφερον: this reading of Vat., for ἔφερον, seems to be supported by c. 18. 15; v. 18. 12.—Ἀργεῖοι γένος: see O. Müller, Dorier, I. p. 113 ff.—30. ἀποίκους ἐαυτῶν: cf. vi. 4. § 3.

οἱ Μεσσήνιοι νῦν καλούμενοι: "more common is the order οἱ νῦν Μεσσήνιοι καλούμενοι, as ἡ νῦν Ἑλλάς καλούμενη, i. 2. 1; ἡ νῦν Θεσσαλία καλούμενη, i. 2. 14. Cf. ii. 99. 19. But οἱ has not dropped out after Μεσσήνιοι, as a comparison with ii. 29. 11, ἐν Δαυλίᾳ τῆς Φωκίδος νῦν καλούμενης, shows. The phrase νῦν καλούμενοι is added because the Helots whom the Athenians had settled at Naupactus (i. 103. § 3) were not in fact all Messenians (i. 101. § 2)." St. See App. — 40. ἐκ Ναυπάκτου . . . παρελήφθησαν: as stated in c. 31. § 2. — ἐκ Πύλου . . .

44. ἤδη: from this point (in the enumeration). Cf. ii. 96. 17. With the last named the motive was ἀνάγκη or ξυμφορὰ under the controlling influence of the Athenians; those named after this went of their own accord, for even the μισθοφόροι are to be reckoned under this head. — 46. τῆς παραντίκα ἕκαστοι ἰδίας ὠφελίας: cf. similar const. in c. 70. 47; vi. 69. 18. ὠφελίας, although indispensable, is found only in Vat. The meaning seems to be that the 500 Argives mentioned in vi. 43. 11 had offered themselves of

Κρήτες: cf. vi. 43. 14.—Αἰτωλοὶ: they serve now as mercenaries with the Athenians, who had invaded their country in 426 B.C. Cf. iii. 94. ff.—53. ξυγκτίσαντας: cf. vi. 4. § 3. For the acc., see on c. 40. 13.—54. ἐκόντας: this reading of Vat., for ἄκοντας, is of course the only one admissible with μετὰ μισθοῦ and in this class of the allies. Cf. 44 above. ὧσα renders, ultro. On the other hand, ἀποίους is necessary (Vat. ἐποίους, cf. ii. 27. 5), on account of the antithesis (μὴ ξὺν—ἀλλ' ἐπὶ).

Ἰονίῳ κόλπῳ: here taken as extending to the west coast of Italy.—58. ἐν τοιαύταις ἀνάγκαις τότε στασιωτικῶν καιρῶν κατελημμένοι: Thuc. states in c. 33. 24 ff., concerning Thurii, that the Att. party had prevailed and driven out their opponents; and they were now in such a situation, resulting from party relations (στασιωτικῶν καιρῶν), that they were forced (τοιαύταις ἀνάγκαις) to the alliance with Athens. As Thuc. mentions in c. 33. § 5 factions only among the Thurians, and says that the Metapontians joined the Athenians κατὰ τὸ ξυμμαχικόν, St. thinks, with reason, that we should read Μεταπόντιοι καὶ Θούριοι.—59. κατελημμένοι: Reiske's emendation for κατελημμένων, which

1. Καμαριναῖοι . . . καὶ Γελῶι: cf. c. 33. § 1; vi. 67. 13. — 2. μετ' αὐτούς: back of them, i.e. further up the coast, in the same sense as ἐν τῷ ἐπ' ἐκεῖνα in 3. It is the same use of μετὰ with acc. as in descriptions of lines of battle (cf. v. 67. 7, 16). — 3. Ἀκραγαντίων ἡσυχάζόντων: remaining neutral. Cf. c. 33. 7. — ἐν τῷ ἐπ' ἐκεῖνα: in the country beyond (the Agrigentines). See on c. 37. 9. Cf. viii. 104. 25.

5. τετραμμένον: for position of the attrib. partic., see on c. 23. 14. — 6. μορίου: v. H. (p. 100) rejects this word here and in ii. 65. 52 without sufficient reason, for μόριον is not dim. of μόρος, as he asserts, but has a specializing force, as all nouns ending in -ιον. Cf. ἀργύριον, ἀργυρός; χρυσίον, χρυσός; βιβλίον, βιβλος; χωρίον, χωρός. — 7. Ἕλληνες: pred., as the only Hellenes. Cf. vi. 62. 9. — ἐξ αὐτοῦ: sc. τοῦ πρὸς τὸν Τυρσηνικὸν πόντον μορίου.

9. [οἱ] αὐτόνομοι: all the editt. follow Bk. in omitting the impossible οἱ. Reiske proposed to place it after αὐτόνομοι. — 10. Σικελοὶ μόνοι: neither Elymi, then (vi. 2. 15), nor Phoenicians (vi. 2. 32), joined them. — ὅσοι μὴ ἀφέστασαν: acc. to c. 57. 61 (Σικελῶν τὸ πλεόν) the majority had revolted. Cf. vi. 88. § 3, 4. — 12. νεοδαμῶδεις . . . καὶ Εἰλωτας: see on c. 19. 16. — 13. [δύναται δὲ . . . ἦδη εἶναι]: Dindorf and v. H. justly recognized that these words were not from Thuc. The explanation of the Schol. (νεοδαμῶδης ὁ ἐλεύθερος παρὰ τοῖς Λακεδαιμονίοις) proves that he did not have them before him. Besides, in c. 19. 16 and v. 34. 6 Thuc. took for granted on the part of his readers acquaintance with this Spartan institution. — 14. μόνοι: i.e. καὶ ναυσὶ καὶ πεζῷ. The Leucadians and Ambraciots furnished only ships, which the Corinthians manned in addition to their own. Cf. vi. 104. 10, οἱ Κορίνθιοι πρὸς ταῖς σφετέραις δέκα Λευκαδίας δύο καὶ Ἀμπρακιώτιδας τρεῖς προσπληρῶσαντες ὅσπερον ξυμελλον πλεῦσσεσθαι. — 15. παραγενόμενοι: belongs only to Κορίνθιοι; but κατὰ τὸ ξυγγενές (supply ξυνεμάχουν from 9) belongs to the three subjects Κορίνθιοι, Λευκάδιοι, and Ἀμπρακιῶται; for τὸ ξυγγενές (sc. τῶν Συρακοσίων) is the motive with all three for participation in the war. — 16. ἐξ Ἀρκαδίας μισθοφόροι . . . καὶ Σικυώνιοι: cf. c. 19. § 4. — 17. ἀναγκαστοί: because since 418 B.C. an oligarchic constitution had been forced on the Sicyonians (v. 81. 6). Cf. c. 18. 31. — 18. Βοιωτοί: cf. c. 19. § 3.

πρὸς: here and in 22 below, in comparison with. — 21. ὁ ἄλλος ὅμιλος: of light-armed troops of every kind. — 22. ξυνελέγη: used esp. of the collection of troops. Cf. i. 115. 18; ii. 10. 8; iii. 94. 16; vi. 32. 13; 66. 14; 98. 6. — αὖθις: only to introduce the second comparison. — ὡς εἰπεῖν: limiting ἅπαντας. It is the regular form in Thuc., never ὡς ἔπος εἰπεῖν. See on i. 1. 9. — 24. μέγεθος πόλεως: art. omitted as with μήκος πλοῦ in vi. 34. 28; 86. 10.

25. τοσαῖδε ξυνελέγησαν: = τοσαῖδε τότε ἤδη πᾶσαι ἀμφοτέροις παρήσαν καὶ οὐκέτι οὐδὲν οὐδετέροις ἐπήλθεν.

59. The Syracusans, determined to wage a war of extermination against the Athenians, now shut off the entrance to the great harbour by means of ships anchored broadside before it.

1. οἱ δ' οὖν Συρακόσιοι: since the narrative, interrupted at the end of c. 56, is here resumed, giving in ἐνόμισαν καλὸν ἀγώνισμα σφίσιν εἶναι almost a verbal repetition of c. 56. 9, Kr.'s conjecture, δέ (for τε of the Mss.), which is the usual connecting particle in Thuc. in such cases, is doubtless right. See on i. 3. 19. For οὖν, see on c. 6. 7. See App. — 2. ἐπὶ τῇ γεγενημένῃ νίκη: not only temporal, after the victory won, but also on the basis of the victory won, i.e. trusting now in victory. — 4. μηδὲ καθ' ἕτερα: i.e. κατὰ μηδέτερα. See on c. 41. 15; 43. 4. — αὐτούς . . . διαφυγεῖν: with changed subj., dependent on καλὸν ἀγώνισμα. With regard to the force of the aor. inf. ἐλεῖν, διαφυγεῖν, see App. to 1, above. — 5. διὰ θαλάσσης: more def. than κατὰ θάλασσαν, referring to the wide sea to be crossed.

ἔκληρον: imp.; they undertook the work, which, acc. to Diod. xiii. 14, they finished in three days. — 6. ὀκτῶ σταδίων μάλιστα: for gen. of measure, see on c. 2. 17. Holm (Vortrag in Karlsr. Philol. Wochenschrift, 1882, No. 44, and Zeitschr. f. allg. Gesch. 1884, p. 16, 17) adopts here a small itinerary stadium of about 150 metres. See App. to c. 78. 14. — 7. πλαγίαις: belongs to the three subst. The ships were placed broadside before the harbour and anchored (ἐπ' ἀγκυρῶν ὀρμίζοντες, sc. αὐτάς). — 9. ὀλίγον οὐδὲν ἐς οὐδέν: cf. c. 87. 23; ii. 8. 1; viii. 15. 21. See Introd. to Book I. p. 48, note 77.

60. Encompassed by the greatest danger, the Athenians determine, if possible, to cut their way through with their ships; they abandon all the fortifications except a walled space near the ships for the sick and for the baggage of the army, and put all the available troops on board.

2. ὀρώσι: pres., as the work was still going on. — ἀισθόμενος: aor., since they had received information. — 3. βουλευτέα: from βουλεύεσθαι. With regard to the pl. form of the verbal, common in Thuc., see on i. 7. 2.

καὶ οἱ ταξίARCHOI: Schol. νῦν διὰ τὸ ἔκτορον καὶ τοὺς ταξίARCHOUS (see on iv. 4. 2) οἱ στρατηγοὶ συνήγαγον, καθ' αὐτοὺς πρότερον βουλευόμενοι. Cf. c. 48. § 1; 50. § 3. — 4. πρὸς τὴν παρούσαν ἀπορίαν: to be connected with ἐβουλεύσαντο in 8. Cf. c. 47. 2. — τῶν τε ἄλλων: as if καὶ τῶν ἐπιτηδείων followed. — 5. καὶ ὅτι κτέ.: for change of const., see Kr. Spr. 59, 2, 4. — 6. ἀπέειπον μὴ ἐπάγειν: they had directed them not to bring any more provisions. ἐπάγειν, bring (of the Catanæans); ἐπάγεσθαι (vi. 99. 21), fetch (of the Athenians themselves). This had been done when their departure (ὡς ἐκπλευσόμενοι, cf. c. 50. § 3, 4) had been determined on before the eclipse of the moon. — 8. τὰ τείχη τὰ ἄνω: the part of the lower wall (c. 2. 17 ff.) that was furthest from the coast. Grote understands it of points on Epipolæ still in possession of the Athenians; but hardly rightly. If any part of Epipolæ was still occupied by the Athenians, it is strange that no mention was made of it at the time of the night attack, c. 42. § 4 ff. — πρὸς αὐταῖς ταῖς ναυσὶν: "as near as possible to their ships."

— 9. ἀπολαβόντες διατειχίσματι: so with Vat. for διατειχισμὰ τι of the rest of the Mss.; for it seems clearly meant that they cut off by a cross-wall a space between the double wall of the smallest extent that would suffice for the reception of the baggage, the sick, and the garrison necessary for the protection of these. διατειχίσμα also in iii. 34. 9. — 10. ἀσθενούσιν: the reading of Vat., the rest ἀσθενέσι, which, acc. to c. 75. 12, is perhaps admissible. But the older and better writers, acc. to Bl., use always the partic. for the sick, and in c. 75. 12 ἀσθενέσι means rather the weak than simply the sick. — 11. ἀπὸ τοῦ ἄλλου πεζοῦ: from the rest of the infantry, i.e. those not required to guard the camp. — 12. ἀπάσας: the reading of Vat. for πάσας of the other Mss., esp. appropriate before καὶ δυνατὰ καὶ ἀπλωότεραι, i.e. the whole number, whether they were in good condition or even somewhat unseaworthy. — ὅσαι ἦσαν: for the impf. indic. instead of opt. in dependent clause, see GMT. 77, 1, n. 2; Kühn. 595, 3. — δυναταί: really personal, and used only here of ships (just as πονεῖν is used of them in c. 38. 11; vi. 104. 20). — ἀπλοῦτεροι: see on c. 34. 20. — 13. πάντα τινὰ: as comprehensive as possible. Kr. Spr. 51, 16, 11. Cf. c. 70. 21; 84. 10. — 15. ἢ ἂν . . . μέλλωσιν: by whatever way they were likely quickest. — 17. ἀντιλήψεσθαι: reach, as in c. 77. 29. — ὡς ἔδοξεν . . . καὶ ἐποίησαν: of the immediate execution of the plan agreed on. See on ii. 93. 17.

20. καὶ ὅπως οὖν: found also in i. 77. 9; viii. 91. 21. It is to be connected with ἐπιτήδειος. — ἡλικίας μετέχων: "as being not yet too old," i.e. for such service. ἡλικία is used not in a military, but general sense, which the Schol. indicates by νεότητος. Cf. ii. 44. 20, ἐν τῷ ἀχρείῳ τῆς ἡλικίας, and vi. 24. 11. (St. strikes out the words, following Philippi, Jahrbb. 1881, p. 99.)

21. καί: and so, as in i. 67. 12; vi. 73. 1. — αἱ πᾶσαι: in all. See on c.

i. 31. — δέκα μάλιστα καὶ ἑκατόν: Diod. xiii. 14 gives 115 triremes; Plut., as Thuc., 110, adding: αἱ γὰρ ἄλλαι ταρῶν ἐνδεεῖς ἦσαν. That the original number, namely, 184 triremes first sent out (vi. 43. 3) and 73 afterwards (vii. 42. 3), i.e. 207 altogether, had been greatly reduced, is a matter of course after the conflicts of the whole year, but the loss cannot be accurately estimated. — 22. ἐπ' αὐτάς: for which Kr. proposed ἐς αὐτάς, is appropriate for those light-armed troops whose duty was constant watching and fighting with light arms on the deck. — 24. ἐξ ἀναγκαίου: adv., in such desperate circumstances, which made the unusual equipment necessary. The ἐκ with the neut. of the adj. as in ἐξ ἴσου, i. 120. 4; ἐκ τοῦ ἀκινδύνου, iii. 40. 23; ἐκ τοῦ προφανοῦς, vi. 73. 7. τε, καί forbids connecting ἀναγκαίου with διανοίας. If so connected, τοιούτης would have to be taken in a materially different sense from ἀναγκαίου. Besides, τοιούτης διανοίας cannot attain its full effect except by being construed separately. sense is then, “in so critical a situation and in consequence of such a (desperate) resolution.”

26. ὁρῶν τοὺς στρατιώτας: on the reading, see App.—27. πολὺ ταῖς ναυσὶ κρατηθῆναι: in the battle described in c. 52, 53.

SPEECH OF NICIAS TO THE TROOPS
BEFORE THE GREAT SEA-FIGHT.

61. “Before all alike, Athenians and allies, is the decisive struggle. You should go into it with courage, because you know how changeable is the fortune of war, and because, considering your numbers, you have a right to hope that it will decide for you.”

1. ἄλλων: see on c. 4. 12.—2. ὁμοίως: to be connected with ἅπασιν. Cf. c. 28. 4; i. 93. 8; vi. 24. 8.—3. [ἐκάστοις οὐχ ἦσσαν ἢ τοῖς πολεμίοις]: Cl. and St. bracket these words as a gloss to ὁμοίως ἅπασιν. See App.—5. ἔστι τῷ . . . ἐπιδεῖν: “it is possible for every one to see again his fatherland.” On τῷ in the sense many a one, or every one, see Kr. Spr. 51, 16, 10. With τὴν ὑπάρχουσάν που οἰκείαν πόλιν ἐπιδεῖν cf. vi. 69. 24, τὴν ὑπάρχουσαν σφίσι πατρίδα νικήσαντες πάλιν ἐπιδεῖν.—ἐπιδεῖν: see again, also in c. 77. 37.

6. ἀθυμεῖν δέ: opp. to δὲ μὲν ἀγών: “the battle is to be decisive, but there is no ground for despondency.”—8. τὴν ἐλπίδα τοῦ φόβου κτέ.: the expectation of their fear, i.e. the expectation which in their fear they entertain takes the colour of the misfortunes which they have suffered. Schol. προσδοκῶσιν ὁμοίως ταῖς γεγενημέναις ξυμφοραῖς τὰ μέλλοντα. ἐλπίς in this sense occurs also in vi. 87. 18. Cf. πενίας ἐλπίς, ii. 42. 15; Luc. in Tyrannic. 11, τίς ἐλπίς τοῦ φόβου.

 On gen. with neut. art. (τὸ τῆς τύχης, has been taken to protect our ships against the contrivances devised by the enemy been strengthened, so as to render our attacks on their ships more effective.”

1. ἀρωγὰ: used oftener in poetry.
 Cf. also Plat. Prot. 334 b.—ἐνείδομεν:
 see on c. 36. 6.—ἐπὶ τῇ . . . στενό-τὸν μέλλοντα ὄχλον . . . ἔσεσθαι: ἔσεσθαι depends on μέλλοντα, and ὄχλος means, not the great number (for this was present from the beginning), but the press of the ships, as in

 i. 49. 8, ὑπὸ τε πλήθους καὶ ὄχλου.—3.
 πρὸς τὴν . . . παρασκευήν: cf. c. 36. § 3-

 as well as παρασκευή. Kr. Spr. 58, 3, 5.
 —5. μετὰ τῶν κυβερνητῶν: belongs with ἐσκεμμένα: “after careful consideration in company with the pilots.”

6. ἐπιβήσονται: will serve as epi-batæ. The epibatæ were as a rule hoplites, or men armed as such (see on vi. 43. 9).—καὶ ὄχλος: Cl. puts a comma before καὶ and renders, and so a crowd (sc. ἐπιβήσεται, will come together on board). But rather it seems that the whole is added to a part, viz. the archers and javelin-men, ὄχλος signifying here the whole multitude of men by whom the ships were filled.—8. διὰ τὸ βλάπτειν: the subj.
 is τὸν ὄχλον.—τὸ τῆς ἐπιστήμης: see ἔσται: understand ὅς from the preceding ῥ. Cf. i. 10. 20, ἣν εἰκὸς . . . ποιητὴν ὅντα κοσμήσαι, ὅμως δὲ φαίνεται ἐνδεεστέρα. G. 156; H. 1005; Kühn. 561, 1. With this view πρόσφορος, the reading of a single Ms. (the rest, πρόσφορα), is necessary. Most other editts. read πρόσφορα, sc. ἐπιβῆναι αὐτόν (τὸν ὄχλον). For a state of affairs similar to that here described (ἐν τῇ . . . πεζομαχίᾳ), cf. i. 49. § 2, and ii. 89. § 8.

11. χρὴ ἀντιναυπηγῆσαι: the reading of Vat., for the unintelligible μὴ ἀντιναυπηγεῖσθαι of the other Mss. The aor. inf. is preferable for the single case. The fact that Thuc. in i. 31. 3 and vi. 90. 12 used the mid., both times after pers. subjs., does not exclude the act. form in an imper. const. — τῶν ἐπωτίδων: see on c. 34. 22; 36. 8. — αὐτοῖς: in the sense of a loose gen. See on c. 34. 7. — 12. παχύτητας: attracted into the number of ἐπωτίδων, as ἐπιβολαί (13) into that of χειρῶν. — ὥπερ: on the neut. of the rel. referring to preceding clause, see Kr. Spr. 58, 3, 6. — χειρῶν σιδηρῶν ἐπιβολαί: the laying on of grappling-irons. ἐπιβολή here and in c. 65. 5 signifies the device to be employed in battle, not the application of it, as is shown by iv. 25. 14, χειρὶ σιδηρᾷ ἐπιβληθείσῃ μίαν ναῦν ἀπώλεσαν. — 13. σχήσουσι: = κωλύσουσι. See on i. 73. 22. — πάλιν: back, here pleonastically added to ἀνάκρουσις for emphasis. Cf. c. 44. 42. — 14. τῆς νεώς: in the sense of ἐκείτης νεώς, as also in c. 65. 7. Kr. Spr. 50, 2, 4. — 14. τὰ ἐπὶ τούτοις: what is necessary under these circumstances (or next in order), i.e. to board the hostile ships, and fight hand to hand. Cf. i. 65. 7; vi. 45. 3.

15. πεζομαχεῖν ἀπὸ τῶν νεῶν: as in iv. 14. 20. — 16. καὶ τὸ μῆτε . . . ὠφέλιμον φαίνεται: independent const. where we should expect the inf. dependent on ὥστε. — 17. ἔαν: sc. ἀνακρούεσθαι. Cf. i. 70. 33. — 18. ἐπέχη: will have possession of. Cf. i. 48. 7; 50. 7.

63. “*So I admonish you all to hold out bravely in the combat which is before us, the hoplites in the consciousness of their superiority, the seamen in dependence on our preparations and on the ancient glory of Athens, to sustain which is now our duty. phatic connective. Cf. i. 9. 19; 42. 1, etc. — διαμάχεσθαι: to fight to the last (utmost). — 2. ἐς αὐτήν: sc. τὴν γῆν πολεμίαν οὖσαν. — 3. ἀξιούν: to be resolved. — ἀπολύεσθαι: cf. c. 44. 40. — πρότερον ἢ: with the subjv. without ἂν, as πρὶν in vi. 10. 19; μέχρι, i. 137. 13. GMT. 66, 2, n. 3; 67, 2, n. 3; H. 921 a; Kühn. 398, note 2 c; Kr. Dial. 54, 17, 9. — 4. ἀπαράξῃτε: cf. Hd. viii. 90. 10, τοὺς ἐπιβάτας ἀπὸ τῆς καταδυσάσης νεὼς βάλλοντες ἀπήραξαν. See on c. 6. 15.

5. τῶν ναυτῶν: i.e. ἢ τοῖς ναύταις. H. 643 b; Kühn. 543, 1 b. — 6. τῶν ἄνωθεν: i.e. τῶν ἐπὶ τῶν καταστρωμάτων, τῶν ἐπιβατῶν. — 7. τὰ πλείω: cognate acc. with ἐπικρατεῖν, as in iv. 19. 9.

8. ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ τῷδε: Schol. ἐν τῷ παραινεῖν. — τι: to be connected with μή: "not to be in any way too much dismayed." — 9. ἀπό: as in c. 70. 20, instead of ἐπὶ (c. 62. 3) because the deck is thought of as the point from which they are to fight. Kr. Spr. 50, 8, 17.

— 10. βελτίω νῦν: sc. ἢ ἐν τῇ προτέρᾳ ναυμαχίᾳ. — 11. ἐκέλευν τε τὴν ἡδονήν: that proud feeling. The proleptic const. as in ii. 67. 23; vi. 88. 5. From here to the end of the chap. the exhortation is directed esp. to the metoeci, who served principally in the fleet. They are more particularly designated in 12 by οἱ τέως Ἀθηναῖοι νομιζόμενοι κτέ. (Schol. τοὺς μετοίκους λέγει). — ἀξία ἐστὶ διασώσασθαι: pers. const. GMT. 93, 1, n. 2 b; H. 944 a. Cf. i. 40. 13; iii. 11. 1. — 12. οἱ τέως κτέ.: in the rel. clause the speaker passes from the feeling to the subjects of it, and the sent. proceeds in the second person because τοῖς ναύταις (7) = ὑμῖν τοῖς ναύταις. — 13. ἡμῶν: Cl. and St. adopt this reading of a few Mss., for ὁμῶν, because the direct reference to the Athenians throughout the whole passage is more natural than the vague ὁμῶν. — τῆς φωνῆς τῇ ἐπιστήμῃ . . . ture, and to its power of propagation.
—15. κατὰ τὸ ὠφελεῖσθαι κτέ.: the sense is, “and you have become sharers in our empire not less than we in point of advantage, both in inspiring fear in our subjects (i.e. securing respect from them), and in freedom from injury.” But it is hardly possible that both οὐκ ἔλασσον (15) and πολὺ πλείον (16) can be correct. Cl. rejects the former, but St., Kr., and Lamb. more prop. consider the latter a gloss to οὐκ ἔλασσον. See App.

17. ἐλευθέρως: in a free manner, i.e.
without limitation of your freedom.
Cf. vi. 85. 9, πάντῃ ἐλευθέρως συμμαχοῦντες.—18. δικαίως [ἄν]: Cl. brackets both words on the ground that no satisfactory explanation has been found. Most edit. omit ἄν (with a few Mss.). The sense would then be, “act justly, and do not betray it.” “δικαίως is synonymous with ὡς τὸ δικαίον βούλεται” (Arn.). Kühn. 497, 6.
See App.—21. ἡμῖν: to be taken with ἀντιστῆναι as well as with ἡκμαζε.
—ἡξίωσεν: presumed. Cf. i. 42. 2; 74. 12.—22. ἐπιστήμη: freq. used of technical knowledge and skill, esp.

in seamanship. Cf. c. 62. 8; i. 49. 12;
121. 15.—23. ἐτέρας εὐτυχούσης βόμης: than confidence on the part of others resulting from lucky events. With ἐτέρας, for which Bauer proposed ἐτέρων, cf. σφετέρων in c. 17. 17; παρ' ἀμφοτέροις τοῖς πράγμασι, v. 26. 27. On βόμη, see App. to vi. 31. 3.

64. “The Athenians especially I remind that in this fleet are collected the last resources of the state, and that after its destruction Syracuse and Sparta will divide between them the supremacy over Hellas. Put forth, therefore, the greatest skill and bravery in this critical struggle.”

1. τοὺς δὲ Ἀθηναίους ὑμῶν: whoever of you are Athenians; the const.
as in iv. 126. 14; vi. 61. 15. Cl. changes τε of the Mss. to δέ on account of the evident reference to c.
63. 12, but the change seems quite unnecessary.—πάλιν αὖ: see on c.
46. 2.—καὶ τάδε: the acc. neut. of the pron. with ὑπομνήσκω as vi.
68. 14, τούναντιον ὑπομνήσκω ὑμᾶς.
Substs. stand in the gen. as in c. 69.

personal sense, iuventutem, as in iii. 67. 11. — 4. τι ἄλλο ἢ τὸ κρατεῖν: Schol. εὐφημότατα ᾗνῃζατο τὴν ἡτταν. — 5. ἐπ' ἐκεῖνα, ἐκεῖ: refer to Athens. Cf. vi. 77. 4, τῶν τ' ἐκεῖ Ἑλλήνων. On the other hand, τοὺς αὐτοῦ refers to the enemies of Athens in Hellas, and τοὺς ἐπελθόντας to those who will have been added from Sicily. — 7. καί: and so. See on c. 60. 21. — οἱ μὲν . . . οἱ δέ: this division covers the whole military strength of Athens, οἱ μὲν the army before Syracuse, οἱ δ' ἐκεῖ those at home. Hence ἂν ὑπὸ Συρακοσίοις εὐθὺς γίγνοισθε points to impending captivity, ὑπὸ Λακεδαιμονίοις to the fall of Athens itself. — 8. οἷς . . . ἐπήλθετε: and you yourselves know with what intentions you came against them. Cf. vi. 31. § 6, and esp. (the hopes of Alcibiades) vi. 15. § 2.

10. ὑπὲρ ἀμφοτέρων: sc. τῶν τ' αὐτοῦ καὶ τῶν ἐκεῖ. ἀμφοτέρων not ἐκατέρων, because the two interests are identical. ἀμφοτέρων could be, as Kr.

explains, neut., both things, your freedom and the independence of Athens, i.e. the idea of the preceding clauses. — 11. καθ' ἐκάστους: severally. For this formula, in the place of the nom., see Kr. Spr. 80, 8, 4. — 12. οἱ ἐν ταῖς ναυσὶν ὑμῶν νῦν ἐσόμενοι: Nicias speaks immediately before the embarkation of the troops: the sick and invalids and the garrison of the διατείχισμα (c. 60. 9), who will remain behind, are also present; therefore the part. gen. ὑμῶν, as in 1, above. See App. — 14. περὶ ὧν: the rel. is neut., referring to the four preceding substs., and is to be connected with ἀποδειξάμενος, with which supply as obj. τοῦτο from εἴ τι προφέρει. “And if any one should display whatever superiority he has over others, either in skill or courage, in behalf of these things (περὶ ὧν), he could at no other time contribute more to his own advantage and to the safety of all.” — εἴ τίς τι . . . προφέρει κτέ.: cf. i. 123. 6.

65. Immediately after this speech, Nicias gives orders to embark. Gylippus and the Syracusans meet the Athenian improvements with counter-improvements.

3. παρῆν: it was possible, in the sense well known from the abs. partic. (iv. 19. 11; v. 103. 7). The explanatory ὁρῶσι should not be separated by a comma from αἰσθάνεσθαι. — καὶ αὐτὴν τὴν παρασκευὴν: i.e. all arrangements and occurrences which were connected with the embarkation. — 4. προηγέλθῃ . . . χειρῶν: the (device of) laying on the grappling-irons had been reported to them (i.e. by spies). For ἐπιβολή, see on c. 62. 12.

6. ὥς ἕκαστα: = καθ' ἕκαστα, singula deinceps. See on i. 3. 19. — καὶ πρὸς τοῦτο: and especially against this, i.e. τὰς τῶν σιδηρῶν χειρῶν ἐπιβολὰς. Kühn. 521, 2. — 7. τῆς νεῶς ἄνω ἐπὶ πολὺ: the whole forms the second obj. = μέγα μέρος τῆς νεῶς ἄνω, “and besides a considerable portion of the ship above (i.e. in its upper parts).” Kühn. 351, 3. See on c. 11. 18. — κατεβύρσωσαν: Poll. (i. 130) well explains, πρὸς τὰς ἐπιβολὰς αὐτῶν ἀντεσφίζοντο βύρσας προσηλόντες πρὸς τὰ τευχίσματα τῶν νεῶν, ὅπως ὁ σιδηρὸς ἀλωθαίῃ πρὸς τὸ ἀντίτυπον ἀντιλαβὴν οὐκ ἔχων. — 8. ὅπως ἂν ἀπολισθάνοι: the opt. after ὅπως ἂν, though common in Hdt., is rare in Att. prose. GMT. 44, 1, n. 3 b; H. 882; Kühn. 553, 5. — 9. ἐπιβαλλομένη: “when thrown upon the hostile ships.” Cf. iv. 25. 14. — 10. οἱ τε στρατηγοὶ καὶ Γύλιππος . . . ἔλεξαν: the Schol. observes πάντες ἐπὶ θάρσους ἐν τούτοις παρακελεύονται, and mentions then the motives of the leaders of the different Greek states. But Thuc. means (as c. 69. 1 proves) only οἱ τῶν Συρακοσίων στρατηγοί, i.e. the native generals, as opp. to the Spartan Gylippus. A like case occurs ii. 86. 26, expressed in exactly the same words, παρεκελεύσαντο καὶ ἔλεξαν τοιάδε.

further successes, and have deeply depressed the courage and hope of the Athenians."

1. ὑπὲρ καλῶν τῶν μελλόντων: the position of the pred. adj. before the art. produces the same effect as καλὰ τὰ μέλλοντα, ὑπὲρ ὧν ὁ ἀγὼν ἔσται.—3. οὐδὲ γὰρ ἂν: for otherwise you would not. Cf. c. 51. 4.—4. αὐτῶν: sc. τῶν προειργασμένων καὶ τῶν μελλόντων. See on c. 55. 11.—μὴ ἐπὶ ὅσον δεῖ: not sufficiently.

5. Ἀθηναίους: to be connected with ὑποστάντες νενικήκατε (11) and νικήσετε (12). Kr. Spr. 60, 5, 2.—7. ἔπειτα δέ: the reading of Vat., for ἔπειτ' of the other Mss. is more forcible.—8. ἀρχὴν τὴν ἤδη μεγίστην: by the position,—subst., art., adj.,—the emphasis is put on the attribute. The arrangement is common in Thuc. See on i. 1. 6.—καὶ ἀρχὴν . . . κεκτημένους: we should expect ἤδη with κεκτημένους. But the sense is, "the most extensive rule hitherto among the ancient and the present Hellenes." τῶν πρὶν Ἑλλήνων is part.

12. ἄνδρες: in the sense of the impers. pron.—ᾧ ἀξιοῦσι προύχειν: "wherein they claim to be the first."

—13. κολουθῶσι: is, it seems, more Att. than κολουθῶσι. Schol. λαττωθῶσι.—τό γ' ὑπόλοιπον αὐτῶν τῆς δόξης: "the rest of their good opinion of themselves." By its close connexion with the preceding ᾧ ἀξιοῦσι προύχειν, δόξα αὐτῶν gets the ᾤθησαν: sc. προῦχιν. — τὸ πρῶτον:

from the beginning, and so strengthening the negation, as τὴν ἀρχὴν in iv.
98. 4; vi. 56. 5. — 15. καὶ τῷ παρ' ἐλπίδα . . . ἐνδιδοῶσιν: Cl. thinks that the evident parallelism of the sent.
requires that τοῦ αὐχήματος should depend on παρ' ἐλπίδα, as τῆς δυνάμεως depends on παρὰ ἰσχύν; the former in the sense “at variance with” (i.e. contrary to the expectation of) “their proud self-confidence”; the latter, “contrary to the strength of their real power,” i.e. more than was necessary in proportion to the real measure of their strength. But it seems better, with Kr., St., and others, to take τῷ παρ' ἐλπίδα = insperato, and const.
τοῦ αὐχήματος with σφαλλόμενοι, “deceived in their self-confidence.” Cf. iv.
62. 12, τῷ παρ' ἐλπίδα μὴ χαλεπῶς σφαλλέσθω. With παρὰ ἰσχύν τῆς δυνάμεως, cf. Soph. Phil. 594, ἰσχύος κράτος; Paul. ad Eph. i. 19, τὸ κράτος τῆς ἰσχύος. — 16. ἐνδιδοῶσιν: give up, lose courage. Cf. viii. i. 23.

67. “We, on the contrary, have more than ever cause to hope for the best; for the measures which they have taken against us will themselves be ruinous to them. Besides, not confidence but despair drives them to battle.”

1. τὸ ὑπάρχον πρότερον κτέ.: τὸ ὑπάρχον is not to be understood, with Kr., of material power, as διπλασία ἐκάστου ἢ ἐλπίς proves, but only of moral strength; here, “courage,” “self-confidence.” “The feeling which before animated us, in which we, when we were still inexperienced, dared to risk all, rests now on a firm basis; and since the conviction of superiority has been added, the hope of every one is doubled.” — ἀνε-πιστήμονες: as ἐπιστήμη (c. 62. 8; 64.
15), referring esp. to skill in seamanship. — 2. ἀπετολήσαμεν: found only here. Cf. ἀποπειρᾶσαι, c. 36. 2; ἀποκινδυνεύειν, c. 81. 26. — 3. αὐτῷ:
sc. τῷ πρότερον ὑπάρχοντι. — τὸ κρατίστους εἶναι: Cl. explains τό with the inf. as introducing the explanation of τῆς δοκίσεως. Most editf. omit τό. See App. — 4. εἰ . . . ἐνίκησαμεν:
the real case in cond. form, as in i. 33.

20 σται. τὸ δ' ἀληθέστατον γυνώτε, ἐξ ὧν ἡμεῖς οἴομεθα 4

the omission of the comma before εἰ) gives to the explanatory clause something of an axiomatic character. — 5. τὰ πολλὰ: for the most part, generally. Cf. i. 13. 3; iv. 80. 10.

6. τὰ τῆς ἀντιμιμήσεως . . . ἡμῶν: "everything in our arrangements which they on their side (ἀντι-) seek to imitate." — 8. οὐκ ἀνάρμοστοι: "not unprepared." This adj. in pers. const. is not found elsewhere. — 10. παρὰ τὸ καθεστηκός: contrary to the usual manner. Cf. i. 98. 9. — 11. χερσαῖοι: "living on terra firma," used esp. of animals, and hence softened by ὥς εἰπεῖν. It is to be connected with ἐπὶ ναῦς ἀναβάντες, and Ἀκαρνᾶνές τε καὶ ἄλλοι is added as furnishing significant examples. — 12. ὅπως . . . χρὴ: cf. c. 44. 15; iii. 11. 18; and see on i. 91. 4. — 13. καθεζομένους: sitting; for they will not be able to stand on board the ships. — 14. πῶς οὐ . . . τὰς ναῦς: how will they not imperil their ships? — ἐν σφίσιν αὐτοῖς . . . ταραῖονται: see on c. 23. 16. — 15. ἐν τῷ . . . τρόπῳ: cf. i. 130. 5, ἐν τῷ καθεστηκῷ τρόπῳ.

16. τῷ πλήθει: "by the greater number." — 17. ἐν ὀλίγῳ: in a narrow space. Cf. c. 70. 22; ii. 84. 14; 86. 20; iv. 55. 17; 96. 13. — 18. ἀργότεραι ἐς τὸ δρᾶν: "slower in accomplishing." Cf. vi. 12. 10, νεώτεροι ἐς τὸ ἔρχειν. — 19. ἐς τὸ βλάπτεσθαι: unusual for the simple inf. after ῥᾶσται. It is caused by the parallelism with the preceding ἐς τὸ δρᾶν. For the usual const., see on c. 14. 5. — ἀφ' ὧν ἡμῖν παρσκευάσται: by the arrangements which have been made by us; unusual assimilation of the nom. of the rel. clause (ἀπὸ τούτων ᾧ). G. 153, n. 2; H. 996 a; Kühn. 555, note 4. For ἀπό, cf. c. 29. 6.

21. ὑπερβαλλόντων: abundare, superare. Cf. vi. 23. 3. For the co-ordination of the gen. abs. with the circumstantial nom., both causal, see Kr. Spr. 56, 14, 2; Kühn. 492, 3. — 23. ἀποκινδυνεύσαι: this is Duker's conjecture for ἀποκινδυνεύσει (dat.) of the Mss. and most edit. In this way the idea ἐς ἀπόνοιαν καθεστήκασιν is carried out naturally, and οὕτως ὅπως δύνανται is brought into the necessary connexion with a verb. The Schol. says: οὐ τῇ παρασκευῇ δηλονότι πιστεύοντες, ἀλλὰ διακινδυνεύσαι σπεύδοντες ἐπὶ τῇ τύχῃ τὸ μέλλον ποιοῦνται, which supports the conjecture. “They are come into the desperate strait of risking a battle in such manner as they can, trusting more to fortune than to their own strength.” For government of ἀποκινδυνεύσαι, see Kr. Spr. 55, 3, 16. — 26. ὡς . . . οὐκ ἂν πράξαντες χεῖρον: the aor. (as in vi. 20. 8, προσδεξαμένης) in the uncertainty of the Mss. is to be preferred to the fut. part. πράξοντες. τῶν παρόντων χεῖρον short for χεῖρον ἢ ἐν τῷ παρόντι πράσσουσι. Kr. Spr. 47, 27, 2. Cf. vi. 89. 19, τῆς διαρχούσης ἀκολασίας . . . μετρίωτεροι. For the causal partic. with ἂν repre-

68. “We, however, are without doubt justified, while warding off a most unjust attack, in taking full revenge on our bitterest foes; and by this means we shall at the same time secure freedom for all Sicily.”

1. πρὸς οὖν ἀταξίαν . . . προσμίζωμεν: the acc. with πρὸς for the simple dat. is unusual, but after the analogy of μάχεσθαι πρὸς τινα. — τύχην ἀνδρῶν ἐαυτὴν παραδεδωκυῖαν: the idea of a fate overruling the individual human being, as well as whole states, is not found elsewhere in Thuc., but often in Dem.; e.g. ii. 22, τὴν τῆς ἡμετέρας πόλεως τύχην ἂν ἐλοίμην ἢ τὴν ἐκείνου. — 2. ὀργῇ: with fury, as in v. 70. 2. — 3. νομιμώτατον . . . οἱ ἂν: against enemies it is quite lawful (i.e. they act quite lawfully) who, etc. On the free connexion of the pl. of the pers. rel. pron. with the neut. adj., see Kr. Spr. 51, 13, 11; Kühn. 563, 3 d. Cf. ii. 44. 4; vi. 14. 7. — 4. ὡς ἐπὶ τιμωρίᾳ τοῦ προσπεσόντος: on the ground of punishing the aggressor. Cf. i. 126. 14. — 5. ἀποπλήσαι τῆς γνώμης τὸ θυμούμενον: to satiate their heart's animosity. So in iii. 82.

64, ἐκπιπλάναι. τὸ θυμούμενον (also Eur. Hec. 299) as τὸ δεδιός, i. 36. 3; τὸ ὀργιζόμενον, ii. 59. 12; τὸ ἐπιθυμοῦν, vi. 24. 4.—6. ἐκγενησόμενον: (Vat.) will fall to our lot, become ours; more appropriate than ἐγγενησόμενον (cf. Ar. Eq. 851), will be possible. Cf. Hdt. i. 78. 7; vii. 4. 5. The partic. ἐκγενησόμενον depends on νομίσωμεν (with force of εἰδόμεν). Kühn. 484, 8; Kr. Dial. 56, 4, 4.—τὸ λεγόμενόν που ἡδιστον εἶναι: evidently appos. to ἐχθροὺς ἀμύνασθαι, “that which is proverbially the sweetest thing”; and hence καί, which is omitted by one Ms. and Valla, is incorrect. Kr. Spr. 57, 10, 12.

7. ἐχθροὶ καὶ ἐχθιστοί: enemies, and indeed the worst of all enemies. See on c. 48. 24.—9. ἐν ᾧ: where-by, referring in a general sense to the idea of the preceding clause, as in iv. 18. 7. Schol. ἐν τῷ δουλώσασθαι ἡμᾶς.—τάλγιστα προσέθεσαν: as in iii. 42. 25, τιμὴν; iv. 20. 12, χά-ριν.—11. τὴν αἰσχίστην ἐπὶ κλησῶν: Schol. τὴν δουλείαν (in the sense of political dependence).

12. ἀκινδύνως: i.e. for the Syracusans and all Sicily.—14. ἡμῶν: adopted by Cl. from Vat., on the ground that it is almost indispensable after the foregoing, which treated of the Athenians. But, as St. says, ἡμῶν is easily understood from βουλόμεθα. Kr. is certainly wrong in proposing αὐτῶν. For the const. πράττειν τι, see Kr. Spr. 46, 5, 11.—ἐκ τοῦ εἰκότος: as is probable.—15. κολασθῆναι, παραδοῦναι: the sent. is constructed as if καλὸς ἀγών were to follow. With the latter inf. supply ἡμᾶς. The subj. is changed as in vi. 68. 12.—16. ἐλευθερίαν: belongs to καρπουμένη as well as to παραδοῦναι. Kühn. 597, 2 f.—18. ἐκ τοῦ σφαλῆναι: in consequence of failure. For gen. of inf. with prep. thus used adv., see Kühn. 478, 4 c.—πλείστα: cognate acc. See on c. 24. 12.

69. After this speech, the Syracusan leaders also embark their troops. Nicias, however, overwhelmed by the thought of the impending crisis, turns once more with prayers and exhortations to the individual trierarchs. After this he arranges the troops with whom he remains on land in as long a line as possible along the shore; and Demosthenes, Menander, and Euthydemus, who have charge of the fleet, sail immediately with their ships against the closed entrance of the harbour.

3. καὶ τοὺς Ἀθηναίους: sc. πληροῦντας τὰς αὐτῶν ναῦς. Kr. Spr. 56, 16, 1.
 Cf. i. 78. 10; ii. 86. 14.—4. ὑπὸ τῶν παρόντων: found only here. It is equiv. to the usual ἐκ τῶν παρόντων, ἐπὶ τοῖς παροῦσι, πρὸς τὰ παρόντα, ἀπὸ τῶν παρόντων. See on c. 56. 6.

5. ὡς ἐγγὺς ἦδη: the reading of Vat.; the ἦν after ἦδη which the other Mss. have weakens the force of the expression.—6. ὅσον οὐ: tantum non, used mostly as here with the inf.
 pres. referring to the immediate fut.
 See on ii. 94. 6.—7. ὅπερ πάσχουσιν:
 sc. οἱ ἄνθρωποι νομίζοντες.—πάντα . . .
 εἰρῆσθαι: the number of σφίσιν and αὐτοῖς shows that both refer to the subj. of πάσχουσιν. After σφίσιν has made clear the reference to the subj.

 of πάσχουσιν, there is no need of the refl. in the second case. The contrasted ἔργῳ and λόγῳ make it clear that both dat. refer to the same subj.
 But Pp. and Bm. explain αὐτοῖς = τοῖς στρατιώταις τοῦ Νικίου; St., following L. Dindorf, strikes out αὐτοῖς, which however seems necessary with λόγῳ εἰρῆσθαι. οὐπω ἱκανὸν is opp. to πάντα, hence the position of τε.—9. ἓνα ἕκαστον: cf. c. 75. 15; vi. 41. 6.—10.
 ἀνεκάλει: called by name, as in c. 70.
 49. See on i. 3. 16.—πατρόθεν τε ἐπονομάζων: the Schol. refers to Hom. K. 68, πατρόθεν ἐκ γενεῆς ὀνομάζων ἄνδρα ἕκαστον, πάντας κυδαίνων.
 —αὐτούς: i.e. τοῖς οἰκείοις αὐτῶν ὀνόμασι, as opp. to φυλήν, both for the sake of greater honour. St. claims, however, that ἐπονομάζων is nowhere equiv. simply to ὀνομάζων, but here and in Plat. Lys. 204 a (ἐπὶ πατρόθεν ἐπονομά(ε)ται) means ἐπὶ τῷ ὀνόματι ὀνομάζειν, i.e. praeter ipso-rum nomen nominare. He omits, therefore, καὶ αὐτοὺς ὀνομαστί, as a marginal explanation indicating this force of the verb.—11. ἀξίων:

admonishing, with the infs. μὴ προδιδόναι and μὴ ἀφανίζειν, of which the former has as subj. τινὰ (preceded by its limiting rel. clause), the latter τούτους (ὧν = τούτους ὧν). — τὸ καθ' ἑαυτόν: gets through ᾧ ὑπῆρχε λαμπρότητός τι the signification of individual merit and worth. Schol. τὴν οἰκείαν ἀρετήν. — λαμπρότητός τι: see on c. 48. 9. — 14. τῆς ἐν αὐτῇ ἀνεπιτάκτου . . . ἐξουσίας: i.e. ὅτι ἐκδότην ἐν αὐτῇ ἀνεπιτάκτως διατάσθαι ἔξεστι. See the beautiful expression of this thought in the Funeral Oration, ii. 37. § 2. — 15. ἀλλὰ τε λέγων: τε introducing the third partic. — 16. ἐν τῷ τοιούτῳ τοῦ καιροῦ: in such a crisis. See on c. 2. 16. — 17. οὐ πρὸς τὸ δοκεῖν τινι ἀρχαιολογεῖν φυλαξάμενοι: not minding lest they might seem to any to say something old. φυλάσσεσθαι πρὸς τι is rare. It occurs in Plut. Mor. 976 d. πρὸς, as to, with regard to, as in ii. 22. 1; vi. 40. 13, and often. — 18. καὶ ὑπὲρ ἀπάντων . . . προφερόμενα: = ἀ καὶ ὑπὲρ ἀπάντων παραπλήσια προφέρεται. The whole clause is in appos. to ὅσα . . . εἶποιεν ἄν. καί, even, is to be taken with ἀπάντων, and παραπλήσια is pred. to προφερόμενα. "Commonplace appeals such as are brought forward even for everything (on all occasions)." — 20. ἀλλ' . . . ἐπιβοῶνται: the force of ὅσα continues. The clause is opp. to οὐ πρὸς τὸ δοκεῖν . . . φυλαξάμενοι εἶποιεν ἄν.

21. οὐχ ἱκανὰ μᾶλλον ἢ ἀναγκαῖα: Schol. ἀναγκαῖα μᾶλλον ἤπερ ἱκανά. Cf. ii. 70. 5, βρώσις ἀναγκαῖα; vi. 37. 17, ἀναγκαῖα παρασκευή. — 22. τὸν πεζόν: i.e. the part of the land force that remained on shore to guard the διατείχισμα (c. 60. 11). — 23. ὅπως . . . γίγνοιτο: i.e. in order that the sight of the greater crowd might increase their courage.

25. Μένανδρος καὶ Εὐθύδημος: cf. c. 16. 5. — 26. στρατηγοὶ ἐπέβησαν:

ἐπέβησαν) ἄραυτες ἀπὸ τοῦ ἐαυτῶν στρατοπέδου εὐθὺς ἔπλεον πρὸς τὸ ζεύγμα τοῦ λιμένος καὶ τὸν καταλει-φθέντα διέκπλουν, βουλόμενοι βιάσασθαι ἐς τὸ ἔξω.

 βοήθει ἥπερ καὶ αἱ νῆες κατίσχοιεν. ἦρχον δὲ τοῦ ναυτιhad embarked as strategi (pred.). — 28. τὸ ζεύγμα: the barrier of the harbour, described in c. 59. § 2. So the Greeks named a bridge of boats of any kind. — 29. διέκπλουν: signifies usually the manœuvre of breaking through a line of hostile ships (c. 36. 22; 70. 26), but here the space left for sailing through (cf. Plut. Nic. 24, ἀπέκλεισαν τὸν διέκπλουν). For it seems necessary to assume, even though it is not mentioned, that the Syracusans in closing their harbour must have left an opening for their own use. The Schol., who seems to have read παραλειφθέντα, explains, τούτεστι παρελέειπτο ὥστε μὴ εἰσῆχθαι. In c. 70. 3 ἔκπλους refers to the same point in the ζεύγμα. Hence καταλειφθέντα of Vat. is to be preferred to καταληφθέντα, παραληφθέντα, or παραλειφθέντα. Cf. Hdt. vii. 36. 12, διέκπλουν ὁπφασιν κατέλιπον τῶν πεντηκοντέρων καὶ τριηρέων, "they left an opening to sail through" (referring to the bridge over the Hellespont). — βιάσασθαι: abs. break through, as in i. 63. 5; different from c. 70. 43.

70. The Syracusan fleet has possession not only of the outlet but of all parts of the harbour, and the battle soon becomes general. On both sides the great est effort and skill are put forth by the leaders as well as by the crews.

1. προεξαναγαγόμενοι: this form, which Dion. Hal. gives in quoting the passage, is here necessary. The aor. is required before ἐφύλασσον, and the simple ἐξάγεσθαι does not occur in the sense of the sailing out of ships, while several different compounds of ἀνάγεσθαι have this force: ἐναντάγεσθαι, ii. 25. 25; ὑπεξανάγεσθαι, iii. 74. 14; ἀντεπανάγεσθαι, iv. 25. 4. The comparison with the isolated ἐξαγωγή, Hdt. iv. 179. 9, which is used not of the sailing out, but of rescue from danger, is not sufficient. St., however, reads προεξαγαγόμενοι = pro- vecti, priores vela dantes, and compares besides ἐξαγωγή in Hdt. iv. 179. 9, also ἐπεξέγοντα, c. 52. 8. On the freq. errors in the transcription of this and like forms, see the App. on i. 29. 18. — 2. καὶ πρότερον: cf. c. 52. 3. There were at that time 76. — 5. παρεβοήθει: Arn.'s reading, following Dion. Hal., for παραβοηθεῖ, παραβοηθῇ or παραβοηθοῖ of the Mss. "It is absurd to say that they stationed their ships all round the harbour in order that their land forces might aid them, when nothing had been said about the land forces." With καὶ ἅμα therefore a second precaution is introduced independently. There is an exact parallel to this passage in ii. 90. 14: (ὁ φορμίων) ἐπλεῖ παρὰ τὴν γῆν· καὶ ὁ περὶς αὐτῶν τῶν Μεσσηνίων παρεβόηθει. The land troops stood on the shore ready to attack the ships of the Athenians wherever they might be driven to land. — 7. τοῖς Συρακοσίοις: the dat. with ἄρχειν as in i. 93. 11; ii. 2. 6; vi. 54. 27. G. 184, 3; H. 767; Kr. Spr. 47, 20, 2. — Ἀγάθαρκος: c. 25. 2. — 8. Πυθὴν: c. i. 1; vi. 104. 8. — 9. οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι: most Mss. and Dion. de Thuc. Ind. p. 875 read οἱ ἄλλοι Ἀθηναῖοι. St. prefixes, with a few Mss., also καί. But there is ground here neither for ἄλλοι (as in c. 61. 1) nor for καί (cf. c. 69. § 4), both of which Vat. omits.

10. τῶν τεταγμένων νεῶν πρὸς αὐτῷ: as to the position of πρὸς αὐτῷ, cf. v. 112. 6, τῇ μέχρ' αὐτῷ σφαιροῦσιν τῶν ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ αὐτῶν. Kr. Spr. 50, 10, 2. — 11. λύειν τὰς κλήσεις: i.e. to break the zeugma, for the passage that had been left open (c. 69. 29) would have to be enlarged to allow the whole fleet to escape. See on c. 69. 29, and cf. c. 59. § 2. — 12. σφίσι: for αὐτοῖς, written under the influence of the preceding sent. — 14. ἦν: so Vat. correctly; the rest omit. ἐγίγνετο cannot prop. be used of the ναυμαχία πρὸς τῷ ζεύγματι, the beginning of which had been already mentioned in 10. — κατὰ τὸν λιμένα ἐγίγνετο: i.e. the sea-fight which had already begun now broke out over the whole harbour. — 15. οἷα οὐχ ἑτέρα: cf. i. 23. 5; viii. i. 12.

16. πολλή, πολλή: cf. πολλούς, πολλούς in i. 49. 2, 3. — ἐπὶ τῶν ναυτῶν: on the part of the sailors, stronger than the simple gen. See on i. 37. 5. — 17. κελευσθείη: i.e. by the κελευσταί (40) appointed to this duty. — ἡ ἀντιτέχνησις: the art. is used since this is a recognized feature in any sea-fight. This word and ἀγωνισμός found only here in Att. — 18. οἳ τε ἐπιβάται: τε introduces the third member after ναυτῶν and κυβερνητῶν. — ἐθεράπευον: curabant. — 20. τὰ ἀπὸ τοῦ καταστρώματος: the service on deck. It is subj. of λείπεσθαι. For ἀπὸ, see on c. 63. 9. — τῆς ἄλλης τέχνης: i.e. τῆς τῶν ναυτῶν καὶ κυβερνητῶν. — 21. πᾶς τέ τις: the resumptive τε, as with τὸ ξύμπαν, c. 49. 18; ἀπλῶς, iii. 82. 34; πάντι τρόπῳ, iv. 48. 15. For πᾶς τις, see on c. 60. 13. — ἐν ᾧ: i.e. ἐν τούτῳ ᾧ; ἐν belonging only with the implied τούτῳ and to be connected with πρῶτος φαίνεσθαι. For προστάσσεσθαι with the simple dat., cf. ii. 87. 31; vi. 31. 31; 42. 8.

24. βραχὺ ἀπέλιπον: = ὀλίγον ἐδέησαν. With simple inf. Kühn. 516, note 9 a. Cf. Hdt. vii. 9. 18, ὀλίγον ἀπολιπόντι . . . ἀφικέσθαι. — διακόσια: acc. to c. 60. 21 and 2 above, the number would be 186. — 25. αἱ ἐμβολαί: most Mss. have ἐκβολαί, which does not suit the context. The ἐμβολαί are intentional attacks, προσβολαί accidental collisions (as shown by ὡς τύχοι . . . ἐπιπλέουσα) of the ships. — διὰ τὸ μὴ εἶναι . . . διέκπλους: i.e. on account of the impossibility of the regular manœuvres, ἀνακρούσεις (see on c. 36. 28) and διέκπλοι. The διέκπλους was the favourite Att. manœuvre of breaking through the hostile line, and then attacking the separated portions in flank or rear. See on i. 49. 11. The art. is not repeated with διέκπλους, as in c. 71. 3. — 27. ἢ διὰ τὸ φεύγειν ἢ ἄλλῃ (νηὶ) ἐπιπλέουσα: co-ordination of different const. Cf. vi. 17. 12, ἢ ἐκ τοῦ λέγων πείθειν ἢ στασιάζων. Kr. Spr. 59, 2, 3.

31. οἱ ἐπιβάται: wrongly suspected by Plugers (Mnem. 11, p. 96). After the slingers and archers had sought to ward off the approaching ship, the regular ἐπιβάται, the hoplites on board, took up the battle close at hand. Cf. c. 62. 14. — 32. ἐπιβαίνειν: with the dat. only here in Thuc., elsewhere with gen. or ἐπὶ τι.

stances, as ξυμβαίνειν in c. 75. 7. — 33. τὰ μὲν, . . . τὰ δέ: "on the one side, the other side." — ἐμβεβληκέναι: some general subj., like τινα or ἐνίοις is to be supplied, to which in the second clause, before ἐμβεβλήσθαι, the pred. αὐτοὺς, themselves, is added. — 34. ἐμβεβλήσθαι: from the act. ἐμβάλλειν τινί, as in c. 34. 20. — 35. κατ' ἀνάγκην: of necessity, because they could not help it. Cf. c. 57. 24. — ξυνηρτῆσθαι: Schol. συμπεπλέχθαι. — 36. τοῖς κυβερνήταις . . . φυλακὴν . . . ἐπιβουλήν . . . περιεστάναι: = τοὺς κυβερνήτας ἀναγκάζεσθαι ἅμα φυλάξει τὰς ἐπιφερομένας ναὺς, ἅμα ἐπιβουλεύσαι ἄλλαις κτέ. The sense is, "so that upon the pilots devolved the necessity of guarding against the one party and of attacking the other, not one by one, but on all sides at the same time." With φυλακὴν (ἐπιβουλήν) περιεστάναι, cf. iii. 54. 17, περίεστη φόβος; vi. 61. 18, περιεστήκει ὑποψία. — 38. μέγαν . . . ξυμπιπτουσῶν: placed after κτύπον (sc. δυντα) in pred. sense. — 39. ἀποστέρησιν παρέχειν: = ἀποστερεῖν.

40. πολλή: frequent. — 41. ἀφ' ἑκατέρων: cf. 16, above. — τοῖς κελευσταῖς: i.e. παρὰ τῶν κελευστῶν. — 42. κατὰ τε τὴν τέχνην καὶ πρὸς τὴν αὐτίκα φιλονικίαν: "as their calling demanded, and from the rivalry of the moment." — 43. τοῖς μὲν Ἀθηναίοις: obj. of ἐπιβοῶντες, which is understood also with τοῖς δὲ Συρακοσίοις (45). — 44. ἐπιβοῶντες: after τοῖς κελευσταῖς, as if οἱ κελευσταὶ παρεκελεύοντο preceded. See on c. 42. 9. — περὶ τῆς . . . σωτηρίας: Cl. takes with ἀντιλαβέσθαι as an emphatic circumlocution for the gen., comparing c. 66. 1; but St. rightly takes ἀντιλαβέσθαι abs., as in ii. 8. 3; viii. 106. 23. τῆς ἐς τὴν πατρίδα σωτηρίας is after the analogy of the common const., ἐς τὴν πατρίδα σφάζεσθαι. — νῦν, εἴ ποτε καὶ αὖθις, προθύμως ἀντιλαβέσθαι: Cl. explains: "since the admonitory εἴ ποτε, if ever, refers to the past (cf. c. 64. 10; iv. 55. 12), καὶ αὐθις can be connected only with νῦν. The admonition to the Athenians is: 'if ever before, now once again they must do everything to obtain a safe return home.' Cf. Dem. i. 6, τῷ πολέμῳ προσέχειν, εἴπερ ποτέ, καὶ νῦν. Quite different is the connexion in ii. 48. 14, where ποτε refers to the fut., 'if the sickness should ever break out again.'" The other edit. all punctuate νῦν, εἴ ποτε καὶ αὐθις, προθύμως, i.e. now, if ever again (in the fut.), which is doubtless better. — 47. ἐκάστους: refers to the allies from the different Sicilian states. For position, see on c. 57. 46.

49. μὴ δι' ἀνάγκην: unnecessarily. See App. — πρύμναν κρουόμενον: here "retiring from the battle." — ἀνακαλοῦντες ὀνομαστὶ: see on c. 69. 10. — 51. οἰκειότεραν: more friendly, more their own. — τῆς οὐ δι' ὀλίγου πόνου κεκτημένης θαλάσσης: spoken in the full confidence of Athenian superiority at sea. πόνου, which is added from Vat., strengthens this effect materially. κεκτημένης is pass., as in ii. 62. 22. Kr. Spr. 40, s.v.; Kühn. 377, 4 a. — 52. ὑποχωροῦσιν: the correct reading from Vat. for ἀποχωροῦσιν of the other Mss. It is the prop. word for retreat before a superior force, and corresponds exactly to the πρύμναν κρουόμενον above. Cf. πρύμναν κρουόμενον ὑποχωρεῖν also in i. 54. 16; iii. 78. 12. — 54. [Ἀθηναίους]: Cl. (Attica, p. 194, 1862) considers this a gloss, contending that it weakens the effect of a contrast which is itself quite clear. Pluygers (Mnem. 11, p. 96) and St. agree. — 55. φεύγοντας φεύγουσιν: repeated to heighten the contrast.

71. The infantry on both sides follow the changing events of the battle with most painful interest, their bodily movements keeping time with the excitement of their minds. The Athenians, especially, for a long time greet the occurrences before their eyes with loud exclamations of hope or of anxiety; but when victory at last decides for the Syracusans, and the Athenians, fleeing in wild confusion, seek refuge on shore, the land troops are seized with despair like that of the Lacedaemonians when their people, after the destruction of their ships, were hopelessly cut off at Pylus (iv. 14).

1. ὃ τε ἐκ τῆς γῆς πεζὸς ἀμφοτέρων κτέ.: cf. c. 70. 29, οἱ ἀπὸ τῶν καταστρωμάτων. τε introduces significantly a new feature of the whole consideration. At the bottom of the entire description as far as 24 lies the idea, κρατοῦντας, ἀνεθάρσυσάν τε ἂν καὶ πρὸς ἀνάκλησιν that so long as the real struggle is undecided, so long continues in the minds of the spectators a reflexion of this struggle. To ἰσορρόπου τῆς ναυμαχίας καθεστηκυίας answers πολὺν τὸν ἀγῶνα καὶ ξύστασιν τῆς γνώμης εἶχε. ξύστασις, used in Hdt. vi. 117. 6 and vii. 167. 5, of the greatest heat of battle, expresses here excitement of mind (stronger than even ἀγών). It occurs also in same sense in Eur. Hipp. 983, μένος μὲν ξύστασις τε σῶν φρενῶν δεινή. And Dio C., who in his account of the battle of Mylae (xlix. 9) had this passage in mind, says, ἀντιπάλου ἐπὶ πολὺ τῆς μάχης γενομένης ἰσορρόπῃ καὶ αὐτοὶ συστᾶσαι τῆς γνώμης συνέσχοντο. — 2. πολύν: pred. Kühn. 465, 11 c. — 4. ὁ αὐτόθεν: Schol. ὁ Συρακόσιος στρατός. This and οἱ ἐπελθόντες (sc. οἱ Ἀθηναῖοι καὶ οἱ ἐξέμαχοι) are the parts in appos. to ὁ τε ἐκ τῆς γῆς πεζός. Cf. iv. 6. 3. Kr. Spr. 56, 9, 1. — περὶ τοῦ πλείονος ἤδη καλοῦ: "to make greater the glory that was already great." — 5. μὴ τῶν παρόντων ἔτι χεῖρῳ πράξωσι: cf. c. 67. 26.

to ἀνατίθῃμι (viii. 82. 3), ἐς instead of ἐν. Cf. Hdt. i. 97. 3, ὁ Δηϊόκης ἐς ἐωυτὸν πᾶν ἀνακειμένον. The Schol. renders the sense correctly, πάσης τῆς ἐλπίδος αὐτοῖς ἐν ταῖς ναυσὶ οὐσης. — 7. οὐδενὶ ἑοικώς: sc. οἷος οὐδεὶς ἄλλος = μέγιστος. — διὰ τὸ (ἀνώμαλον τῆς τάξεως) ἀνώμαλον καὶ τὴν ἔποψιν τῆς ναυμαχίας ἐκ τῆς γῆς ἠναγκάζοντο ἔχειν: so Cl. reads, not claiming certainty for his addition, but seeking only to give, instead of the incomprehensible original, the sense which is gathered from the context: "and because their position on the shore was unlike (in consequence of the widely extended line, c. 69. 23), so necessarily was their view of the conflict (from different points) unlike." This explanation is hardly satisfactory. See App.

9. δι' ὀλίγου: at a little distance, as in ii. 89. 41; iii. 43. 14. — 12. ἀνεθάρσυσαν ἂν: use of ἂν with aor. indic. to express a repeated occurrence, corresponding to εἰ τινες ἰδοιεν in the prot. GMT. 30, 2; H. 835, a; Kühn. 392*, 5. Cf. Plat. Apol. 22 b, ἀνάλαμβάνων αὐτῶν τὰ ποιήματα . . . διερωτῶν ἂν αὐτούς. — πρὸς ἀνάκλησιν: to calling by name. Cf. ἀνακαλεῖν, c. 69. 10; 70. 49. — 13. οἱ δ' ἐπὶ τὸ ἡσώμενον βλέψαντες: = εἰ δ' ἄλλοι . . . βλέψαντες. τὸ ἡσώμενον, the neut. partic. used subst., has a collective force. Kr. Spr. 43, 4, 17. — 14. ὀλοφυρμῷ μετὰ βοῆς: "loud lamentation." ἅμα connects ὀλοφυρμῷ μετὰ βοῆς ἐχρῶντο with τὴν γνώμην ἐδουλοῦντο. — 15. τῶν δρωμένων: obj. gen. with ὄψεως. Cf. c. 42. 30, τῶν Ἐπιπολῶν τῆς ἀναβάσεως. — τὴν γνώμην . . . ἐδουλοῦντο: of extreme hopelessness, which robs the mind of freedom. Cf. ii. 61. 13, δουλοῖ γὰρ φρόνημα τὸ αἰφνίδιον; iv. 34. 9, τῇ γνώμῃ δεδουλωμένοι. — 16. τῶν ἐν τῷ ἔργῳ: = τῶν μαχομένων. — 17. ἀντίπαλον: = ἰσόρροπον. — διὰ τὸ ἀκρίτως ξυνεχῆς: on account of the long continuance in uncertainty, i.e. the long continuance of the uncertainty. — 18. τοῖς σώμασιν . . . ξυναπονέοντες: i.e. in the movement of the body the mood of the mind was reflected. Schol. συνεξομοιοῦντες τὰ σώματα τῇ περὶ τῶν γιγνομένων προσδοκίᾳ ἀπένευον τῷ σώματι τῇδε κἀκείτῃ. ἴσα is cognate acc. See on c. 34. 23. The passage is imitated by Sall. Jug. 60: niti corporibus et ea huc et illuc . . . agitare. — 19. ἐν τοῖς χαλεπώτατα διηγόν: were in the most painful state. For ἐν τοῖς, see on c. 19. 19.

20. αἰεὶ γὰρ παρ' ὀλίγον . . . ἀπώλλυντο: for now they were all but saved, now all but lost. παρὰ as in c. 2. 23. — 21. τε: and so. The inferential τε as in i. 4. 5 and often. — 21. ἀγχώμαλα: cognate acc. See on c. 34. 23. The word is found only in Thuc. and late writers. — 22. πάντα ὁμοῦ ἀκοῦσαι, ὀλοφυρμός . . . κρατούμενοι: the pers. const. with εἶναι (πάντα being subj. of ἦν) instead of the more usual impers. Cf. Aesch. Pers. 419, θάλασσα δ' οὐκέτ' ἦν ἰδεῖν ναυαγίων πλήθουσα. See the imitation of this passage in Charit. p. 86, 10, πάντα ἦν ὁμοῦ, δάκρυα, χαρά, θάμβος, ἔλεος. — 23. νικῶντες, κρατούμενοι: i.e. the cries of the excited soldiers, we conquer, we are beaten. — ἄλλα ὅσα . . . φθέγγεσθαι: = πάντα τὰ ἄλλα εἶδη φθεγμάτων, ὅσα μέγα στρατόπεδον φθέγγεσθαι ἀναγκάζοιτο. ἄλλα ends the asyndeton as the Lat. alia. On the asyndeton, see Kr. Spr.

25. αὐτοῖς: sc. τοῖς ἐν τῇ γῇ, dependent on παραπλήσια. — 26. πρὶν γε δῆ: until at last. See on c. 39. 5. — ἐπὶ πολὺ: long, with ἀντισχούσης, as in c. 22. 15; 79. 24, etc. — 27. ἔτρεψαν: the aor. signifies the moment of the crisis, the impf. κατεδίωκον (29) the results that followed. — 28. λαμπρῶς: = φανερῶς, as in i. 49. 29, ἡ τροπὴ ἐγγίγνετο λαμπρῶς καὶ ἐνέκειντο οἱ Κορινθιοί. It belongs to κατεδίωκον. Cl. would connect it with ἔτρεψαν, which its position forbids.

30. μετέωροι: i.e. while still afloat in the harbour. Cf. i. 48. 4, etc. — 31. κατενεχθέντες: Schol. πρὸς τὴν γῆν. Cf. c. 53. 3. — ἐξέπεσον ἐς τὸ στρατόπεδον: i.e. rushed from the ships into the camp. — 32. οὐκέτι διαφόρως: no longer with the various emotions described above 8–18, but driven by one impulse (ἀπὸ μιᾶς ὀρμῆς, for the more usual μιᾶ ὀρμῇ), i.e. despair. —

33. δυσανασχετοῦντες: acc. to Poll. iii. 130, first used by Thuc. (and only here); common in later writers. This verb takes the acc. (τὰ γιννόμενα), just as δυσχεραίνειν, ἀγανακτεῖν. Kr. Spr. 48, 8, 1. Cf. Dion. Hal. p. 596, 22, δυσανασχετοῦντες τὴν παρησίαν αὐτῆς. — οἱ μὲν . . . οἱ δέ: part. appos. to ὁ πεζός as in 4. — 34. τὸ λοιπὸν τοῦ τείχους: the διατείχισμα mentioned in c. 60. 9. — 35. περὶ σφᾶς αὐτοὺς: the most thought at this moment (ἤδη) only of themselves. περί with the acc. for the more usual gen. Cf. iv. 51. 5, μηδὲν περὶ σφᾶς νεώτερον βουλευσέν; viii. 11. 19, τὰ περὶ τὴν καταφυγὴν ἡγγέλθη. — 36. ὅπη σωθήσονται: ὅπη with fut. indic. as ὅτῳ τρόπῳ in i. 107. 19, and freq.

37. οὐδεμιᾶς ἐλάσσων: i.e. μεγίστη. So δῆ here as with the sup. In formulas like this the gen. is always used, never ἡ. Kühn. 543, note 5; Kr. Spr. 47, 27, 3. — 38. καί: after παραπλήσια as in c. 70. 2. After καί (= ὥς) the aor. has the force of the plpf. — 39. διαφθαρεῖσιν τῶν νεῶν κτέ.: cf. iv. 14 ff. — 40. προσαπώλλυντο αὐτοῖς: (impf.) "were as good as lost for them." For αὐτοῖς a few of the minor Mss. have αὐταῖς (ταῖς ναυσί); but the repeated reference to the Lacedaemonians is more forcible than the unnecessary allusion to the ships. — οἱ ἐν τῇ νήσῳ διαβεβηκότες: for ἐν after verb of motion, see Kühn. 447, A a; Kr. Spr. 68, 12, 2. Cf. iv. 14. 7, ταῖς . . . ἐν τῇ γῇ καταπεφευγυῖαι; also c. 87. 13. For position of the partic., see on c. 23. 14. — 41. καὶ τότε: so then. See on c. 29. 25. — 42. παρὰ λόγον: not παράλογον, which Thuc. prob. never used as adj. See on i. 65. 3.

72. After the battle the Syracusans erect a trophy. The generals of the Athenians wish to make another attempt during the succeeding night to cut their way through with the rest of their ships; but the troops refuse to go on board again. And so they determine to retreat by land.

1. γενομένης δ' ἰσχυρᾶς τῆς ναυμα-

χίας κτέ.: refers to οἱ δ' Ἀθηναῖοι . . . ἀναχωρεῖν much more than to οἱ Συρακόσιοι . . . ἔστησαν: "since the battle had been so dreadful and the losses so great, the Athenians thought only of getting away." Hence only a comma, not a colon, should be placed after ἔστησαν (5). — πολλῶν νεῶν: acc. to 12, the Athenians had lost (110—60) about 50 ships; acc. to 13, the Syracusans (76—50) about 25. See on c. 60. 21 and 70. 24. Diod. xiii. 17 gives the loss on the Athenian side at 60, on the Syracusan at 8 destroyed and 16 rendered useless.

5. ὑπὸ μεγέθους τῶν παρόντων κακῶν: ὑπό, by reason of. Cf. vi. 103. 20, ὑποψίαν ὑπὸ τῶν παρόντων κακῶν ἐς ἀλλήλους εἶχον. — 7. αἰτῆσαι ἀναίρεσιν: explanatory of the proleptic νεκρῶν πέρι ἧ ναυαγίων. Kr. Spr. 61, 6, 8. Cf. v. 63. 6, ἐπειδὴ περὶ Ὀρχομένου ἠγγέλλετο ἐαλωμένοι. — ἐβούλοντο: Vat.; ἐβουλεύοντο of the rest of the Mss. is appropriate neither with οὐδὲ ἐπενόουν nor with εὐθύς.

posal. Cf. i. 128. 27; ii. 2. 24.—9. πληρώσαντας ἔτι: having manned once more. Cf. c. 59. 8. Kühn. 464, 2, takes ἔτι τὰς λοιπὰς as equiv. to τὰς ἔτι λοιπὰς. Cl. omits ἔτι without good reason.—11. νῆες χρήσιμαί: the more usual masc. form occurs viii. 76. 26. The two words are treated as one and therefore placed together after αἱ λοιπαί, while πλείους is pred.

15. αὐτῶν: i.e. Nicias and Demosthenes.—16. τε: added from Vat. and contrasting appropriately the double reason, what had happened and what was to be feared.—μὴ . . . κρατῆσαι: ἂν to be connected with κρατῆσαι; μὴ ἔτι οἴεσθαι dependent on διὰ τὸ.—17. ὡς κατὰ γῆν ἀναχωρήσοντες: cf. Plat. Legg. 755 b, μηκέτι τὴν τηλικαύτην ἀρχὴν ὡς ἄρξων διανοηθήτω.

73. Hermocrates advises the Syracusans to wall off all the roads leading into the interior, and occupy them with troops. But the next day being a festival of Hercules, they are indisposed to make new efforts. Hermocrates, thereupon, warns the Athenians through messengers whom they suppose friendly not to set out in the night, saying that they will find the roads guarded by troops.

2. εἰ . . . βουλήσεται . . . τὸν πόλεμον ποιέισθαι: cf. c. 51. 5.—5. ἔσηγείται: represents. Cf. iii. 20. 7; iv. 76. 8; vi. 99. 7.—τοῖς ἐν τέλει οὔσι: cf. i. 90. 29; vi. 88. 61. For the dat. with ἐλθὼν, see on i. 13. 12.—6. ἀποχωρήσαι αὐτοὺς περιδεῖν: to let them quietly withdraw. Kr. and Cl. think that περιδεῖν with the inf. represents the possibility of anything taking place, with the partic. the fact. Kr. Spr. 56, 6, 3. But in GMT. 24, n. 2, the inf. and partic. are shown to refer to exactly the same thing. Cf. ii. 18. 21, περιδεῖν μηθεῖσαν; ii. 20. 6, περιδεῖν τηθήναι. See also Kühn. 484, 24.—λέγων ταῦτα ἃ καὶ αὐτῷ ἐδόκει: so Vat. and most of the Mss. The sense seems to be, "saying just what he actually (καί) thought." Cl. explains, "saying that which seemed to him from his own conjecture (καὶ αὐτῷ) probable." Certain intelligence he did not claim to have. The reference is to ὑπονόησας αὐτῶν τὴν διάνοιαν and the consideration connected therewith, καὶ νομίσας . . . τὸν πόλεμον ποιεῖσθαι. ἐσηγείται expresses the advice, λέγων the ground for it. Neither explanation, though perhaps as good as can be given, is entirely satisfactory, and St. may be right in bracketing the words. — 7. ἀλλὰ ἐξελθόντας . . . ἀποικοδομήσαι . . . φυλάσσειν: supply χρέων ἐστί from above. — ἤδη: immediately. — 8. τὰς ὁδοὺς ἀποικοδομήσαι: Schol. ἀποφράξει διὰ τινος οἰκοδομῆς. Cf. i. 134. 12. — 9. διαλαβόντας: Cl. and Bm. follow Bk. in adopting this reading from Vat. for προφθάσαντας of the remaining Mss. and editt. διαλαβεῖν, which occurs only here in Thuc., is warranted and explained by the imitation of Polyb. i. 18, οἱ στρατηγοὶ τῶν Ῥωμαίων τὰ μεταξὺ τῶν τάφρων καὶ τῶν στρατοπέδων διαστήματα φυλακαῖς διέλαβον; iv. 67, ὁ Φίλιππος κλείσας τὰς πόλεις τοῦ Κορίνθου καὶ διαλαβὼν τὰς ὁδοὺς φυλακαῖς. Cf. Diod. xiv. 75, καὶ Διονύσιος τὰς ὁδοὺς διαλαβὼν φυλακαῖς. Suidas, citing our passage, explains: διαλαβὼν, προκατασχών. See App. — οἱ δέ: sc. ἐν τέλει ὄντες.

10. ξυνεγίγνωσκον: were of the same opinion; ξυν- with adv. force. Cf. ii. 60. 15. — 11. ἄρτι . . . ἀναπεπαυμένους: "the men having just gladly taken a little repose after the great sea-fight." On account of ἀσμέ-νους and the prep. ἀπὸ, ἀναπεπαυμένους is to be preferred to πεπαυμένους of Vat. For the simple partic. and gen. abs. co-ord., see Kr. Spr. 56, 14, 2. — 14. οὐ δοκεῖν: depends loosely on ἐγίγνωσκον (or ἔλεγον) to be supplied from ξυνεγίγνωσκον above. — ἂν: belongs with ἐθελῆσαι. — 15. ὑπὸ τοῦ περιχαροῦς: "by reason of their great joy." ὑπὸ as in c. 72. 5. τὸ περιχαρές occurs also in ii. 51. 28. — 17. σφῶν: the gen. with πείθεσθαι not elsewhere found in Att. prose. Kühn. 417, note

6; Kr. Spr. 48, 7, 8. Kr. compares Eur. I. A. 726, πειθεσθαι γὰρ εἶθισμαι σέθεν. The gen. is common in Hdt. Cf. i. 59. 13, and Stein's note. The gen. σφῶν is here partly induced by the preceding πάντα: "anything else from them they would be more ready to listen to than an order to take up arms," etc.

19. οὐκέτι ἔπειθεν αὐτοὺς: i.e. when his arguments no longer produced any effect. — 20. ἐπὶ τούτοις: under these circumstances. See on c. 62. 14. — τάδε μηχανάται: he contrived the following plan, which is set forth without connective (γάρ) after τάδε, as often after τοῖονδε. See on i. 89. 2. — 24. ξυνεσκόταζεν: as in i. 51. 7. — 25. ἐξ ὅσου: i.e. ἐς τοσοῦτον ἐξ ὅσου. Kr. Spr. 51, 13, 9. — τις: i.e. in the camp of the Athenians, for ἀκούσεσθαι is act. — ἀνακαλεσάμενοι: (mid.) calling forth by name (to themselves). See on c. 69. 10; 70. 49. By this very act they made themselves appear to be, as they claimed, ἐπιτήδαιοι. — 27. διάγγελοι τῶν ἔνδοθεν: Schol. μηνυταὶ καὶ ἐξαγγέλλοντες τὰ Συρακοσίων. διάγγελος is found elsewhere only in the later writers (e.g. Dio C. xi. 8), but corresponds to the verb διαγγέλλειν in 31. Since it was known on both sides that Nicias had spies in Syracuse (cf. c. 48. § 2), Hermocrates was able without difficulty to get access to the Athenians. But these messengers, of course, did not belong to the spies of Nicias. — 31. καὶ οἱ ἀκούσαντες: Kr.'s proposal καὶ οἱ, opp. to οἱ μὲν, would be admissible after the analogy of iv. 33. 11; 68. 25. But the correlative of οἱ μὲν is rather οἱ δέ in c. 74. 1, and καὶ οἱ ἀκούσαντες . . . Ἀθηναίων is logically subord. to the preceding clause, as if the sent. ran, καὶ οἱ μὲν ἀπῆλθον εἰπόντες ταῦτα, & οἱ ἀκούσαντες κτί.

74. The commanders of the Athenians, deceived into remaining during the coming night, spend also the following day in preparations for the departure. The Syracusans, however, make use of the time to shut off the roads, and to place guards at the crossings of the rivers. At the same time they draw from the shore and bring to their harbour the ships which had been abandoned and left unburnt by the Athenians.

1. πρὸς τὸ ἀγγελμα: in view of the message. πρὸς as in iii. 43. 12; iv. 126. 4. — ἐπέσχον: with acc. of time, as in i. 137. 32; iv. 31. 1, etc. — 2. οὐκ: belongs to ἀπάτην only, opp. to an implied contrast, ἀλλ' ἀλήθειαν. — καὶ ὥς: even thus, i.e. after the fatal delay of the first night. Bm. explains, "even thus, notwithstanding the necessity for immediate departure." — 4. ξυσκευάσαιντο: convasare, in Thuc. only here. — ὡς ἐκ τῶν δυνατῶν: nearly equiv. to ὡς ἐκ τῶν παρόντων (vi. 70. 18), as well as they could. On ὡς with such phrases, see Kr. Spr. 69, 63, 4. — 5. ὅτι χρησιμώτατα: has the emphasis of the sent., "in the most convenient form" (Jow.). — 6. ἀναλαβόντας: (Vat.) preferable to the nom. of the vulgate, ἀναλαβόντες, as it removes the anacoluthon. Cf. i. 31. 10; 53. 1; 72. 5, where after ἔδοξεν αὐτοῖς a pred. acc. with inf. follows. But in iii. 36. 8 we have the nom. as in the vulgate. — αὐτὰ ὅσα: only that which. Kr. Spr. 51, 5, 5. — περὶ τὸ σῶμα ἐς δίαιταν: for support of life.

10. ἀπεφράγγνυσαν: the unusual form φραγγύναι, for φράσσειν, found also in Soph. Ant. 241. — 11. ἐς ὑποδοχὴν: unusual in hostile sense; for its use in a friendly sense, see on i. 139. 11. — 13. τὰς ναῦς τῶν Ἀθηναίων: which, acc. to c. 71. 31, had been run ashore. — 14. ἐνέπρησαν... Ἀθηναῖοι: a parenthetical clause stating what had already been done by the Athenians. The aor. has the force of the plpf. between the impfs. ἀφείλκον, ἐκόμισον, which indicate the continued activity of the Syracusans. ὥσπερ διενόθησαν refers to c. 60. 15.

— 16. ὡς ἐκάστην ποι ἐκπεπτωκυῖαν: "as they severally had run aground anywhere." The clause is really elliptical, the leading verb being understood. See on i. 3. 19.

75. Under such sad circumstances the Athenian army sets out on the third day after the battle. Everything combines to render the situation desperate: the leaving behind of the dead, as well as the wounded and the sick, who break forth into the bitterest complaints; the despondency and helplessness with which about 40,000 men face a perfectly dark future; the lack of servants, most of whom had recently run away; the remembrance of the brilliant hopes with which they had set out, and which had now been utterly destroyed.

2. παρεσκευάσθαι: impers. inf. from the impers. indic. Cf. i. 46. 1; iii. 107. 21; iv. 67. 2. — καί: introducing the immediate performance of the resolution taken, as in ii. 93. 18; iv. 8. 40; viii. 27. 24, ὡς ἔπεισε, καὶ ἔδρασε ταῦτα. — ἀνάδτασις: departure, as in i. 133. 14; ii. 14. 7.

4. δεινὸν ἦν: with general subj.

Cf. ii. 51. 11; v. 64. 17. — οὐ καθ' ἐν μόνον τῶν πραγμάτων: explained by ὅτι τὰς τε ναῦς . . . κινδυνεύοντες, and opp. to ἀλλὰ καὶ ἐν τῇ ἀπολείψει . . . αἰσθεσθαι (7), i.e. the general result is contrasted with the personal experiences of the individual. The general sense of the whole sent. is: "it was terrible not only with regard to the one chief aspect of their situation (the loss of the fleet and consequent danger for themselves and the state), but also in that each one on leaving the camp had the most painful impressions." ἀλλὰ . . . αἰσθεσθαι, though grammatically independent, is logically subord. to δεινὸν ἦν. See App. — 6. ἀντὶ μεγάλης ἐλπίδος: short for "instead of accomplishing the great things for which they had hoped." — 8. αἰσθεσθαι: with the accentuation of the pres. in the good Mss. here and in v. 26. 29, corresponding to the sense of the passage, which refers to repeated and wide-spread impressions.

10. κείμενον: i.e. lying dead. Cf. iv. 38. 8; Xen. An. i. 8. 27. — μετὰ καθίστατο, καὶ οἱ ζῶντες καταλειπόμενοι τραυματαῖαι τε καὶ ἀσθενεῖς πολὺ τῶν τεθνεώτων τοῖς ζῶσι λυπηρότεροι ἦσαν καὶ τῶν ἀπολωλότων ἀθλιώτεροι. πρὸς γὰρ 4 ἀντιβολίαν καὶ ὀλοφυρμὸν τραπόμενοι ἐς ἀπορίαν καθίστασαν, ἄγειν τε σφᾶς ἀξιούντες καὶ ἓνα ἕκαστον ἐπιφόβον: thinking of the sacred duty of the burial of the dead. — 11. ζῶντες καταλειπόμενοι: closely connected with and attrib. to τραυματαῖαι τε καὶ ἀσθενεῖς: the wounded and sick (c. 60. 10) who were left behind alive. — 12. τοῖς ζῶσι: Cl. thinks the epithet ζῶντες, applied to the departing Athenians, out of place, esp. as the same expression has just been used very appropriately for the καταλειπόμενοι. τοῖς ζῶσι, he explains, must have been written by a glossator to make the meaning of λυπηρότεροι (painful, act.) clear, or perhaps τοῖς ὄρωσι must be substituted. The latter is more probable since καθίστασαν (sc. αὐτοὺς) seems to require some preceding noun. But it may be questioned whether τοῖς ζῶσι, although not necessary to the sense, does not after all make the contrast even stronger: "and the wounded and sick who were left behind alive were far more grievous to the living than the dead, and more wretched than those who had perished."

14. ἀντιβολίαν: Schol. δέσις, ἰκesia. — καθίστασαν: sc. αὐτοὺς, τοὺς ὑποχωροῦντας. — 15. ἓνα ἕκαστον: cf. c. 69. 9; 70. 37. — ἐπιβοώμενοι: calling aloud. Cf. c. 69. 20; iii. 59. 11; 67. 9; viii. 92. 50. — 17. ἤδη ἀπιόντων: i.e. when they were just on the point of starting. — 18. ἐς ὅσον: Vat. and Valla (quousque) for ὅσον. — προλίποι: Vat. for προλείποι, aor. of the single case. It is intr., like ἐλλείπειν, and rare. Cf. Eur. Or. 817, φόνος . . . οὐ προλείπει δισσοῖσιν Ἀτρεΐδαις. — ἢ ῥώμη καὶ τὸ σῶμα: not equiv. to ῥώμη τοῦ σώματος (Pp.), but "their (last) powers of spirit and body." See App. to vi. 31. 3. — 19. οὐκ ἄνευ [ὀλίγων] ἐπιθειαςμῶν: the sense required here is evidently not without many imprecations, and Valla translates, non sine multis obtestationibus ac plorationibus. See App. — 20. ὑπολειπόμενοι: dropping behind. Vat. for ἀπολειπόμενοι. It is intr. rather than pass. For the pl. after τῳ, see Kr. Spr. 58, 4, 5. — δάκρυσι: rare dat. with πλησθὲν for δακρύνων. Cf. Eur. Or. 1363, δακρύουσιν . . . Ἑλλάδα . . . ἐπλησε; Aesch. Pers. 133, πῖμπλαται δακρύμασιν. — 21. ἀπορία: co-ord. with πλησθὲν. — καίπερ ἐκ πολέμιας: sc. ἀφορμωμένους. Though καίπερ belongs also to the following particls., πεπονθότας, δεδιότας (connected κατὰ σύνεσιν with στράτευμα), the restrictive signification is not prominent. — 22. μείζω ἢ κατὰ: quam pro. Kühn. 543, 8; Kr. Spr. 49, 4. Cf. ii. 50. 2. — 23. τὰ δέ: connected by prolepsis with δεδιότας, but in sense belonging to πάθωσι. — περὶ τῶν ἐν ἀφανεί: Schol. περὶ τῶν μελλόντων.

24. κατήφεια: dejection; in Thuc. only here. It means originally a looking down (from modesty or shame). — κατὰμεμψις σφῶν αὐτῶν: self-condemnation. — 25. οὐδὲν ἄλλο ἢ: really elliptical; some general word like ἐγγίγνεται or ἐπολεί must be supplied from the following verb, as with Lat. nil aliud quam. See on ii. 16. 10. Kühn. 597, 20; Kr. Spr. 62, 3, 7. — πόλει ἐκπεπολιορκημένη: i.e. the inhabitants of a city captured after a siege. — 26. οὐ σμικρᾷ: this form occurs also in iv. 13. 19; viii. 81. 11. — μυριάδες κτέ.: Boeckh (*P. estimates that over 60,000 men had come to Sicily. To these must be added the Sicilian allies. By loss in battle and esp. by desertion (below, 32, and c. 13. 12) they had been reduced to this number. — 29. τις ἕκαστος: cf. vi. 31. 81. — 30. παρὰ τὸ εἰωθὸς αὐτοί: as a rule every hoplite and cavalryman was attended by a servant. — ἐπὶ τοῖς ὅπλοις: in addition to their arms, Pluygers's emendation (Mmem. 11, 96) for ἐπὶ τοῖς ὅπλοις. Cf. c. 86. 8, ἐπὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις, in addition to everything else. — 31. ἀκολουθῶν: elsewhere called θεράποντες (c. 13. 9; iv. 16. 9) or ὀπηρέται (iii. 17. 10; vi. 102. 10). — ἀπιστία: i.e. fearing that those who were still present would follow the example of those who had run away. — 32. παραχρήμα: lately, i.e. since the sea-flight. Schol. ἐν τῷ τότε παρόντι. — 33. οὐδὲ ταῦτα: i.e. τὰ σιτία.

34. ἡ ἄλλη αἰκία καὶ ἰσομορία τῶν κακῶν: we should have expected "nor, moreover, was the rest of their

But by the addition of ισομορία a shift in the thought is effected; for this idea, — not simply the evils, but the equal sharing of them, — dominates all the rest of the sent. And so we have: "and, moreover, the rest of their misery, and the equal sharing of their sufferings, although having in this very 'along with the many' some alleviation," etc. τὸ introduces the proverbial μετὰ πολλῶν. Cf. τὸ κρατίστους εἶναι κτέ., c. 67. 3. Kr. Spr. 50, 5, 12. τὸ μετὰ πολλῶν is obj. of ἔχουσα, and τινὰ κούφισιν is pred. See App. — 36. οὐδ' ὥς: refers to ἔχουσα... κούφισιν, but resumes esp. the idea of ὁμῶς, which though joined to the partic. belongs in sense to the main verb. — ἄλλως τε καί: supply ἐνθυμουμένοις from ἐδοξάζετο. Kühn. 551, 9 does not supply ἐνθυμουμένοις, but explains = ὅτι ἀπὸ τοιαύτης κτέ. — 37. ἀπὸ οἷας λαμπρότητος... ἐς οἷαν τελευτήν: the same emphatic connexion of two rel. clauses with strong effect as in v. 7. 4. — αὐχήματος: self-confidence. Cf. c. 66. 15; ii. 62. 28. — τοῦ πρώτου:

placed after its noun for emphasis, "as it was at first," and opp to τελευτήν, as λαμπρότητος καὶ αὐχήματος is to ταπεινότητα. — 38. ἀφίκτο: it had come, without expressed subj. as παρεσκευάσθαι in 2 above and i. 46. 1. St. has adopted Badham's conjecture, ἀφίκατο.

μέγιστον γὰρ κτέ.: for the form of the sent., see on c. 29. 29; i. 1. 8. — 39. τὸ διάφορον: reverse, i.e. change in circumstances. See on c. 55. 9. — Ἑλληνικῷ: the art. τῷ which the Mss. have is not appropriate, since there is an implied contrast with ἑδρ-βαρος, as in v. 60. 14; vi. 31. 7. Of the Persians at Marathon and Salamis the like could perhaps be said. — οἷς: referring to στρατεύματι, as in 22, πεπονηότας. See on c. 1. 9. For the acc. following, see on c. 74. 6. — 40. ἀντὶ τοῦ... ἦκειν κτέ.: cf. i. 69. 24. — τοῦτο: proleptic, as τὰ δέ in 23. — 42. μεθ' ὧν ἐξέπλεον: cf. vi. 32. — πάλιν τούτων: the first belongs to ἀφορμᾶσθαι; the second to ἐναντίοις. For position of τούτων, cf. vi. 64. 24, ταῦτα τοὺς ξυδράσοντας. — 43. πεζοὺς τε: τε (Vat.; the rest of the Mss. δέ) is co-ord. with καί before ὀπλιτικῷ. — 44. ναυβατῶν: this rather unusual word includes, as the Schol. correctly observes, the ναῦται and ἐπιβάται. — προσέχοντας: Vat. for vulgate προσσχόντας, “turning their minds to, trusting.” — 45. ὑπὸ μεγέθους: cf. c. 72. 5. — 46. οἰστὰ: as in i. 122. 9.

76. Nicias tries by an address to raise the sinking courage of his troops.

1. ἐν μεγάλῃ μεταβολῇ ὄν: in consequence of the μέγιστον διάφορον of c. 75. 38. — 2. ἐπιπαριῶν: i.e. coming up to and going along the ranks, which were already setting off. Cf. iv. 94. 11; vi. 67. 19. — ὡς ἐκ τῶν ὑπαρχόντων: as well as possible under the circumstances. See on c. 74. 4, ὡς ἐκ τῶν δυνατῶν. — 3. ἔτι μᾶλλον: i.e. than before the last battle, c. 69. 9 ff. — 4. ἐκάστοις: dat. governed by βοῇ χρώμενος = ἐπιβοῶν, c. 70. 44. — 5. ὡς ἐπὶ πλείστον γεγωνίσκων: “raising his voice so as to be heard as far as possible.” γεγωνίσκειν only here in Thuc., otherwise poetic. Cf. Aesch. Prom. 627; Eur. El. 809. Cf. ii. 34. 24, ὅπως ἀκούοιτο ὡς ἐπὶ πλείστον. — ὠφελεῖν τι: so Vat., the rest of the Mss. simply ὠφελεῖν, beginning the following chap. with ἔτι. ὠφελεῖν τι is very appropriate here where the utmost effort to effect some good is described. The const. is the same as in ὠφελεῖν μέγα, πλείστα, οὐδέν.

SPEECH OF NICIAS TO THE ATHENIANS ON LEAVING SYRACUSE.

77. However difficult our situation is, we need not give up hope. In the consciousness of having done my duty toward gods and men, I shall set you a good example. Should the anger of the gods be the cause of our misfortune, we may hope that this will change and a better future be granted us. We are still numerous and strong enough to establish for ourselves a new commonwealth. Our whole effort must be directed to keeping good order on our march, and we must, if necessary, even by hard fighting, cut our way through to the territory of the friendly Sicels. If we succeed in that, the others of you may hope to see your homes again; we Athenians, however, to raise up our city again from its great fall. For men make the state, not walls nor ships.

1. καὶ ἐκ τῶν παρόντων: this reading of Vat. (without ἔτι) has, prop. emphasized, the strongest effect. For καὶ with similar emphasis at the beginning of a speech, cf. vi. 16. 1. — 2. ἤδη τινὲς . . . ἐσώθησαν: some have been rescued from even worse straits than these. ἤδη with the aor. refers to well known experiences. Cf. 15 below, ἦλθον . . . καὶ ἄλλοι τινὲς ἤδη; also ii.

77. 15; iv. 62. 13. On the asyndeton, which is somewhat softened by the emphatic position of ἤδη, see Kr. Spr. 59, 1, 5. — ἡ τοιῶνδε: Cl. explains as = ἡ ἐκ τοιῶνδε, the prep. not being repeated, as in c. 47. 16; vi. 78. 4. It might equally well be considered an attraction of case (from ἡ τοιῶνδε). So Kühn. 543, 2 b. — 3. μηδὲ καταμέμφεσθαι κτέ.: the pres., from Vat., is more comprehensive than the vulgate καταμέψασθαι: “and not to reproach yourselves too heavily, either for the misfortunes which have befallen you (esp. in the last battles) or for your present unmerited sufferings.” With καταμέμφεσθαι ὑμᾶς, cf. καταμέμψις σφῶν αὐτῶν of c. 75. 24. ξυμφοραὶ are the single occurrences; κακοπαθείαι, the enduring conditions. For the causal dat., see H. 778; Kr. Spr. 48, 15, 6.

6. προφέρων: intr. as in c. 64. 15; ii. 89. 11. — ὡς διακέμαι ὑπὸ τῆς νόσου: how I am afflicted by my disease. Cf. c. 15. 9; vi. 102. 8. — 7. εὐτυχία: cf. v. 16. 12; vi. 17. 5. — 8. καὶ ἐς τᾶλλα: i.e. in official and public life. — τοῖς φαυλοτάτοις: not in a moral, but political sense, with the humblest (in the army). — 9. αἰωροῦμαι: suspensus sum. Cf. Hdt. viii. 100. 9, τὸν βίον ὑπὲρ μεγάλων αἰωρηθέντα. — καίτοι . . . ἀνεπίφθονα: “yet my days have been passed in the performance of many a religious duty, and of many a just and blameless action” (Jow.). δεδιήτημαι has the cognate acc. as in i. 6. 23, πολλὰ τὸ . . . Ἑλληνικὸν ὁμοίотροπα διατώμενον. G. 159; H. 715. ἀνεπίφθονα has reference to the timidity of Nicias about giving offence in any way. Cf. Plut. Nic. 2. — 11. ὅμως: i.e. in spite of our desperate situation. — 12. αἱ δὲ ξυμφοραὶ . . . φοβοῦσι: Cl. understands ἡμᾶς as obj. of φοβοῦσι, but it is more natural to take ἐμέ (Nicias) as the obj. Our calamities frighten me not so much as they might otherwise well do. The argument of the sent. is: “in consequence of my good conscience I have hope, and so dangers do not frighten me as much as they might otherwise properly do. If I feel so, why may not you all?” See App.

13. τάχα δ' ἂν κτέ.: quite in accordance with the religious manner of thinking of Nicias (ἦν τι καὶ ἄγαν θειασμῷ τε καὶ τῷ τοιοῦτῳ προσκείμενος,

c. 50. 30). The sense is that even if the jealousy of the gods has hitherto been roused against the Athenians, this has been appeased by the good fortune of the enemy and their own ill fortune, and they may now look for a change.—14. εὐτύχηται: pass., the cognate acc. of the act. becoming subj. Kr. Spr. 52, 3, 4; Kühn. 378, 10.—εἰ τῷ θεῶν ἐπίφθονοι ἐστρατεύσαμεν: = εἰ τῇ ἐς Σικελίαν στρατεία τὸν φθόνον τῶν θεῶν τινος ἐκινήσαμεν. Nicias expressed his sense of the arrogance of the expedition in his first speech, vi. 9 ff.—15. τετιμωρήμεθα: pass. as in vi. 60. 28. Kr. Spr. 52, 10, 11.

16. ἀνθρώπεια: i.e. what belongs to human nature, here referring to warlike hostility. Cf. v. 68. 6; viii. 24. 29.—17. ἀπὸ τοῦ θείου: Kr.'s emendation for θεοῦ of the Mss., which is necessary in order to bring the passage into accord with the usage of Thuc. See Intro. to Book I., p. 29. ὁ θεός refers everywhere in Thuc. to some special god, e.g. Apollo; the numen divinum is τὸ θεῖον. Cf. v. 70. 4; 104. 4; 105. 1, 5, 11; 112. 7.—18. ἀπ' αὐτῶν: sc. τῶν θεῶν, referring κατὰ σύνεσιν to the collective θεῖον, which includes all the gods.—19. καὶ ὁρῶντες: καὶ co-ord. with τε in 17, as if we had ὁρῶντας . . . καταπεπληχθαι depending on εἰκὸς.—οἶοι: Vat., the rest of the Mss. οἶ.—20. καταπέπληχθε: Vat. καταπεπληχθαι, vitio itacismi. The context makes the imv. necessary.—21. εὐθύς: already, i.e. by reason of your number and importance.—23. οὐτ' ἂν ἐπιόντας δέξαιτο: could neither resist your attack. Cf. c. 40. 15; 44. 20.

25. μὴ ἄλλο τι ἡγησάμενος ἢ: common introduction to hyperbolical expressions. Cf. i. 70. 29; iii. 30. 12; 56. 25.—27. κρατήσας: if he conquer.

78. Thereupon the Athenian army sets off into the interior of the island, marching in a double hollow square with the baggage in the middle. They cross the Anapus after putting the Syracusans stationed there to flight, and make on the first day 40, on the second, 20 stades. On the third, however, being hard pressed by the cavalry and light troops of the enemy, they are forced to turn back and pass the night at their former camping-place.

With the account of the retreat of the Athenians, compare map, and Holm II. p. 397-401; also the App. to c. 78. 14.

the ranks." Cf. ἐπιπαριών, c. 76. 2, which implies approaching in order to speak to. ἔμα belongs to παρακελευόμενος. — 3. καθιστάς: i.e. putting them in line. — 4. οὐδὲν ἦσσαν: sc. ἐπῆει. — τοῖς καθ' ἑαυτὸν: to the troops under his command.

5. ἐν πλαισίῳ: Schol. (on vi. 67. 6) ἐν σχήματι τετραγώνῳ. A hollow square called τετράγωνος τάξις in iv. 125. 16. Cl. is doubtless right in adopting πλαισίῳ from Vat., instead of διπλασίῳ of the other Mss., but his view that the two divisions of the army formed together a hollow square seems not to agree so well with the context, as Kr.'s and St.'s, that each division formed its own πλαισίον. — πρῶτον μὲν ἡγούμενον: these words, found only in Vat., are indispensable to the sense. There is the same redundancy of expression as in πρῶτον ἤρξατο, i. 103. 17; ii. 53. 1. — 7. τοὺς δὲ σκευοφόρους . . . ἐντὸς εἶχον: cf. vi. 67. 9; Xen. An. iii. 2. 36.

8. [τε]: rightly omitted by Bm. as having no prop. connexion. — 10. τῶν Συρακοσίων καὶ ξυμμάχων: part. gens. Cf. c. 26. 14; iv. 80. 7. — 13. ἐσακοντίζοντες οἱ ψилоί: part. appos. to οἱ Συρακόσιοι. Cf. c. 71. 1, 4.

14. σταδίους ὡς τεσσαράκοντα: see App. — 15. πρῶ: see on c. 19. 1. — 17. ἄπεδον: level, a rare word. Cf. Hdt. ix. 102. 3, ἄπεδος χῶρος. Schol. ἑμαλον, ὁμόπεδον, ὡς καὶ ἄλοχος ἢ ὁμόλοχος. — 20. στάδια: the neut. form in Thuc. only here. — ἣ ἔμελλον ἵκναι:

i.e. westward to the high plateau, which, however, they did not reach.

22. ἀπετείχιζον: were walling off (impf.). — 24. Ἀκραῖον λέπας: the situation of this bare cliff, which marks the beginning of the plateau, can still be determined by means of the ravine leading thither, now called Cava di Culatrello. See Holm, II. p. 64 and 399, and Karlsru. Philol. Wochenschr. 1882.

26. αὐτούς: emphatic position, as ὁμας in i. 68. 1; σφᾶς, v. 82. 23. — ἐκατέρωθεν: this reading of Vat. for ἐκάτεροι best suits the context. Cf. Valla, utrimque.

29. ἐς τὸ αὐτὸ στρατόπεδον: i.e. in which they had passed the night before. — οὐκέτι ὁμοίως: i.e. as before, when real want had not yet been felt. — 30. ἀποχωρεῖν: Schol. ἀποσκιδνασθαι ἀπὸ τοῦ στρατεύματος, i.e. for foraging. — ὑπὸ τῶν ἱππέων: cf. vi. 37. 18.

79. The two following days also pass

in vain attempts to force their way through the narrow pass up to the plateau. They are frightened, moreover, by a storm which breaks upon them, and suffer heavy losses in their constant fighting with the enemy, who attack them on all sides.

1. πρῶ: on the fourth day of the march. — 2. [ἐλθεῖν]: St. is prob. right, following Valla's translation, vi pervadunt ad tumultum, in considering this an interpolation. It seems clear from the context (esp. 6, 7), that they forced their way to the hill, but were not able to carry it. Nowhere else in Thuc. does βιάζεσθαι take an inf., but always a prep. (ἐς, c. 69. 29; i. 63. 5; κατὰ, iv. 48. 8; διὰ, c. 83. 19). See Holm, II. p. 399. Cl. defends ἐλθεῖν, rendering "they did their best to reach the fortified hill." — τὸν ἀποτετειχισμένον: cf. c. 78. 22. — 4. οὐκ ἐπ' ὀλίγων ἀσπίδων: referring to the depth of the line. Cf. iv. 93. 22, ἐπ' ἀσπίδας πέντε καὶ εἴκοσι; Xen. Hell. ii. 4. 11, ἐπὶ πεντήκοντα

6. ἐτειχομάχουν: they tried to storm the wall. — 7. δικνοῦντο ῥᾶον: they reached them more easily, i.e. hit them better. Schol. ἐξικνοῦντο βάλλοντες.

in i. 58. 2; ii. 67. 5; iii. 4. 14; iv. 11. 12.—23. κατὰ βραχὺ: a few at a time. Cf. iv. 96. 19.—25. πέντε ἢ ἑξ σταδίων: their strength, exhausted in resisting ceaseless pressure from all sides, did not allow them to get further.

80. Finally they break up in the middle of the night, in order to escape the pursuit of the enemy, and take their journey in the opposite direction, first to the coast and then toward Camarina and Gela. But the army, driven by fear, pushes hastily on and falls into confusion. The division of Nicias goes before and keeps together; the greater part under Demosthenes follows in disorder. In the morning, however, Nicias reaches the coast, drives away a Syracusan guard at the river Cacyparis, crosses, and gets as far as the Erineus.

1. τῆς νυκτός: during the night preceding the sixth day after departure.—2. τε: wanting in Vat. and omitted by Cl. on the ground that it has no correlative, καὶ . . . γεγενημέναις being merely parenthetical; but it would seem better with the other edit. to take τε as co-ord. with καὶ, the two clauses giving the grounds of κακῶς εἶχε. For the omission of ὅτι before καὶ κατατετραυματισμένοι ἦσαν, cf. v. 61. 17, βουλόμενοι ἄλλως τε προσγενέσθαι σφίσι, καὶ θυμῳ . . . ἦσαν αὐτόθι.—5. πυρὰ καύσαντας: the reading of Vat. for καύσαντες is preferable after τῷ Νικίᾳ καὶ Δημοσθένει ἐδόκει. See on c. 74. 6. πυρὰ, the pl. of the second decl., watch-fires. The object was to deceive the enemy with regard to their departure.—6. τούναντίον ἢ: as in vi. 68. 14.

7. ἣν δὲ ἡ ἐξόμπασα ὁδὸς αὕτη κτί.: this parenthetical remark, introduced by the epexegetical δέ, refers, as the expression ἡ ἐξόμπασα ὁδὸς clearly shows, to the goal of the whole march after the departure from Syracuse, not simply to the direction taken in the night after the fifth day. Thuc. says expressly, and prob. in contradiction of varying reports about it: "from the beginning the plan of the march was not toward Catana (northward), but in the direction of Camarina and Gela (south-westward)." When, therefore, Diod. xiii. 18 says, προήσαν ἐπὶ Κατάνης, he has either misunderstood Thuc., or he follows another account not approved by Thuc. See App.

11. καύσαντες οὖν: resumptive after the digression. See on c. 6. 7; 42. 24.—12. οἷον φιλεῖ: quod solet. Cf. iv. 125. 7, ὅπερ φιλεῖ μεγάλα στρατόπεδα ἀσαφῶς ἐκπλήγνυσθαι.—13. φόβοι καὶ δέϊματα: in explanatory appos. to οἷον. Bloomf. compares Eur. Hel. 312, φόβος εἰς τὸ δέϊμα μ' ἄγει, to prove that δέϊμα is stronger than φόβος, the former referring esp. to panic terrors. φόβος and δέος are distinguished by Prodicus, Plat. Prot. 358 d. For the pl. of words expressing emotion or passion, see Kr. Spr. 44, 3, 4.—14. [ἀπὸ]: bracketed by Cl., with the majority of the edit., as admitting no intelligible explanation. Ullrich (Beitr. III. p. 28) explains, "going away from enemies not far distant." So Kr., Arn., Bm.—15. ἰοῦσι: belongs to αὐτοῖς, not to στρατοπέδοις.

16. ὥσπερ ἡγείτο: referring to the advantage which Nicias had, and giving the ground of προύλαβε, rather than of ξυνέμενε.—17. προύλαβε πολλῶ: sc. τῆς ὁδοῦ. Cf. iv. 33. 12, προλαμβάνοντες ῥαδίως τῆς φυγῆς; Hdt. iii. 105. 8, προλαμβάνειν τῆς ὁδοῦ; Liv. xxxvi. 19, aliquantum viae praeceperat. (Arn.) πολλῶ is dat. of degree of difference. Kr. Spr. 48, 15, 9.—18. καὶ πλέον: cf. c. 48. 24.

ἅμα δὲ τῇ ἔφ: sixth day. From here to the end of the chap. the events related refer to the division of Nicias alone, as Holm (II. p. 401) has shown by the most careful investigation, coming to the same result that Grote had reached by another way.—20. ὁδὸν τὴν Ἑλωρίνην: cf. vi. 66. 17.—21. ἐπὶ Κακυνάρει: now Fiume di Cassibile. For the usual order of

27. ἐχώρουν πρὸς . . . τὸν Ἑρινεόν: advanced towards the Erineus. In c. 82. 15 they are said to have arrived there. The Erineus cannot be identified with certainty. Leake considers it the present Falconara; Holm (II. p. 401), the Cavallata.—28. ταύτῃ: sc. χωρεῖν. Why the guides directed them to take this course can only be conjectured.

81. In the meantime the Syracusans, learning that the Athenians had withdrawn during the night, pursue them eagerly. They overtake Demosthenes first, who had been left considerably behind with his division, and compel him to halt. He takes shelter in a walled enclosure, where he resists their continual attacks until his men are completely exhausted.

1. ἡ ἡμέρα: i.e. that following the nocturnal occurrences just described and referred to c. 80. 13, ἅμα τῇ ἑφ; hence the art.—3. ἐν αἰτία . . . εἶχον: = ἐκρηγνόντο. See on i. 35. 10. With following inf. also in v. 65. 24. Kr. Spr. 50, 6, 6.—5. οὐ χαλεπῶς: with ἡσθάνοντο.

8. τῆς νυκτὸς τότε: refers back to c. 80. 18. See on c. 31. 12.—10. δίχα δὲ ὄντας: Schol. κεχωρισμένους ἀπὸ τῶν μετὰ τοῦ Νικίου. δὴ referring to ῥᾶον and giving with the partic. the reason. Cf. iv. 59. 14; vi. 80. 14. —11. ξυνήγον ἐς ταυτό: they drove them together. See on c. 36. 31.

12. καὶ πεντήκοντα σταδίου: Vat. has ἑκατὸν καὶ πεντήκοντα, and so Val-la read, centum quinquaginta. But such a gain in so short a time is impossible. St. proposes τρεῖς καὶ πέντε (γ' for ρ') but so exact a statement is hardly admissible under the circumstances. καί = vel. The Schol. says, περιττὸς δὲ καὶ σύνδεσμος. — θᾶσσόν τε γάρ: τε correlative to δέ before Δημοσθένης, as in iii. 52. 13; v. 9. 35; viii. 16. 12. τε γάρ = καὶ γάρ (etenim) does not occur before Aristotle. Kühn. 544, note 3. — 14. ἐκόντας εἶναι: this seemingly pleonastic expression occurs generally only in neg. sents. GMT. 100, n. 2; H. 956 a. Cf. ii. 89. 29; iv. 98. 14; vi. 14. 8. — σωτηρίαν: cf. vi. 60. 17. — 15. τοσαῦτα ὅσα: in restrictive signification (see on ii. 12. 1; Kr. Spr. 46, 5, 4), only so much as. Cf. c. 49. 1. The acc. is cognate.

16. τὰ πλείω ἐν πόνῳ ξυνεχιστέρῳ ὦν: for the most part under more continual pressure, i.e. than Nicias. — 18. καὶ τότε: and now also, opp. to τὰ πλείω. — 19. οὐ προυχώρει . . . ἐς μάχην ξυνετάσσετο: "he was trying to keep his troops ready for battle, rather than to press forward." — 21. [Ἀθηναῖοι]: considered a gloss by Kr., St., and Cl., as not all were Athenians. Cf. c. 82. 6, τινες πόλεις οὐ πολλά. But in c. 86. 17 Συρακοσίων includes also the allies; why may not Ἀθηναῖοι here? — 22. ἀνελθόντες: Schol. συστραφέντες. "Driven back into a small space." Lobeck proposed ξυνελθόντες; but later writers have ἀνελεῖν in the same sense. Cf. Arr. An. iv. 5. 8, οἱ δὲ τοὺς διαβαίνοντας ἀντιμέτωποι ταχθέντες ἀνελέουν ἐς τὸν ποταμόν. — 23. ἔνθεν τε καὶ ἔνθεν: on both sides. Supply ἦν from περιῆν. Kr. Spr. 62, 4, 1. Grote explains (VII. c. 60, p. 180, note), "a road which passed through the walled ground, entering at one side and coming out at the other." But the Greek does not mean this. — ἐλάας δὲ εἶχεν: free continuation of the rel. sent. without repetition of the pron. See on c. 29. 27. Plut. Nic. 27 calls this place Πολυζήλειον ἀλήν. He adds from Philistus, that Demosthenes had before this made an attempt to take his own life; so too Paus. i. 29. 12. — 24. περισταδόν, ξυσταδόν: both adv. forms found only here in Thuc. The latter is connected, even without the art., with μάχαις, = σταδῖαις μάχαις. Kr. Spr. 50, 8, 19. Cf. iv. 38. 30, ἡ μάχη οὐ σταδία ἦν.

26. ἀποκινδυνεύειν πρὸς ἀνθρώπους ἀπονενοημένους: "to risk their lives against despairing men." Cf. Xen. Hell. vii. 5. 12, τοῖς ἀπονενοημένοις οὐδεὶς ἂν ὑποσταίῃ; Zon. Ann. vii. 25, μὴ διακινδυνεύειν πρὸς ἀνθρώπους ἀπονοῖα χρωμένους. — 28. φειδῶ τις ἐγίγνετο = φειδῶ τινα (σφῶν αὐτῶν) ἐποι- οῦντο, or ἐφείδοντο σφῶν αὐτῶν. — ἐπ' εὐπραγίᾳ ἥδη σαφεῖ: on the ground that success was now assured. Cf. c. 59. 2; 62. 1. — 29. μὴ προαναλωθῆναί τῳ: dependent on φειδῶ ἐγίγνετο, with which τῳ (i.e. τινι Συρακοσίῳ) is to be construed. The inf. with μὴ comes under the const. after verbs of hindrance or freedom. GMT. 95, 2; H. 1029. The Schol. gives in free connexion the proper sense, ἐφείδετο αὐτός τις ἑαυτοῦ, ὥστε μὴ προαναλωθῆναι.

— καὶ ὥς: Schol. χωρὶς τοῦ αὐτοῦ προ- αναλωθῆναι καὶ κινδυνεῦσαι. — 30. ταύτῃ τῇ ιδέᾳ: Schol. ἤγουν τούτῳ τῷ τρόπῳ τῆς μάχης, i.e. by surrounding and shooting them down from a distance, not engaging in a ξυσταδὸν μάχη.

82. In answer to the first summons of the Syracusans, in which freedom is promised to any allies of the Athenians who will come over to them, those from a few cities surrender. A capitulation is then concluded also with the others, about 6000 in number, on condition that their lives shall be spared. All then surrender, and give up their arms and property, and are led away to Syracuse. Nicias, however, crosses with his division the Erineus, and encamps on a high place.

1. δ' οὖν: for γοῦν of the Mss., seems necessary, in order to resume, after the digression, the account broken off at c. 81. 24. See on c. 59. 1; i. 3. 19. For οὖν resumptive, see on c. 6. 7. — δι' ἡμέρας: all day long. — 5. τῶν νησιωτῶν: reference is made esp. to those enumerated in c. 57. § 4 (ὑπήκοοι ὄντες καὶ ἀνάγκη ὅμως ἡκολού-

For ἐπὶ with dat. of condition or determining circumstances, see Kr. Spr. 68, 41, 7. Cf. i. 13. 4, etc. — 6. ὡς σφᾶς ἀπιέναι: belonging both to κήρυγμα ποιοῦνται and εἰ τις βούλεται.

7. ἔπειτα ὕστερον: as in ii. 9. 7, and often. The sent. is independent, where we should expect ἔπειτα εἰ κτέ. — 8. ὥστε: on condition that. But the proposal is rejected, and a last attempt to steal away during the night fails, only 300 succeeding in breaking through the guards.

1. τῇ ὑστεραίᾳ: the seventh day. — 4. σπένδεται . . . πέμψαι: rare const. Cf. iii. 109. 12, σπένδονται . . . ἀποχωρεῖν. The verb has generally the simple acc., ii. 73. 5; iii. 24. 18; 109. 10.

οἰχόμενος: indicates the immediate departure of the messenger. See on c. 7. 6. — 5. ἀπήγγειλε παραδεδωκότας: sc. τοὺς μετὰ Δημοσθένους σφᾶς αὐτούς.

13. πονήρως: for accent and meaning, see App. on c. 48. 2. Cf. Xen. Cyr. vii. 5. 75, πονήρως . . . ἔχει. — 14. σίτου τε καὶ τῶν ἐπιτηδείων: the part co-ord. with the whole. Kr. Spr. 69, 32, 2. See on c. 62. 6.

concubia; Tac. Ann. i. 39. The use of the neut. sing. of the pres. partic. as an abstract noun is esp. freq. in Thuc. GMT. 108, 2, n. 4; Kr. Spr. 43, 4, 28. — 16. καὶ οἱ Συρακόσιοι . . . ἐπαιώνισαν: see on c. 44. 32. καί is not strictly co-ord. with the preceding τε, but introduces the main clause vividly in paratactic const. "as soon as the Athenians take up their arms, the Syracusans observe it and raise the battle-cry." Kühn. 518, 8. — 17. γνόντες δέ: after the irregularity just mentioned, the sent. is continued not by καί, but by the stronger δέ (see on c. 81. 12); though both principal verbs, ἀναλαμβάνουσι and κατέθεντο, are so closely connected that one obj. (ὄπλα) suffices for both. — 19. διὰ τῶν φυλάκων βιασάμενοι: see on c. 79. 2. The fate of these 300 is related in c. 85. 11.

84. Nevertheless, on the following morning Nicias sets out with his exhausted army, and reaches, under constant attacks of the enemy, the river Assinarus. In their attempt to cross, and while slaking their thirst in the river, a large number perish, partly by the weapons of the enemy, partly by drowning.

1. ἡμέρα: the eighth day. — 2. ἦγε τὴν στρατιάν: i.e. continued his march.

5. Ἀσσινάρον: now Falconara, acc. to Holm, II. p. 401 (or Fiume di Noto, Holm, Karlsr. Vortr., which see for particulars). — ἅμα μὲν, βιαζόμενοι κτέ.: the Athenians press on to the river for two reasons: (1) because they hoped, when they should have crossed the river, to suffer less from the enemy; (2) on account of their thirst. Hence ἅμα μὲν, which introduces the first ground, is to be taken with οἰόμενοι, and the partic. βιαζόμενοι is explanatory of this: "being hard pressed on all sides, they hoped to get some relief by crossing the river." The second reason is added without a partic. by means of the gen.

with ὑπό and the simple dat. ἐπιθυμία. Kr. Spr. 59, 2, 3.

9. οὐδενὶ κόσμῳ ἔτι: no longer in any order. Cf. ἔτι νυκτός, iv. 26. 20. οὐδενὶ κόσμῳ, as in c. 23. 16; 40. 10; ii. 52. 5; iii. 108. 18. — 10. πᾶς τέ τις: see on c. 60. 13. τε connects πᾶς with καὶ οἱ πολέμιοι, both of which are subj. of χαλεπὴν . . . ἐποιοῦν. — 13. περὶ τοῖς δορατίοις καὶ σκεύεσιν κτέ.: "some perished at once, pierced by their own spears; others, becoming entangled (ἐμπαλασσύμενοι = ἐμπλεκόμενοι, Schol.) in their trappings, were carried away by the current." As there had been rain four days before (cf. c. 79. 9), we may suppose that the stream was not at its lowest point. οἱ μὲν . . . διεφθείροντο goes with περὶ τοῖς δορατίοις and οἱ δὲ . . . κατέρρεον with σκεύεσι. Cf. Plut. Sull. 18, κατὰ πρηνούς φερόμενοι τοῖς δόρασι περιέπιπτον αὐτοὶ τοῖς ταυτῶν. The σκεύη are, as in vi. 31. 29, to be understood of the military equipment outside of the real arms (breastplate, helmet, etc.). On ἐμπαλασσύμενοι, cf. Hd.

vii. 85. 11, ἐν ἔρκεσι ἐμπαλασσόμενοι διαφθείρονται.

15. ἐς τὰ ἐπὶ θάτερα τέ: the participle is so placed because the preceding phrase is regarded as one word. On the use of such phrases, see Kr. Spr. 43, 4, 3. — 16. ἦν κρημνώδες: without def. subj., τὰ ἐπὶ θάτερα, perhaps, being understood. Cf. i. 63. 10, ἔστι καταφανές; vi. 101. 16, πηλῶδες ἦν. — 18. ἀσμένους: "greedily." Vat. has ἀσμένως, but the adv. is not used by Thuc. See Herbst, Gegen Cobet, p. 22. — ἐν κοίλῳ ὄντι τῷ ποταμῷ: i.e. with a deep bed. The reference is to a river which has cut a deep channel, and hence, when the water is low, flows between high and steep banks. So is to be explained Polyb. xxii. 20. 4, ἐγεφύρωσε τὸν Σαγγάριον ποταμὸν τελῶς κοῖλον ὄντα καὶ δύσβατον. Cf. also Plut. Cat. 3, οἱ δὲ ποταμοὶ πάντες ὥσπερ αἱ κοίλοι καὶ ταπεινοὶ διὰ θέρους ἐρρύσαν. — ἐν σφίσιν αὐτοῖς ταρασσομένους: cf. c. 67. 14.

19. ἐπικαταβάντες: i.e. going down to the very edge of the water. Cf. c. 23. 2; 35. 9; iv. 11. 2. — 21. εὐθύς διεφθάρτο: on the plpf. with εὐθύς to express instantaneous effect, see Kr. Spr. 53, 4, 2. — ὁμοῦ τῷ πηλῷ ἡματωμένον: although, in addition to the mud, it was bloody. ὁμοῦ with the dat. as in c. 19. 25. — 22. περιμάχητον: λέγεται τὸ περιτίμον, περὶ οὗ τινες ἀλλήλοις διαμάχονται, ἵνα τοῦτον κρατῶσι καὶ τοῦτο κτῶνται. Schol. on Ar. Thesm. 326. Cf. Plat. Legg. 678 e, περιμάχητος ἦν αὐτοῖς ἡ τροφή.

85. Finally Nicias surrenders to Gylippus, expecting better treatment from him than from the Syracusans. Gylippus now orders the slaughter to be stopped. Of the survivors, however, the smaller part only become state prisoners, for very many are hidden away secretly and scattered as slaves over all Sicily. A very large number, too, had been killed, partly in the fighting on the march, partly in the last struggle. Of those who are sold into slavery, many escape later to Catana.

1. νεκρῶν τε πολλῶν: Diod. xiii. 19 puts the loss at the river at 18,000, and the captured at 7,000; but it is evident that he includes the army of Demosthenes. — 2. τοῦ στρατεύματος τοῦ μὲν . . . τοῦ δέ: part. appos. See on c. 31. 4.—4. πιστεύσας μᾶλλον: more fully explained, c. 86. § 4.—6. χρῆσασθαι: the same formula also in ii. 4. 32; iv. 69. 22.

8. ζωγρεῖν: (from ζῶος and ἄγρα, ἄγρευειν) the opposite of φονεύειν, meaning not so much take captive as give quarter.—9. τοὺς τε λοιπούς: answers to καὶ ἐπὶ τοὺς τριακοσίους (10).—ὅσους μὴ ἀπεκρύψαντο: sc. οἱ Συρακοσίοι, i.e. so many as had not been hidden away by the Syracusan soldiers, to be kept or sold as slaves.—10. ἐπὶ τοὺς τριακοσίους: cf. c. 83. § 5.—11. διεξῆλθον: const., like διαφυγεῖν, with the acc. Cf. Xen. Mem. iii. 9. 7, τὰς πύλας τοῦ τείχους διεξιόν.—12. τοὺς διωζομένους: the art. with the fut. partic. equiv. to rel. with indef. antec. (Lat. qui with subjv.). Kr. Spr. 50, 4, 3. Cf. ii. 51. 19; iv. 93. 13; vi. 20. 15.

τὸ ἄθροισθὲν τοῦ στρατεύματος, τὸ ... διακλαπέν: as to the collective use of the neut. partic., see on c. 43. 44.—13. ἐς τὸ κοινόν: i.e. as state prisoners. The passage is imitated by Plut. Timol. 29: τῶν αἰχμαλώτων οἱ μὲν πολλοὶ διεκλάπησαν ὑπὸ τῶν στρατιωτῶν, εἰς δὲ κοινὸν ἀπεδείχθησαν πεντακισχίλιοι—οὐ πολὺ: "only about 1000; for the sum total of the captives was about 7000 (c. 87. 19), and of these about 6000 had belonged to the division of Demosthenes (c. 82. 11)." Bm. But the full magnitude of the catastrophe is seen in the fact that eight days before there were still 40,000 men (c. 75. 26).

16. μέρος δέ τι οὐκ ὀλίγον: still to be connected with τοῦ στρατεύματος, the three parts of which are τὸ ἄθροισθὲν ἐς τὸ κοινόν, τὸ διακλαπέν, and μέρος τι οὐκ ὀλίγον ἀπέθανε. This last refers, therefore, to those of the division of Nicias who perished on the eighth day at and in the Assinarus. The losses of the preceding days are expressly distinguished from this in 18: καὶ ἐν ταῖς ἄλλαις προσβολαῖς ... οὐκ ὀλίγοι ἐπεθνήκεσαν (the plpf. indicating the events lying further back, opp. to ἀπέθανε in 16). With this view, the expression τῶν ἐν τῇ θαυε· πλείστος γὰρ δὴ φόνος οὗτος καὶ οὐδενὸς ἐλάσσω τῶν ἐν τῷ Σικελικῷ πολέμῳ τούτῳ ἐγένετο. καὶ ἐν ταῖς

Σικελικῷ πολέμῳ τούτῳ (18) appears in the prop. light. Thuc. here compares only the horrible butchery at the Assinarus (φόνος οὗτος) with the various battles in this Sicilian campaign, including, besides those of the last seven days, the battle about Plemmyrium, c. 22 ff., the night battle on Epipolae, c. 43, the repeated sea-fights, c. 52, 69 ff. Certainly he had a right to emphasize this as the bloodiest of all (φόμος οὐδενὸς ἐλάσσων). We must, therefore, neither read with the Schol. Ἑλληνικῷ for Σικελικῷ, nor with Dobree and St. omit it. It is also to be observed in connexion with this passage that Thuc. only very seldom uses δ πόλεμος οὗτος of the Peloponnesian War, but far oftener ὅδε (as the subject of his own history). Cf. c. 87. 20.—21. δουλεύσαντες: after they had become slaves (aor.). Kr. Spr. 53, 5, 2.—καὶ διαδιδράσκοντες ὕστερον: running away afterwards (pres.).—22. ἐς Κατάνην: to this refers Lys. xx. 24, where Polystratus says ἀνεσώθην ἐς Κατάνην.

86. The Syracusans bring into the city all captives that fall into their hands, together with the booty taken from them, and place them in the neighbouring stone-quarries. But Nicias and Demosthenes are immediately executed, against the wish of Gylippus, who would have liked to carry them captive to Sparta.

3. ἀναλαβόντες: see on c. 33. 23. Elsewhere used of levying troops or calling them to arms (c. i. 27; 4. 7; 43. 18); here, of the captives and the booty which were brought along with them in triumphal procession.

5. ἐς τὰς λιθοτομίας: cf. Cic. in Verr. II. v. 27, latomias Syracusanas omnes audistis: plerique nostis. Opus est ingens, magnificum, regum et tyrannorum: totum est ex saxo in mirandam altitudinem depresso et multorum operis penitus exciso: nihil tam clausum ad exitum, nihil tam saeptum undique, nihil tam tutum ad custodiam nec fieri nec cogitari potest. 16. διὰ τοῦτο πιστεύσας: cf. c. 85. 4. All Mss. except Vat. omit the indispensable διὰ τοῦτο. — 17. ὡς ἐλέγετο: with reference to the different reports current about it in Syracuse, concerning which Thuc. had informed himself. — 18. ὅτι . . . ἐκεκοινολόγηντο: cf. c. 48. 13; 73. 27. — βασανιζόμενος: of examination by torture also in viii. 92. 10; with acc. of the thing, vi. 53. 12. — 20. καὶ οὐχ ἥκιστα οἱ Κορίνθιοι: from this it would appear that τῶν Συρακοσίων above is meant to include also the allies. — 21. δῆ: in partic. subord. clause; as in c. 18. 5; 81. 10. — 21. πλούσιος

23. διὰ τὴν ἐγγύτατα: used as adj. with αἰτία as in c. 81. 25, ξυσταδόν with μάχαις. — 24. ἥκιστα . . . ἐπιτήδευσιν: in this closing remark about Nicias, the historian expresses unmistakably both his warm sympathy for him in his untoward fate and his high personal esteem. It is, it is true, not admiration of the intellectual greatness and far-reaching activity of the man, as in the case of Pericles, ii. 65, but rather respect for honest effort always made cautiously, but with a consciousness of noble purposes. — 26. διὰ τὴν πᾶσαν . . . ἐπιτήδευσιν: = διὰ τὴν ἐπιτήδευσιν ἢ πᾶσα ἐς ἀρετὴν ἐνενόμιστο, "on account of his course of life which had been wholly directed toward what was worthy." See App.

87. Of the captives shut up in the stone-quarries, about 7000 in number, a great part perish from cruel treatment amid fearful torments; of the survivors, those who are not Athenians are sold into slavery. Thus ends the expedition against Sicily.

2. τοὺς πρώτους χρόνους: explained by ἡμέρας ἐβδομήκοντά τινας in 15. After these 70 days there was some relief at least, from the removal of a part of the captives. — μετεχείρισαν: in Thuc. used only in act. See on i. 13. 7; found only here with pers. obj.; with acc. of the thing in vi. 12. 17; 16. 31. — κοίλῳ χωρίῳ: signifies a deep place with steep walls, as in c. 84. 18, κοίλος ποταμός. — 3. οἱ ἥλιοι: the pl. (as θάλακη, ψύχη, μεγέθη) with intensive force. Kühn. 348, note 2; Kr. Spr. 44, 3, 6. — 4. πνίγος: the smothering heat resulting from the crowded mass of human beings. — διὰ τὸ ἀστέγαστον: "because there was no shelter." The neut. of the adj. instead of an abstract noun, as in i. 69. 14; ii. 51. 12, and freq. — ἐπιγιγνόμεναι τοῦναντίον μετοπωρινὰ καὶ ψυχρά: "and the nights, on the contrary, following autumnal and cold." — 5. τῇ μεταβολῇ: cf. 19. ξυνέβη τε: and so it happened.

For the inferential τε, see on c. 71.

21. — ἔργον τοῦτο . . . μέγιστον: the same manner of expression and order of words as in i. 1. 8. The form of the sent., which is often used by Thuc., does not admit of an explanatory adj. with the simple dem. The restrictive Ἑλληνικόν is inconsistent also with the general idea of the sent., which emphasizes, out of the whole course of the Peloponnesian War (κατὰ τὸν πόλεμον τόνδε), the greatest and most important event (ἔργον here = a completed occurrence, not a single fact). In the next clause Ἑλληνικῶν is prop., since the view is extended beyond this war, and the historian naturally limits himself to the events of Greek history. Kr., Pluygers, and St. also omit Ἑλληνικόν. — 21. δοκεῖν δ' ἔμοιγε: the elliptical inf. without ὥς. See on c. 49. 18; i. 138. 17.

23. κατὰ πάντα: i.e. on sea and on land, in their fortifications and in the open field. The paronomasia in πάντα πάντως as in viii. 1. 9, πάντα πανταχό-

θεν. — οὐδὲν ὀλίγον ἐς οὐδέν: see on c. 59. 9. — 24. πανωλεθρία: not found elsewhere except in later writers, but the adj. πανώλεθρον is much used in tragedy with ἀπόλλυσθαι (Aesch. Sept. 71; Ag. 518; Eum. 522; Pers. 563; Soph. El. 1009). On τὸ λεγόμενον, "as the saying is," see Kr. Spr. 57, 10, 12. — δὴ: emphasizes esp. the παν, as it does sups. and similar consts. Nic. 29, many of the Athenians obtained their freedom, others, who had already escaped, got food and shelter, by repeating verses from Euripides, who was more popular with the Sicilians than any other foreign author. The thanks of these survivors, many of whom on their return expressed their gratitude to him, were no doubt the sweetest praise the poet ever heard. — ταῦτα μὲν: co-ord. with ἐς δὲ τὰς Ἀθήνας of viii. 1. 1. — 27. τὰ γενόμενα: sc. ἦν. For other forms of conclusion, see on c. 30. 19.

APPENDIX.

1. 2. τοὺς Ἐπιφευρίους. Omitted by v. H. without sufficient grounds.

1. 15 ff. τοὺς τε Ἱμεραίους. Vat. has τοὺς Ἱμεραίους, the other Mss. τοὺς τε Ἱμεραίους. Cl. thinks that the position of the Himeraeans is so different from that of the Selinuntians, that there is no reason for a close connexion between them. St., however, rightly finds the point of connexion in ἐκεῖ ὄντες, which refers to both clauses. Similarly, the τε of Vat. with τοῦ Ἀρχωνίδου in 23 is very effective in emphasizing the union of both reasons (τοῦ τε Ἀρχωνίδου τεθηγκότες . . . καὶ τοῦ Γυλίππου δοκούντος ἦκειν). — Vat. gives also correctly γάρ for μέν in 18. In 20 St. writes στρατιᾷ, because it is not likely that the Selinuntians, who were at war with the Egestaeans, would join Gylippus with their whole force, and in fact furnished only a few light troops and cavalry. But Cl. prefers the reading of Vat. πανστρατιᾷ, since the fact that the execution (30) does not correspond to the demand proves nothing with regard to the demand itself.

Cl. thinks it questionable also whether ῥοα instead of ῥοαί (17) should not be adopted from Vat.; for although all ναῦται were no doubt without arms suitable for service in the field, they might still have been furnished with spears and light shields. The sense would be then that the Himeraeans supplied what was lacking in their armour. The only doubt with him is whether such light pieces of armour can be reckoned under the ῥπλα, as ῥοα would require. On the armour of the oarsmen, see Boeckh, P. E. p. 385.

2. 2. Γόγγυλος. All the Mss. seem to accent the name thus, agreeing with the rule of Arcad. de acc. p. 56, 9, τὰ διὰ τοῦ υλος τρισύλλαβα προσηγορικὰ ἢ κύρια, εἰ ἄρχοιτο ἀπὸ φύσει μακρᾶς, παροξύνεται, — Αἰσχύλος, Πρωμύλος. Götting (de Acc. p. 185) gives, it is true, several exceptions; and Dindorf in Xen. Hell. iii. 1. 6 and An. vii. 8. 17, and Schaefer in Plut. Nic. 19, write Γογγύλος. So St. here. Vat. has Γόγγυλλος.

2. 12. Ἰεράς. The Mss. have Γέτας, Γέγας, γετά (Vat.), γε. Ἰεράς is Goeller's emendation. Cf. Steph. Byz., Ἰεταί, φρούριον Σικελίας, θηλυκῶς. Φάριστος ἔκρη.

2. 13. καί. Rejected by v. H. and St., "quod ἐλὼν et ξυνταξάμενος non eiusdem temporis sunt."

2. 16. ἔτυχε ἔλθων. ἐτύγχανε, which Vat. offers, does not agree with the usage of Thuc. See App. to iii. iii. 6.

2. 17. ἐπὶ μὲν ἢ ὀκτὼ σταδίων. Cl.'s note on this passage is as follows: "ἐπὶ μὲν κτέ. could be connected only with διπλοῦν τεῖχος, as measure of proposed extension; this measure must, however, though it is not anywhere so expressed, be restricted to the distance from the abrupt cliff of Epipolae (τοῦ κρημνίστους, vi. 103. 6). May not the words have been added by a reader acquainted with the place (not by a copyist, as St. understands me to mean)? Their position is quite unnatural, and it would be strange, too, to give the measure of the wall just there where emphasis is laid upon the fact that a part was wanting to its completion. Finally, μὲν, which must stand opposed to τῷ δὲ ἄλλῳ τοῦ κύκλου, has a very awkward position when attached to the measure of the distance. It belongs more properly to the statement of direction, ἐς τὸν μέγαν λιμένα." There is force in Cl.'s objection to the position of the words as a whole, but not of μὲν in particular, for μὲν contrasts the one part of the wall of circumvallation, the length of seven or eight stadia, with the rest of the wall (τῷ δὲ ἄλλῳ). We might have had the direction ἐς τὸν μέγαν λιμένα esp. contrasted with ἐπὶ τὴν ἐτέραν θάλασσαν, but the contrast made is equally as important. Since then the only objection is to the general position of ἐπὶ μὲν ἢ ὀκτὼ σταδίων, it seems best, with St. and others, to follow the Ms. reading.

2. 18. ἀπετετέλεστο. The reading of Vat., as in iv. 69. 15; 90. 17; the remaining Mss. have ἐπετετέλεστο, which is found also in viii. 55. 12.

2. 20 [τοῦ κύκλου πρὸς τὸν Τρώγιον]. Jow. takes κύκλος here and in vi. 98. 9; 102. 5, to refer to the wall of circumvallation. But in vi. 98. 8, the aor. ἐτείχισαν is plainly used to indicate the completion of the κύκλος, whereas the wall of circumvallation never was finished. The aor. cannot mean, as Jow. renders, "commenced building round the city"; that would require ἐτείχιζον. In vi. 102. 5 the context (ἔτυχε γὰρ ἐν αὐτῷ δι' ἀσθένειαν ὑπολειμμένος) shows that a fort is meant. Everywhere else in Thuc., then, κύκλος refers to the round fort on Epipolae, "which was intended as a centre from whence the projected wall of circumvallation was to start northward towards the sea at Trogilus, southward towards the great harbour." But here it could refer only to the whole wall of circumvallation, and so Arn. takes it, though in this way κύκλος, as applied to the Athenian fortifications, would have two meanings in Thuc. Grote (VII. c. 59, p. 89, note 1) will not agree to this, and explains τῷ ἄλλῳ τοῦ κύκλου as equiv. to ἐτέρῳ τοῦ κύκλου. This is equiv. to interpreting τῷ ἄλλῳ τοῦ κύκλου (opp. to ἐς τὸν μέγαν λιμένα διπλοῦν τείχος) as the other wing (or arm) of the circular fort towards Trogilus. Holm, II. p. 387, prefers Wölflin's conjecture, τῷ δὲ ἀπὸ τοῦ κύκλου πρὸς τὸν Τρώγιον. See Holm, II. p. 387, 388.

5. 13. τῇ τάξει κτῆ. To connect τῇ τάξει with ἀφελίσθαι, as Pp. and Bm., or with ἀφελίαν, as Kr., is incompatible with the usage of Thuc. If one should strike out τῇ τάξει (which Heilmann does not translate), nothing would be missed. Possibly it was written as an explanatory addition to τῇ παρασκευῇ (15) and got by mistake into the text. Philippi's conjecture (Jahrb. 1881, p. 96), τὴν ἀφελίαν, τὴν τάξιν ἐντός . . . ποιήσας ἀφελίσθαι, gives the correct sense, but the change seems unnecessary.

7. 4. ξυνετείχισαν τὸ λοιπὸν τοῖς Συρακοσίοις [μέχρι] τοῦ ἑγκαρσίου τείχους. Great confusion has arisen in regard to the position and direction of the third Syracusan counter-wall in consequence of the misinterpretation of the clause ἀνω πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον τεῖχος ἀπλοῦν in c. 4. 3. The passage has been construed as if τεῖχος were to be understood a second time, and as if two walls were spoken of: first, a single wall about to be constructed (τείχος ἀπλοῦν); and second, a cross-wall already existing (πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον τεῖχος). The latter is generally assumed to be the first cross-wall built by the Syracusans (vi. 99. 16). To this explanation there are two fatal objections: first, that the Athenians had destroyed this cross-wall (vi. 100. 25); secondly, that it passed south of the κύκλος (vi. 99. 15) and could not have been met by the third cross-wall, which lay to the north (c. 4. 3). This erroneous interpretation of πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον is now universally rejected, but it has an important bearing on the explanation of the passage under consideration. Any copyist who understood πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον in c. 4. 3 to refer to a counter-wall already existing would have been apt to write μέχρι τοῦ ἐγκαρσίου τείχους in c. 7. 5. There is, then, reasonable ground for the assumption that μέχρι may be due to interpolation.

Many attempts, however, have been made to retain the word even by those who interpret πρὸς τὸ ἐγκάρσιον in c. 4. 3 adv. By far the most noteworthy of these is Grote's (VIII. p. 88 ff.). To ascertain what is meant by τὸ λοιπὸν, that remainder which the Syracusans fortified with the help of the Corinthians and others, he compares the fortifications as they stood when Gylippus entered Syracuse with the fortifications as they stood a few months afterwards when Demosthenes arrived from Athens. Three distinct constructions are mentioned as existing at this later period which had not been in existence at the earlier. 1. A fort (τείχισμα, c. 43. 23) on the higher ground of Epipolae, guarding the entrance to Epipolae from Euryelus. 2. A cross-wall (παρὰ τεῖχος, c. 42. 28; 43. 7, 35) which joined this fort at one extremity, and was carried down the slope of Epipolae until it joined the counter-wall or ἐγκάρσιον τεῖχος (μέχρι τοῦ ἐγκαρσίου τείχους). 3. Three strong encampments (προτειχίσματα) placed at different points up the slope of Epipolae, along this cross-wall and on the north side of it. In these three works Grote finds the remainder (τὸ λοιπὸν ξυνητείσαν) which the Corinthians and Syracusans are now stated to have jointly constructed. Before the arrival of the twelve Corinthian ships, Gylippus had carried the ἐγκάρσιον τεῖχος in a north-westerly direction, past the Athenian wall of circumvallation; on their arrival, commencing at the τείχισμα, he carried the παρὰ τεῖχος continuously down the slope of Epipolae until it met the ἐγκάρσιον τεῖχος, at some distance from the northern slope of Epipolae, at an angle. Grote, therefore, in fact assumes two walls, — a cross-wall and a counter-wall, — though he notes that practically they were one continuous wall and are so spoken of by Thuc. The identification, e.g. by Nicias, in c. 11. § 3, of the παρὰ τεῖχος with the τεῖχος ἀπλοῦν, is complete and certain.

Holm's objections to this interpretation, which lead him to reject μέχρι and construe τὸ λοιπὸν τοῦ ἔγκαρσιον τείχους, taken together, as the obj. of ἐντελείσαν, are substantially the following: It is difficult to believe, he says, looking first to the language of Thuc., that in c. 7. § 1 the historian is speaking of a wall whose construction began at the extreme western part of Epipolae. In c. 6. § 4 the wall is built from east to west. How can the words ἐντελείσαν τὸ λοιπὸν without hint or warning suddenly signify the continuation of the same wall in an opposite direction? The natural inference from τὸ λοιπὸν is that the wall was continued in the original direction. If the direction had changed, we should have had in the text some such additional phrase as ἀρξάμενοι ἄνω. There is, then, no intimation in the language of Thuc. of a change of direction in the construction of the wall. Again, looking at the facts, what possible reasons had the Syracusans, instead of continuing the wall in the original direction, for breaking it off suddenly and beginning at the other end? Their cross-wall had indeed passed the Athenian wall of circumvallation; but the Athenians might have enlarged their wall and in turn enclosed the Syracusan cross-wall. If the intention of the Syracusans was to carry their wall clear across the northern part of Epipolae, they would naturally not have ceased operations at the point of danger and shifted to a place a mile and a half distant (acc. to Grote's map). Common sense would have dictated the contrary course. With every foot of wall that they added to their cross-wall, building westward, they made the task of the Athenians increasingly difficult.

On the map of Syracuse added to the edition of the Sixth Book of Thuc. in this Series, the direction of the third cross-wall and the position of the τείχισμα and προτειχίσματα are conformed to the plan given in the monumental work of the two Cavallaris and Holm, Topografia Archeologica di Syracuse (with atlas), Palermo, 1883.

7. 11. τρόπῃ ᾧ ἂν, ἐν ὁλκάσιν ἢ πλοίοις ἢ ἄλλως ὅπως ἂν, προχωρῇ. The interpretation given in the notes is that of Cl., except that he considers ὅπως ἂν = ὅπως δὴ or ὅπως οὖν, and explanatory of ἢ ἄλλως, giving it the greatest possible expansion, or in any other way; and does not think that προχωρῇ is understood with ὅπως ἂν, as Bm. suggests. But St. seems clearly right in saying that ὅπως ἂν without a verb has not this meaning. Bk., followed by St., strikes out ἐν ὁλκάσιν . . . ὅπως ἂν as adding nothing to the idea already conveyed by τρόπῃ ᾧ ἂν.

8. 15. οὓς ἀπέστειλε. Pluygers (Mnem. 11, p. 94) conjectured ἀ ἐπέστειλε; St. ὡς ἐπέστειλε. If any change is to be made, Cl. prefers ὡς ἐπέστειλε, though he does not think it necessary. v. H. strikes out φέροντες . . . εἰπεῖν.

8. 16. ὁ δὲ τὰ κατὰ τὸ στρατόπεδον . . . ἐπεμέλειτο. This passage has become intelligible only by the adoption of μᾶλλον and ἢ δι', instead of ἢ διη, from Vat. The Schol. recognizes both μᾶλλον and ἢ δι': ἡ διάνοια ἐπεμείλειαν εἶχε τοῦ φυλάττεσθαι μᾶλλον ἢ τοῦ κινδυνεύεσθαι (scr. κινδυνεύειν) ἐκουσίως, i.e. "he kept from this time more on the defensive and avoided all offensive operations." Cf. Dio C. xlvii. 36. 2, ἀλλ' αὐτοὶ τε διὰ φυλακῆς μᾶλλον ἢ διὰ κινδύνων τὸ στρατόπεδον ἐποιούντο. Thuc. expresses the contrast by means of φυλακῆς and ἐκούσιοι κίνδυνοι, and having chosen for the first (διὰ φυλακῆς) the appropriate ἔχων, he leaves this by a kind of zeugma in the unusual connexion with διὰ κινδύνων. Since, however, for both an object is indispensable, τὰ κατὰ τὸ στρατόπεδον must be retained, even against Vat., which omits τὰ, and the expression must be taken in a comprehensive sense to refer to the troops whom Nicias had heretofore employed in offensive operations, but would henceforth keep more carefully on the defensive. Moreover, διὰ φυλακῆς ἔχειν is rather to be compared with διὰ χειρὸς ἔχειν (ii. 13. 19) than with δι' αἰτίας (ii. 60. 16), or δι' ὀργῆς ἔχειν (ii. 37. 12). St. construes τὰ κατὰ τὸ στρατόπεδον with both διὰ φυλακῆς ἔχων and ἐπέμελετο, considering διὰ φυλακῆς ἔχων = φυλάσσων, ἔχων belonging only to διὰ φυλακῆς, and δι' ἐκούσιων κινδύνων being equiv. to an instrumental dat. He translates: ille (Nicias) autem rebus exercitus magis custodiendo quam ultra adeundo periculo prospiciebat.

18. 15. ἐπ' αὐτομολίας πρόφασιν. The passage is one of great difficulty, for while there are plenty of examples in Thuc. of πρόφασιν in the sense of real cause or occasion, viz. i. 23. 23; 118. 3; 133. 7; 141. 4; ii. 49. 4; vi. 6. 3 (to which may be added Hdt. ii. 161. 8; iv. 79. 2, and Dem. xviii. 156, τὴν ἀληθῆ πρόφασιν), the context seems to require some word meaning opportunity. Cl. seems to mean that the opportunity was the occasion (cause) for desertion; for he explains (in his critical note) πρόφασιν = "eine sich anbietende Veranlassung," and explains that by "opportunities when the deserters thought themselves unobserved by the Athenians, or found themselves unexpectedly in the neighbourhood of Syracusan troops." The most various emendations have been proposed: Dukas λιβολογίας, Kr. αὐτομαχίας or αὐτοτολμίας, Pluygers σιτολογίας, Meineke ἀσχολίας, v. H. ἀργυρολογίας, Madvig αἰχμαλωτίας, A. Passow (and others) αὐτονομίας, which St. has adopted in his text. But Cl. thinks that in Thuc. αὐτονομία is used always of political communities, never of individuals. Goeller explained αὐτομολίας as acc. pl. depending on ἐπὶ. But though we find αὐτομολίας connected with καταδρομαίς, i. 142. 10, it would be very strange here, since the natural const. is clearly to take αὐτομολίας as gen. Grote (VII. c. 59, p. 117, note) defends the traditional reading, but he understands πρόφασιν = open declaration, not occasion, and translates: Some of them depart under pretence (or profession) of being deserters to the enemy. He explains further: "It does not denote what a man said before he quitted the Athenian camp (he would of course say nothing of his intention to any one), but the colour which he would put upon his conduct after he got within the Syracusan lines. He would present himself to them as a deserter to their cause: he would pretend to be tired of the oppressive Athenian dominion—for it is to be recollected, that all or most of these deserters were men belonging to the subject-allies of Athens." Cl. holds that this meaning of the word cannot be established, and besides that the connexion ἐπὶ πρόφασιν is incompatible with Grote's explanation. St.'s explanation of Passow's conjecture, αὐτονομίας, "giving as a reason that they are from free states and therefore independent, and hence not obliged to endure Athenian military service longer than is agreeable to them," seems to be wrong if we compare c. 48. 38, where Nicias says distinctly that the Athenian military service is compulsory (δι' ἀνάγκης). Besides, ἐπ' αὐτονομίας προφάσει ἀπέρχονται would not imply necessarily that they went over to the enemy, and thus there would be no proper contrast between this clause and οἱ δὲ ὡς ἕκαστοι δύνανται, πολλή δ' ἡ Σικελία. In the contrast evidently intended between these two clauses seems to lie one of the strongest arguments for αὐτομολίας. While therefore Cl.'s explanation does not fully clear up the difficulty, nothing better seems to have been offered.

14. 13. διαπολεμῆσεται αὐτοῖς ἀμαχίᾳ ἐκπολιορκηθέντων τῶν ὁ πόλεμος. Though the Mss. all read ὁ πόλεμος, Kr. and St. are not without grounds for omitting it. Valla seems not to have had it, nor the Schol., who says διαπολεμῆσεται αὐτοῖς· ἀπὸ τοῦ κατεργασθήσεται αὐτοῖς, διαπολεμῆσεται ὁ πόλεμος. St. thinks, not without reason, that if the Schol. had read ὁ πόλεμος, he would hardly have interpreted it by itself. He is therefore of the opinion that it has crept into the text from the Schol. Cf. c. 25. 46, where διαπολεμησόμενον occurs without subj. expressed. It would seem also that the Schol. read διαπολεμῆσεται, not fut. pf., though Valla must have read the latter, as he translates debellatum est, just as he read the fut. pf. also in c. 25. 46. See Kr. Spr. 61, 5, 6.

17. 7. αὐτοῖς οἱ πρέσβεις ἤκον. So Vat.; the rest of the Mss. οἱ τε πρέσβεις αὐτοῖς ἤκον. But in this case τε would have no correlative, and αὐτοῖς the wrong position.

19. 1. τοῦ δ' ἐπιγυγμένου ἔρος εὐθὺς ἀρχομένου κτλ. Unger, Zur Zeitrechnung des Thukydides, p. 34 (Sitzungsber. der philos. philol. u. hist. Klasse der Münchener Akademie, 1875, p. 28-73) calls attention to the fact that only in this place does the beginning of spring follow the close of winter without mention of the summer, and that only here is the partic. ἐπιγυγμένου, which at every commencement of a year is joined with θέρου, added to ἔρος. "This exception," he continues, "cannot be ascribed to the historian himself, who declares expressly, ii. 1. 4, that all his years are divided into winters and summers. Hence we must write τοῦ δ' ἐπιγυγμένου θέρου εὐθὺς ἀρχομένου." But although Thuc. might of course have written thus, acc. to his usual custom, still there is no need of a change, since the present reading offers no difficulty. ἐπιγυγνέσθαι is the word esp. used to designate temporal succession, of shorter as well as of longer periods (ἡμέρα, χειμὼν, most frequently θέρος, in describing the events of the war). Quite in the same sense it is used here of the following spring, and to mark its very beginning the pred. ἀρχομένου is added to the attrib. ἐπιγυγμένου, for which we have more freq. ἅμα ἢ ἀρχομένη (ii. 2. 7), or simply ἅμα ἢ (ii. 103. 2; iv. 117. 1) and ἅμα τῷ ἢ εὐθὺς (v. 40. 1), and, more definite still, ἅμα τῷ ἢ εὐθὺς ἀρχομένη τοῦ ἐπιγυγμένου θέρου (vi. 94. 1), and similar expressions.

πρώτατα. So (not πρῶτατα or πρῶτατα) acc. to St. (Quaestiones Gramm. p. 20), as also πρότερον, c. 39. 1; viii. 101. 15, and πρό (not πρὸς) c. 78. 15; 79. 1; iv. 6. 4.

19. 21. ἀφῆκαν. St. writes here ἀφείσαν, and iv. 38. 1 παρείσαν. See Qu. Gr. p. 18. But Att. usage certainly wavered long between the two forms.

21. 8. ξυνανέπειθε οὐχ ἥκιστα τοῦ ταῖς ναυσὶ μὴ ἀθμεῖν [ἐπιχειρήσαν] πρὸς τοὺς Ἀθηναίους. Cl. explains that it seems to be a peculiarity of Thuc. in the case of compounds with ξυν- to express the object of a common activity by means of the gen. That is the case not only with ξυναιρεσθαι (iv. 10. 1; v. 28. 13), as Bm. shows — προσξυμβάλλεσθαι in iii. 36. 10 is not to be counted here, because the gen. τῆς ὁρμῆς depends on οὐκ ἐλάχιστον — but also with ξυνεπιλαμβάνεσθαι (vi. 70. 5; viii. 26. 5). Just as we have in the last case, Ἑρμοκράτους μάλιστα ἐνάγοντος ξυνεπιλαβίσθαι καὶ τῆς ὑπολοίπου Ἀθηναίων καταλύσεως, “he urged that they should have a share in the complete destruction of the Athenians”; so the present passage is to be understood, “Hermocrates sought especially to help in effecting this, that they should have confidence against the Athenians at sea.”

But St. rightly objects that the cases cited are not parallel, for while ξυναιρεσθαι τινος is prop. of those who participate in a thing, Hermocrates has no part in the τοῦ μὴ ἀθμεῖν; and that ἐπιλαμβάνεσθαι takes the gen. as well as ξυνεπιλαμβάνεσθαι.

22. 7. περίπλεον. καὶ before περίπλεον, which is grammatically impossible, is omitted with Valla and one Ms.

25. 25. ἐκ τῶν ἀκάτων ἄνεον ἀναδόμενοι τοὺς σταυροὺς καὶ ἀνέκλων. Cl., who interprets ἀνέκλων, break off, not pull out, says: “The windlasses (δνοι, cf. Hdt. vii. 36. 16) must have been so placed, as to draw the ropes horizontally and to break off the pales if they stuck fast. Madvig, who thinks that the whole operation of throwing the ropes around the pales and winding up is carried on from the ναὺς μυριοφόρος, proposes (Adv. I. p. 329), ἐκ τῶν κεράτων instead of ἐκ τῶν ἀκάτων, observing, cum funes vallis iniectos alligassent ad navis partem ei rei aptam: ea erant capita antennarum: ἐκ τῶν κεράτων ἀναδόμενοι. But since Thuc. evidently looks upon the ναὺς (or ὀλκάς) μυριοφόρος as the protected position only for the troops intended for fighting (28, οἱ δ' ἐκ τῆς ὀλκάδος ἀντίβαλλον), not for those occupied in destroying the palisade, ἐκ τῶν ἀκάτων signifies very prop. the smaller flat-boats, with windlasses on them, from which the men threw ropes around the pales and rendered them useless. It is difficult, it is true, to see how they broke off the pales in this operation; for that ἀνακλῶν here, just as in ii. 76. 22, can have only this meaning (with the additional sense there noted, ‘by rapidly winding up’) seems beyond doubt. But what in ii. 76. § 4 is easy to be understood of the warding off of the battering-rams seems hardly applicable to these operations on the flat-boats.”

But St. quotes from Duker: “ἄνεον Aelius Dionysius apud Eustath. in Hom. Il. xi. p. 862 exponit ἐκίνουν καὶ περιέγγον (twisted out). Et sic Suidas et Thomas.... Sed ἀνακλῶν hic non est, quod idem [Acacius] et Portus putarunt, frangere, verum sursum attollendo convellere et educere. Suidas et Schol. [δνος ἐστὶ μηχανή ἐπ' ἄκρων τῶν ἀκατῶν πηγνυμένη ἀφ' ἧς περιβάλλοντες βρόχοις τοὺς σταυροὺς ῥαδίως ἐκ τοῦ βυθοῦ ἀνέσπων] exponunt e fundo evellere. Sic Thuc. ii. 76. 22, et alii apud Lipsium Poliorcet. v. 8, ἀνακλᾶν machinam muro incussam dicunt eos qui laqueis iniectis eam attollunt et avertunt. Et in aliis generibus loquendi non frangendi, sed inflectendi et in altum tollendi significationem habet." Cf. Eur. Or. 1471, ὅμοις ἀριστέροισιν ἀνακλάσας δέρην. Most of the editt. take ἀνακλᾶν = draw out: Bloomf. "pulled up"; Heilmann "twisted out or broke off"; Bm. "wound them up and pulled them out"; Didot and Betant "drew them out"; Frost "wrenched up"; Grote "fastened ropes round them and thus unfixed or plucked them out." St. is right in insisting that ἀνέκλων in ii. 76. 22 does not mean to break off; and his objection to Cl.'s proposal to restore ἀνέσπων from the Schol., that it is more prob. that the Schol. interpreted ἀνέκλων by ἀνέσπων, seems to be well taken.

27. 8. Cl. suggests, since the hard anacoluthon in the connexion of ἐπειδὴ . . . ταχισθείσα and ὕστερον δέ . . . ἐπώκειτο must always give offence, to strike out δέ after ὕστερον and make ἐπώκειτο following the pred. partic. ταχισθείσα immediately dependent on ἐπειδὴ, preferring the irregularity in τὸ μὲν πρῶτον, without correlative, to the anacoluthon. Kr. proposes to remedy the difficulty by a comma after στρατιάς. It might be removed by placing a comma after ἐπιούσαις and construing φρουραῖς, as well as ὑπὸ . . . στρατιάς, with ταχισθείσα.

27. 17. ἐξ ἀνάγκης τῆς ἴσης φρουράς. St. explains that the necessity here mentioned is that of procuring provisions, and the force which goes forth is one equal to or proportioned to this necessity, i.e. no greater than is sufficient to procure necessary supplies. He therefore takes φρουρά to mean not the whole garrison, but simply a force (manus), here of course part of the garrison. He cites the use of φρουρά in this sense among the Lacedaemonians (Xen. Hell. ii. 4. 29; iv. 7. 2; v. 2. 3; de Rep. Lac. 13. 1, 11), and the phrase φρουρὰν φαίνειν = manum evocare (Xen. Hell. iii. 2. 23, and often). So in viii. 71. 9 he understands φρουρά to mean, not the whole garrison of Decelea, but the part of it which set out with Agis. For ἴσος in the sense proportioned to, cf. i. 132. 7, ἴσος εἶναι τοῖς παρούσι (ad praesentem rerum condicionem se accommodare). With this view, πλειόνων, as well as τῆς ἴσης φρουράς, refers to the garrison at Decelea, and the sense is, "of this garrison sometimes more, sometimes fewer, overran the country."

28. 11. ἐς φιλονικίαν καθέστασαν τοιαύτην ἣν πρὶν γενέσθαι ἠπίσθησεν ἂν τις ἀκούσας. τὸ γὰρ αὐτοὺς πολιορκουμένους κτί. Cl.'s critical note is as follows: "The difficulty of this passage is recognized by all editt., and various remedies have been proposed. The Schol. adopts the easiest method, when on τῷ αὐτῷ τρόπῳ ἀντιπολιορκεῖν (including also, of course, μηδ' ὡς ἀποστήναι and καὶ τὸν παράλογον τοσούτον ποιῆσαι) he remarks, ἠπίσθησεν ἂν τις ἀκού-σας ἀπὸ κοινοῦ. But he leaves unexplained how the particle γάρ is to be reconciled with the dependence of the inf. on ἠπίστησεν ἄν. Still Pp. and Bm. do not object to this explanation, while Kr. says, 'there seems to be something wanting to complete the sent., a fault which we must perhaps ascribe to the author himself.' St., who has discussed the passage in the Symbol. Phil. Bonn. p. 388 ff., considers such carelessness (that Thuc. had forgotten the finite verb which he had in mind at the beginning of the sent.) inconceivable, and seeks to effect the grammatical connexion of the inf. ἀντιπολιορκεῖν, ἀποστῆναι, and ποιῆσαι, with the foregoing ἠπίστησεν ἄν τις, which is interrupted by γάρ, by the conjecture τὸ παρ' αὐτοῖς πολιορκουμένους . . . μὴδ' ὡς ἀποστῆναι κτέ. 'The inf. μὴδ' ὡς ἀποστῆναι, ἀντιπολιορκεῖν, ποιῆσαι, are in explanatory appos. to the preceding ἤν, which refers to φιλονικίαν.' But the strong expression τὸ (γάρ) αὐτοὺς πολιορκουμένους ἐπιτειχισμῷ ὑπὸ Πελοποννησίων μὴδ' ὡς ἀποστῆναι ἐκ Σικελίας, ἀλλὰ ἐκεί Συρακούσας τῷ αὐτῷ τρόπῳ ἀντιπολιορκεῖν, which corresponds well with the usage of Thuc., is much weakened in παρ' αὐτοῖς (in their own land) πολιορκουμένους. The difficulty of the passage lies not alone in the connexion of τὸ γὰρ αὐτοὺς κτέ. with the preceding, but quite as much in the obscure manner in which τὸν παρελθόν τοσοῦτον is carried out; for both ὅσον and ὥστε seem to be correlative to τοσοῦτον. Most edit. understand ὅσον = quatenus, in so far as, and refer only ὥστε to τοσοῦτον. But how is it conceivable that ὅσον after τοσοῦτον should not stand in close connexion with it? Madvig (Adv. I. p. 329) recognizes this; but his change of ὅσον into ὅσοι is quite unsatisfactory, since there is no reason for the comprehensive ὅσοι after τοῖς Ἕλλησι. If one observes more closely, however, on what the παραλογος of the Greeks depends, it is clear that this is shown only by the great difference between the universal expectation at the beginning of the war and the very different result. But this is effected without doubt by the paratactic contrast between ὅσον . . . ἐνόμizon in the first clause and ἦλθον ἐς Σικελίαν in the second; only this is obscured by the inappropriate ὥστε, for which Thuc. wrote probably ὅμως δὲ ἔτι ἐπτακαίδεκάτῳ . . . ἦλθον ἐς Σικελίαν. This clause, too, as the ὅσον clause, depends on τὸν παρελθόν τοσοῦτον ποιῆσαι, and the two are paratactically contrasted: 'the Athenians deceived the Greeks in their opinion of their power and enterprise to such a degree, that at the beginning of the war some believed that they would be able to carry it on one year, others two, some few perhaps three, but no one longer; but that they nevertheless (ὅμως δὲ) in the 17th year after the first inroad of the Peloponnesians undertook the expedition against Sicily, at a time when they were already to a great extent exhausted by the first war, and thus burdened themselves with a second war not inferior to the first, which was waged against them from the Peloponnese.' Even if the correctness of this view is admitted, nothing is gained, it is true, for the grammatical connexion of the period beginning with τὸ γὰρ αὐτοὺς πολιορκουμένους; but the more the sent. in its further course appears to be artificially constructed, the more likely it seems that the subj. in form of the inf. may have been left without its verb. The anacoluthon, which must here be recognized, seems not more striking than similar ones in i. 25. § 4; iii. 34. § 3; iv. 73. § 4; v. 70. Pluygers, who proposes (Mnem. 9, p. 94) to read in 16, τὸν παράλογον (without καὶ) τοσούτον ἐποίησε, and puts a period before ὥστε, is influenced by a proper desire to give the period a grammatical const.; but he takes away from παράλογον its real explanation as shown above. If one would unite his proposal, ἐποίησε, with the conjecture made above, δμως δέ, there would certainly be a proper connexion and a satisfactory idea."

The pred. understood, whether forgotten or purposely omitted by Thuc., is no doubt ἀπιστον ἦν, referring to ἠπίστησεν ἄν.

29. 29. καὶ ξυμφορὰ τῇ πόλει πάσῃ οὐδεμῶς ἦσσαν μᾶλλον ἐτέρας ἀδόκητός τε ἐπέπεσεν αὐτῇ καὶ δαινῇ. The explanation and translation given in the notes seek to retain the traditional reading. Dobree objected to the repetition of the kindred expressions οὐδεμῶς ἦσσαν and μᾶλλον ἐτέρας, and, after making them exactly alike by the change of ἦσσαν into ἦσον, struck out the latter (μᾶλλον ἐτέρας) as a gloss, and St. has adopted his conjecture in his text. But wrongly; for the peculiarity of the passage consists in the fact that the greatness of the misfortune and the unexpectedness of the horror are to be expressed together; therefore οὐδεμῶς ἦσσαν, "as great as any other," certainly cannot be changed. It is to be observed, also, that the striking coincidence of the kindred expressions οὐδεμῶς ἦσσαν, μᾶλλον ἐτέρας, is softened by the chiasmic arrangement. The only doubt is whether it is possible that the two closely connected qualities of greatness and unexpectedness should occur in different grammatical relation (as has been allowed in the translation) — ἦσσαν attrib. and immediately connected with ξυμφορὰ, ἀδόκητός τε καὶ δαινῇ pred. with ἐπέπεσεν —; if this be considered inadmissible, it will be necessary to insert καὶ between ἦσσαν and μᾶλλον, by which also ἦσσαν would be connected with ἐπέπεσεν.

But secondly, one feels great hesitation with regard to the position of the pron. αὐτῇ. In all the examples collected at i. 1. 8 of the same sup. form of expression, the dem. pron. follows the noun immediately, except in ii. 31. 8, where it does not occur till after the sup. Therefore the transposition καὶ ξυμφορὰ αὐτῇ τῇ πόλει πάσῃ . . . ἀδόκητός τε ἐπέπεσε καὶ δαινῇ may perhaps commend itself. If the conjecture καὶ before μᾶλλον be accepted, the transposition is prob. necessary. But on the other hand, the attrib. relation of οὐδεμῶς ἦσσαν to ξυμφορὰ (if allowed to be admissible) helps to explain the remote position of αὐτῇ.

30. 7. ἔξω τοξεύματος. The vulgate is ζεύγματος, which evidently means beyond the bridge, but Diod. xiii. 47 states that the bridge to Euboea was not built till after the Sicilian expedition, and Strab. ix. 2. 8 locates it near Aulis, not in the Mycalessian country, and Valla and one or two Mss. read τοξεύματος. Besides, it is hardly likely that Thuc. would describe the situation by a term so entirely local in signification. As to the question which St. raises, whether the Thebans used bows and arrows, it makes no difference here, since ἔξω τοξείματος is evidently only a measure of distance. Cf. Xen. An. i. 8. 19, πρὶν δὲ τοξέυμα ἐκκινεῖσθαι.

80. 13. The question has been raised, not without reason, whether the leader Diitrephes was among the dead of the Thracian mercenary corps. This has been conjectured because Paus. (i. 23. 3) mentions by the side of the ascent to the Acropolis a bronze statue of this Diitrephes, δυστοῖς βεβλημένος, and takes occasion to mention his leading the Thracian troops, and their misdeeds in Mycalessus. But he says nothing of his death, and Thuc. would hardly have failed to allude to it, esp. as he mentioned the death of the Boeotarch Scirphondas on the other side. It is prob., moreover, that the Diitrephes mentioned in viii. 64. 7 is the same as this one.

81. 10. Ἀλύξαιον. The form acc. to Herod. i. p. 277 and Steph. Byz. s.v., for Ἀλυξίαν of the Mss.

81. 17. οὔτε καταλύουσι τὸν πόλεμον. Madvig (Advn. I. p. 329) rejects τὸν πόλεμον as a gloss, and explains: "Conon nuntiavit naves sibi oppositas non, quod speraverat, statione decedere; id est καταλύειν τὴν φρουράν, τὴν φυλακὴν aut simpliciter καταλύειν (portu repetito)." But Cl. thinks such an abs. use of καταλύειν possible only when ὁδόν is to be supplied. St. also has struck out τὸν πόλεμον, but understands αὐτό (sc. ἀνθορμῆν) with καταλύειν, comparing iii. 11. § 1.

86. 24. διεκπλεῖν, ὥστε μὴ περιπλεῖν. St. following Cobet (on Hyp., p. 61) rejects, as also v. H., these words as a gloss, saying that when to avoid ambiguity an explanation is added to ὁ μὲν, ὁ δέ, it is added usually to one of the two, not to both. (See Matthiae, Gr. 288, note 5.) But since τὸ μὲν and τὸ δέ by no means refer, like our this and that, to a definite succession, and esp. in this passage the chiasmic arrangement involves the possibility of a misunderstanding, it seems more prob. that Thuc. himself added the easy and natural explanations. As far as the fact itself is concerned, it is easy to understand that the διεκπλεῖν, the breaking through the hostile line, would be hindered by strengthening the line, the περιπλεῖν, by the limited space. Cf. i. 49. § 3; ii. 84. § 1.

86. 25 ff. τῇ πρότερον ἀμαθίᾳ τῶν κυβερνητῶν δοκοῦσῃ εἶναι, τῷ ἀντίπρωρον ξυγκρούσαι, μάλιστα ἂν αὐτοὶ χρήσασθαι. τὸ ἀντίπρωρον ξυγκρούσαι is the reading of Vat.; the rest have τό or τόν or τῇ ἀντίπρωρον ξυγκρούσαι or συγκρούσαι. The explanation is to be found in a comparison with two other passages, in which a preceding subst. is explained by the inf. with the art.: i. 32. 15, ἡ δοκοῦσα ἡμῶν πρότερον σωφροσύνη, τὸ μὴ ἐν ἀλλοτρίᾳ ξυμμαχίᾳ τῇ τοῦ πέλας γνώμῃ ξυκινδυνεύειν; and i. 41. 7, ἡ ἐνέργεια αὐτῇ τε καὶ ἡ ἐς Σαμίους, τὸ δὲ ἡμᾶς Πελοποννησίους αὐτοῖς μὴ βοηθῆσαι. Only in these cases the substs. to be explained, and therefore also the infs., are in the nom. But since in the present case the subst. is in the dat., the inf. should also be in the same case; for an acc. abs., as Bm. explains it, comparing c. 67. 3, is hardly admissible in such close connexion with the preceding noun. Arn. follows Bk. in retaining τὸ . . . ξυγκρούσαι, on the ground that "the nom. instead of the case required by grammatical const. is not uncommon when the idea expressed by the nom. is added in explanation of what had gone before." He compares c. 67. 3 (Ms. reading); 71. 20-23. Kr. wishes the dat., but with ἀντίπρωροι ξυγκρούσαι, which hardly accords with what goes before. Madvig (Advv. I. p. 330) proposes ἐς τὸ ἀντίπρωρον ξυγκρούσαι; St. writes ἀντιπρώφ ξυγκρούσαι. But the dat. of the inf. seems more in accord with the usage of Thuc.: "and just that which before was blamed as want of skill on the part of the pilots (so δοκούση εἶναι), — namely, that they struck prow to prow (the aor. inf., as in i. 41. 9, μὴ βοηθήσαι, refers to the definite occurrences), (this) they would now avail themselves of."

36. 38. ἀνάκρουσιν. Cl. conjectures ἀναχώρησιν, retreat, on the ground that the context demands this more general idea, and not ἀνάκρουσιν, backing, i.e. retiring with prow turned toward the enemy. He cites in support of his conjecture, c. 49. 16, ἀναχωρήσεις καὶ ἐπίπλους . . . ἔξουσιν, while c. 38. 1, προσπλέοντες καὶ ἀνακρουόμενοι seems to be against the Ms. reading τὴν ἐπίπλευσιν . . . τε καὶ ἀνάκρουσιν. But St. more prop. explains that Thuc. here has no reference to flight, but means that the ships withdrew with their prows toward the enemy so as to ward off attacks and to move forward again to the onset if opportunity offered; and for this ἀνάκρουσις is the proper term.

42. 15. οὐδὲ παθεῖν ὅπερ ὁ Νικίας ἔπαθεν. In the notes the explanation of St. and Kr. is adopted. But Cl. thinks that it is hardly admissible to supply οἷόν τε εἶναι with παθεῖν on account of the οὐδέ, and holds, too, that this does not give the correct meaning. He proposes to read: οὐδὲ παθεῖν δεῖν ὅπερ ὁ Νικίας ἔπαθεν acc. to the const. (rare, it is true, in Thuc., but later very common) of νομίσειν δεῖν τι ποιεῖν, aliquid faciendum esse putare: "Demosthenes was of the opinion that there was no time to lose, and that they must not let the fate of Nicias overtake them."

42. 33. καὶ οἱ ξυνομοῦσιν ἡγήτο διαπολέμειν. Madvig (Advv. I. p. 330) rightly compares with this passage c. 86. 5, ἀσφαλεστάτην εἶναι νομίσαντες τήρησιν. But he proposes to add in both passages with the pred. accs. ξυνομοῦσιν . . . διαπολέμειν and ἀσφαλεστάτην . . . τήρησιν, after the sups. ταύτην, which might easily have been lost by reason of the ending -ατήν. Thuc. undoubtedly could have written this, but surely ταύτην is not necessary in either place. If ταύτην is not added, the connexion of the pred. acc. with what goes before must be of course as close as possible. This is effected in c. 86. 6 by the partic. νομίσαντες itself; and it is easy to supply τὸ καταβιβάζειν ἐς τὰς λιθομίας, so easy that ταύτην would seem rather in the way than otherwise. In the present passage this close connexion is effected by the pregnant καὶ οἱ: "he wished to hasten this attack as much as possible, and recognized (therein) his shortest way to end the war." Besides, with ταύτην either εἶναι or ἔσεσθαι would be almost indispensable. But there is still another consideration: by the insertion of ταύτην the course just described (viz., the storming of Epipolae and the capture of the camp) would be indicated as ἐντονωτάτην διαπολέμεισιν. But that is not the object of the historian. He means to say that this course in one way or another will bring about the end of the war; even the failure of the attempt and the consequently necessary retreat are taken into consideration. But that would not accord with ταύτην. The form διαπολεμήσειν of Vat. is a slip of the pen.

43. 7 ff. ὡς δὲ αὐτὰρ προσαγαγόντι κατεκαύθησάν τε ὑπὸ τῶν ἐναντίων ἀπὸ τοῦ τείχους ἀμυνομένων αἱ μηχαναὶ καὶ τῇ ἄλλῃ στρατιᾷ πολλαχὴ προσβάλλοντες ἀπεκρούοντο. Since an accurate judgment about a locality can be given only by one who has actually seen it, a description of the occurrences here related is added from Holm, who thoroughly knows the place (II. p. 52): Demosthenes recognized, "that an attack must be made without delay. This could, of course, be made with prospect of success only from the land side, and indeed from Epipolae. Here, however, the condition of things was as follows: Gylippus had completed the cross-wall, which ran from the city westward up through Epipolae. The Athenians were south of this place, and so could not prevent the constant communication of the Syracusans with the interior of the island. If the city was to be taken by a complete circumvallation, it was necessary that the Athenians should get possession of this wall as quickly as possible. If they succeeded, the siege could be prosecuted, and would end without doubt with the capture of the city; but if they failed, the retreat must begin without delay. This proposal met the approval of the other generals, and after they had taken possession of the open country about the Anapus, only the garrison at the Olympieum opposing them, Demosthenes began to try the strength of his siege-engines on the Syracusan wall. But with these nothing was effected. So he determined to go around the wall. This, however, since the wall extended to the edge of the steep cliff, was possible only if one went up the valley of the Anapus, then turned off to the north, passed around the high west point of Epipolae, and made the ascent at a point quite near to this last, that is at the very same place where the Athenians first, and Gylippus afterwards, had ascended. If they succeeded in driving the Syracusans back into the city, they could easily get possession of the wall. But it would never be possible to storm the steep cliffs guarded by the Syracusans. Demosthenes conceived therefore the idea of a nocturnal attack, and his fellow-generals approved his plan. He himself, with Eurymedon and Menander, undertook the conduct of the assaulting division, while Nicias remained with the rest of the army in his old position between the walls. The storming party took with them five days' provisions and all that was necessary to erect a wall, the building of which was to commence immediately after the capture of Epipolae. All the masons and carpenters accompanied them. So they broke camp in the first hours of the night, arrived unobserved at the foot of Euryelus, ascended the cliff, and came upon a fortification on the heights, which they took."

44. 39. καθίστασαν. St. (followed by Cl.) restores from καθίστησαν of

Vat. the impf. καθίστασαν, for καθίστασαν of the rest of the Mss. Cf. Schol. εἰς φόβον καθίστασαν.

44. 41. ῥιπτοῦντες. This form is adopted from Vat. for ῥίπτοντες, just as ῥιπτέιν is read in ii. 49. 22.

45. 3. ἡ οἱ Βοιωτοὶ ἀντίστησαν. Cl. follows Vat. in omitting πρώτον or πρώτοι of the Mss., thinking that the addition is owing to πρώτοι in c. 43. 46. The rest of the edit. write ἡ οἱ Βοιωτοὶ πρώτον ἀντίστησαν, which seems preferable, since the important fact to be recorded in connexion with the setting up of the trophy was where the first resistance was made.

45. 7. [ἀνευ τῶν ἀσπίδων]. Pluygers (Mnem. 11, p. 95) is prob. right in rejecting these words, for they are not necessary, and seem not even to be acc. to Greek usage. The const. ψιλὸς τινος occurs in Xen. Cyrop. v. 3. 57; Plat. Legg. 834 c; 899 a; Polit. 258 d.

48. 3. πόνηρα. On the varying accentuation of this word there have been preserved, in addition to casual notices of the Schols., several concordant statements of grammarians: in the Etymol. Magn. p. 682. 25, εἰ μὲν κατὰ ψυχὴν, πονηρός, ὀξύνεται· εἰ δὲ κατὰ σῶμα, πόνηρος, βαρύνεται; and in Herod. i. p. 197 (substantially agreeing with Arcad. d. acc. p. 71, 16), ἰστίον, ὅτι τὸ πόνηρος καὶ μόχθηρος ἀεὶ οἱ Ἀττικοὶ ἀντὶ τοῦ ὀξύνειν προπαροξύνουσιν, ὅταν τὸ ἐπίπνον καὶ ἐπίμοχθον σημαίη, ἐπὶ δὲ τῶν κατὰ ψυχὴν φαύλων ὀξύνουσιν. We see, it is true, from Götting, Accent-lehre, p. 304 f., that this doctrine of the grammarians has not been everywhere uniformly followed. In Thuc. four passages come under consideration in this respect: the present one, viii. 24. 28; 97. 13 for the adj., and vii. 83. 13 for the adv. Bk. writes in the first place πονηρά, in the second πόνηρα, in the third πονηρών, and in the fourth πονήρως. The Mss. vary. Vat. has acc. to Bk. in the present passage and viii. 24. 28 πόνηρα, viii. 97. 13 πονηρών, and vii. 83. 13 πονήρως (the two last to be inferred only ex silentio); but on the other hand acc. to the later collation of E. Petersen vii. 48. 2 πόνηρα and viii. 24. 28 πονηρά, viii. 97. 13 πονήρων, and vii. 83. 13 πονήρως. Since, then, the accentuation in Vat. agrees in most cases with the rule of the grammarians, it has been considered advisable to follow that everywhere.

48. 35. ἀνηλωκεῖναι. This form of the aug. is, acc. to Wecklein (Cur. Epigr. p. 38 ff.), to be adopted everywhere in Thuc. (even ii. 70. 11) in spite of the variation of the Mss.

48. 39. καὶ μὴ χρήμασιν, ὥς πολὺ κρείσσους εἶσι, νικηθέντας ἀπιέναι. Cl. brackets χρήμασιν. His critical note is as follows:

"The Mss. read as above, except that Vat. has ὧν for ὥς. Instead of this Korais proposes οἷς, Madvig φ, and St. ξως. Most edit. (those esp. who read ὥς, ὧν, or ξως) connect χρήμασιν with the following κρείσσους εἶσι. Bm., who reads ὧν, translates, 'and not to go away conquered by those to whom they are far superior in point of money.' St., who reads ξως, renders: 'and not, while they are still far superior in money, to go away conquered.' How Madvig, who (Adv. crit. I. p. 331) puts a comma after χρήμασιν and thinks of de genere scribendum esse, connects χρήμασιν both with κρείσσους εἶσι and with νικηθέντας, he has not stated.

"But apart from the doubts to which all these attempts at explanation give rise, exception must be taken not merely to the relation of χρήμασι, but also to the word itself. Nicias gave as the last reason against the departure, τὰ Συρακοσίων ὅμως ἐτι ἦσσαν τῶν σφετέρων εἶναι, and based this on the difficulty which the Syracusans had in providing money for any length of time for their extraordinary armament; with τρῖβειν οὖν ἔφη χρήναι κτέ. the conclusion is drawn from the proposition τὰ Συρακοσίων ὅμως ἐτι ἦσσαν τῶν σφετέρων εἶναι: 'the Athenians must still wait and not depart after one lost battle' (this is the meaning of the aor. νικηθέντας). And in connexion with this the reason, which had just been given in full, is repeated in few words, ὡς πολὺ κρείσσους εἶσι = τὰ Συρακοσίων ἦσσαν τῶν σφετέρων εἶναι, spoken of the other side. χρήμασιν was prob. written on the margin from 31 by a glossator who considered πολὺ κρείσσους too strong. Nicias inferred the superiority of the Athenians not only from their greater resources in money, but also from the poor military organization of the Syracusans (ἐπικουρικὰ μᾶλλον ἢ δι' ἀνάγκης ὄντα, 37). ὡς is preferable not only to ὧν of Vat., which is hard to construe, but also to ἕως of St., because the temporal conj. is less effective here than the causal."

Herbst, Philol. 1884, p. 765 ff., omits πολὺ κρείσσους εἶσι as an interpolation and reads καὶ μὴ ὡς χρήμασι νικηθέντας ἀπείναι. He says that πολὺ κρείσσους εἶσι means either to be superior (victorious), or to be far better off (in some respect). The first is out of the question here of course. But if Thuc. had meant that the Athenians were far better off in point of money, he would have written πολλῶς κρείσσους εἶσι, for this is his invariable usage (c. 55. 10; v. 101. 4; cf. also i. 136. 14, πολλῶς ἀσθενεστέρου; ii. 89. 22, ἐκ πολλῶς ὑποδεεστέρων; vi. 1. 6, 8; vii. 80. 17; viii. 83. 3); whereas πολὺ κρείσσους εἶσι in Thuc. is always equiv. to νικᾶν (c. 41. 14; vi. 37. 5; cf. c. 60. 27, πολὺ . . . κρατηθῆναι; c. 34. 35, πολὺ ἐκρατοῦντο . . . οὐ πολὺ ἐνίκων; also i. 25. 20; 49. 24; vii. 56. 7; viii. 17. 12; 89. 25; 105. 3). The words πολὺ κρείσσους εἶσι being omitted, then, we have in καὶ μὴ ὡς χρήμασι νικηθέντας ἀπείναι merely a repetition of the idea of 26 above, ὡς ὑπὸ χρημάτων καταπροδόντες οἱ στρατηγοὶ ἀπῆλθον.

It has been suggested to take χρήμασι with νικηθέντας, in the sense overpowered by (want of) money.

49. 5. καὶ ἅμα ταῖς γούν ναυσίν, ἢ πρότερον, ἐθάροσσε κρατηθεῖς. Only Vat. has ἐθάροσσε; all the other Mss. have θαροῖσσει, which as dat. of the subst. θάρσους (not found elsewhere) is connected with κρατηθεῖς in the sense maiorē fiducia captus (Pp.), overcome by confidence, i.e. animated with too much confidence (Bm.), with which then ταῖς ναυσίν is to be construed, as if with θαρρεῖν. Kr. despairs of a satisfactory explanation of the words. This is got, however, by adopting the reading of Vat., ἐθάροσσε, and the emendation of St., ἢ πρότερον for ἡ πρότερον: "Nicias depended, after he was conquered, just as before, on his ships." The καὶ before κρατηθεῖς

50. 3. ἡ τοῖς Συρακοσίοις στάσις φίλα. Most Mss. read ἐς φίλιαν or ἐς φίλια (Vat. ἐς φίλια), which admit of no satisfactory explanation (see Ullrich, Beitr. z. Erkl. d. Thuk. p. 176 f.). Bauer, with the approval of Madvig, and followed by St. and Cl., reads as above.

50. 23. ἀλλ' ἢ. Almost all the Mss. (even Vat.) read ἄλλο εἰ μὴ φανερώς γε ἄξιόν μὴ ψηφίζεσθαι. But, as Pp. correctly observes, εἰ μὴ is only explanatory of ἀλλ' ἢ, and ἄλλο would not accord with οὐδ' ἔτι ὁμοίως ἡναντιοῦτο.

50. 24. προεῖπον ὡς ἡδύναντο ἀδηλόγητα ἔκπλουν ἐκ τοῦ στρατοπέδου πᾶσι καὶ παρσκευάσθαι, ὅταν τις σημήνῃ. Cl. retains παρσκευάσασθαι of the Mss., but omits the preceding καί. His critical note is as follows:

"They gave orders to prepare as secretly as possible in every respect for sailing out of camp (to make themselves ready in all respects for departure), so soon as the signal for it should be given.' All the Mss. read: ἔκπλουν ἐκ τοῦ στρατοπέδου πᾶσι καὶ παρσκευάσασθαι. Abresch, who rightly found it strange that the preparation should not take place till the command should be given to break up, proposed παρσκευάσθαι for παρσκευάσασθαι: 'they were to be ready whenever the command should be given.' But a far greater objection to the vulgate lies in the fact that acc. to it ὡς ἡδύναντο ἀδηλόγητα must be connected with προεῖπον, although it is clear that it was important not that the command should be given as secretly as possible, but that the preparations should not be observed by the enemy. And πᾶσι (τοῖς τριηράρχοις or στρατιώταις?), which in the vulgate must likewise depend on προεῖπον, would be a very useless addition. The fault lies, as often (see on c. 38. 2), in the καί inserted before παρσκευάσασθαι. Even if there is no objection to be made to governing both ἔκπλουν and παρσκευάσασθαι by προεῖπον, still to govern ἔκπλουν by παρσκευάσασθαι is far more natural. But above all the adv. phrase ὡς ἡδύναντο ἀδηλόγητα is brought by the omission of καί into prop. connexion with παρσκευάσασθαι. πᾶσι is to be joined as neut. with the same verb. It is true that τοῖς πᾶσι would be in accordance with the usage of Thuc. (ii. 11. 25, πόλιν . . . τοῖς πᾶσιν ἄριστα παρσκευασμένην, and 20 above), but the simple πᾶσι has the same meaning. And, finally, ὅταν τις σημήνῃ gets its proper effect only by the connexion with ἔκπλουν παρσκευάσασθαι, so that with σημήνῃ, not παρσκευάσασθαι, but ἔκπλουν or ἐκπλεῦσαι is to be understood. St.'s objection that with this view we should have either ὡς ἂν δύνωνται or ὡς ἂν δύναιντο is not conclusive, since though the opt. is more usual, the impf. in indir. disc. is not without parallel. The short expression ὅταν τις σημήνῃ, which when referred only to ἔκπλουν St. considers obscure, is quite prop. in military language."

If the vulgate be retained, the interpretation is doubtless: "as secretly as possible they gave to all notice of the ἔκπλους, and (notice) to prepare themselves (to sail) whenever the signal should be given (sc. ἐκπλεῦσαι)."

55. 1. γεγενήμενης δὲ τῆς νίκης τοῖς Συρακοσίοις λαμπρὰς ἤδη. Cl. writes λαμπρῶς for λαμπρῶς, against all the Mss. He claims, that the meaning of γεγενημένης τῆς νίκης τοῖς Συρακοσίοις is, "since the victory had fallen to the lot of the Syracusans," with which the pred. adj. in the sense of "brilliant" is inadmissible; on the other hand Thuc. is fond of the adv. λαμπρῶς in the signification "in an indubitable, indisputable manner," e.g. i. 49. 28, ἐπεὶ δὲ ἡ τροπὴ ἐγένετο λαμπρῶς; ii. 7. 1, λαλῦμένων λαμπρῶς τῶν σπονδῶν; viii. 75. 6, λαμπρῶς ἤδη ἐς δημοκρατίαν βουλόμενοι μεταστῆσαι τὰ ἐν Σάμῳ. This, Cl. contends, is the sense of the pres. passage, "since victory on the sea had now also declared indisputably for the Syracusans"; the const. here being the same as in i. 63. 13, ἐπειδὴ δὲ διὰ τάχους ἡ νίκη τῶν Ἀθηναίων ἐγένετο. But the passages cited do not prove that Thuc. could not have written here the pred. adj. Cf. Arr. An. ii. 11. 3, τότε δὲ ἤδη λαμπρὰ τε καὶ ἐκ πάντων ἡ φυγὴ ἐγένετο; ibid. iv. 4. 8.

55. 8. οὐ δυνάμενοι ἐπενεγκεῖν οὔτε ἐκ πολιτείας τι μεταβολῆς τὸ διάφορον αὐτοῖς ᾧ προσήγοντο ἂν, οὔτ' ἐκ παρασκευῆς πολλῷ κρείσσονος. St. (Symbol. Philol. Bonn. p. 390 ff.) rightly objecting to the connexion of τι with τὸ διάφορον, proposes to change the punctuation so as to read μεταβολῆς, τὸ διάφορον αὐτοῖς ᾧ προσήγοντο ἂν, οὔτε ἐκ παρασκευῆς κτέ., making τὸ διάφορον obj. of προσήγοντο. He translates: "since they could neither by change of constitution force upon them anything by means of which they could have won over the opposite party, nor as the result of a far superior military force." But even if it be possible to take ἐπιφέρειν τί τι = alicui aliquid inferre (St. cites iii. 42. 17; 56. 14; vi. 82. 21), it is doubtful whether τὸ διάφορον without any explanation at all can mean the opposite party. St. supports his view by the explanation of the Schol., τῷ μεταβαλεῖν τὴν πολιτείαν προσήγοντο ἂν οἱ διάφοροι αὐτοῖς. But this is only one, and indeed the least defensible, of several explanations of the Schol., who observes in conclusion: τὸ ἐξῆς οὐ δυνάμενοι ἐπενεγκεῖν τὸ διάφορον αὐτοῖς. But as it is clearly stated that neither of the two ways, i.e. neither ἐκ πολιτείας τι μεταβολῆς nor ἐκ παρασκευῆς πολλῷ κρείσσονος, could effect the ἐπενέγκειν τὸ διάφορον αὐτοῖς, ᾧ προσήγοντο ἂν, so διάφορον means neither, as St. says, opposite party, nor as Kr. and others, internal dissensions, but, as similarly in c. 75. 39, a substantial change of disposition and attitude on the part of the citizens, which could be brought about either by party faction or by force of arms. As stated in the notes, τι is not to be connected with τὸ διάφορον, but with the neg. to strengthen it (not in the least, not at all).

55. 10. κρείσσονος. The Mss. have κρείσσους, Vat. adding ὄντες. That ὄντες was originally only a marginal reading is shown by the Schol., πολλῷ κρείσσους· λείπει τὸ ὄντες. κρείσσους = κρείσσονες, as is shown by the added ὄντες, and is due doubtless to an error of a copyist for κρείσσονος, which the Schol. Lugd. has, explaining as follows, οὐ δυνάμενοι δὲ οὔτ' ἐκ μεταβολῆς, ἐπεὶ ἡ αὐτὴ ἦν ἐκατέρων πολιτεία, οὔτ' ἐκ παρασκευῆς πολλῷ μείζονος ὅτι καὶ ἵππους καὶ ναὺς εἶχον ἐκείνοι ὁμοίως τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις. Valla also translates maioribus quam illa haberet copiis.

56. 17. μόνον, μόνον. The reading of the Mss., μόνον in both places, gives a good sense: "because they were proving superior not only to the Athenians but also to their numerous allies besides, and again not only did they themselves do it, but (they did it) also with those who had come to aid them, both becoming leaders with Corinthians and Lacedaemonians, etc." The idea of winning or not winning the victory alone is not thought of, but the sense is, not only did they themselves win, but also (they won) in good company (with renowned comrades). As there is no suggestion of winning alone, or not winning alone, so there is none that their glory will be diminished by their not winning alone. The emphasis is on the fact that the Syracusans were proud of their allies.

57. 16. τούτων Χιοὶ φόρου οὐχ ὑποτελεῖς ὄντες . . . αὐτόνομοι ξυνέσποντο. The explanation given in the notes relieves Madvig's objection (Advv. I. p. 331) to mentioning the Χιοὶ as αὐτόνομοι. The αὐτονομία of a part of the Att. ξύμμαχοι, or the ξύμμαχία αὐτόνομος, consisted in the fact that they did not pay the φόρος, but furnished their own ships under their own leaders. The παρалаβεῖν τὰς ναῦς τῶν πόλεων (i. 19. 5; iii. 50. 5) on the part of the Athenians was the act by which they destroyed the autonomy of the allies, who then contributed, instead of ships, their proportion of the expense (ἀντὶ τῶν νεῶν τὸ ἱκνούμενον ἀνάλωμα φέρειν, i. 99. 11). How little, however, this autonomy established political independence, the Lesbians esp. express in the bitterest terms, iii. 10. 18, ἡμεῖς αὐτόνομοι δὴ ὄντες καὶ ἑλευθεροὶ τῷ ὀνόματι ξυνεστρατεύσαμεν. In the present passage, therefore, αὐτόνομοι does not contradict history (historiae testimonio redarguitur, Madvig); for Thuc. says expressly in ii. 9. 20, ναυτικὸν παρείχοντο Χιοὶ, Δέσβιοι, Καρκυραῖοι, and thereby admits their autonomy in the sense claimed. But still more definitely, and in complete agreement with the present passage, the Athenian ambassador Euphemus in Camarina, vi. 85. 7, says, Χίους μὲν καὶ Μηθυμναίους νεῶν παροκωχῇ αὐτόνομους. The sent. τούτων Χιοὶ . . . ξυνέσποντο, however, is itself intended to correct the inaccuracy which has arisen from placing the Chians among those ἐξ Ἰωνίας (et manifesto ceteris quae Thucydides dicit, repugnat).

57. 40. καὶ οἱ Μεσσηνιοὶ νῦν καλούμενοι ἐκ Ναυπάκτου καὶ ἐκ Πύλου . . . παρελήφθησαν. Vat. reads ἐκ Ναυπάκτου, all the other Mss., ἐν Ναυπάκτῳ; the later edit. since Bk. have decided for ἐκ Ναυπάκτου. Cl. thinks both should be read, and explains: "ἐν Ναυπάκτῳ is indispensable to καλούμενοι and ἐκ Ναυπάκτου to παρελήφθησαν. The standing formula in which Thuc. introduces the Messenians who were transplanted 462 B.C. to Naupactus is οἱ Μεσσηνιοὶ ἐν Ναυπάκτῳ or Μεσσηνιοὶ οἱ ἐν Ναυπάκτῳ (ii. 9. 13). Cf. Paus. iv. 26. 1. It is used here too in the phrase οἱ Μεσσηνιοὶ νῦν καλούμενοι ἐν Ναυπάκτῳ. But a comparison with c. 31. 8 (ὁ Δημοσθένης . . . ἐκ τῆς Ναυπάκτου τῶν Μεσσηνίων μετεπέμψατο), shows that ἐκ Ναυπάκτου is also required. It is easy to see how either of the similar expressions might have dropped out."

But ἐν Ναυπάκτῳ, which Thuc. would prob. have written if ἐκ Ναυπάκτου had not been expressed, seems to be unnecessary when this is used; for the sent., "the Messenians, as they are now called, were taken from Naupactus," is only a shorter way of saying, "the Messenians, as they are now called, in Naupactus were taken from Naupactus." Bloomfield renders the sense exactly: "thus also the Messenians (as they were now called) at Naupactus were taken from thence and from Pylus (then in the possession of the Athenians) to the war."

59. 1. οἱ δ' οὖν Συρακόσιοι καὶ ξύμμαχοι εἰκότως ἐνόμισαν καλὸν ἀγώνισμα σφίσιν εἶναι. L. Herbst objects (Philol. 24, p. 628 ff.) to Kr.'s conjecture δ' οὖν, for τε οὖν. He remarks (p. 628) that "when δέ and οὖν come together, οὖν is resumptive," and "where δέ is used in connexion with οὖν, it makes a contrast, and marks the progress of the narrative." That Herbst by his use of terms here (Gegensatz) does not mean contradiction, but contrast, the transition to another subject or to another phase of the matter in question, two passages, among others, which he cites show: ii. 34. 21, where the transition is made from the universal custom to its application in the particular case, and iv. 82. 1, where the effect of the popularity of Brasidas in the way of greater prudence on the part of the Athenians is mentioned. Quite similar is the use of δ' οὖν in the present passage: οὖν refers without doubt to the almost literally repeated passage of c. 56. 9 (καλὸν σφίσιν . . . τὸ ἀγώνισμα φανείσθαι); δέ, however, marks the transition from the representation given in the two preceding chaps. of the military resources at the disposal of the leading states, Athens and Syracuse, to the use which they make of these in the present case. From the ἱπποκურία ἐκατέρων which then were present on both sides (τότε ἀμφοτέροις παρήσαν) the transition would, without reference to the previous remark (c. 56. 9), have been οἱ δὲ Συρακόσιοι καὶ οἱ ξύμμαχοι. δέ, however, effects not only this transition, but also the advance of the discourse. For the general hope expressed in c. 56. 9 of a καλὸν ἀγώνισμα, εἰ δύναιτο κρατῆσαι Ἀθηναίων τε καὶ τῶν ξυμμάχων takes definite form in the present passage: εἰλεῖν τε τὸ στρατόπεδον ἅπαν τῶν Ἀθηναίων τοσούτον ὃν καὶ μηδέ καδ' ἕτερα αὐτοὺς διαφυγεῖν. This advance from the still distant φανείσθαι to the firmly grounded expectation is indicated with esp. emphasis by εἰκότως ἐνόμισαν with the aor. inf. εἰλεῖν, διαφυγεῖν. For surely the view which Herbst (p. 631) takes of the relation of εἰκότως is altogether wrong: "For their (the Syracusan) allies, the Corinthians and Lacedaemonians, etc., the καλὸν ἀγώνισμα was a matter of course. And that is what the historian has said in this passage. εἰκότως is to be closely connected with καὶ οἱ ξύμμαχοι, not with οἱ τε οὖν Συρακόσιοι. We must translate then: 'the Syracusans, and naturally also their allies, considered it a glorious object of their struggle, etc.'" Herbst recognizes quite rightly that the traditional τε would indicate some special force in καὶ οἱ ξύμμαχοι. But that this cannot be sought in the connexion of εἰκότως with καὶ οἱ ξύμμαχοι appears from c. 58. 18, πρὸς τοὺς ἐπιλεθόντας τοὺτους (i.e. the Lacedaemonians, Corinthians, etc.) οἱ Σικελιώται αὐτοὶ πλῆθος πλέον κατὰ πάντα παρίσχοντο. What ground can there be to say of these, that they naturally considered it a glorious object of their struggle? The very fact that οἱ Συρακούσιοι καὶ οἱ ξύμμαχοι, after their complete enumeration just given, are represented throughout as belonging together and thinking and acting harmoniously speaks most decisively against τε, the position of which besides would be quite unsuitable. A clear example of the correct use of τε οὖν is found in ii. 18. 8, where Herbst rightly defends it against Kr. On the other hand, in ii. 16. 1, τε οὖν must be changed to δ' οὖν for reasons similar to those given for the present passage, and with this view St. agrees.

60. 26. ὁρῶν τοὺς στρατιώτας. καὶ before τοὺς, which all the other Mss. have, is not in Vat. Cl. thinks there is good ground for it, since the whole foregoing consultation had been held only with the strategi and taxiarchs (3 ff.), while here is to be described the state of mind of the whole body of troops, which induced Nicias ξυγκάλεσαι ἅπαντας.

But the motive of the speech was not that he now saw that the soldiers also (as well as the leaders) were despondent. The condition and disposition of the troops must have been in large measure the cause of the consultation. The state of mind of the soldiers after the preparations induced Nicias to address them. Hence it is better, with Kr., Arn., St., and Bm., to omit καί.

61. 3. [ἐκαστοὺς οὐχ ἦσσαν ἢ τοῖς πολέμοις]. Cl. and St. omit these words as a gloss to ὁμοίως ἅπασιν. Their reasons are, that it is incredible that Nicias should have said, in exhorting his men in such a crisis, that "to each of them not less than to the enemy the struggle was for life and country." The condition of the two armies was very different at that time. For the Syracusans, as victors, in the naval battle, were no longer in doubt about their safety. By the Athenians, however, the hope of victory had been lost, and every effort was to be made to force their way out of the harbour and to return home.

But it does not seem impossible that Nicias should have reminded his troops under these circumstances that for each of them still more (οὐχ ἦσσαν) than for the enemy life and country were at stake. That seems indeed just on a par with the exhortations of c. 64. See, however, Cl. in Frankf. Progr., 1869, p. 8; St. in Symbol. Philol. Bonn. p. 392.

63. 14. τῆς ἀρχῆς τῆς ἡμετέρας οὐκ ἔλασσαν . . . πολὺ πλέον μετείχετε. Various attempts have been made to remove the difficulty, referred to in the exegetical note, of the substantial repetition of οὐκ ἔλασσαν in πολὺ πλέον. Pp. and Bm. refer πολὺ πλέον to the comparison between the metoeci and the Athenians themselves: "you had from our rule more advantage than we ourselves"; Didot translates: "who shared our empire, enjoying advantages equal to ours; nay, greater, since you, feared by our subjects, are still more than we protected from injuries." Others contrast κατὰ τὸ ὠφελεῖσθαι with ἐς τε τὸ φοβερόν καὶ τὸ μὴ ἀδικεῖσθαι (and Reiske proposes in order to make this connexion clearer ἐς δὲ τὸ φοβερόν): "you shared equally with ourselves in the advantages of our empire, while you gained even more than we by the dread which you inspired in subject-states and in your security against injustice." This makes good sense, but the real difficulty remains, that in Thuc. οὐκ ἔλασσαν = πολλὰ πλείον.

63. 17. ὥστε κοινωνοὶ μόνοι ἐλευθέρως ἡμῖν τῆς ἀρχῆς ὄντες δικαίως [ἄν] αὐτὴν μὴ καταπροδίδετε. That the traditional reading cannot have come from Thuc. has been doubted by no edit. The first thing to be recognized was that ἄν was not possible with the imv.; therefore many have thought that it is sufficient to strike out ἄν; so e.g. Bk., Kr., Pp., Arn., Bm., understanding the passage in the sense, "justly you cannot betray it." Against this St. remarks (Symbol. Philol. Bonn. p. 392) that the Greek words mean "do not betray it justly," while the context requires just the opposite, "do not betray it unjustly." But Arn.'s interpretation is supported by iv. 62. 17, τιμωρία γὰρ οὐκ εὐτυχὲς δικαίως (as of right it should be), ὅτι καὶ ἀδικεῖται. To meet his objection to δικαίως, St. emends to δικαιούσαν, and translates, "since then you alone shared in a free manner in our empire, do not betray it now, when it demands this of you as a right." But aside from the fact that δικαιούσιν without any intimation of the object of the claim (which is clearly indicated in the passages cited by St., i. 140. 7; iv. 64. 7, by infs.) would be hard to understand, the relation of δικαιούσαν to ἀρχήν is quite inadmissible; for not her endangered empire, but Athens herself for her empire, would have to beg the assistance of her allies. Bm.'s conjecture κινδυνεύουσαν would suit the context much better, if it did not depart too much from the vulgate. Madvig's view is even less tenable (Advv. I. p. 332, note 2): "non abiiciendum puto quod codices meliores tenent, δικαίως ἄν αὐτὴν νῦν μὴ καταπροδίδετε, de μὴ in sententia potentiali posito veritus neglegere (?) similitudinem eorum, quae ad Euripidis Iph. Aul. 373 commemoravi." In the first place, a closer investigation would have convinced Madvig that not even a single good Ms. has the opt., which is found only in older editt. In the second place, even Madvig's authority cannot persuade us to believe that Thuc. could have written μὴ for οὐ in a potential sent. (δικαίως ἄν καταπροδίδετε).

Cl. agrees with St. in regarding δικαίως in the sense attached to it by Arn. and others impossible, and therefore brackets both words, thinking that, though a suitable pred. modifier, whether partic. or adv., must have preceded αὐτὴν, this has not been found.

64. 11. ἐνθυμείσθε καθ' ἐκάστους τε καὶ ξύμπαντες . . . καὶ τὸ μέγα ὄνομα τῶν Ἀθηνῶν. In order to leave no doubt of his understanding of this important passage, Cl. renders it: "and bear well in mind, all together as well as each of you singly, that those of you who will presently be on board the ships" (only the sick, the invalids, and garrison remain in the fortification, διατελέχισμα) "will constitute not only the whole land force of the Athenians, but also their sea force" (καὶ νῆες, which St. would omit), "all that still remains of your mother-city, as well as the great name of Athens." Heilmann translates correspondingly: "that you who will now be on the ships constitute the whole strength of the Athenians in land forces and in ships, aye, the whole remaining city and the great name of Athens." Grote too renders it substantially so (VII. c. 60, p. 161): "Recollect, every man of you, that you now going aboard here are the all of Athens,—her hoplites, her ships, her entire remaining city, and her splendid name."

67. 3. τὸ κρατίστους εἶναι. Cl. compares c. 33. 11 and ii. 81. 19; but these are not parallel. Not very unlike is Soph. Ant. 235, τῆς ἐλπίδος γὰρ ἔρχομαι δεδραγμένος τὸ μὴ παθεῖν ἂν ἄλλο πλὴν τὸ μόρσιμον, if τῆς δοκίσεως προσγεγενημένης will allow the same const. as τῆς ἐλπίδος δεδραγμένος (= ἐλπίζων). Arn. and Bm. compare c. 36. 26 (where they preserve the traditional reading τὸ ἀντίπρωρον ξυγκρούσαι). Arn. explains (c. 36. 26) that "the use of the nom. [acc.] instead of the case required by grammatical const. is not uncommon, when the idea expressed by the nom. is added in explanation of what has gone before." See Kühn. 406, note 1.

70. 49. μὴ δ' ἀνάγκην. So Vat., which Cl. adopts. But St. shows that δ' ἀνάγκην is used nowhere else by Thuc., who has κατ' ἀνάγκην (c. 57. 24; 70. 35; iii. 58. 10; iv. 19. 10; 63. 14; vi. 10. 9; viii. 2. 17; 38. 11), ἐξ ἀνάγκης (c. 27. 17; iii. 40. 9; vi. 44. 5), ὑπὸ ἀνάγκης (iii. 32. 7), ξὺν ἀνάγκῃ (iii. 40. 30), δὲ ἀνάγκῃ (c. 48. 38).

71. 7. καὶ διὰ τὸ (ἀνώμαλον τῆς τάξεως) ἀνώμαλον καὶ τὴν ἔποψιν τῆς ναυμαχίας ἐκ τῆς γῆς ἡναγκάζοντο ἔχειν. So Cl. proposes to emend the text. His critical note is as follows: "Every attempt to explain the traditional reading (without the added words) has been in vain. Even if ἀνώμαλον could be supplied in mind a second time, acc. to analogy of the elliptical usage observed at c. 69. 4; i. 78. 10, still ἀνώμαλον καὶ τὴν ἔποψιν requires necessarily a preceding noun to which ἔποψις would correspond, as in 15 ὅψις is contrasted by means of καὶ with γνώμη. What this is, must, however, be determined by the following explanation: δι' ὀλίγου γὰρ οὗσης τῆς θέας καὶ οὐ πάντων ἅμα ἐς τὸ αὐτὸ σκοποῦντων, εἰ μὲν τινες ἴδουεν . . . ἀνιθάρσσαν . . . οἱ δὲ . . . ἰδουλοῦντο, i.e. 'because the spectators had from their different points of view different occurrences of the combat before their eyes, so they received different impressions from these.' With this explanation, the addition which Arn. proposes and St. substantially approves cannot be considered correct, viz. διὰ τὸ ἀνώμαλον τῶν συμβαινόντων; for not from the unlikeness of the occurrences themselves comes the difference of impressions, but from the spectators seeing different occurrences at the same time. Therefore διὰ τὸ ἀνώμαλον τῆς τάξεως is proposed (it might also be τῆς στάσεως or τοῦ χωρίου), so that the ἀνώμαλον of the point of view brings with it the ἀνώμαλον of the view." Cl. considers his proposed emendation, though not necessarily the only one possible, still admissible, notwithstanding St.'s objections.

Cl.'s explanation is not entirely satisfactory. It would be more natural to suppose that simply ἀνώμαλον had dropped out of the text, and read, καὶ διὰ τὸ ἀνώμαλον (ἀνώμαλον) καὶ τὴν ἔποψιν κτε., and because of the inequality (of the ground, or of their position) so, (καί) they were compelled to have unequal views of the battle from the shore.

Bk.'s emendation, confirmed by one Ms., is καί δι' αὐτό ἀνόμελον καί τήν ἔποψιν τῆς ναυμαχίας ἐκ τῆς γῆς ἡναγκάζοντο ἔχειν. If we take αὐτό to refer either to the idea that their fear was unparalleled or that the stake was so great, the ideas of the preceding clauses (cf. διὰ αὐτό, c. 6. 14), and further ἀνόμελον καί τήν ἔποψιν τῆς ναυμαχίας ἡναγκάζοντο ἔχειν as equiv. to ἐφ' ἑαυτὸν ἀναγκάως τήν ναυμαχίαν ἀνόμελως (variously, unequally), we get good sense and one consistent with the following amplification. "For since now the all of the Athenians was staked on their ships, there was both fear for the future like to none, and on account of it they necessarily viewed also the sea-fight with various feelings (unequally)," i.e. the greatness of the stake caused them greatly to fear, and caused them to look with varied feelings on the sea-fight; those who happened to be looking at any place where their friends were victorious, would, on account of the greatness of the stake, be correspondingly elated and call upon the gods to help; those who looked upon any part that was getting worsted, the greatness of the stake led to give way to loud lamentation.

78. 9. τὰ στενόπορα τῶν χωρίων διαλαβόντας φυλάσσειν. Manifestly this reading of Vat. is not so much a variant as a correction of προφθάσαντας, which all the other Mss. read, and which Vat. has on the margin. Though the relation of Vat. to the text of Thuc., esp. in the last two books, needs a thorough and complete investigation, still it is everywhere, Cl. thinks, to be preferred, if it gives a good meaning, and above all where it gives a better meaning than the vulgate. This is the case here, where διαλαβεῖν quite prop. expresses the occupation of a pass. A copyist might write the common προφθάσαντας (cf. 21; iii. 69. 13; viii. 51. 3) for the rare διαλαβόντας, not vice versa; the latter comes from a better source.

75. 4. δαίνον οὖν ἦν οὐ καθ' ἐν μόνον τῶν πραγμάτων κτί. The explanation in the notes is perhaps not entirely satisfactory; but no other attempt gives a better result. The phrase καθ' ἐν τῶν πραγμάτων (taken together) has either been considered the subj. of the sent.: "the whole result (sum-total) of things" (Jacobs, Kr., Bm.); or it has been taken adv.: "si in unum contracta calamitatum summa spectetur," and the subj. sought for either in an ellipsis or in the following ὅτι τὰς τε ναῦς . . . κινδυνεύοντες (Haase and Pp. with some hesitation). But the examples cited in support of the latter explanation, iii. 10. 16; viii. 46. 8, where καθ' ἐν γίνεσθαι means "to unite themselves," are of quite a different nature. The opposition assumed to exist between οὐ καθ' ἐν μόνον and ἀλλὰ καί ξυνέβαινε κτί is supported by a comparison with Hdt. v. 78. 1, ἄλλοι οὐ κατ' ἐν μόνον ἀλλὰ πανταχῇ. Cl. thinks that the real difficulty lies in τῶν πραγμάτων, the relation of which to καθ' ἐν is not clear, and conjectures, therefore, πεπραγμένων for πραγμάτων, so that the thought would be: "terrible was the situation, not in one respect only of the things that had happened, namely, that they had begun the retreat after the loss of the whole fleet and in the most threatening danger to themselves and to Athens, but there was added, that every single one, on leaving the camp, experienced the most painful impressions for eye and heart." Esp. opp. to the past idea in τῶν πεπραγμένων is that of the present moment in the words ἐν τῇ ἀπολείψει τοῦ στρατοπέδου. Even with this explanation Cl. is not satisfied, and it may be doubted whether the proposed emendation τῶν πεπραγμένων is either prob. correct or really better than τῶν πραγμάτων.

75. 19. οὐκ ἄνευ [ὀλίγων] ἐπιθειασμῶν. The vulgate has been objected to by all edit. Among the conjectures for ὀλίγων are: λυγρῶν, Heilmann; συχνῶν, Pp.; οἰκτρῶν, v. H.; ἁλόγων, Madvig. Arn. says that the neg. must be repeated, as if it were οὐκ ἄνευ οὐκ ὀλίγων, and Valla translates, non sine multis obtestationibus ac ploratibus. Kr. and St. strike out ὀλίγων, the latter as arising from a gloss, ὀλοηγῶν. Cl. understands ὀλίγων of the weak, scarcely audible voice of the dying, in their last complaints and appeals to the gods. It has this meaning in Hom. § 492, φθεγγόμενος ὀλίγη ὀπί, and in c. 44. 19, κραυγῇ οὐκ ὀλίγη χρώμενοι evidently means not much, but loud crying. So Eur. Or. 155, βραχὺ ἀναστένει refers to low sighing and groaning. On the other hand, μέγας is freq. used in poets and prose writers of a loud shout. But Cl.'s explanation will hardly be accepted; and if Arn.'s view be not admissible, it is perhaps best to reject the word.

75. 34. ἡ ἄλλη αἰκία καὶ ἡ ἱσομοιρία κτέ. Dobree (Adv. I. p. 97) observes on this passage, "Malim αἰκία, ἱσομοιρία τῶν κακῶν ἔχουσα τινα ὁμῶς, τὸ μετὰ πολλῶν, κούφισιν. Verte: quamvis e communitate traheret aliquid solatii, illud scilicet pervulgatum hoc sibi cum multis aliis accidere." And accordingly St. formerly read in his text, ἡ ἄλλη αἰκία, καὶ ἱσομοιρία τῶν κακῶν ἔχουσα τινα ὁμῶς τὸ μετὰ πολλῶν κούφισιν. But he has changed his opinion, and now follows v. H. in believing that the pred. to ἡ ἄλλη αἰκία (which could be οὐχ ἥσσον αὐτοὺς ἐλύπει) has dropped out. Cl. thinks that the ground of objection to the traditional reading lies in the fact that ἡ ἄλλη αἰκία, which certainly contains no κούφισις, is in this respect placed on the same line with ἱσομοιρία, and that instead of ἡ ἄλλη αἰκία, which does not suit the context, some word kindred in sense to ἱσομοιρία must be sought, though he has no satisfactory emendation to propose. The simplest remedy, he thinks, would be to omit ἡ ἄλλη αἰκία, as it is possible that these words had their origin in a marginal observation ἡ ἄλλη αἰτία, sc. τῆς κατηφείας (24). The first ground was οὐδὲν ἄλλο ἢ . . . ἐφύκειαν (25); the second, the lack of all servants (28 ff.); and now the third, that the community of misfortune lacked its alleviating power.

77. 12. αἱ δὲ ξυμφοραὶ οὐ κατ' ἀξίαν δὴ φοβοῦσι. St., rejecting all other explanations of this passage, has adopted in his text the conjecture of Schütz (Zeitschr. f. d. Gymnasialw. 1879, p. 121): αἱ δὲ ξυμφοραὶ οὐ κατ' ἀξίαν δὴ φοβοῦσαι τάχ' ἂν καὶ λωφίσαιαν, and translates, calamitates autem, quoniam praeter meritum (nos) terrent, facile videntur remissurae esse.

77. 36. σωθεῖν. So we must read for σωθείητε of the Mss. (as also in ii. 45, 4, κριθείητε) acc. to Heraclides apud Eustath. in Od. φ 195, ἡ ἀρχαία Ἀττικὴ τὰ ἐκτικὰ συγκόπεται κατ' ἐξαιρέσιν μᾶς συλλαβῆς. See St. Qu. Gr. p. 18.

78. 14. σταδίους ὡς τεσσαράκοντα. The following chief results of Holm's latest observations, made with the two Cavallaris, are taken from his paper, Zum Rückzug der Athener von Syrakus, 413, read at the meeting of the Philological Association in Karlsruhe.

Holm holds, against Grote and Unger, to his view that the retreat covered eight days.

1st day. The Athenians leave their camp before Syracuse, cross the river Anapus, and, going 40 stadia, encamp on a hill, c. 78. § 1-4.

2d day. They march forward 20 stadia, pressed always by the enemy, and encamp on a level place where water is still to be had, c. 78. § 4, 5.

3d day. They proceed in the direction of the Acraeum Lepas, but are forced to turn back without reaching it and encamp at about the same place as at the end of the second day, c. 78. § 6, 7.

4th day. Again pressing forward, they reach the Acraeum Lepas, but are driven back, and are obliged on the retreat to storm some breastworks which had been thrown up by the Syracusans in their rear with the purpose of hemming them in. They cut their way through, and finally encamp again in the plain, c. 79. § 1-5.

5th day. They try to press forward again, but are able to make only five or six stadia. In the following night they change the course of their march and proceed toward the sea, c. 79. § 5-80. § 2.

6th day. After reaching the sea they proceed southward along the Elorine Way, and cross the river Cacyparis. Nicias is in advance; Demosthenes is overtaken by the Syracusans and captured, c. 80. § 4-82. § 3.

8th day. Nicias reaches the Assinarus. Destruction and capture of the remnant of the Athenian army, c. 84. § 2-c. 85.

Holm adds to this short summary the following remark: "Whither did the Athenians wish to go? Not toward Catana, as Diod. says, but southwestward. The details of the narrative of Thuc. leave no doubt about this. During my last visit to Syracuse, however, I reconsidered another question on the spot, and have come to a different conclusion. The general direction of the march remains the same as before determined, but there is still a question as to how far the Athenians marched each day. Thuc. sometimes states the number of stadia which they made. The question is then, what shall we determine to have been the length of the stade used by him for the retreat of the Athenians. I have estimated it heretofore at about 187 meters (10 stadia = 1 Eng. geographical mile). But in the case of another measure of distance, which refers to Syracuse and can be determined, namely the width of the harbour of the Syracusans (c. 59. 6), the number in Thuc. agrees with the reality only if we adopt a shorter itinerary stade of about 150 meters. Hence it seems proper to apply this measure also to the retreat of the Athenians, as Thuc. describes it; thereby several statements of the historian are better explained than on the basis of a stade of 187 meters."

80. 7 ff. ἦν δὲ ἡ ξύμπασα ὁδὸς αὕτη οὐκ ἐπὶ Κατάνης . . . καὶ Ἑλληνίδας καὶ βαρβάρους. Grote (VII. c. 60, p. 178) attempts to reconcile the account of Thuc. with the remark of Diod. (προσέειπεν ἐπὶ Κατάνης): Nicias and Demosthenes, he says, "saw plainly that the route which they had originally projected, over the Akraean cliff into the Sikel regions of the interior and from thence to Katana, had become impracticable; . . . accordingly they resolved completely to alter the direction, and to turn down towards the southern coast on which lay Kamarina and Gela." On the contrary, Holm has shown (II. p. 398, 399) that Thuc. nowhere ascribes to the Athenian generals the intention to march to Catana; but "that at the time when they took their way to the Ἀκραίων Λέπας they were already marching not toward Catana but toward Kamarina, etc., and now when they had to turn back from the Ἀκραίων Λέπας were striving for the same goal, only by another way." Besides the fact that the expression ἡ ξύμπασα ὁδὸς αὕτη cannot possibly refer to anything else than the whole five days' march, Holm's conclusion is reached on the two following grounds: (1) that Nicias in his speech of encouragement refers not to Catana as the goal of safety, but in c. 77. 29 says expressly ἦν ἀντιλαβώμεθά του φίλου χωρίου ἡὼν Σικελῶν, . . . ἥδη νομίζετε ἐν τῷ ἐχυρῷ εἶναι; and (2) that Nicias reckoned on meeting the help requested from the Sicels (c. 77. 32) not on the road to Catana, but, as is expressly stated in c. 80. 22 (ἡλπίζον τοὺς Σικελοὺς ταύτη οὗς μετεπέμψαντο ἀπαντήσεσθαι), in the upper part of the valley of the Cacyparis River. In this direction then, i.e. south-west, it had been their intention to march from the beginning. They hoped first to find a reception and a safe sojourn in one of the large Sicel cities. E. Curtius (Griech. Gesch. II. p. 834, note 155) in holding to Catana as the object of the march seems to consider the difficulties which acc. to Holm were opp. to this undertaking not so great as the latter thinks them.

86. 26. διὰ τὴν πᾶσαν ἐς ἀρετὴν νενομισμένην ἐπιτηδεύουσιν. In determining the reading of this passage, we must bear in mind that the words πᾶσαν ἐς ἀρετὴν, which the inferior Mss. omit, rest on the authority of Vat., while on the contrary the interpolation ἐς τὸ θεῖον, which the older edit. have after νενομισμένην, has not the support of a single one of the better Mss. For the explanation, however, of the expression, chosen by Thuc. evidently with great care, we must above all compare the words which he puts into the mouth of Nicias himself in the same sense in c. 77. 9, καίτοι πολλὰ μὲν ἐς θεοὺς νόμῳ δεδιγήμεναι, πολλὰ δὲ ἐς ἀνθρώπους δίκαια καὶ ἀνεπίφθονα. In these words he claims to have kept his whole course of life, toward the gods, within the limits of the ordinances handed down as sacred, and toward men, avoiding everything that might give offence (ἀνεπίφθονα), within the limits of legal right. These two sides of a course of life pursued with anxious caution

Thuc. here includes in the phrase τὴν πᾶσαν ἐς ἀρετὴν νενομοσμένην ἐπιτηδεύειν, i.e. the whole effort of Nicias was directed on principle, under strict observance of law and custom, to the development of everything humanly noble. ἀρετὴ signifies in Thuc. esp. (see Introd. to Book I. p. 36) the sentiments of humanity and generosity, then, in general, good conduct in a moral and religious sense. (The pl. ἀρεταί which must be assumed, if we connect ἐς πᾶσαν ἀρετὴν, as some propose, Thuc. uses only in the sense of excellent deeds and services, i. 123. 4; ii. 35. 7; 42. 6; iii. 53. 20; 67. 4; iv. 92. 36. This pl. is found, too, only in speeches.) The pass. νομίζεσθαι Thuc. uses always of that which is ordered by law and custom (i. 25. 15; ii. 15. 32; vi. 32. 4; 69. 17). So also Nicias's ἐπιτηδεύσεις ἐς ἀρετὴν is termed νενομοσμένη, for the reason that it was guided always by law and precedent, and avoided giving offence, i.e. practised τὰ νόμιμα ἐς θεούς, τὰ δίκαια καὶ ἀντιφθόνα ἐς ἀνθρώπους. (With ἐπιτηδεύσεις ἐς ἀρετὴν, cf. vi. 54. 20, referring to the Pisistratidae, ἐπιτηδεύσαν ἐπὶ πλείστον δὴ τύραννοι οὗτοι ἀρετὴν καὶ ξύνεσιν. Therefore in the present passage we might have had ἀρετῆς for ἐς ἀρετὴν; but the prep. emphasizes more strongly the idea of purpose.) In this characterization of Nicias the recognition of the purest and most upright sentiment is very strikingly connected with the intimation of an anxiety and timidity about giving offence in any direction (here in νενομοσμένη ἐπιτηδεύσεις, as in ἀντιφθόνα in c. 77. 11). In the sharpest contrast with the character of Nicias stands ἡ ἄλλη αὐτοῦ ἐς τὰ ἐπιτηδεύματα οὐ δημοτικὴ παρανομία affirmed of Alcibiades in vi. 28. 12, and βλαίος of Cleon in iii. 36. 26. That the character of Nicias here briefly sketched fully agrees with all the details of his conduct from his first appearance in iii. 91. 5 to his death, no unprejudiced reader will fail to recognize.

Müller-Strübing (Aristoph. u. d. hist. Krit. p. 636 ff.), asserting that the words πᾶσαν ἐς ἀρετὴν are wanting in all good Mss., and that ἀρετὴ in Thuc. means nothing else than manliness, energetic, heedless pursuit of a definite object, rejects these words with the greatest vehemence against those who decide otherwise, and explains διὰ τὴν νενομοσμένην ἐπιτηδεύειν, "because he had ordered his life in accordance with custom." But since both premises on which his explanation rests are wrong, we may, perhaps, venture to content ourselves with the above explanation of πᾶσαν ἐς ἀρετὴν νενομοσμένην ἐπιτηδεύειν, the reading of the best Ms., which in numberless passages in Books VII. and VIII. alone gives the right reading.

COLLEGE SERIES OF GREEK AUTHORS

EDITED BY

PROFESSOR JOHN WILLIAMS WHITE, PH.D., OF HARVARD UNIVERSITY,

AND

PROFESSOR THOMAS D. SEYMOUR, A.M., OF YALE COLLEGE, with the coöperation of the scholars whose names are found in the following list, each of whom is responsible for the details of the work in the volume which he edits.

The object of this Series is to furnish editions of Greek authors with notes which embody the best results of recent philological research. The plan contemplates complete editions of Homer, Thucydides, and Herodotus, and of other Greek authors so far as is practicable. The volumes of the Series are based in the main upon approved German editions, whose introductions and notes are freely translated into English. The German editions constitute the basis, but the American editor is at liberty in his revision to make such additions, substitutions, and omissions as he deems necessary to adapt the books thoroughly to the use of college students in America.

The character of the notes varies according to the nature of the work and the pupil's stage of progress. The editor aims to give only the help which is necessary to proper preparation for the instruction of the class-room: such as a clue to the principal difficulties in construing the text, the most essential indications of the connexion of the thought and of the course of the action, and all that cannot conveniently be given orally, especially illustrations of the text from Greek and Latin authors. In referring to grammars and to notes in another book, the gist of the matter in reference is always given. When a Greek or Latin author is cited in illustration, the passage is quoted in full so far as is possible, except from the book in hand, and in some instances from other parts of the same author.

The American editor commonly indicates any material divergence of view from that of the German editor, and at times states briefly the views of other scholars; but the discussion of important passages where authorities differ, and everything that pertains to textual criticism (except the briefest notice), are relegated to the critical Appendix unless there are special reasons to the contrary.

In the selection of types and in the use of diacritical marks the utmost effort has been made to reduce strain upon the eyes to a minimum and to mark the proper distinctions with clearness. The form of the volumes is uniformly a square octavo. They may be had bound either in paper (but securely sewed and with the leaves cut) or in cloth. The notes are on the same page with the text. But for the accommodation of teachers who object to notes in the class-room, and for use at examinations, the text of each volume is reprinted in solid pages and sold separately at a merely nominal price. The Text edition is bound only in paper.
